At a joint meeting of Beta Gamma chapter on April 17, the president of the pledges, Marjorie Carlisle, read an address to the pledges. The following address was read by Marjorie Carlisle:

To the Senior Class of 1934:

We, the seniors of 1934, take this opportunity to express our appreciation of the many kindnesses and privileges we have enjoyed during our collegiate careers. We have had the opportunity to meet many fine people and to participate in many interesting activities. We have also had the privilege of being associated with a group of students who have been true friends to each other. We hope that we may continue to be friends in the future.

Gaw was a shade shy on control, passing six men, but he always tightened up in the pinches, and was invincible with men on base. He was the only real hit which Gaw allowed, and was converted into the only run of the game for the home team. Howes, who was one of the many men hit by Gaw, scored the run when he got a single, while Walker and Moody each punched out two clean singles. Robinson and Ellsworth also added bingles to the
