Campus Leaders Plead for Revival of Campus Spirit (Continued from Page 4)

With a sense of the greater life of the University as a whole, the freshmen can cooperate in giving to its members a stronger college spirit or can Merrill in any indication of the University as a whole.

One of the major orientations made by ancient Greeks in their speeches was the proposal of a new method of teaching and administration the student council, made by Howard Conn, class of 1937, of Talladega College, a school that has been considered by many to promote the welfare of the negro race.

The evening session began with a short picture of the Talldenda College, a school that has been considered by many to promote the welfare of the negro race, and the decision. As the stories of the evening were being unfolded into the college's officers, the source of trouble was discovered in the new students, and an advanced decision, each student taking two years. There are several innovations in this extended school which are of interest. There are no textbooks required, all study being done in the library. The only work given is Satisfactory and Unsatisfactory, a system which is working quite well. Also, honor students in the upper grades are not required to attend classes, even being permitted to have the exams a few weeks. In conclusion, Mr. Gallagher stated that the race problem is not confined to the negro race but is spread across all degrees in the world. The following year the world is expected to gain knowledge in world, expecting that the progress made in the negro race will not only benefit the negro race but the white race as well.
