

Bill Weir to Pitch for Varsity Opener in Dover Tomorrow

Swasey Optimistic After Team Plays Practice Game Saturday

Lefty Bill Weir will toe the mound at Dover Saturday when the University of New Hampshire varsity opens its 1935 season with Worcester Tech as its opponent at the Central Park ball field. Weir will probably work about five innings, and then turn the situation over to Deacon Churchill and Leo "Chip" Collins.

Coach Henry Swasey was quite optimistic after the eleven inning practice game which his team played in Dover last Saturday afternoon. The varsity team defeated a strong reserve club in this game, with Weir twirling in his old form for four innings. Rogean, who will start at first, and Jerry Chase, veteran second sacker, both drove out long home runs which cleared the fence. The varsity infield, minus Walker, veteran short stop, turned in several brilliant fielding plays, with Grocott, Landry, and Chase all looking good.

According to Swasey the outlook for the season is "average" but the veteran coach adds an if, and then prophecies a good season.

Swasey is not satisfied with his outfield combination, which is not yet up to par. He will start Toll, hard hitter, in left, H. Currier, who got four out of six Saturday in the middle pasture, and Lefty Abbott in right. Abbott has had no previous varsity experience, and was not a member of last year's squad. He has come along rapidly this spring, and Coach Swasey has enough faith in his hitting to start the season with him. If he holds up defensively, he might

Road Agents Gather in Annual Meeting

Divisions 6 and 7 Under O. James and R. Kimball Meet in Murk. Aud.

Durham was overrun with cars, tractors, scrapers, last Wednesday when the ninth annual spring road agent meeting gathered here to discuss problems which have arisen in that field of construction.

In 1925 the legislature appropriated that road agents meet once a year to be instructed on the latest methods and improvements. This is done in divisions; a joint meeting of divisions six and seven being held, Wednesday. Frederic E. Everett, Commissioner of State Highway Department, spoke on "General Outline of New Laws and Views on Future Class V Roads." One of the important features of the program was the film talk entitled The Road Ahead—Why Better Transportation, by Colonel Willard T. Chevalier, author-Engineer.

The meeting began at ten o'clock, luncheon was served at the Commons Dining Hall at 12:45 o'clock. It ended at three o'clock. About three hundred men attended. Displays of tractors and signs were exhibited in front of Thompson Hall. The gathering was taken care of by the staff, Orrin M. James and Ralph L. Kimball with senior members of the Civil Engineering course, and Professor Russell R. Skelton of the University.

Orrin M. James, Division Engineer of the State Highway Department, was the presiding officer. The address of welcome was made by George W. Case, Dean of the College of Technology.

IDA M. CANNON WILL SPEAK HERE MAY 3

Miss Ida M. Cannon will speak on "Hospital Social Work as a profession" on Friday, May 3, from 3 to 4:30 o'clock at the Practice House. Miss Cannon is director of social work at the Massachusetts General Hospital which has been a pioneer in the social field. "Her lecture should be interesting to those who are in social service work as a vocation," according to Helen Henderson, '36, who is in charge of the meeting.

Chaperons Chosen for Junior Prom

Plans for Decoration and Arrangement of Gym Progressing

President and Mrs. Edward M. Lewis, Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Phillips, and Mr. and Mrs. E. Howard Stolorow will be chaperons at the Junior Prom, it was said today by Frances Tuttle and Isabelle Hermes, committee in charge of chaperons.

With the Prom only two weeks away, plans for the dance are progressing rapidly. The gymnasium is to be decorated in a novel manner and there will be a new arrangement of the orchestra stage. Heretofore, the stage has always been backed up to the wall facing the door. Investigation has proved that poor acoustics are the result as the sound travels from the gym through the open doorway. The Junior Prom committee is solving this problem by erecting the stage at the end of the gymnasium. This not only solved the acoustic problem, but also places the orchestra where it doesn't "stick out" onto the dance floor.

Fletcher Henderson is playing at Tufts College on May 3rd, the Dartmouth Green Key Ball on May 4th, the New Hampshire Junior Prom on May 10th and Smith College on May 11th. The band will also play at Amherst and Bowdoin. In next Tuesday's NEW HAMPSHIRE there will be a personal history of Fletcher accompanied by the bandleader's picture. Unlike many colored orchestras, the new Henderson band does not play too much fast music, its chief claim to popularity at the present time being Fletcher's own inimitable arrangements of popular tunes.

Students Arrested for "Bumming" Mon.

Picked Up in Dover at Sawyer's Corner by Patrol Car

Edwin Moody and Robert Hargreaves were arrested in Dover Monday night for violating the law against hitch-hiking in that city.

The two fellows had reached Sawyer's corner about 9:30 o'clock Monday night and were thumbing their way toward Durham when a car stopped and picked up two other "hikers" that were somewhere in the rear. The car started on its way and drew up in front of the students.

"Give us a ride," shouted one of the fellows.

"Sure," answered the driver.

The two climbed into the car, but were more than surprised when they felt the car wheeling about and saw that they were on their way back into Dover.

"I'll give you guys a ride you'll never forget!" said the driver.

The car stopped in front of the police station and the four were ushered before the Sergeant. When the plain clothes driver had explained the arrests, the Sergeant asked the students if they were aware that "bumming" was not allowed in Dover. The two denied knowledge of the law saying that they thought it had been repealed and citing the article to that effect appearing in THE NEW HAMPSHIRE some time ago. The article was referred to as "a Jew trick in Durham" and the Sergeant added, "Ig-Students Arrested"

White and Chapman Leave for Yale U.

Take Part in Symposium of Glacial Geology in New England

Dr. George W. White and Dr. Donald H. Chapman of the Geology department left early this morning for Yale University to take part in a symposium on problems of glacial geology in Southern New England. Glacial geologists of New England will study and discuss the glacial features of the Southern part of Connecticut and tributary valleys.

Last spring Dr. White and Dr. Chapman and Dr. J. W. Goldthwait of Dartmouth led a party of geologists from Yale, Dartmouth, Bates, and Colby in a study of the glacial features of southeastern New Hampshire. Although all New England geologists have met annually in the fall for the past twenty years for field study and discussion of various interesting areas, it was felt by specialists in glacial geology that a smaller group which would study problems of ice action and retreat in various interesting areas was also desirable.

It is possible that another year Dr. Chapman will guide the glacialists in a study of the Lake Champlain region. Dr. Chapman, during several field seasons, has worked out the history of the successive lakes and of the arm of the sea which occupied the Champlain valley. The results of his studies are now in the course of publication in book form by the New York Geological Survey.

"Lundy" Announces First Game Lineup

Kershaw or Gilman Will Work on Mound for the Freshmen

After two weeks of informal practice, taken whenever and wherever possible, Coach Lundholm announced the probable line-up for the first Kitten game, to be held at Exeter this Saturday.

On the mound will probably be Bob Kershaw of Portland, Maine, who was an outstanding football player on the freshman team last fall, or Guy Gilman of Franklin, New Hampshire. Behind the bat will be Red Cullen, of Portsmouth, a heavy scorer on the basketball team. Lundy expects much from his strong infield combination, especially in the performances of Lynbourg and Cotton at short and second base respectively. The other members of the infield will be Art Hanson from Chelsea at third base, and Giarla of Winthrop, Mass., on the initial sack. In the outfield, Bob Swasey will be in left, Art Snell or Kelleher in center, and Martin (a catcher) or Karanikas (a pitcher) in right.

Coach Lundholm in a press conference issued the following statement:

"I am not particularly worried about the defensive strength of this team. Our success against Exeter will depend upon what kind of shape our pitchers are in and also what we can do offensively."

"Even though the conditions under which we are working are apt to discourage any ball player, this year's squad is to be congratulated upon its abundance of enthusiasm and pep in practice sessions. It certainly is satisfying to work with a group like this, and I am, therefore, quite optimistic over the success that we will have this season. Whatever success the team has in its first game with Exeter may be attributed to the natural ability of each player and his fine attitude that is so noticeable in practice."

Varsity Lacrosse Opener Tomorrow

Will Play Boston Lacrosse Club Team on Memorial Field at 3 P. M.

The varsity lacrosse team opens its season with the Boston Lacrosse club on Memorial Field tomorrow afternoon at three o'clock.

The Boston Lacrosse club is one of the four top notch New England teams that the varsity has on its schedule this year. Harvard, Dartmouth, and Brown are the other three. With this difficult schedule it is doubtful if the varsity will be able to maintain the excellent record of last year's team which lost only one college game.

This year's team lacks the scoring punch supplied last year by Morrissey, Armstrong, and Martineau, and without question will be handicapped by the absence of Henry Trow, last year's ranking New England goalie.

The Boston Lacrosse club may send Miah Morrissey and Fred Martineau, two 1934 N. H. stars, to play against the varsity Saturday.

Coach Christensen announced that he will start his midget attack. The midgets are Tower, Ballard, Harding, Merrill, King, Mullin, and Swett. If it proves, however, that the midgets are not strong enough to compete against the size and experience of the opponents, Hall, Karazia, Mitcheener, Namie, Robinson and Simpson will be used as attack men. Spare defense men are Sawyer, McDermott, and McKiniry.

By Jimmy Dunbar

Tomorrow, weather permitting, four University of New Hampshire athletic teams, the varsity baseball, varsity lacrosse, varsity track, and freshmen baseball teams, will open their seasons. Prospects are only fair in all of these sports, some of them are below par. However, there is something more to this spring of 1935 than just the opening of another group of athletic schedules.

1935 has been a great year in the annals of the University. It all started in 1934, but this year will see the completion of the majority of the new athletic fields. This spring will mark the end of the old, and the foreshadowing of the new. It will be the last season, in all probability, in which University of New Hampshire baseball teams will have to travel out of town to play ball. It will then be the end of a two year dearth in freshman diamond circles, a sparse period in which one group of Kittens was denied the privilege of representation on the diamond, and the next was forced to utilize back lots and open pathways in which to practice, and to travel from Durham to play all games on foreign soil.

Next year our teams will have their own fields, splendid ones too, on which to practice and play ball. The track team, less effected than others by the period of transition, will move to its excellent new track next year. The lacrosse team will have a separate field which it can call its own.

1935 marks the end of an epoch in sporting history at this institution. It is a period which could well be called the pioneering stage. New Hampshire, under Bill Cowell, has risen to a high rank in New England athletic circles. It has gained a place in the sun; and now, with its new plant, it will enter on a new era of development, which is limitless in its possibilities. But that era is still in the future; we are still in the pioneer stage.

To those Durham fans who have watched New Hampshire men run on Memorial Field's track for years, this year will mean a trifle more than just another track meet. For those who have competed there, it will mean still more.

Lacrosse is newer, but there is a growing number of New Hampshire grads who recall with pleasure the games in which they played while in school. Of course, the new field will probably be better, more complete, better equipped. But those memories mean a bit to some of them. They will miss coming back to the old field.

New Hampshire athletes and fans have been pioneers for several years. "Civilization" has come to Durham, and the 1935 season will mark the end of a tradition; and begin the building up of a new one.

We still have this spring term to go through. Each fan should endeavor to support every contest. An interested fan can get more out of a game than just the thrill of watching the players perform.

We hope that Durhamites can realize the importance of this transition to those who are responsible for it. A promising future will become a more immediate reality if we all show the spirit of our leaders. It's worth a try.

Trackmen to Meet Brown U. Tomorrow

Crippled Team Leaves for Providence to Compete in Annual Meet

When Coach Paul Sweet and twenty-seven of his varsity track men leave Durham for Providence on Friday to participate in the seventh annual Brown University dual meet, it will be one of the weakest teams which New Hampshire has sent out in the past few years.

Loss of several stars such as Ted Darling, stellar middle distance runner, Leon Ranchynoski, ace high jumper who gave promise of exceeding the college record jump of 6 feet ½ inch during the winter meets, and three other men cripple the team, while poor weather conditions are responsible for several weight events being weak. The javelin men have not worked out as yet, and will be opening their work when they face the Bruins.

New Hampshire will be relying on Curt Funston, captain of last spring's outfit, who scored eighteen points in each of three meets last season to top the scoring at Brown. Funston will compete in his specialties, the high and low hurdles, and also in the dashes. George Evans, sophomore star, who won two first places in the intramural hurdles, will attempt, along with Whit Levensaler, letterman for the last two seasons, to sweep these events for the Wildcats.

The big weaknesses are in the half mile, where Downs and Durgin, if they continue to improve, may pull the team through, the quarter, where these two, McLean and Welch will compete; in the high jump, with McDonough and Evans; the pole vault, where Wiitala and Tryon are entered; and the javelin throw.

Last year's Brown Cub team, which defeated the Wild Kittens 95½-39½ has turned out several good men who will strengthen the Bear aggregation.

New Hampshire entries are as follows:

- 120-yd. high hurdles—Funston, Evans, Levensaler.
- 100-yd. dash—Funston, Lekesky, Mangold, Link.
- 220-yd. dash—Funston, Lekesky, Evans.

freshmen began to click and evened the score with seven all, but Exeter rushing from behind tossed the ball into the goal within the last 58 seconds of play to eke out a win over the kittens.

With Joe Jones starring on the offense with three goals to his credit, the team showed surprising offensive strength and proved without doubt that it had ability despite lack of experience.

The trembling students underwent reprimands for about three-quarters of an hour when the Sergeant finally decided that they should be made examples of for the benefit of Durham. He asked one of them if anybody in Durham would go $25 bail for him. "No," swallowed the student. Faced with a jail sentence, the students told the Sergeant they would be kicked out of school if they were held. The policeman said that he did not wish to cause them serious trouble, but merely wanted all hitch-hiking in Dover stopped and threatened any additional offenders with a fine. W. Pach Addresses Students, Faculty

Lectures in Murkland on "Rembrandt and the Old Masters"

Walter Pach, director of Industrial Artists association, addressed a group of students and faculty in Murkland auditorium last Monday night on "Rembrandt and the Old Masters."

Mr. Pach has pictures in the permanent collection of the Metropolitan museum and the New York Public library. He is the author of several works on modern art and also translator of "History of Art" by Eli Laure. Three years ago Mr. Pach spoke here at the University of Modern Art in the Sunday program series.

Randolph Lesch, publisher, of New York city, loaned a number of black and white and colored Rembrandt prints to the Hamilton Smith Memorial library, where they have been on exhibition for the past two weeks.

Mr. Pach said that although there are no records of Rembrandts ever having gone to Italy, his work shows the influence of many of the great artists. Raphael's portrait of Balthazar Castiglione in the Louvre inspired Rembrandt's early self portrait. Others of Rembrandt's paintings shown were Three Trees, Christ Healing the Sick, The Entombment, The Hog, his brother, one of hanging beef, Night Watch which caused his downfall and bankruptcy, Members of the Cloth Guild. The last picture shown was Rembrandt's last self-portrait, showing him as a broken old man, without wife, children, and wealth, living in the Getto.

WEEK-END WEATHER

Friday, April 26, 8.30 A. M.

A mass of cold air has overspread New England bringing clear skies and slightly lower temperature. A mass of much warmer and very moist air is moving northward up the Mississippi Valley from the Gulf of Mexico, while still another mass of very much colder air is descending over the Rocky Mountain States. A storm center has developed between the latter two air masses and it was centered yesterday over Nebraska while showers were falling throughout that area and heavy snow in Colorado.

The warm Gulf air will displace the clear cold air at present over New England within the next 36 hours and rain may result. The cold wave at present in the Rocky Mountains will probably not reach as far east as New England.

Friday: Fair and warmer. Gentle northwest winds decreasing.

Saturday: Partly cloudy and warmer possibly with showers before night.

Sunday: Probably generally fair and continued mild.
