STUFF AND NONSENSE
By Roy Lovely

Coming back to Durham last week, after being away for three months, I was undertaking accomplishments with no small preliminary doubts and apprehensions. As perhaps befitted most events, the summer vacation was spent in pursuits sometimes alarming, far different from the general run of our days. Outside the few hours work each day, during the mobilizations, there was no material pattern. Good intentions too soon prove to us with solemnity that perhaps I could bring myself to get up in the morning again, or to spend glorious hours day-tripping over fourteen walls. Would I be able to think anything there I could imagine I could do at home? How would the old soldiers be playing, or dancing, or just raising hell? And would we have another choral? I'm sure the work was less than a day's work, but I knew the answer. If I had to stay there for the rest of the year, or the rest of the summer, I must do something there. I had to bring in the Brass Monkey.

CONTRADICTIONS
Quite obviously all decisions to be made about the war in Europe must be taken by the United States. Based on his thorough knowledge of the economic and political situation, President Lewis stated yesterday in his address that the United States must be united to stand for order. The President was clearly not inclined to believe that there could be a division between great and small nations. As the President put it, if we could be united, the result would be a great new American civilization.

TOOLINSEY AND COHEN
Will sing of the week—Last night got it so cold that we had to bring in the Brass Monkey.

And we'll never forget that first clock dance with Harry Smith!

Well, well my friends, dear Missulini surely has opened up the rest of the country practically no time at all, the tin soldiers with their little tanks are marching into the boats all set for a swell bender in Europe. That's all, except Belson—Belton and V. Terrell because Belson contractor, Hall, Belton and V. Terrell tonight and tried every means we could think of to get him out of the low-down on the Ethiopian situation but he won't talk. He merely mutters that he doesn't know how to laugh, he isn't laughing. (His sort of answer is typical of Basque inaction.) At this writing, the Duce has told the rest of the world to go to hell and England says that that's hot one. (Good old English wit—put an end to "ring around Rosey on the sidewalks of New York." )

The Van Swearingen brothers of Cleveland, Orvis P. and Martin I. continued to organize control of their $3,000,000,000 railroad empire this week through their agent L. P. Ayres. A high executive of the Van Swearingens, the brothers were welcomed in May, or ordered the collateral placed at public auction, beginning in Seattle. The result of their efforts was.

President Lewis and Council Hold Meeting
Members of the Student Council were given an informal luncheon by President Edward M. Lewis in the Dining room in the Commons last Tuesday noon. The meeting of the group discussed the problems which confront the University. President Lewis expressed great satisfaction at the results of Student Council activities to date. Members of the Council who were present were: David Webster, president of the Council, William Wier, Alfred Montessori, Homer Verville, William Carosola, A. Donald McAllister, William Thompson, Kenneth Norris, Robert Chell, and George Stern and Otto Henn.

Outing Club Plans Third Horse Show
Libby and Terrell Started First Event Three Years Ago

The Outing Club and Animal Husbandry department are sponsoring the correspondence. The correspondence was held at the Outing Club house in Durham last October 12. Although this is only the third that such an exhibition has been given on campus, a traditional standard has been established which will continue this year.

The show was first made a success by the untiring efforts of Ruth Libby and Tirrell. Students, in a project unique in the general run of activities to date, have been involved in the project since its inception. The result of their efforts was.

Several Injuries Make the Lineup of First Game Uncertain

Tomorrow, the wildest postings will begin their football schedule on Memorial field with St. John's Prep as their opponent. This is the first game and the starting line-up will be as follows:

Your correspondent humbly dares to suggest to those who are in charge of the excellent University band, that our song Alma Mater be played at the beginning of the varsity home game, so that it can be heard by the thousands of the cheerleaders, instead of being after the players are in all over and everyone is fighting to be one of the first to reach the gate not caring whether or not the band was playing "The Spangled Banner." If we win the annual " interstate" history, we notice that the comic acrobatic routine of cheerleaders Banchyevski and Tsyorniyevski had a considerable cheering effect on the thoroughly cooked fans in the grandstand.

Nice going boys— keep up the good work.

Little need be said about the game with Yale tomorrow. The consensus of opinion is that New Hampshire is in for a beautiful fight. The players themselves are optimistic, however, and do not think Yale will be as tough as Harvard. On the other hand, "Ducky" Pond, Yale coach, cheerfully admits that his squad is the finest eleven he has ever seen at Yale, and expects an unequalled season. With Yale having a veteran backfield and a strong line which includes Larry (The Great), Kelley, and Bob (Choo-Choo) Train, reputedly the best pair of ends in the East, the going is bound to be tough for our men. We think we will do well if Yale can be held to a score of touchdowns.

The resignation of Bob Haley as captain of the Harvard football team caused quite a furor in Eastern football circles Tuesday. Although all official news sources have been closed, it was rumored that it was the old story of receiving financial aid for services rendered. The starting line-up for the first game is rather uncertain. Lou Polson, an end from Portland Me., seemed certain of gaining a starting berth until he received an injured shoulder. Raymond Patten, of Narragansett, Mass., are two backs who also appeared to be certain starters until they were placed temporarily on the shelf.

If these men recover sufficiently during the next two days, the probable lineup would be as follows: Abbot, r. e. Emery, r. t. Bower or Rivers, r. g. Cummings, c. Leach, l. e. Maclean, l. t. Carney, fullback. L. q. Gilgun, q. b. Horne, r. f. H. Train, fullback. Fagan, l. f. Franko or Hannon, r. f.

The St. John's team is reported to be very strong and will likely prove very troublesome to the New Hampshire freshmen, inasmuch as they have very little defensive or offensive art. However, we can expect to see a representative and snappy team in the cub game tomorrow.

Intramurals Start Thursday, Oct. 3

The annual intramural basketball and touch football leagues begin on Thursday.

This year the basketball competition promises to be very keen. Theta Upsilon, last year's winner and Theta Kappa Phi are presenting exceptional teams, as well as other fraternities. The other houses, while maybe not as strong will give plenty of opposition.

Touch football is listed in the intramural schedule this year for the first time. However, it was tried out last spring and was met with such enthusiasm that the proprietor was told to try and write down two different ways with it! (Continued from page two)

First O. C. Trip to Mendum's Pond Made

The first of the weekly Outing Club trips to Mendum's Pond was held last evening and was attended by a surprisingly large number of students, principally freshmen. These trips were held last year and were one of the most popular parts of the Outing Club program.

Those who arranged the outing and prepared the supper were Homer Wentzell, Hulda Boeker and Robert Jones. The supper consisted of American chop suey, hot rolls, doughnuts and cake. Each of the fifty students paid twenty-five cents for the cost of the meal. After the supper the usual songs and games were enjoyed.

Atlantic Monthly Runs Three Essay Contests

For the past several years the Atlantic Monthly has sponsored a nation-wide contest for creative writing among college students. This year there will be three contests, with first prizes of $50 each, in essay writing, short story writing and in poetry. All students who are enrolled in the English courses where The Atlantic Monthly is used are eligible. Mr. Towle uses the course in his courses and has ambitious plans for them. He wishes to submit manuscripts to the editors. In the past University of New Hampshire has made good showing among college students. The first of the weekly Outing Club meetings in Conant Hall. For the first term, each meeting will feature three ten-minute talks, the first four to be given by the seniors.

Omaha is an outstanding horse today. And in the cigarette world Chesterfield is outstanding. Both won their place strictly on merit.

Apply any test you like—Chesterfields stand for the best there is in cigarettes.

They are milder... yet they let you know you're smoking. They taste better—give you real pleasure.

Chesterfield is outstanding... for mildness... for better taste.
