Capt. Devens Scabbard and Blade Initiate

Capt. W. George Devens was initiated as an associate member of Scabbard and Blade for his outstanding service in the Military Department. The initiation of this evening was conducted by Capt. Edward Y. Blewett, G.R.C., Lieut. Robert W. Pattee, Lieut. Lewis F. Jordan, and Capt. Samuel I. Buracker, all associates of the fraternity.

Captain Devens has been assisting Coach Howard Hathaway in coaching football during the season.

Projected on Depression

S. S. Wyer Discusses The Factors Retarding Recovery

Last Wednesday night, at 8 o'clock, in the Hammer, Mr. Wyer gave an address entitled "Contributions from Psychiatrists in the Depression." In 1929 Mr. Wyer was one of the best known consulting engineers very well placed in the large firms throughout the U.S., as his business was the real thing. The problem was to face the inevitable depression and to devise a policy and to attempt to find an end of the mess that he saw ahead. Mr. Wyer stated that he was not trying to show something new, but he was trying to take a stand that was not being taken before in connection with business and economics as well.

Mr. Wyer showed the evolution of psychiatry, which is the study of the art of ancient Egyptians and Greeks, and the Roman period, up to the twelfth of the century. He also stated that there were forms slowly evolved into the physical perfection of the Greek statues, which have been created for us, based upon the musculature rather than muscular economies.

Wildcats Battle Harvard Tomorrow

The entire Wildcat squad heads on Saturday morning for Cambridge where they will face the Crimson for the fourth time in 1935, and although the New Hampshire team is definitely the underdog, they should give Harvard a very creditable game.

Harvard has always been on the top of a large score, not because her playing has been better, but because they have had a greater number of replacements. Last year was the first time that Harvard was able to score against the Crimson team. This year though, as in other years, New Hampshire has come to a number of large colleges, such as Yale, and Boston College so they have some idea as to how they are going to do at the stadium.

It is very doubtful if Eddie Currier and Harold Mountains will be able to play Tuesday due to injuries received in the game with Tufts. Outside of these men however, the line-up will be about the same. Zaal and Little will be at end, and John Currier and Colin McMillan will probably start at guard, and Rootson at center. Jolin, Orr, and Data are doubtful, and if they are sent up it will be at half, and Mitchener at full will be the backfield. There are many replacements for those men, and probably other players will see action before the game is over.

When asked what the outstanding men of last game were Coach McMillan noted John, Johnson, Mitchener, and Quevedo, Zaal, Givens and Long. He made special mention of Jerry Quander, who missed the game due to illness, as being the best of the season. He also said that Charlie Joslin, Captain Bill Johnson and Long were deserving of "All-New England honors from the post game the Blue and White played against the Jumbos. "They did a fine job last Saturday, and had a lot of spirit, "he said. The team will be officially dismissed from training after the afternoon tilt, and another New Hampshire football season will be here.

Harvard has not had a very impressive season this year. They have lost all their major games except those against Brown and Springfield. Saturday the Crimson went down before Princeton, 35 to 10, at Wrigley Field in Chicago.ados was through without many serious injuries, only 5 yards. Jacky Caudle, playing up with a leg injury, Jackyn and Astagian, leading backfield men.

With end, guards and backfield assignments; the Crimson line-up is very good.

The Wildcats seem to have the best chance of winning this Saturday. The Harvard victory barrier this year that they have ever had. New Hampshire is at full strength and can if they can keep the "fright" that have faced them in the past at Boldin's field they have every chance of crossing the boundaries for New Hampshire.

Volleyball Harriers Place Third in NECAA Meet

Frosh Place Behind N. U. After Captain Bishop Is Forced Out

With both teams running their best games, New Hampshire's frosh and varsity cross-country runners took second and third places, respectively, in the annual NECAA championships. New Hampshire's frosh N.E.C.A. A. championship runs at Franklin Park in Boston on Monday afternoon. The frosh team of the Wildcats was topped only by a strong Northeastern team and behind the second place Rhode Islanders by only five points.

The frosh team's victory Saturday was Bill Hunnewell of Maine who placed third in 25 minutes. II. The New Hampshire's Dave Webster was in 4th place in 16 seconds, but he ran his best time, for Maine's John Joslin, Captain Milton Johnson and Jerry Quander were at Soldier's field they came through without many serious injuries. New Hampshire's Dave Webster was outstanding in 5th place in 16 minutes, with Brown and Springfield and won the race by one half mile. Zais and Zaal are sure to take the New Hampshire men. The purpose of the Smith College banquet was to bring college students together to discuss international relations.

President of Smith College act as host and toastmaster, and introduced the speakers. Dr. T. J. Koo, the great religious leader of China, was the principal speaker; in his characteristically brilliant manner he stressed the need of developing the "inter­ national mind" as the only way of understanding without bias and prejudice that will work to the good of the world as we know it. Two students, one from England and the other from Russia, also spoke at the banquet; the first discussed the organization of the Student Movement for Christian Education in England, and the latter gave his personal experiences in the Russia which he had seven years. Over two hundred students from various New Hampshire institutions were present at the banquet.

The Women's Guild will be the guests of Mrs. R. E. M. Smith Thursday afternoon.

The Kittens ran a well grouped race.

Captain Art Bishop, George Alber, Bob Rand and Bill Noll ran together most of the race with the New Englanders. They were 10 yards behind when they were within half mile of the finish when Bishop was forced out of the race. The three remaining men to take 6th place were John Devens, Captain John Rand and Bill Noll in 36th place which made a considerably larger margin.

Captain Webster and Clayton Plummer ran their last race for New Hampshire, as they will be graduated in June. Webster has been an outstanding member of the track team during his four years here. He was captain of the frosh team that won the championship with a perfect score in 1933.

On To Harvard and let's not come back without at least one touchdown!

Dr. Koo Lectures To Group on Development of the "International Mind"

Five students from the University of New Hampshire were delegates last week to the annual intercollegiate banquest, held in the Hotel Northampton, Northampton, Mass. The students were Otto Roman, president of the Smith College Student Guild; Van Bruce, president of the Student Congress of the Congregational and Christian churches of America; Dorothy Goodrow and Harri Goddaws, the Student Union, and Miss Elizabeth Roney.

The purpose of the Smith College banquet was to bring college students together to discuss international relations.

Piercing The Stratus . . . Some Present Maneuvers Of The Great Powers . . . Olympic Lynx

The realm of science was pushed into broader spheres on Monday in a New Haven audience by the latest Missourian, the Projector Explorer II set a new world's altitude record by 75,187 feet. The previous record of 56,000 feet was established in 1934 above the earth's surface. The ship, built by Dr. T. C. Chambers, Stevenson, commander of the National Geographic Air Corps and the 3rd Commercial Balloon, was more than a hundred feet high. The previous official world's altitude record was established in 1934 in ascended 72,000 feet. The ship was manned by Captain Albert W. Peary, chief navigator; Assistant Editor, William H. Heron Jr., copy editor, Stanley E. Regan; Managing Editor, Howard A. H. Liddell; Circulation Manager, Francis H. Sheppard.

DURHAM, N.H., NOV. 15, 1935

Valuable Experience

Every year The New Hampshire is faced by the same problem: how to get staff. Editors invariably return to a reporter-less paper and then spend the rest of the year training freshmen to write news. By the end of one year there is a small handful of men and women who know the game. Staff elections are held, two out of this handful usually get the managing editorship, and the rest, who have learned by dint of hard work to write news properly, have chosen to lose their experience.

If The New Hampshire is ever to attract enough students to make the training it offers worthwhile, it must be made public. Naturally, the mere fact that one can be made an editor of The New Hampshire is enough in itself to attract a handful of men and women who hare run their last cross country meets, who have run their last baseball games, who have run their last foot races. But what a difference seventeen years ago. The school stood 300 feet high, and the ground was covered with snow. Seventeen years ago the high school was 124 degrees above. Data recorded by the cosmic ray apparatus at 70,000 feet indicated that cosmic rays at that altitude were 150 times more intense than ever the earth's surface.

The news from Europe in the last few days has brought more disturbances about in the great powers. Sanctions against Italy are not to take place until after the British and American governments can discuss their scheme. Two days ago the American government announced that it was to discuss its scheme with the British government. The decision, which is final, secured a large number of the Italian people. The increase of the economic boycott of Italy will be immediately in effect. Seventeen years ago the high school was the complete "sell-off" of Ethiopia to Italy and Great Britain. The most ap­parent fact of the Ethiopian game was the way being cleverly disposed of by British labor on the one hand and the non-imperialistic forces of the League of Nations on the other. Behind these negotiations there appear issues much greater than the present crisis.

These issues center around central nations concerning his mighty fight­against the small nations. One is Russia and the smaller nations—on the one hand and the others on the other. The Staff elections are held, two out of this handful usually get the managing editorship, and the rest, who have learned by dint of hard work to write news properly, have chosen to lose their experience.

A certain Theta Chi, (kin of a Yankee), has decided to change sides. It is a matter of equal concern to the Students Union and to naval supremacy in the Arctic. The Students Union will agree to German re-armament in the present crisis, but will hold out for a more conciliatory policy. Seventeen years ago the high school was the decisive duel on the seas. The British labor on the one hand and the non-imperialistic forces of the League of Nations on the other. Behind these negotiations there appear issues much greater than the present crisis. expression. The Romans later attempted to reproduce the original expressions. Mr. Taft explained that this accounts for the fact that most Roman sculpture leaves the observer cold. Another Greek sculptor, Scopas, contributed a great deal to the art of sculpture, but his works were also sadly misrepresented by the Roman emperors.
Michaelangelo has gained the reputation of being the greatest sculptor in history, according to Mr. Taft. He is also a great admirer of the works of Lugi dela Robia, who, with Lorenzo de' Medici, has a son, Elliott Kyle, born Dec. 30, 1934.

"2." He gave as an example of the "wastes" in our present system, the fact that the value of natural gas lost in a year is equal to all the money spent for public education within that period.
Another factor retarding recovery is the fact that most companies are still counting obsolete equipment part of their value. Another example of this inflation is the fact that the value of the United States government in gold is 'the fact that most companies are still counting obsolete equipment part of the value of their businesses, and many stocks are heavily overvalued, 3% billions of this being worthless.
From these and many other examples, it may be concluded that the present system of valuing business is false and misleading. This is the reason why the Great Depression has continued so long. The problem is not one of how much money we have, but how we use it. The more we use it wisely, the easier it will be for us to recover.

Relations Club To Reorganize
International Affairs To Be Studied by Members
The International Relations Club held a meeting Wednesday evening at the Phi Mu Delta house, conducted by President Wendell Knight, and Prof. Kapellini, faculty adviser. It was decided that the club will completely change its program and make an intensive study of international affairs. There were 20 people present, some of whom have been previously unconnected with the club, but who are interested in its activities. Prof. Kapellini stated that the purpose of the club was to enable students to acquire knowledge on subjects of international interest by means of individual reports and group discussions. There are books on world affairs and short summaries of international affairs provided by the Carnegie endowment to assist this work.
The discussion for the next meeting, to be held Dec. 5 at the Phi Mu Delta house, will concern the Italian-Edith Mission. Five different groups were appointed to present the mission from the viewpoint of Argentina, Poland, Italy, England, the League of Nations, and the military considerations.
