Dinosaur Hunter To Speak on Gym

Dr. Barnum Brown, noted Curator, will give lecture Wed.

“A New Dinosaur Kingdom,” a lecture that will combine popular entertainments with instructive content, will be given by Dr. Barnum Brown in the Gymnasium at 1:10 o’clock on Wednesday, November 20, at 1:10 p.m.

Dr. Brown has been called the greatest of the dinosaur-hunters. There is hardly an important museum in this country or abroad not displaying a skeleton which he has excavated. Conveyed with an inextinguishable fire, he is discovering the best places to dig for skeletons in his interest in new and better methods. He is the first man, for example, to hunt dinosaurs by airplane. Armed with an aerial camera, he examines fossil-bearing strata over large areas, and marks likely spots on his map for future personal attention.

He was at the Harvard Geology Survey over Montana, Wyoming, South Dakota, Colorado, Arizona, and New Mexico, discovering new areas in which field-parties have since been working.

He is a magnetic person, his serial motion pictures, his slides, and his verbal descriptions are combined in a lecture that will make the audience forget that they are hearing the voice of a scientist. He knows something of the characteristics and habits of every animal which he has mastered of America one hundred and thirty million years ago.

After graduating from the University of Kansas, Dr. Brown joined almost immediately the staff of the American Museum of Natural History in New York. Three years later, he became associate curator, and he has been since 1907 curator of the department of paleontology. He has taken part in fossil-hunting expeditions in North and South America, Europe, Asia, and Africa.

Mark Twain's Americanism... Where Were the Constitution Defenders? Boston's Murder Cargo... Egyptian Students Rise against British Imperialism

"Americanism" is today as commonly used that it runs the risk of becoming a mere catchword. Its most vigorous proponents shield themselves with it to accustom the public to the present set-up of not being loyal to their native land. America's most disinterested observer, Mark Twain, has given us a clear idea of the meaning of "Americanism" in his "Connecticut Yankee at King Arthur's Court." Since his death, as celebrated throughout the nation this month it seems only appropriate that we state what it means to a kind of man this "great American pu­

We quote, "You see my kind of loyalty is not to a nation, not to its institutions and its office holders. Institutions are extraneous— they are more in the air and clothing to be worn, turned to the welfare and protection of body and soul; to live, to be loyal to God and the flag. It is purely animal. I was from Connecticut whose constitution and laws are in all respects the power is inherent in the people and all free governments are founded on their auton­ yes and their loyalty to alter their form of government in such manner as they see fit.

"Under that gospel the citizen who wishes to have a better country, a better political climate are worn out, and yet he holds up those Negroes as a dead new city, is still, is a traitor to the cause of freedom, that cause."
