Only 80 Students Fail
To Return This Term
All but 180 of the 138 students who dropped from the university this term have returned, and have registered late. As a result, the Register's office was open five days this week. Fall term was 1935; there are now 1392 students at the University. G. V. Henderson said that this small drop in enrollment was no different from other years when, he said, it was expected, since it may have been that students have talked themselves out of financial means. By examining the enrollment records in the Registrar's office, it is possible to appreciate this point. The second term enrollment has shown an increase of 105, the first for the past few years, as shown by the chart.

New Hampshire Production Control Work Is Ended By Orders

Director J. C. Kendall of the N. H. Extension Service ended orders for production control work at a standstill until after the close of the growing season, and ordered a full time man to be forwarded to all county agents. This will affect corn, hog, tobacco, and potato production.

Director Kendall was acting on a long standing request of the State committees and boards, state, county, county association, and committees are to discontinue this work and incur no expense. County agents can handle the charge of production control association forms, records and property.

Kitten Sextet Defeats Exeter 3-1 in Opener

A 3 to 1 victory over Phillips Exeter academy marked the opening game of the hockey hockey team.

The contest was fast and rough throughout, but no penalties were imposed on either team. In unpenalized play, the Kitten team played the game after having only one practice, and that was held after the victory game Tuesday night.

Principal Paton, Blanch, and Gilgun for New Hampshire, and the one Exeter tally was made by March 3. The line of Patten, Harrison, and Birch showed up well, while defense men proved hard for Exeter to penetrate. The summary:

New Hampshire Alumni Subject Of Sketch In British Review

It was recently announced by the Alumni Office that Dr. W. B. Britton, New Haven, Conn., who was gradu­ate of the College of Arts and Sciences in 1883, was the subject of a sketch in the British Review. The sketch appeared in the Town and Country Review, August, 1888, published in London, Eng­land.

One of the new CCC Camps in Con­necticut has been named Camp Brit­ton in honor of Dr. Britton, who is State entomologist. This camp will be responsible for the control of black-legged ticks which are carriers of Rocky Mountain spotted fever.

Dr. Britton has also been requested to officiate as the new editor of the paper.

For several years fraternities have been working hard to improve their image on campus. The problem of cheating and violations relatively few. Retribution for the violators has been swift even though the breach may have been accidental. Fines have been imposed and complete details of the infraction have been published in the weekly magazine. By a vote of 3 to 6 the Supreme Court has affirmed the decision of the Agricultural Board of the University of Illinois, which declared that the procedure used by the college to enforce its code of morals is constitutional. But the majority of the justices held that the decision should not be taken lightly. The case has implications for other colleges and universities across the country and could set a precedent for similar cases in the future.

The effects of the majority's ruling have significant political and economic consequences. As has been shown clearly during past years, an honor system is impossible under existing conditions. A minimum of dirty rushing, Casque and Casket must continue to maintain the discipline which it has established during the past two years.

Robert K. Briffault is none of those "friendly" writers--in the roundabout way of describing his personality which is a summing up of all that he has found. He is a man who is primarily interested in the dynamics of what he has found. His is what Vincent Sheehan has termed "the long view." Though functioning system, and give the appearance of being inconsequential puppets flitting here and there,.

The University of New Hampshire apparently received some unexpected publicity with a national scope over the holidays which originated in the far off city of Cleveland, Ohio. It re­lates to the actions of Alexander Karaiskis, class of '29, who was convicted of the American League Against War and Fascism which was held in January 3rd, 4th and 5th, as was discovered by this reporter after much investigating.
