AMERICAN ART EXHIBIT OPENS AT MEMORIAL LIBRARY

Unique Exhibit Method to Bring Art to Average Citizen of Nation

The first of a series of four living American Art exhibits, to be staged simultaneously throughout the College, has been opened at Memorial Library yesterday. The opening of this exhibit at 250 different points in the country at the same time represents the most ambitious plan ever made to have available to the average citizen and to make American art self-sustaining.

This first exhibit consists of twelve pictures by twelve living American artists, which will be on display at Memorial Library and at 250 other points in the country for most of the principal months of the year. The paintings of the first selection of the finest originals are the nucleus of the work to be made available to the nation.

The selection of these exhibits is a job by a jury from the American Living Art Museum, Inc.—Louis Bousche, Alexander Brook, Adolf Dehn and Hughes Meins—and representatives of the best art schools of the country. The paintings are selected after a thorough going over of the many pictures submitted. Through the Advisory Board which represents all the important art forces of the country, the paintings of all parts of the country receive consideration.

Of course, the large and wide selection of the finest originals is the nucleus of making available throughout the country. Comments with American Art Museum directors, Christopher Bartlett, Director of American Living Art, Inc., allotted the work to its originator of the collotype process during the year, but their center of activity is Apple-holm.

THE LISTENING POST

KANSAS CITY — President Roosevelt speaking in the new $6,000,000 auditorium here, partly financed by Federal funds, defended the Government's ex­ fpenditures for education. "In High school, I was dominated by the fear that I must shape my future. The school is the place wherein the young men and women of America—the raw material out of which the United States must shape its future. The school is the scene of the free development of the citizen, the statesman, the engineer, the merchant, the man of letters, of the Statesman, the lawyer. No one can do his work unless his mind has been formed in classrooms."
