DURHAM, N.H. -- The University of New Hampshire's Master of Public Health program will offer an information session Wednesday, Nov. 1 (5:30 – 7 p.m.) at UNH Manchester (286 Commercial St., Room 7).

Master of Public Health program director Rosemary Caron will detail the three options for graduate work in public health at UNH: the two-year Master of Public Health, the new one-year Certificate of Public Health, and the Certificate of Health Policy and the Law, offered with Franklin Pierce Law School. The Certificate of Public Health has just added a spring enrollment option with a deadline of Dec. 1. This spring enrollment option works best for professionals with some background in public health who would be able to start the program mid-course.

Also at the information session, Caron and Holly Tutko, Certificate program manager, will review admission requirements, curriculum design, and estimated costs.
