Student Group Sponsors Talk on War and Peace

Similar Programs Being Presented Throughout Country During Week

Revered Ernest Shepard will give an informative lecture on the "War and Peace" theme throughout the nation. This program is sponsored by the National Peace Committee, Robert Macfarlane, president of the Student Council.

This lecture is being given in conjunction with a national program to which interested groups are sponsoring on most of the college campuses throughout the country during the week. The purpose is to put the war in perspective and to promote a better understanding of its causes and consequences.

President Engelhardt Attends

The president of the University and many of the members of the faculty have presented their approval of the program. President Engelhardt made the following statement:

"Desirable as it may be to call periodical calls for a truce during wartime, it is the responsibility of everyone who cares about world peace, peace of war, peace of life, to do what he can to bring about peace. Each individual can make a difference in the world. By taking small steps, we can contribute to a larger peace in the world."

New Hampshire Poet Gains Wide Literary Recognition

by Esther Barrett

The appearance of a "Land and a People," a poem by Shirley Barker in the April 4 issue of the Saturday Review of Literature, marks the growing recognition of Shirley Barker as one of the most talented of New Hampshire's poets. Miss Barker, who was born in near-midst of the town of Northfield, is the author of ten books of poetry, including "The Breadloaf School of English in Middlebury, Vermont. It was there that she met Bernard DeVoto and other writers who have been a significant influence on her poetry.

Shirley Barker, who was born in nearby Farmington, adds that she's "considering" the idea of running for Congress as a "congressional candidate." She is also working with the Democratic National Committee to promote the reelection of President Kennedy.

We asked her when she started writing, but she laughed and said, "I don't know—as long as I can remember, I've been making verses." Her first published piece was a poem in the Grassland Monthly, which appeared when she was in the eighth grade. In 1922, while she was a sophomore here, she won a prize of $100 for a ballad about Salem witches. During her undergraduate years she won a number of Prizes; two of the prizes she worked on worked out the winning entry and the first place went to Shirley Barker.

THE LISTENING POST

by Donald Mindelle

This week, on Thursday afternoon, the students of the University of New Hampshire participated in a nationwide peace strike. They were among the many thousands who followed the American Peace Movement and joined the nationwide demonstration.

This is a golden opportunity for students to show their support of peace. It is an opportunity to let the world know that we stand against war.

The participants in this demonstration understood that the only way to bring about lasting peace is to stop the arms race. The demonstration was held on campus to show solidarity with those who are fighting for peace around the world.

I recognize that it is not always possible to participate in a demonstration, but even a small act of support can make a difference.

EVERETT HUNTINGTON GETS FELLOWSHIP

Everett C. Huntington, of the senior class, has been awarded one of three fellowships offered by the National chapter of Phi Kappa Phi. This fellowship is awarded each year to two or more members of Phi Kappa Phi, each of whom enrolls as a candidate for an advanced degree in a graduate school of some American college or university. Every year each chapter selects its own applicant for the award, and the national committee selects those whom they judge to be the most worthy for the award.

Mr. Huntington will take up his graduate studies in mathematics at Brown university where he has been awarded a graduate scholarship.

He is the first successful New Hampshire applicant for a fellowship offered by this honorary scholastic society.
