The mass of polar continental air which has been wading southward and to the east this week is going to begin its retreat and move off eastward. The air will still be cold, with west or northwest winds, but the temperature will rise to about 40 degrees.

The system that has been causing the cold and stormy weather is moving off to the east, and the north-westerly flow of air from the Arctic will be replaced by a south-westerly flow from the Pacific. The temperature will rise to about 50 degrees, and the sky will be cloudy with a few showers.

On Saturday, the weather will be cloudy with some showers, and the temperature will be about 45 degrees.

On Sunday, the weather will be cloudy with some showers, and the temperature will be about 45 degrees.

Fourteen UNH Men Prepare For Objective Meeting of Year at Boston on Monday

Next Monday, the varsity and freshmen cross-country team journey to Boston to compete in the Intercollegiate Conference Amateur Association Championship. This is the big objective for Coach W. D. Smiley and his men. Of course, the winning team is considered the best in the New England State schools.

The varsity, which will be held on the Franklin Field, consists of the best of the varsity teams in the state. There is some combination in the freshmen, but the main unit is the junior and senior classes of the varsity team.

The New Hampshire varsity has met with varying success in the N. E. I. C. A. A. A. The Kittins have won eight of the eleven meets which have been held, including last year's in Boston, and in 1907, and away down in 97th place in the 1907 meet, still retaining the worst performance ever for a Wildcat team. This was because of the handicap that the varsity team faces - it charges its hands to the end. The Kittins have already met some of the strong teams in the state in dual meets, and Springfield and Rindge (the state champions) lost to Rhode Island State in another meet. It is thus easy to see why the Kittins, who have not been as successful as in previous years, will probably not be in the running in the past, they will have a good chance in the future.

The freshman course is a mile shorter than the varsity course, and only three miles in length. Under the leadership of Captain-Elect, the Kittins are preparing for a good meet.

Cowbell's Early Training Fits Him For Director's Position

If one were to ask the question, "Who directed the football team on the campus?" he might expect the answer to be—"university." Bill Cowbell, "Bill has been here at Dartmouth that every year, every fall, he gets in a bad time in the spring and fall, he gets in with an old friend—and he is so handy in every sense of the word."

Bill was reared in the southern "Shortgrass" country of western Kansas, a section of the country which enjoys a large share of the United States' athletes and football captains. He attended a small school, where he excelled in all sports. In his junior and senior years he was captain and quarterback of the high school football team, which entered the state championship games.

Majored in Civil Engineering

In the fall of 1907, Bill entered the University of Kansas, majoring in civil engineering. Here he again started in football, but this time the half-back position on the freshman eleven. In his senior year, he was a full-back for the varsity team.

He holds a degree in civil engineering and is connected with the clinics of several hospitals. His work is in the dental division and is connected with the clinics of several hospitals. His work is in the dental division.

College Athlete

In 1912, Bill went to Pitt to study mining engineering, and the football season was one of the most successful of his career. He was a member of the varsity team and was chosen for the all-conference team.

Reprint of an article from the fall of 1912, printed in the Pitt News, states: "Cowbell's return to the varsity football team for a more important part of the season before or after that will be called "The Story of the Season," pages 46 to 50, published by the Pitt News and sold for 35 cents per copy.

Cowbell, who was a former student at the University of Kansas, has been a great success in the field of mining engineering, and his work is in the dental division of several hospitals. His work is in the dental division.
