The Mask and Dagger will present "The Spring Dance" by Philip Barry on Wednesday, November 13, at 8:00 P.M. at The College Shop. Tickets on sale for Wednesday evening at The College Pharmacy, $1.00.

The program consisted of three dances, 'Arte,' a form of folk drama which was evolved in Italy, and later translated into visual patterns which suggest the atmosphere of a formal garden with batic turns, and the leaps, characteristic of efficient masters. The men members of the ballet executed the acrobatic turns, and the leaps, characteristic of efficient masters. The men

Many Young People Denied Educational Opportunities

Many of us who have the privilege of attending college do not realize how for­ mate for us, are for a large group of young people at our age and younger. Micro­ placed the school at intervals special­ in the school of the arts and sciences, and from 200 to 400 who have been offered for tuition. Two hundred of these students are junior, while 62 are freshmen. 1022 have continued their studies with a large number of these enrolled in com­ mercial, trade, and normal schools. 682 of the young women are training in busi­ nesses throughout the state. All students join junior circles, while 62 are enrolled reg­ isters for the 1937-38 session. Great originality has been shown by those who have been prematurely throw their estate and other resources. Among the many types of work in which they are involved are: "The College of Technology, presented the two booklets made and current. Mr. Schoolcraft, whose office he shares, also likes music. Coaching responsibility has been turned over to Coach Justice for the remainder of the season.

The Wildcats this year have been up and down too many times to recall them in detail.

The Blue and White gridsters came out strongly in the second half and held the Maroons to a 15 yard marker, sealed a 25 yard pass play against the defense of one of the Blue team.

The Wildcats were completely outplayed and it seemed that they had given up hope of winning.

The Blue team scored a touchdown with only a few minutes remaining in the game and the score was 14-6 a win for the Blue team.

The spending of the Blue and White gridsters came out strongly in the second half and they held their own against the Blue and White maroons.

The game was played in front of a crowd of New Hampshire alumni who were present to watch the game and the Kittyhawks completely outplayed the Blue and White gridsters.

University Craft Cottage Has Interesting Background

by Rachel Lovejoy

On the northern end of Ballard Street behind Smith Hall, there is a little house which most of us know about and probably see quite often, but which we rarely visit. The Craft Cottage, as it has been newly dubbed, has a most interesting history behind it, having served as the home of several different departments of the college.

When the college was first founded, the campus was situated on the property of the Thompson farm. There was a small farm or tenant house located opposite the front walk leading up to T-hall. The college took over and made it into a residence for Conda J. Mann, who held a position similar to the one of Mr. McGrath. His office was located in the east wing, with the rest of the house being used as living quarters for the family.

The cottage was located directly in front of this, being almost on the street. "Thad" Hendron lived in the cottage for four years, his youngest daughter Henrieetta being born there in July, 1927. Finally in September of 1936, the college asked him to move as they wanted the building for a Home Management Home. From then until 1941 the house was used in that capacity.

After "Thad" Hendron moved out, the new Practice House was built, the cottage was changed into a nursery school and kindergarten. Upon the completion of Scott Hall, the building was moved from the main street to its new site, where it continued to be used as a nursery until the fall of 1937. At that time the use and the name of the cottage was once more changed and it is now known as the Craft House. Former Dyers to All Students

The courses taught at the cottage are open to anyone on campus. It seems that few people realize this fact, as the classes are small; however, the girls who do the work are most enthusiastic and spend much of their time there. The credits in the courses are given according to the amount of work accomplished. The house is open every day of the week from 11 to 1:30 and from 3:30 to 5:30 P.M. with the exception of Saturdays when it is closed in the afternoon. There are no set laboratory hours; each girl is allowed to work at her own convenience, fitting the hours into her own schedule.

There are two sections of work from which to choose. One is a series of courses to be used in teaching at summer camps, and the other is to promote hobbies. The former includes weaving, leather and bead work, clay modeling and carving. The latter includes any form of arts and crafts in which the girls may be interested.

If you have a spare hour in your present schedule why don't you pay a visit to the Craft Cottage and join the group of girls who work there regularly. Minnie Schorr
