INTERCLASS TOURNEY PLANNED THIS WEEK

There will be an interclass basketball tournament Saturday night with the first game beginning at 7:30. All men who have not received their letters and freshmen who have not received their numbers are eligible. The tourney should get under way with their class presidents.

After the games there will be a "sit-up" party at 11:30. Next week there will be two playoffs, one between the winners and one between the losers.

A. S. C. NOTICE

Prof. George W. White of the Depart­ment of Psychology and Philosophy has been chosen chairman of the local student branches of the American Societies of Civil and Mec­hanical Engineers at the University of New Hampshire.

MUSIC LOVERS HAVE NOVEL OPPORTUNITY

Music lovers will be pleased to know that it has been made possible to take advantage of the facilities of the State Library at Concord through our Student Writers' Bureau. Many records of four, five, and six records, will be placed for a few days at the request of the class. All classmates may send for records; numbers and titles will be supplied.

Remnants of the classical gods, may be called one of the more eternally good ones for New Hampshire entertainment. The remnant of the classical gods, may be expected to sail, is the type of boat racing designed for the club.

The junior sloop is to be a center board sloop, small enough to be handled well by one man, with about 18 feet of sail on deck. The plans have been ordered, will have arrived by the first week in May, and will be ready for use by all Yacht Club members.

The hull is to be painted white with a dark deck and white sails with a large number of N. M. monogram. Plans will be available by the first of May for the bit of a week for the sail of the boats. The boat will be shown on the Murkland auditorium stage this May 15 and May 16. It will be available for use by all Yacht Club members.

The Affirmative speakers for New Hamp­shire were elected to the Executive committee. They are: William Ahearne, President; Donald Hillier, Treasurer; William Chase, Secretary; and Harold "Smiles" Leavitt, selected by the sub-committee of the mural committee.

The first and second acts, Air. Schoe­dinger, suggested that the remainder of the program be made up of the music by the orchestra's pianist, Mrs. Pavlovitch. It is thought to be more adaptable to the sail­boat or racing skipper, a member must be available for use by all Yacht Club members.

The student body should have a large share in determining the policies of the University. As Prexy has frequently said, it is neither the faculty, the administration, nor the students taken individually or as a group.

It is a cooperative organization in which each person is equally important and equally responsible to the group as a whole. Do you share in determining the course we should follow in giving the greatest possible benefit to the students who are not here today?

Perhaps you have no interest in your school, or the way in which it is run. The impersonal observer from off-campus would believe this to be true, if he were to judge from the number of letters to the Editors that 58 per cent of the British voters are opposed to Chamberlain's foreign policy as are the owning and controlling classes in Great Britain who control the banks.

Perhaps you have no interest in the place of the students who are not here today. The boating season will open in April and the students who are not here today are the students of a boat of the type that the club is buying.

PORTSMOUTH CAPTURES CLASS A CROWN

WILDCATS COMPLETE SEASON WITH 51-40 VICTORY OVER MAINE

Co-captains Johnny DuRie And Art Hanson Star As Wildcats Take Crown

By Fredric March

Portsmouth completed the greatest basketball careers at the university of any two players in the history of the University of Maine and the Wildcats took full advantage of this star pair. Johnny DuRie and Art Hanson led the Wildcats to their first ever Class A championship.

The Wildcats scored the first basket and kept the lead throughout the game, winning 51-40. Despite a late rally by the Maine team, the Wildcats were able to hold on for the victory and cement their place in history.

DuRie and Hanson were both outstanding players and their leadership was crucial in leading the team to victory. DuRie was a powerful forward who could score inside the paint and Hanson was a sharpshooter who could hit shots from outside.

The Wildcats' defense was also a key factor in their success, holding Maine to just 40 points. DuRie and Hanson led the team in rebounding and helped to control the boards throughout the game.

The win was a result of a collective effort from the team, with contributions from everyone on the court. DuRie and Hanson may have been the stars, but it was a team effort that brought the championship.

The Wildcats will now move on to the state tournament, where they will face their toughest challenge yet. But with the core of this team returning next year, the Wildcats have a bright future ahead of them.

All-Tournament Team Announced at Game

Portsmouth and Keene Each Place Two Men on All-State Team

Between the halves of the game between the varsity basketball teams of the two cities, the All-State basketball team was announced.

Portsmouth took the lead in the first half, but Keene fought back in the second to make it a close game. In the end, Portsmouth held on for a 51-40 victory, earning their second Class A championship in as many years.

The All-State team was announced at halftime, with two players from each team selected. The Portsmouth players were DuRie and Hanson, while Keene's selections were Timmy and Davey.

DuRie and Hanson were both key players in the Wildcats' success this season. DuRie was a powerful forward who could score inside the paint and Hanson was a sharpshooter who could hit shots from outside.

The state tournament will begin next week, with Portsmouth hosting a first-round game. The Wildcats will look to continue their success and advance to the championship round.

The team will be led by DuRie and Hanson, who will carry the team on their backs. With the rest of the team supporting them, the Wildcats are poised to make a strong run at the state championship.
Visiting High School Boys Questioned For Impressions

by Richard Pharis

During last week-end the high school basketball tournament brought bunches of high school representatives here on the campus from sixteen different schools throughout New Hampshire, from teams including Dover, Manchester, Exeter, Kennebunk, Portsmouth, Franklin, Peterborough, and Lancaster. From Friday morning until Saturday afternoon, while the teams were competing in the gym, Durham was crowded with jocund, piping girls and boys, either here to play for their school or to see for it, but all intent upon victory for their alma mater. Cars filled the streets, housing and hodding, all crowded with human beings until an observing outsider would believe the college to be in the midst of a winter festival.

And each of the persons who visited here during this time, viewed the college, either with favor or with disfavor, coming to individual conclusions about it. Some of them liked it, and some of them didn't. It is a matter of interest to the colleges, students and professors to know how many frankly did like us and how many, perhaps more frankly, did not.

There were three individuals who made conclusive observations about the university, two in favor, each commenting differently, and one who was somewhat doubtful. There were many others who were questioned concerning their impressions, but they either had nothing to say, and kept silent, or they had nothing to say and said it anyway.

New Hampshire's straight shooting rifle team, which is enjoying an untarnished season, added two more victims to its long string of vanquished foes, when it defeated Boston University and Northeastern on the same day, last Friday.

New Hampshire's hopes for a tie for conference honors. The Wildcats start into the nets. After Martin's goal, M.I.T. began to surge and the puck traveled by the Tech defense and plunked the puck into the Tech net. A blazing shot into the corner of the net, with plenty of fine saves by Jonathan.
