Pres. H. Baker of Mass. State Speaks For Convocation

Renowned Educator, Grad. Of Michigan State, Talks On "Exploring Frontiers"

At a required convocation this Thursday, Dr. Hugh Baker, president of the Massachusetts State college, spoke on "Exploring Frontiers." In his talk he mentioned not only the famous explorations of adventurers into distant lands, and scientists into unknown fields, but drew a parallel in our everyday explorings of the frontiers of our own minds.

As an outstanding educator of today, Dr. Baker was well equipped to speak of mental explorations. The gist of his important part of education is being able to get on with one's self and with others. Just as the history of the world is based on explorations and the world of today and tomorrow's world will be molded by exploration, so our individual minds are determined by our own exploring within them. Just as the course and shaping of the world is decided by the way we decide its problems, so our minds are directed by the way they solve their problems. A truthful examination of our minds by asking them, what is right? What is friendship? What is decent, or just? is the only way to train them to the proper channels.

And having brought ourselves into understanding with our own minds, we can then seek the values of friendships with others: we can learn to live peacefully and harmoniously with others, and thus derive full benefits from the world.

Dr. Baker is a graduate of Michigan State, and received his doctor's degree at the University of Munich. He has studied at the Yale forestry school, and the New York forestry school at Syracuse. After his studies he was with the United States Forest Service for ten years, before accepting positions of professorship at Iowa State, Pennsylvania State, and New York State at Syracuse, where he also served as dean for several years. In 1933 he accepted the position of president of Massachusetts State College, which position he now holds.

During the World war Dr. Baker served with the 46th infantry in France. He has also held the management of the Trade Association Department of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

Two Cars Overtake Early This Week

University Student Skids On Icy Road and Local School Bus Crashes Rail

Two more casualties were added to the already large number of accidents in the vicinity of Durham early this week. On the Concord road, just outside of town, a car driven by Chesley B. Hall, a freshman from Loudon, N. H., skidded on the ice and turned over three times. Hall received a compound fracture of the nose, and cuts and bruises about the face. His mother, Mrs. Martha Hall, an occupant in the car, received injuries to her arm and face.

The accident occurred about 8 A. M. near the home of William Ellison. The injured parties were treated at

Dr. Eugene Smith Speaks at Dinner

The fall dinner meeting of the Faculty Club took place last Tuesday evening in the Commons with 145 members of the university faculty present. These dinners were inaugurated by President Engelhardt and are held three times a year. The dinners are quite popular with the faculty as shown by the attendance. It gives the instructors an invaluable opportunity for informal discussion and speakers on general topics of education keep them abreast of the most modern developments in the progressive education movement.

The speaker for this meeting was Dr. Eugene R. Smith, an eminent lecturer and authority in the education field. Dr. Smith has taught in many colleges, and has written books on plane and solid geometry and the progress of education and pupil analysis. He has lectured at the summer school sessions at Columbia, John Hopkins, and the University of California, and is guest lecturer at Wellesley College. Since 1921 he has held the position of Headmaster at Beaver Country Day School, Chestnut Hill, Mass. Dr. Smith has been president of the Progressive Education Association, and holds numerous honorary degrees.

Dr. Smith's address was entitled, "The Story of the Progressive Education Movement and its Effect on College Problems." This talk, on a subject of primary importance to his listeners, was thoroughly enjoyed by the members of the faculty. He emphasized a scientific attitude teaching, and favored as much freedom in student government as is practical.

Hood House and returned home. State inspector Harold Foss, of Dover, investigated the accident.

On Tuesday morning, a beach wagon carrying school children, went off the road, crashed through a guard rail and landed overturned in a brook. The vehicle was driven by Leona Coker of Durham and occupants were: Alfred Zych, John Stevens, Ruth Biskup, Helen Roper, Alice Roper, Robert Crory, and Roland Coker. No one reported serious injury.

Military Committee Honors Misses Bremner, Brown As Honorary Cadet Majors

Friday night will present one of the gala events of the year when the Scabbard and Blade's sixteenth annual Military Ball will be held in the gymnasium. According to Captain Robert Spaulding, between two hundred and fifty and three hundred couples will dance to the music of Don Fabens' orchestra and listen to the singing of the Burnett Sisters.

Miss Beverly Swain, who was chosen as Cadet Colonel by the members prior to the Thanksgiving vacation, and her two aides, the Cadet Majors, Miss Betty Brown and Miss Betty Bremner, will be presented before intermission. Promptly at eleven o'clock the Cadet Colonel will perform an important part in the colorful ceremony of pledging twenty-seven junior officers to the military society. This is perhaps the greatest reward that can come to an advanced R.O.T.C. student as only the most proficient officers are so honored.

After the presentation of the honorary officers and the pledging of the new Scabbard and Blade members, Colonel Smith and Major Swanton will present the senior commissions, the highest ranks going to the most outstanding students.

The walls and ceilings will be covered with the flags of the various nations, and a large American flag will be hung behind the chaperones' chairs. Suspended from the ceiling will be a large revolving crystal ball. A military atmosphere will be added by sand bag machine gun emplacements, 37 mm. guns, and trench motors.

The chaperones for the affair will be: Colonel and Mrs. Smith, Major Swanton, Major and Mrs. Buracher, Major and Mrs. Prindle, Major and Mrs. Cowen.

Among the invited guests are Governor and Mrs. Francis P. Murphy, Rear Admiral Cole, Portsmouth, General W. H. Wilson, Commander of the 1st Corps area, Boston, and Mrs. Wilson. Colonel Black, Boston, and Captain E. Y. and Mrs. Blewett, Durham.

This year the gallery will be open to guests only, as the hall is expected to be crowded.

DEBATING SOCIETY

At a recent meeting of the Debating Society, the following members were chosen as officers: Paul Ferrus, president; Robert Winer, vice-president; Jack Sheinuk, secretary - manager; Richard Bryant, freshman delegate.

On Monday, a debate will be held against Bowdoin, while on Tuesday, Brown will furnish the opposition. Both debates will begin at 7:30 P. M. in the Commons Organization room, and everybody is cordially invited to attend.

ble free from scientific terms, and the applause he received was tribute to his long experience in lecturing on popular astronomy. After the conclusion of his talk, Dr. Fisher answered questions on star photography and other amateur astronomical activities.

Sororities Pledge Sixty-Eight Girls

Fall Rushing Season Ends; Only Thirty-six Per Cent Of Freshmen Accept Bids

Sixty-eight freshmen women accepted bids from seven sororities Tuesday, November 22, at the end of the fall rushing season. This was approximately thirty-six per cent of a class which included 191 women at the beginning of the school year. Dean Woodruff expressed the opinion that this seemed a fairly small per cent of the total class.

The accepting of bids culminated a little over a week of rushing by the sororities, with open rushing in the morning and closed rushing restricted to one sorority each afternoon. Rushing began Nov. 14 and ended Nov. 21. Nov. 22 was the day of silence on which bids were accepted.

This year's rushing rules included two innovations, the open house periods which preceded the regular rushing season, and the quota system which limited the number of freshmen any sorority could bid. Whether these features will be used again next year will depend upon the decision of Pan-Hellenic in formulating next year's rushing rules.

The list of those accepting bids includes:

Dr. Fisher Speaks on Mars Question

Expresses Certainty of Plant Life and Discusses Meaning of Canal Network

Before a capacity audience in Murkland auditorium, Dr. Clyde Fisher, curator of the New York Hayden Planetarium, lectured last Wednesday evening on "Is There Life on Mars?" Dr. Fisher's subject, originally announced as eclipse hunting, was changed because of the current popular interest in that possibility due to the recent "invasion" of the earth.

Dr. Fisher wisely gave his listeners a brief introduction to the movements of the planets in space before attempting to discuss the possibilities of life on the cold, arid sphere that circles the sun outside the orbit of the earth. Illustrating his talk with lantern slides of Mars as it appears through our telescopes, Dr. Fisher explained that our neighbor planet seems to possess all the necessary qualifications for life—oxygen, water vapor, fairly favorable temperature, and seasons. But the strongest argument for intelligent beings are the faint, dark lines, arranged in definite geometrical pattern over Mars' surface. These lines, first seen by the Italian astronomer Schiaparelli, were interpreted by him to be canals, part of a giant Martian irrigation project. Such canals could be constructed only by some rational beings not greatly different from the inhabitants of our earth.

But this inference, explained Dr. Fisher, gives rise to a host of imaginative and fantastic ideas on the appearance of the theoretical Martian. Several examples of this were shown to the amusement of the audience, and Dr. Fisher stressed the fact that these were not to be taken seriously—that of the existence of lower forms of life—such as plants—there is no doubt, but all we can say about intelligent beings on Mars is still highly conjectural. Perhaps more advanced apparatus, such as the 200-inch telescope under construction, will enable us to solve the mystery.

Throughout his lecture, Dr. Fisher kept the explanation as much as possi-

DURHAM vs. EUROPE

Since the summer of 1936 a terrible civil war has been raging in Spain. The Sino-Japanese struggle has been carried on for many months. Meanwhile, Germany's army is poised, ready to strike at a word from her Nazi chieftain. Italy as well, could begin hostilities within a few hours notice. Russia is armed to the teeth, and is waiting for a seemingly inevitable conflict. Great Britain is literally quaking in her boots in anticipation of an armed struggle in Europe. In fact, military force seems to be the by-word amongst the members of the family of European nations.

And what of America?

Why, here in Durham we are going to enjoy ourselves tonight at the annual Mil. Art ball. For the sixteenth year the students at the University of New Hampshire will gather in the gym for this most colorful of all the year's social activities.

As you "swing out" tonight, it would not be amiss to think for a moment of the good fortune of the youth of American colleges, who are so fortunate that their chief military function at this time is in the form of a military ball.

And as the Cadet Colonel formally pledges the Junior members of Scabbard and Blade let us hope that their entire military career may be as devoid of conflict as the ceremony itself.

And while the Senior members of the Advanced Military course receive their commissions for the remainder of the year, it is the fervent hope of the students, army, and the entire United States that their training and drilling will never be more intense than at one of the Thursday afternoon drills on Memorial Field.

Perhaps the young men in the countries mentioned above would not exchange places with those of America, but who can wish for the muddled condition of Europe?

New Engineering Prof. Takes Post

Dr. Daniel Snell Eppelsheimer, former assistant to Harvard's famous Professor Albert Sauveur and at present connected with one of America's foremost industrial research laboratories, took up active duty at the University of New Hampshire as research associate professor of industrial engineering, November 30. Replacing Professor Edwin R. Rath, who resigned September 30 to become chief engineer of a national industrial association, Dr. Eppelsheimer is a graduate of Harvard's Engineering school from which he received the degree of bachelor of science in mining and metallurgy, cum laude in 1932, and the degree of doctor of science in 1935.

Although born in Chicago, Ill., Dr. Eppelsheimer comes from a long line of New England engineers. His grandfather, Henry I. Snell, was a civil engineer with James B. Francis in the Merrimac canal development and was later chief engineer of the Atlantic works in Portsmouth during the Civil war. His father was instrumental in designing and building large steel-rolling plants in Ohio.

Dr. Eppelsheimer, a member of numerous scientific societies including the Harvard chapter of Sigma Xi, is also active in the United States military service, being commissioned as an army reserve officer. He is now attached as a first lieutenant in the ordnance reserve assigned to the Watertown (Mass.) arsenal.

IRC Conference to Discuss Europe

England's attitudes toward war and her present movements toward peace, made paramount by Premier Neville Chamberlain's activity in the Central European problem, and the development of London-Washington agreements, will be discussed in detail by one of Britain's foremost students of international relations—Watson O'Dell Pierce, in the annual conference of International Relations clubs to be held at the University of New Hampshire, December 9 and 10.

A former lecturer for the League of Nations Union, Mr. Pierce was last year chairman of the Dundee Peace conference. Constantly interested in world affairs since his first visit to Geneva in 1925, he was secretary of the first International Relations club to be organized in the British Isles under the auspices of the Carnegie Endowment at Manchester university.

In 1922-24, the lecturer attended the Royal College of Science in Dublin, and since then has studied at the Imperial College of Science, London; Manchester university; and Vienna university. From 1929 until 1934 he was engaged in research in psychology at Manchester. Since that time Mr. Pierce has been lecturer in psychology at St. Andrews university. He is author of "Aerial War", a book recently appearing in England.

The conference which Mr. Pierce will address embraces representatives from some 53 New England and southeastern Canadian universities and colleges.

RECENT EVENTS

by George Edson

The Congress of Industrial Organizations examined the needs of the entire country at its historic convention at Pittsburgh. It looked at the North, East and West, but it looked longest at the complicated problems of the South.

The crux of the stirring discussion on the South was this: the growth of unionism and liberalism throughout the country requires that the pace be kept up in the South and this, in turn, demands an uncompromising fight for the rights of the Negro people.

With this axiom agreed upon, the convention proceeded to outline the following program:

A joint organizing campaign by all those CIO unions which cover industries in the South.

A fight for the repeal of the Southern poll tax whereby large numbers of white workers and practically all Negroes are disfranchised.

A crusade against the "false conflicts" which employers try to create between Negro and white workers in the North as well as in the South, and a pledge of "uncompromising opposition to any form of discrimination, whether political or economic, based upon race, color, creed or nationality."

Enactment of legislation to remedy the frightful conditions described in the report on Economic Conditions in the South prepared by the President's National Emergency Council.

With all local CIO unions, particularly here in the North, winning wide support for this program, it will indeed mean the opening of a new era in the fight for labor's rights and for a true democracy in this country.

THE NEWMAN CLUB

The Newman Club of the University will be the host club at the twenty-fourth annual conference of the International Newman Club Federation next summer. The place of the meeting will be a summer resort in the White Mountains. It is expected that representatives from nearly one-hundred American Colleges and Universities will be present for the three-day conference. The decision to meet in New Hampshire was made at an executive meeting of the officers of the Federation held last Sunday at the University of Pennsylvania. Rev. J. Desmond O'Connor, Chaplain, and Major Donovan Swanton represented the local club at the meeting.

The Newman Club will present the Hon. Alvin A. Lucier, Esq., as guest speaker at its next regular meeting December 5 in the Commons Trophy room.

"The world is full of a number of things"
Peanuts, potato peelings, old shoe-strings,
Paper clips and pencils, cheese, and beer in cans,

Bunions and buttercups, birds and bees
But who in Hell wants any of these?

The poetry is still pouring in. We only regret we haven't space for a "superior" poem written by a Bates Bobcat. We'll give it to you next time.

Some freshmen take their work seriously. There is a young lady we know who refused a date for the Mil. Art. Ball because she had a history exam the next morning. Her average in the course is only ninety-one.

And we think professors who give exams on the morning after a big dance are lower than the amoeba.

We hear that Sweeny's anxious to see his name in this column. Well, here it is: Charles T. Sweeny. And we want our cut on that bet, Charlie.

Durham's to have a night-club! The Melting Pot where they serve soft drinks with hard names. Down at the Commons next Saturday night.

Our managing editor seemed to have the inside track. And Don is out of the running.

Congreve still keeps her rep for being the noisiest dorm on campus. A group of little freshmen had a tea party the other night, and nearly brought down the roof.

Coming down Main Street the other night we saw two children pushing each other in snowbanks. They stopped in front of Congreve, and we recognized Lil and Dick. Fine thing for a senior and a junior!

As far as we know there are no major upsets for Mil. Art. Although we hear there are to be bushels of imports. And we haven't met a girl yet who isn't dated up for a Saturday night housedance. It looks like a big week-end.

Sun Valley Skiing Pictures to be Shown

Winter sports enthusiasts will have an opportunity to see skiing as it is done in the west next Monday night in Murkland hall when a representative of the Union Pacific railway will show talking pictures of skiing in the Sun valley in Idaho.

The representative of Sun Valley is brought here through the efforts of the Department of Athletics. The showing will take place at 7:30 and will be open to the students free of charge.

Sun Valley is one of the leading winter sports resorts of the country and is vying with New York and New England as the ski center of the country.

Frosh Basketball Begins December 9

Schedules for freshman hockey and basketball at the University of New Hampshire were released today by Carl Lundholm, associate director of athletics.

Opening January 9, when they meet Tilton school on the Durham rink the Kitten puck chasers skate through an eight-game slate which calls for but one game away from home—Exeter academy.

The schedule: Jan. 9, Tilton school at Durham; Jan. 11, Hebron academy at Durham; Jan. 14, Bridgton academy at Durham; Jan. 16, Lawrence academy at Durham; Feb. 1, Exeter academy at Exeter; Feb. 4, Northeastern freshmen at Durham; Feb. 8, New Hampton academy at Durham; and Feb. 11, Melrose high school at Durham.

The freshman basketball card calls for 10 conflicts, opening with the M. I. T. freshmen here as a preliminary to the varsity game, January 9. One half of the schedule will be played at Durham.

The slate: Dec. 9, M.I.T. freshmen at Durham; Dec. 13, Boston university freshmen at Boston; Dec. 15, Concord Business school at Durham; Jan. 7, St. Anselm freshmen at Durham; Jan. 11, Exeter academy at Exeter; Jan. 13, Keene Normal school at Durham; Feb. 1, Tufts freshmen at Medford; Feb. 8, Bridgton academy at Durham; Feb. 11, Northeastern freshmen at Boston; and Feb. 15, Tilton school at Tilton.

Basketball Squad Has Few Veterans

Twenty-two men have reported to varsity basketball coach, George Sauer, as the 1938-39 basketball season gets underway. Three of these are lettermen and several of them are veterans of past seasons. The others are sophomores who are as yet untested in varsity competition.

The squad is headed by lettermen Walt Webb, Ted Plante, and Pierre Boy. Then there is Eli Powers, Mat Flaherty, Herb Adams, Louis Cryans, and Stan Smith. These men appear at the present time to be outstanding although there has been no actual team play yet. Most of the work has been conditioning so far, but more strenuous practice will begin next week in preparation for the M. I. T. game on December 9.

At the present time it is rather obvious that the squad will not be in condition for its opening game. This is due to the fact that practice was late in getting started and the loss of time due to the Thanksgiving vacation. Practice all this week has been conducted in the new cage.

Thurston Is Named As Varsity Hockey Coach

George Thurston, last year's freshman hockey coach, will succeed the retiring Ernest W. Christensen as mentor of the varsity hockey squad, it was announced this week by Carl Lundholm, acting director of athletics. Thurston, an Exeter resident, was one of the outstanding amateur hockey players in New England, during his puck-chasing career.

Recently a member of the Amesbury Mapleleaves, the new coach has been a member of some of the leading amateur teams in the East. In 1931, he played with Nashua, runner-up in the National Amateur Hockey tournament, in Chicago. When a member of the Boston Olympic sextet, in 1932, Thurston travelled around Europe with the club, on a 23 game exhibition tour.

Long Jaunts Face Varsity Pucksters

Stickmen Will Travel Over 2,000 Miles During Coming Winter Sports Season

Varsity hockey men will be the most traveled of all athletes at the University of New Hampshire this winter if total mileage on game trips is any criteria.

For, according to a schedule release made recently by Carl Lundholm, associate director of athletics, the puck chasers will cross some 2500 miles of northeastern highways and waters in completing their 16-game slate.

Longest trip facing the ice squad is to West Point, home of the United States Military academy. Traveling by bus to Boston, transferring to boat for New York city, and then again to bus to the Army rink, close to 1000 miles will be covered in the round trip. Other mileage counters come in a trip to Brunswick, Maine, a journey to Schenectady, N. Y. and Williamstown, Mass., a bus ride to Amherst, Mass., and five jaunts to Boston.

The remainder of the schedule, opening January 7 at Bowdoin, calls for games to be played at Durham.

The schedule:

Jan. 7—Bowdoin	Brunswick
10—Boston Univ.	Durham
12—M. I. T.	Boston
13—Middlebury	Durham
14—Mass. State.	Amherst
17—Northeastern	Boston

Feb. 2—St. Anselm	Durham

9—M. I. T.	Durham
11—Army	West Point

Freshmen Elect Gordon Captain

At a recent meeting of the freshman football squad, Richard "Flash" Gordon, regular fullback on this year's yearling eleven, was elected to the position of honorary captain of the Kitten team.

Gordon comes to the university from Deering high, of South Portland, Me., where he was active in a number of sports, holding down a regular berth on the football team. At the present time, he is a candidate for the freshman hockey sextet.

During the past season, the yearling captain performed brilliantly on the gridiron, usually filling the role of line plunger, and earned the admiration of his teammates for his hard, dependable play. He is expected to be a candidate for the varsity, next fall.

Coach Sweet Meets Track Candidates

The first meeting of candidates for freshman and varsity winter track was held in the cage, last night, with a sizeable group of men answering Coach Paul Sweet's call. Plans for the season were outlined after the candidates had filled out information blanks; actual work will begin this afternoon, at 4:00 P. M. when all men will draw equipment and begin conditioning work, on the board track.

In discussing the outlook for the season, Coach Sweet remarked that the usual weakness in jumping and weight events should be remedied this winter because of the improved facilities for these events, in the new field house. "I'm not satisfied with the number of candidates", he declared. "There should be twice as many boys out for the sport. With our improved facilities, we stand a fine chance of showing up well, this year, but only if all the boys in the school who might have any ability at all, come out and show what they can do. We're especially after new talent, boys who have never been out for track before, and all candidates will be given ample opportunity to prove their ability."
