Jackson Chairman of New Institute

Head of Zoology Dept. Resigns Present Post To Continue Research

Professor C. Floyd Jackson, dean of the college of liberal arts, will resign his duties on June 30 in order to accept the chairmanship of the newly formed biological institute made possible by the enlargement of Nesmith Hall.

This institute, authorized at the quarterly meeting of the board of trustees, will group together for research purposes the sciences of zoology, botany, bacteriology, entomology, animal and dairy husbandry, poultry husbandry, agronomy, horticulture, and forestry. Their autonomy as university departments will not be affected by the change.

Professor Jackson graduated from De Pauw University in 1905 and received his master's degree from Ohio State University in 1907. He came to New Hampshire in 1908 as an instructor in entomology, became assistant professor of zoology in 1910. He has headed the college of liberal arts since 1930.

Dean Jackson has in his thirty-five years of research earned a national reputation as a zoologist. He has been responsible for the growth of the university's zoology department and the formation of the Isles of Shoals Marine laboratory and for some time has been anxious to return to his studies.

Edward Y. Blewett is appointed to serve as acting dean of the liberal arts college. A graduate of the university with the class of 1926, Mr. Blewett has served as executive secretary and assistant to the president for the past ten years, and chairman of the committee on summer school since 1937. He will assume his new position on July first.

Fred Clark Sings in Student Recital

Bass - Baritone Scores Brilliant Success in Murkland Performance

by Priscilla Taylor

Like a hero in a novel, Fred Clark got up from a sick bed to sing at Murkland hall last night, and like the hero in the same novel he succeeded. Nervous at first and slightly strained, he finished his recital in a burst of triumph.

"Honor and Arms" from Handel's "Samson" was perhaps an unhappy choice for his first selection, but Mr. Clark rendered it adequately. He returned to the stage to sing a group of eighteenth century love songs, Purcell's "I Attempt from Love's Sickness to Fly", "Drink to Me Only with Thine Eyes" by Ben Jonson and "When Molly Smiles". The last two were especially fine as Mr. Clark grew more and more at ease upon the stage.

Three German songs, "Aufenthal" by Schubert, Fischer's drinking song, "Im Kuhlen Keller Sitz' Ich Hier" and "In Diesen Heil'gen Hallen" from "The Magic Flute", made up his third group. Probably the rollicking Fischer piece was preferred by the majority of the audience—and certainly Mr. Clark sang it well with all the spirit of the Rathskeller—but we liked Mozart's "In Diesen Heil'gen Hallen". Mr. Clark's pronunciation was fine—we have a great admiration for people who can speak German—and all in all his interpretation of the three selections was admirable.

Mr. Clark chose for his last group the laughing ballad "Three for Jack", Foster's haunting "I Dream of Jeanie", "Sylvia", by Oley Speaks and Josephine McGill's nostalgic "Duna". The audience was delighted with "Three

Class of 1940 Presents Annual Junior Prom

Foresters Inspect Woodworking Shops

The Utilization Class in Forestry made the usual instruction trip to woodworking plants in southern New Hampshire on Wednesday, April 26th. They first visited the woodheel and kiln drying plant, utilizing hardwood lumber, in Plaistow.

The next stop was at Fremont, where the class observed the manufacture of pails, barrels and tubs at the Spaulding-Frost Company. This plant is quite interesting, in that the raw material in the form of white pine logs arrives at one end of the mill and through the several operations is completed to the finished product.

The progressive type of dry kiln was examined at the Spaulding-Frost plant.

The class then visited a box factory in West Brentwood. Although this is not one of the large box companies of the state, the operations are easily observed, and are complete from beginning to the finished product.

Plans are being made to have this class take over the operations of the saw mill in the college woods. Each man will have an opportunity to perform each of the various steps under supervision of the regular crew.

It is believed that very few forestry departments in the country provide this type of instruction for the students.

New England Held Here on May 19, 20

Track Championships to Attract Best Athletes From All N. E. Colleges

For the first time in the long history of the organization, the New England Intercollegiate Amateur Athletic Association is holding its 53rd consecutive annual championships here at Durham on May 19th and 20th.

The organization was first created in 1886 for the purpose of promoting and protecting intercollegiate competition in track athletics among colleges which are members of the Association. Practically all of the New England colleges belong to the association except Harvard, Yale, and Dartmouth. The latter was one of the original members and won the first meet held in 1887, but later dropped its membership, being the only college to ever leave the organization.

Each spring a track meet is held at some one of the member colleges, Boston having been the most frequented place because of the large number of colleges nearby, M. I. T., Northeastern, Boston College, Boston University and Tufts. Under former conditions, it was felt that New Hampshire did not have adequate facilities for such a meet, but with the spaciousness of the new Lewis Fields, Durham can offer conditions at least as favorable as any other field in this part of the country.

This meet will bring together all of the leading athletes in New England, competing under strong competition and ideal conditions, providing the weather man is kind, so it will not be at all surprising if many records are shattered. Although it is too early in the season to make any predictions as to the winner, Maine, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, and Brown will certainly be among the leaders.

Special arrangements are under way for the handling of the meet, including the procuring of approximately 100 officials, about half of whom are supplied by the N.E.I.C.A.A.A. and the remainder by the University. Also for the first time in the 53 meets, special prices are being made for students of

Day Students Hold Informal in Smith

The Association of Women Day Students held an informal afternoon coffee at Smith Hall on Friday, April 20. Professor Thomas McGrail, who was a guest at the affair, entertained those present with dramatized recordings of Vachel Lindsay's "Congo", poems by Robert Frost and selections from Carl Sandburg's "American Songbag".

Miss Phipps and Barbara Parsons poured. Alice Colman, Katherine Carpenter, Dorothy Crouch and Betty Adams were chairmen of committees for this event.

The girls at Smith Hall together with the commuters held their spring semi-formal Saturday evening, April 21. Porter Kimball's orchestra furnished the music. The chaperones were Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Kichline and Mr. and Mrs. Albert F. Buffington.

Students to Visit Addison Gallery

The third in a series of University Fine Arts trips will be conducted to the Addison Art Gallery, Andover, Mass., Tuesday, May 2.

Students and faculty are invited to participate in the trip. A special bus will leave from in front of the Hamilton Smith Library at 12:45 P. M.

The total cost will be round trip transportation of $1.15. Tickets will be on sale at the University business office. For further particulars kindly apply to any of the members of the sub-committee whose names will be found below.

American Art

The Addison Art Gallery is one of the comparatively few museums which are exhibiting only American works of art.

The paintings are the most important of these objects and they include most, if not all, of the great names of American Art. Works by Homer, Eakins, Whistler, and others, show the more traditional forms of art in America, while comparatively unknown artists, who will later become famous or influential in America are represented by some of their best and most significant paintings.

For a long time, we have been indebted to France and Germany for the art of this country. The visit to the Addison Gallery will prove that we have passed this stage and that we are entering a new period of appreciation. The Addison Gallery, better than any other in New England, shows us that there can be an indigenous art here.

Tickets must be purchased by noon, Monday, May 1st.

President Engelhardt Presents Cup to Queen During Intermission

The long awaited, and much talked about 1940 Junior Prom will finally materialize tonight in the Women's gymnasium at 9 o'clock when the music of Charley Boulanger and his Georgia Melodians start the opening bar of their theme song, "Meet Me Tonight in My Dreams".

The committee met earlier in the week to complete final arrangements and according to word from John Hanlon, general chairman of the dance, the class of 1940 will have every right to be proud of their Junior Prom.

Dancing will be in order from 9 o'clock until the intermission about 11:30. During the intermission, President Fred Engelhardt will present the queen, Miss Frances McCrillis, with the cup which is symbolic of the honor which her classmates have bestowed on her. Misses Eleanor McNulty and Laura Simms will act as the aides.

Following this traditional ceremony, the intermission will be extended for a few minutes and the dancing will continue until 2:00 A. M. Refreshments will be served during the intermission. William Sanderson is the chairman in charge of refreshments.

N. H. Enters Tri-State Competition

Shirley Evans and John Hall Submit For Two Divisions

Entries to the tri-state writing contest, a competition held between the universities of Vermont, Maine and New Hampshire, have been selected, and are divided as usual into the three classes. In the essay division, the New Hampshire competitors are Shirley Evans, Ada Nudd, and Robert Nolan, all sophomores. Classed under "story" are the contributions of Shirley Evans, a sophomore, John Hall, and Sherwood Tuttle, both seniors. In the "verse" division are included poems of John Hall, Richard Dent, a freshman, and Priscilla Taylor, a sophomore.

The printer for the "Student Writer" this year will be the Granite State Press, of Manchester. The publication will contain 128 pages and will be similar in general to last year's book, although the cover, done in green with a black title-box, is an innovation.

The entries selected for the tri-state contest will also appear in the "Writer". The task of selection this year is made even more difficult than usual by the large number of would-be contributors.

An unusual type of competition is announced on the bulletin board near Dr. Towle's office, 119 Murkland. It is an undergraduate poetry competition run in connection with the World's Fair poetry day, May 26. This contest is sponsored by the Poetry Center, New York City; anyone interested should read the conditions and awards posted on the bulletin board.

Mother's Day Pageant Traces Evolution of Play in State

by Edith Blake

A panorama of colorful historical figures will work and play briefly according to the customs of their time and then move on to give place to succeeding generations and their amusements even as their prototypes did through the long years of New Hampshire's history, when the seventh annual Mothers' Day Pageant is presented on Saturday, May 13.

"New Hampshire—Queen", an original pageant written by Shirley Barker, a member of the class of 1934 and at present an assistant in the library, will depict the habits of play of New Hampshire residents from early colonial times to the present. The seven episodes of the pageant will begin with the crude but colorful life of the Indians in the 1600's, showing them weaving baskets, shaping arrowheads, and molding pottery, and then relaxing by ceremonial dances. The second episode shows the Puritans at their work, when a cock fight attracts their attention. The men immediately start to lay bets on the outcome of the fascinating but forbidden sport.

The next scene is laid in the 1750's and shows the stately minuet as the principal form of entertainment. The dancers of this scene are members of the Physical Education class in dancing. The fourth part of the pageant is a husking-bee in the 1800's. The outstanding feature in this episode is an old fashioned square dance, a version of the Virginia reel which was originated in Antrim, New Hampshire. This dance will be done by the class in American square dancing.

The following episode which takes place about 1870 is a singing school. Professor Robert Manton of the Music department will play the role of the singing master and the pupils will be drawn from the membership of the glee clubs. The songs which they will sing are typical of the age and of New Hampshire — "Oh, Suzanna", "Listen to the Mocking Bird", "Grandfather's Clock", and "Tenting Tonight" which was written by Walter Kitteridge of Reed's Ferry. The Gay Nineties is represented by bicycles-built-for-two, quadrilles, and square dances.

The final episode is in the year 1939 and is entitled "New Hampshire Youth Today". Members of Women's Physical Education classes will participate in 18 different sports. Major students will be seen in a modern dance and another dance depicting the new freedom of women will be given by the modern dancing class. The students will sing "On to Victory" and Dr. Richards will play his "New Hampshire Hymn".

Over this pageant Betty Brown will preside as queen of the 1939 May Day (Continued on page 4)

DURHAM, N. H., APRIL 28, 1939

KEEP OFF IT

One of the tritest editorials that can be written in a college newspaper is one dealing with that threadbare topic "Keep Off the Grass" and also to keep the campus clean. However trite the subject may be and regardless of the smirk that will be seen on every face when this is read, the fact remains that the students here take pretty poor care of the grounds around the college.

This is not in reference to the maintenance department of the university. They perform an excellent job doing the work that careless students make for them. It may be a useless admonition to urge the students not to throw papers and ice cream boxes about the campus, but a second thought will prompt you to deposit it in one of the waste cans placed about the buildings and the campus.

Already students are cutting across the grass between the buildings. This is the time of the spring when the grass needs to be cultivated, not worn away by many feet. It is only a few steps longer to walk on the walks, and heaven knows there are enough of them. You had to walk on the walks all winter when the snow covered the grass, why can't you continue?

We should be proud of our beautiful campus and should make all possible attempts to make it more so instead of marring its beauty by unsightly paths across the grass and papers and beer cans spread about the town.

GREETINGS, GALS

Next week it will be the Interscholastic trackmen we shall be welcoming. The following week we shall extend the greetings of The New Hampshire to the many mothers who will honor our campus with their presence. The following week the Intercollegiate track teams will be extended the greetings of the paper.

In this issue, however, it is a distinct pleasure to the fair guests who annually grace the campus in their spring glamour. The campus is theirs from this afternoon until Sunday afternoon. We sincerely hope their stay here will be pleasant and that they will carry away happy memories of an enjoyable evening and week-end.

WEATHER FORECAST

Friday, 8:30 A. M.

During most of the past week, a mass of cool air, originally of Polar origin but now much modified, has remained centered off the New England coast. This Polar Atlantic air has dominated the weather of the Atlantic seaboard for several days, resulting in cloudiness and low temperatures. Meanwhile, a large mass of tropical air from the Gulf of Mexico, which flowed north over the Mississippi Valley, bringing unseasonably high temperatures to cities in the mid-west, has been modified and is being displaced by a fresh body of polar air from farther west. Fresh, polar air is also advancing toward New England from Quebec province.

With these conditions, the prospect is for reasonably good weather during most of the week-end.

For Durham and vicinity: Slowly clearing tonight, but without much change in temperature. Moderate northeast winds, shifting to north during the night.

Saturday: Partly cloudy, but becoming generally fair, with slowly rising temperatures. Gentle, northerly winds during most of the day, becoming variable by night.

Sunday: Cloudy and warmer, with some possibility of showers during the day.

Temperatures will be above freezing throughout the week-end.

RECENT EVENTS

by George Edson

(Editor's Note: The following is the opinion of the author, and does not necessarily reflect the opinion of the editorial board.)

It is with a sense of disquiet that the American people learn Colonel Lindbergh has been recalled to active service in the U. S. Army to make a "survey" of America's air forces.

For it is no secret that Lindbergh, since he left the United States, has been consorting with circles where democracy is considered with contempt. The part which Lindbergh played in assisting Chamberlain in the Munich sell-out is known by everyone. For this service Lindbergh was personally decorated by Goering with a medal which Lindbergh still possesses.

The young Lindbergh who flew the Atlantic was trusted by the American people. In his personal misfortune, they sympathized with him; but he forfeited some of that sympathy when, instead of remaining in America to better it, he left this country in a manner which encouraged those hostile to this country to disparage its democratic institutions. But the Lindbergh who became a collaborator with Goering and Chamberlain to betray democracy has become an object of suspicion in the eyes of America.

With a pro-fascist clique in retired Army circles, typified by the outspoken proponent of fascism, General Moseley, the American people want to be sure of Col. Lindbergh's political stand. They are not sure now. They would welcome from Lindbergh some assurances that he is in the Army as a defender of democracy against fascism, not as a contributor to another Munich. Until they get such assurances, they may have cause for concern.

Berlin — The Reich music chamber last week ordered that all music which "stands in contradiction to the National Socialist will to Kultur" be listed as "undesirable and damaging".

Psychology Class Inspects Hospital

The university psychology classes, under the supervision of Professor Ekdahl, traveled by bus to the State Hospital for the Mental Deficient at Concord on Wednesday morning. The first part of the visit was devoted to an inspection of the clinic, and a tour of the institution was held during the afternoon. The object of the trip was to show students the method and procedure of an actual psychiatric clinic, and to give them an insight into the types of mental cases, their treatment, and their care.

The classes also hope to visit the Institution for the Feeble-Minded in Laconia very soon.

Wildcats Meet Huskies Saturday

Swaseymen Journey to Boston for Second Game; Bates Contest Called Off

Fresh from a decisive victory over Colby in the opening game of the current season, Coach Hank Swasey's diamond contingent will journey to Boston tomorrow to engage Northeastern University. Coach Herb Gallagher's Huskies, reputedly a hard-hitting aggregation, so far have met with mediocre success, losing to Boston College and Rhode Island State, and defeating American International and Colby. For those who place some stock in comparative statistics, Northeastern defeated Colby by a score of twenty-three to ten and pounded out a total of seventeen hits. Its batting punch, however, was somewhat counteracted due to nine miscues afield. Colby also succeeded in making nine hits off of three Husky hurlers, seeming to indicate that Northeastern does not possess too much pitching strength. The Boston team is for the most part composed of veterans. Alex Struziero, right-fielder, Foxy Flumere, keystone-sacker, and Jim Connolly, catcher, are three seasoned players who can really hit the old apple.

Because of the cold weather, yesterday's scheduled game with Bates was called off. The pitchers warmed up for a while in the cage, but no formal practice was held. Coach Swasey will field the same team that started against Colby, with the possible exception that Buck Jordan may be on the mound when the game gets under way. Although the contest will probably be close, there is a good chance for a second Wildcat victory.

Changes in Rules Reviewed by Scribe

by Maurice Epstein

The Major Leagues and, consequently the various Intercollegiate Leagues, have made a few changes in the rules and have added some others to those which were in effect last season. The sacrifice fly rule, which was struck off the arbiter's "good book" a few years ago, has been revived. It states that a batter shall be credited with a sacrifice hit and a run batted in in the event that a base-runner scored after his fly ball has been caught.

The following rules are total innovations:

(1) A pitcher is now permitted to keep one foot on the rubber and the other in front while making his delivery whereas this position was formerly permissible only with men on base.

(2) A pitcher is charged with an earned run if a base-runner scores due to any fault with his pitching, such as a base on balls, a wild pitch, or a balk.

(3) In the case of a fly ball to the outfield with no outs or one out and with runners on first and second or on first, second and third, the umpire has the right to judge whether the ball should be a routine put-out. This is to prevent the outfielders from intentionally dropping fly balls in order to get a double-play on the base-runners.

(4) If a base runner scores while the batter is hitting into a double play, the batter is not given credit for batting in a run.

CLARK RECITAL

for Jack", made tender and a little wistful by the sentimental "I Dream of Jeanie" and "Sylvia"—well, we have never liked the song, but certainly Mr. Clark sang it well. "Duna" with its recurrent longing for home was a fitting close for a well-balanced program.

But the audience wouldn't let him go. They called him back again and again to hear Masefield's "Sea Fever" and Robert Louis Stevenson's "Requiem". Finally as his very last selection he sang the old favorite, "From the Land of the Sky-blue Water".

Fred Clark's recital was a success in every way. We are proud of a fellow student who can offer such talent and a concert committee which can bring him to the attention of the student body.

Varsity Stickmen Play Two Contests

DuRie's Charges Face Union Today and Meet Williams on Saturday

Two games in two days face Coach Johnny DuRie's varsity lacrosse squad this week-end as they travel to Schenectady and Williamstown to tangle with Union today and Williams on Saturday. A squad of 20 men left Durham yesterday afternoon by bus and drove to Bennington, Vt., where they stayed over night. This morning the journey was resumed to the New York state city, the home of Union College. The game, which is not a league contest and hence not so important to the Wildcats was played this afternoon.

Tonight the members of the squad will stay at fraternity houses and in college dormitories. Tomorrow morning they will motor to Williamstown, Mass., where the New England League contest is scheduled for the afternoon.

Coach DuRie said that these two games would be the toughest on the schedule with the exception of the Dartmouth encounter. The Harvard contest will be hard but because it is played in Durham and not on the road it will not be so much of a strain on the players.

The hopes of coach and team suffered a severe set-back this week when it was learned that Sam Levine, veteran goalie, would not be able to play. Levine has to take a civil service examination and therefore won't be able to make the trip. Jack Wentzell will guard the New Hampshire goal in Sam's absence.

The starting lineup will probably be as follows: goal, Wentzell; in home, Otis; out home, Quinn; first attack, Piretti; second attack, Knox; center, Coutts; second defense, Ballou; first defense, Tinker; point, Glines; cover point, Brunel.

Other men making the trip will be, Gilgun, Randall, Kinion, Kizala, Costanzo, McGay, Liberty, Stevenson, Low.

Faculty Bearcats Face Bobtail Nine

Final arrangements having been made, the Blue Key Bobtails and the Faculty Bearcats are all ready for the umpires call to "play ball" tomorrow at 2 o'clock. The game will be played on the varsity diamond at Brackett Field.

The "old timers" held their final practice last night in the cage, and, although the first team has not been picked, the probable faculty twirlers will include Russ Hager and "Blondy" Sauer. Other faculty members slated to see action include "Doc" Towle, Prof. Floyd, Coach Conroy, "Deac" Martin, and Director Lundholm—if the faculty do not decide to wear shorts.

Practically every department in the university will be represented on the "Bearcats". Plenty of laughs and thrills are expected to be provided. The hopes for more such meetings between the faculty and students will depend upon the success of this event—let's see a good crowd. The game will start promptly at 2 o'clock.

Trackmen Beaten in Opener

Improved Freshmen Meet New Hampton

The freshman track team engages in its second dual meet of the season here on Saturday against New Hampton. Although defeated in their first meet with Exeter, the Kittens showed strength although handicapped by lack of practice. With another week of training and the experience of the Exeter meet behind them they should come back strong against the New Hampton team.

The meet will produce several battles, with Twomey, last year's interscholastic champion in the Prep school division of the 100 yard, 200 yard, 440 yard dash, vieing with Stacy Clark in the first two events and meeting with Cannell in the quarter. Carl Sippelle and Tom Beaudette will lead the New Hampshire field forces against the prep schoolers, of whom Carifeo is probably the most dangerous.

The Exeter meet showed weakness of the freshmen in such events as the pole vault, high jump, and hurdles, but with New Hampton not especially strong in these events, if the other New Hampshire men can do as well Saturday as in their first meet they should have no trouble in winning.

Cannell in the quarter, Mullen and Huntoon in the half, and Harkins and Rivers in the mile should give Clark plenty of support in the running events, while Wheeler will help Beaudette and Sippelle in the field events. The meet may uncover some new material that the Exeter meet failed to show.

This will be the first of a long series of home meets for the Kittens in which they meet Dartmouth frosh, Brown frosh, and St. John's.

Tennis Team Faces Bowdoin Tomorrow

The varsity tennis team will meet Bowdoin college in the second match of the current season on the Durham courts tomorrow afternoon. The contest which did not appear on the schedule was arranged only this week. With a 5 to 4 win over Maine marking the opening match, Coach John Conroy's racquet swingers will be striving for their second victory in two starts.

George "Red" Wilson, sophomore champion of the school, will be in action in singles as well as doubles matches as he has completely recovered from his knee operation. With Wilson in form the Wildcats will present a veteran squad for competition.

OUTING CLUB

The three members of the Blue Circle that are to represent the U. N. H. O. C. at the annual Intercollegiate Outing Club Association conference at Beach Pond, R. I., this week-end, April 28-30, were chosen at the last meeting of the Blue Circle. The delegates are: Priscilla Emery, John Nutter, Bill Jahoda. This will be the third conference that John Nutter has attended.

A new thing will be attempted when the Outing Club runs a trout fishing trip to the North country the week-end of May 6-7. It is hoped that enough Outing Club members will be interested to make this trip a success. "Doc" Marvel is keeping his eye on stream conditions up north, and it is hoped that the fishing conditions will warrant a successful trip.

The Department of Horsemanship is completing its arrangements, and it is expected that opportunities to ride horseback will soon be available.

Underwood Stars in Three Events, McLaughry Noses Out Flaherty in Hammer

Although sweeping the two mile and getting the first two places in the mile run, the Wildcat track team could not overcome the point hung up by Ken Clapp and John McLaughry in other events and lost to the powerful Brown team at Providence last Wednesday by the score of 83 1-3 to 52 2 - 3. Clapp, in leading his teammate Chaffee and Larry Stewart across the finish line in the 100, set a new Brown record, covering the distance in 9.9 seconds.

Ted Underwood was the outstanding star for New Hampshire, finishing second in the half, practically tying McCaffrey in the mile, and finishing in a three way tie for first in the two mile with Bishop and Kirk, although it was obvious that he could have won these last two events. Flaherty lost out in two duals by narrow margins, 1/4 in. being all that he lacked of beating McLaughry in the hammer, and losing the discus to Gosnell.

New Hampshire also shaped up well in the broad jump, Stewart easily getting a first and Mather grabbing off a third. Mike Pieciewicz finished a close second to Clapp in the low hurdles after starting off the afternoon with a first in the highs.

Brown picked up 46 points in the field events as compared to the Wildcat's 17, while the Wildcat runners tied the Bruins with 36. Jim Lufkin just missed a first in the javelin when his best throw lacked but 2 1/2 inches of Kapstein's mark. Currier picked up a third in this event.

Skid Abbott, although he has not been out as much as most of the others, turned in a creditable performance in the quarter, taking third in a 50.9 race.

The varsity now turns to preparing for its next meet with Northeastern here in Durham on May 6, in conjunction with the Interscholastics.

The summary:
 120 high hurdles — Won by Pieciewicz (NH); second, Clark (B); third, Francis H. Ayer (NH). Time — 16.5 sec.

AGGIE NOTES

Mr. Charles Ross, who graduated in the class of 1937, and who has been employed as a laboratory assistant in the Dairy Department, has accepted the position of acting as laboratory technician with the Manchester Dairy System. Mr. Ross has been working on a research problem dealing with a study of certain factors affecting the composition of milk under the guidance of Professor H. C. Moore. Charlie was known for his histrionic ability and many performances in Mask and Dagger productions.

"QUEST"

A new magazine is to appear shortly which is to be entitled "Quest". It is to be a review of the activities of the various State Experiment Stations and general science. For one of their early issues the editors have requested permission to use as an article a radio talk given on the regular University series by Dr. Stuart Dunn of the Botany Department. The title of the talk was "Growing Plants Without Soil".

Dr. Daggett is Co-Author of Special Chemistry Textbook

"Semi-Micro Qualitative Analysis"—by W. B. Meldrum, E. W. Florsdorf, and A. F. Daggett. So will read the title page of a chemical textbook to appear about the middle of May. One may recognize the last name as Albert F. Daggett, assistant professor of chemistry here at New Hampshire. Perhaps a few technology students will recognize his collaborators' names as well. Dr. Meldrum is professor of chemistry at Haverford college, and well-known as an author of analytical and physical chemistry texts; Dr. Florsdorf is of the department of medicine, school of bacteriology, at the University of Pennsylvania. It may be said safely that all three are campaigning to have a new type of qualitative analysis accepted in this country, a type of analysis that Prof. F. Feigl, of the University of Vienna, originated, and one that has come to the United States in just the last five years. New Hampshire has had it for four. Although Drs. Meldrum and Florsdorf have written other texts, these books dealt with the older method of analysis, and, in an effort to secure authoritative information for a book on the semi-micro technique, they contacted Dr. Daggett for their collaborator.

The need for a book of this type is at once evident when one realizes that the accuracy and rapidity which the new technique imparts to analysis is causing it to spread to many new colleges each year. But "semi-micro qual." is still a new thing, and here the first difficulties are encountered. That portion of the book dealing with laboratory procedure must be tested very carefully; much stricter checking is necessary than in most texts. And then the students' viewpoints must be considered and their advice taken seriously; for after all, the popularity of the book will depend largely on whether or not it is practical.

But the difficulties involved in the actual writing of the manuscript put these points in the shade. Collaboration of authors involves a shuttling back and forth of the material among all three. It is criticized, rewritten, changed, rephrased, deleted from and added to beyond all recognition until everyone is satisfied. Now the manuscript goes to the publisher—and to follow it on its subsequent journeys will be interesting, to say the least.

Ordinarily the publisher would call in an expert, well versed in technical textbooks when he receives the manuscript. This gentleman, known as a referee, would criticize and pass judgment upon the book. This procedure, usually employed in the case of new authors, was done away with for Dr. Daggett's book, as his co-author Meldrum is quite well known as a scientific writer.

The material now goes to the printer, and eventually is returned to the authors in the form of galley proofs, long sheets of paper that constitute the first draft of the coming book. These are proof-read carefully for defective type, bad alignment, typographical errors, and all the other slips that pass in the linotype, as well as for possible changes in data and subject matter. Then back go the galley proofs to the publisher, to re-appear in the form of page proofs, the next step to the bound volume. When these are scrutinized carefully, the master copy goes back for the last time, and the presses hum. About the middle of May, "Semi-Micro Qualitative Analysis" will make its appearance in bound form.

So students burning the midnight oil on the "qual" next year would do well to remember the law of conservation of energy. Just as much work went into the book by Messrs. Daggett, Meldrum and Florsdorf!

The annual Home Economics banquet will be held Thursday, May 4th, at 7 o'clock. All Home-Ec. girls are urged to come.

ECONOMICS CLUB

PI LAMBDA SIGMA

On Saturday, April 15, ten girls were initiated into Pi Lambda Sigma at the largest initiation ever held by the sorority and the first held off campus. Initiation was held in Manchester at the home of Miss Juliet LeBlanc.

The girls initiated were: Gladys Zulouff; Phyllis Betley, Ruth LeClair, Faith Williams, Berle Marcotte, Kazmiera Sopol, Josephine Kleczynska, Catherine Sullivan, Nancy Grimes, and Kathleen Beckingham.

Last Thursday the sorority held a pledge tea.

celebration. She will be accompanied by a court representing each of the other New England states, including Jeannette Tondreault of Maine, Constance Lee of Vermont, Elizabeth Moore of Massachusetts, Eleanor Adrian of Connecticut, and Susan Malsch of Rhode Island. Representing the spirits of work, play and leisure will be Betty Rowe, Anna Swenson, and Mildred Wood.

Mrs. Roy D. Hunter, wife of the president of the Board of Trustees, will be the guest of honor. The musical background will be taken from the works of New Hampshire composers including Edward MacDowell, Walter Kitteridge, John Holmes, Maurice Hoffman, Florence Cole and Robert Manton.

The pageant is the seventh annual one. The first was given in 1932 and a pageant has been given each year since under the direction of several sponsors. However, this year the pageant is being presented exclusively by the department of Physical Education for Women under the direction of Miss Margaret Hoban, assisted by Marian Beckwith, Nell Evans, and Mrs. Caroline Wooster. Miss Hoban is well qualified to direct a pageant as she has had experience in directing pageants in dramatic school and in colleges where she formerly taught.

cured by the committee under Burt Mitchell. They are of blue leather with the class numerals and the University seal stamped in the leather. Chaperones will be Dr. and Mrs. Oberlander and Mr. and Mrs. Justice. President and Mrs. Engelhardt will be invited guests. An invitation was extended to His Excellency Governor Francis P. Murphy and Mrs. Murphy but a previous engagement will make their attendance an impossibility.

Advance sales of tickets have been heavy, indicating a large attendance.

Saturday will be given over to the usual Spring sports. Tennis courts will be available for the students and their guests and many will go to nearby golf courses to indulge in the pasture pastime. A baseball game between Blue Key and the faculty has been arranged and a track meet between the freshman team and New Hampton School will complete the day's activities. Saturday evening will see the thirteen social fraternities on the campus holding their annual spring house dances. House guests will be found in another column.

"You Can't Take It With You" Was Awardee Pulitzer Prize

Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman's prize play, "You Can't Take It With You", which Mask and Dagger is presenting for its last play this year, has been one of the greatest Broadway hits in years. It was written and scheduled to be produced as one of the early presentations of the fall season of 1936. However, because of delays it was not taken to New York until near Christmas. Whatever the cause for delay was it certainly did the play no harm. When it finally came to Broadway it was a highly perfected comedy production.

The first performance was on December 14, 1936 and proved to be an overnight success. Within the next three months, seats were selling four months ahead. It was enacted 215 times on Broadway and was then taken on tour. Recently it was made into a motion picture and was an outstanding hit on the screen also. The play has not a bit of satire in it but reflects in its humor and vivaciousness the sparkling wit of the skillful collaborators. It was proclaimed by theatergoers as a super comical farce and was awarded the Pulitzer Prize for being the best stage production of 1936.

The co-authors, Mr. Hart and Mr. Kaufman have collaborated twice before to bring famous hits to Broadway three times in all. In 1930-31 Mr. Hart became known for the first time when his first play, "Once In A Lifetime", written with Mr. Kaufman was produced. Again in 1934-35, the two got together and wrote and produced "Merrily We Roll Along". Hart is more truly a playwright, while Kaufman is a playwright-director. His superb direction of "You Can't Take It With You" is considered one of the chief factors for its enormous success.

Whether it was due to the fact that people were tired of satires, dramas and heavy productions, or whether "You Can't Take It With You" was just one of those "can't miss" plays, it certainly was met with extreme favor everywhere it was played on the stage, and is now meeting with the same success as a screen production.

Mask and Dagger has been rehearsing the play for the past few weeks and is now entering the polishing-off stage. The acts which are taken individually each night, are being blocked and the play promises to be one of the best ever put on by the university society. There has been one substitution in the cast; that of George Olson for Robert Nolan in the part of the Russian, Kolentkoff. There is a possibility that the play will be taken to Keene for presentation as "Berkeley Square" was. "You Can't Take It With You" will be presented at Murkland on May 24, 25 and 26.
