

"Student Writer" Released May 11

Enlarged Publication Of Prose and Poetry Work of All Classes

The annual "Student Writer", student publication of prose and poetry, will be released on May 11 this year, with a change in format due to the great number of contributions received for this issue. Eight pages have been added, bringing the total number to 136 pages. Mr. Towle announced that there was so much material submitted that many fine stories and poems had to be rejected.

In the final copy as it will be sent to press, there will be 44 contributions, representing 31 contributors of all classes from graduates to the freshman class. There are 12 stories, two of which are concerned with campus life, three sketches, and a number of poems and lyrics. Light verse was quite popular this year, and next year may even equal the prose.

One of the features of the material submitted this year, is the great variety presented in the many different manuscripts, as can be seen by the titles of a few of the selections which are listed below.

Some of the features of the "Student Writer" this year, mentioned by Mr. Towle in an informal interview, are the story which received Honorable Mention in the "Atlantic Monthly" contest last year, "The Greeks", by Paul Martineau, the stories which were entered in the Tri-State contest this year, a prologue and first chapter of a college novel by Louis McDonough, and a psychological narrative on Edgar Allan Poe as he might have lived the last day of his life, "Perchance To Dream", by Ray Oakes. Among the poems are a long free-verse poem, "Balance", by John Hall, several lyrical pieces by Priscilla Taylor, and two poems by Shirley Evans.

Dr. Iddles Presents Liquid Air Lecture

Dr. Harold A. Iddles, assisted by Professor James A. Funkhouser, demonstrated the properties of liquid air to a large audience in James hall auditorium on Wednesday evening. Dr. Iddles reviewed the main points in the discovery of this substance and its uses and then proceeded to demonstrate the strange properties and actions of the liquid.

Liquid air is shipped to the college in steel tanks made like a thermos bottle so that as little heat as possible is conducted to the liquid from the outside. Owing to the continuous evaporation of the liquid the tanks cannot be sealed but are covered with a loose cap which allows the air to escape as it boils off.

Dr. Iddles first showed how a carnation frozen in liquid air will shatter as if it were glass. Treating the lowly "hot dog" in the same manner, it could be broken into pieces by light taps of a hammer. Liquid air of course creates pressure as it evaporates. This was shown by a column of mercury, and the vapors were also put to work to drive a toy locomotive.

By cooling a cigarette down to about -190 degrees C. in liquid air, the rate of combustion is greatly increased. Other examples of the oxidizing power of liquid air were shown by the burning of cotton and charcoal soaked in liquid air. A demonstration of the burning of aluminum under carefully arranged conditions concluded the interesting lecture.

Notice

Liberal Arts freshmen are urged to see their advisers before May 13 in order to report on the choice of a major and to discuss any other matters concerning next year's work.

Pan-Hellenic Dance

The annual Pan-Hellenic dance will be held on May 19, and will feature the music of the Green Collegians from Dartmouth. This dance will be open to those invited by members of sororities.

Dr. E. C. Sackett Fills Position of Registrar; Many Promotions Made

The recent meeting of the Board of Trustees, at which many new appointments and personnel changes were approved, will result in one of the most complete revisions of the university faculty to come about in several years. Several promotions were made, while other instructors will conclude their terms of service and new appointments made to fill the vacancies. The next few months will see major changes in many of the departments of the three schools and in the administrative staff. Oren V. Henderson, present registrar, will become Registrar Emeritus, and his position will be filled by Dr. Everett C. Sackett, associate registrar. J. C. Kendall, director of the Agricultural Extension Service, will give up the position to devote full time to the General Extension Service, and his position will be filled by Dean M. Gale Eastman, present vice-director. Mr. Henry B. Stevens will serve as assistant director of the extension service, although continuing his duties at the experiment station.

New Instructors Coming

Several of next year's instructors will be seeing our campus for the first time, with Rhodes scholar George K. Hartman coming from Brown to assume the duties of assistant professor of physics, and Bjornar W. Bergethon, head of music education at De Pauw, coming to New Hampshire to become assistant professor of music. The university band, glee clubs, and orchestra will all be under the supervision of Mr. Bergethon. Coming from the University of North Carolina, where he was a teaching fellow, William J. E. Crissey will join the department of psychology. Anthony F. Dougal, assistant athletic director at West Texas State College, will be a new instructor in physical education and athletics; the department of English will receive William M. Sattler, teaching fellow at the University of Illinois; and Lois E. Harrington, graduate assistant at the University of Vermont, will assist the department of home economics.

Two assistants, graduates of New Hampshire, will be promoted to the rank of instructors—Lloyd H. Perry, Wesleyan graduate and a graduate student at New Hampshire, and Robert T. Hart, in chemistry; and Robert E. Mace, former graduate assistant, in physics. Albion W. Warren, a senior, will become assistant in publicity and publications, while Margaret I. Rossell, of the class of 1934, will be assistant to the house director of Congreve hall. Miss Erma L. Andrews will become an assistant in zoology.

Woodruff and Towle Promoted

Outstanding among the several promotions made in the faculty were those of Dean Ruth J. Woodruff as associate professor of economics, and Dr. Carroll S. Towle as associate professor of English. Assistant professorships were awarded Dr. J. E. Batchelder in sociology, Harold I. Leavitt in physics, and James G. Conklin in entomology; Albert F. Buffington, John A. Floyd, and James T. Schoolcraft of the department of languages, were also awarded assistant professorships.

Several instructors who have divided their time between two departments will now devote full time to one. Lewis C. Swain, who has been serving as instructor in both music and forestry, will give his time to his forestry duties; Lashley G. Harvey, now teaching education and political science, will return to the department of government, and Perley F. Ayer will work as field assistant in general extension and specialist in rural organization.

Instructors Retire

As a result of provisions in the retirement system, by which an instructor continues his professorship although teaching only part time, Dr. George N. (Continued on page 4)

Miller Announces Music Room Rules

Mr. Marvin A. Miller, librarian, has announced the hours that the new rooms in the Art division will be opened to the public and the regulations governing their use. The rooms will be open from 9-12 A. M., 1:30-5:30, 7-9 P. M., Monday through Friday; 9-12 A. M. and 1:30-5:30 P. M. on Saturdays; and 2-6 P. M. on Sundays.

The large auditory may be reserved for large groups and special occasions only. Each of the two small rooms may be reserved one week in advance by groups of from one to five, but not by one person unless he represents a group and is signing for them. Any person may use a room that is not in use at the time of the request. Reservations will begin on the hour in the morning and on the half hour in the afternoon, except on Sunday afternoon when they will be on the hour.

Reserved rooms will be held ten minutes after the hour. Failure to keep an appointment may result in the loss of future privileges. However, reservations may be cancelled in advance by telephone. Records may be reserved jointly with the rooms. The number will be limited. No records will be loaned for outside use.

Instructions for using the card index were also announced. Trays will be labelled "Composers", "Titles", "Forms" and "Mediums", and it will be a simple matter to find a record.

Books on art and music will be in this division, and visitors are invited to browse among them freely. To be charged, books must be taken to the desk in the Fine Arts division, a slip filled out and presented at the Circulation desk downstairs.

These regulations are not permanent and are subject to change.

Notice

The social committee will consider the assigning of dates for formal dances, informals, and similar activities for 1939-1940 during the week of May 15. All organizations intending to petition for dates for next year are requested to file these petitions not later than May 13 at Miss Woodruff's office.

New Officers Inducted In Convo; Engelhardt Speaks on Leadership

Rachel Moore was inaugurated as the new president of the Association of Women Students at a convocation in Murkland last Wednesday afternoon. Following her induction into office by the retiring president, Barbara Shields, the new council, including Alice Colman, Alma Elliot, Ann Reder, Eleanor Adrian, Madeline Papachristos, Ruth LeClair, Barbara Burns, and Marie Donahue, was sworn in.

Preceding the inauguration of officers, President Engelhardt spoke to the association on the leadership of women.

"The level of society rises as the leadership of its women rises", said the President, in emphasizing the importance of the leadership of women in American life.

Mildred Bacon and Alice Colman reported on their trip to the New England conference of Student Government held at Massachusetts State. Before presenting her successor with the Mortar Board, the symbol of her office, Barbara Shields gave an account of her visit to various colleges while on her way to a national conference of Student Government at Kansas State. Miss Shields, who was absent from the campus for three weeks, told of the progress being made in student government at Cornell, Ohio state, Kansas state, University of Chicago, and Stephens college.

A short business meeting, presided over by the new president followed. The convocation closed with the singing of "Alma Mater".

Durham Welcomes Schoolboys for Interscholastics

Representatives from Five States Compete In Annual Track Meet

Headed by several of last year's champions and present record holders, some 1,000 secondary school athletes from the five states of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, and New Jersey start arriving this afternoon for the 27th annual New Hampshire Track and Field Championships here tomorrow.

Three New Hampshire record holders will be on hand to defend their titles when Don Burnham of Lebanon, king of the state middle-distance runners, Emerson Reed of Portsmouth, foremost hurdler, and Erkki Mackey of Towle high of Newport take their places in the meet. Burnham and Mackey both set new marks in their specialties last year, the former in the 880 and Mackey in the javelin. Reed tied the record in the 120 yard high hurdles set in 1927 by Lawrence of Manchester and equalled in 1931 by Easler of that same school. Reed also led the field in the state low hurdles in the 1938 meet.

Tow other present champions return to the competition in this division, Homer McMurry of Nashua and Russ Fontaine of Manchester Central, winners in the mile and high jump respectively.

HOW ABOUT IT?

It was a little over three months ago that we all heard and repeated to ourselves, the threadbare line: "Well, next semester it will be different. I'm really going to study and knock off some good marks for a change. I'm sick of barely passing subjects and I'm going to show the folks this semester that I can get a few honor grades."

Of course this sounded fine and prospects for the coming semester looked great at the time. But first of all Carnival came along and studying was postponed until after that. Shortly after Carnival, the Inter-scholastic basketball tournament halted the laudable ambitions of the hopeful student.

March was a bad month, because there was vacation at the end and everyone was looking forward to that for several weeks before, and looked back at it for several weeks after the return to Durham. Since vacation, everyone has complained of spring fever, although there has been little enough spring to curse anyone with that affliction.

Junior Prom week-end afforded the alibi seekers with an excuse for neglecting their obligations and stop studying. Each week-end from now on will see some event which will be a satisfactory excuse for them to refrain from studying. Three weeks from next Monday we will find exams upon us. Much wheezing and griping will take place at that time. Regrets will be heard that they didn't follow the plans of last February and study as they promised themselves at the outset of the semester.

Now is the time to start preparing for the finals which are to come. Hours of grinding will be prevented by studying now instead of at 4:00 o'clock some fine spring morning.

HI, KIDS

For the 27th year, the University of New Hampshire will play host to the scores of schoolboy track competitors this week-end. We are always glad to extend the greetings of the paper and the school to this group, because many times, future students and athletes of the University have been numbered among the visitors. We are proud of our University and of our campus. The more visitors we have the better known will be the University and the athletic plant which embodies the progressive spirit of the athletic department as well as the university as a whole. So it is with distinct pride and pleasure that in behalf of the University and The New Hampshire that we welcome the visitors.

WEATHER FORECAST

Friday, 8:30 A. M.

Modified air, mostly of polar origin, covers the eastern portion of the country this morning, and unsettled weather prevails very widely east of the Rockies. Light showers have occurred west of the Appalachians as well as in northern New England. No very extensive mass of polar air has yet made its appearance in Canada but there are some indications that warmer air from over the Gulf of Mexico will flow northward over the Atlantic Coast during the next few days.

As a result of these conditions, temperatures will be more seasonable in Durham and vicinity during the week-end, but there is a likelihood of considerable cloudiness and occasional light showers.

For Durham and vicinity: Partly cloudy tonight, with occasional showers. Warmer tonight than last night; light variable winds, mostly westerly.

Saturday: Partly cloudy and continued mild. Light showers during the morning are possible, but clearing weather will follow during the afternoon. Southwesterly winds.

Sunday: Generally fair and somewhat cooler, but with increasing cloudiness again toward evening.

Yacht Club Holds Annual Elections

The Yacht Club held its annual elections in the Commons Trophy room, Thursday night, bringing out a record attendance. The new officers of the club are as follows:

Commodore, Jack Skerry; Vice Commodore, Albert Hardy; Secretary, Janet Ford; Treasurer, Susan Malsch; Steward, Charles Burleigh; Fleet Captain, Frank Mullen; Publicity Committee, Chairman, Edward Davis, Priscilla Taylor, Martin Holt, William Gardner; Measurer, William Brown; Executive Committee, Barbara Ham, Betty Fisher, Millard Clark, Allan Campbell.

The following committees were appointed by the commodore—Race Committee: Chairman, Lois Richardson, Boyd Weston, Ellingwood McLane; Transportation Committee: Chairman, Lewis Spinney, Earline Brown, Alice Moran, Charles Cook.

From a look at the race schedule that the club has for the next three weeks, it is certain that the club is in for some fine sailing competition. This Sunday, May 7th, M. I. T. and Tufts come to Durham to race. On May 14 the Yacht Club goes to M. I. T. for the Intercollegiate Yacht Racing Association's Boston regatta cup race. The crews and skippers for this race will be the same as the ones that went to the regatta at Brown two weeks ago. This is necessary because of the tie for third place that the Yacht Club received at Brown, with Boston University. Instead of a sail-off for third place at the Brown race it was decided to have both New Hampshire and Boston University send the same crews to the race at M. I. T. The skippers for this race will be Frank Mullen and Jack Skerry. The crews will be Manton Spear and Charles Burleigh and Martin Holt, alternate. Practically every major college in the East will be represented at this race at M. I. T., including Brown, Navy, Tufts, Dartmouth, Boston University, Northeastern, Cornell, Holy Cross, Williams, Amherst, Yale, Harvard, and others. The New Hampshire Yacht Club will meet the stiffest competition at M.I.T. that it has encountered in its history. However, at the meeting Thursday night it was clear that skipper Skerry and Mullen were confident of pushing their bows over the finish line first. Also on May 14 there will be a race in Durham with Harvard. On May 21, Brown comes to Durham to race. The Yacht Club wishes to announce that all of the home races take place at the club's landing on the bay and that all visitors are welcome free of charge.

The final and most outstanding event of the year in the Yacht Club's program is the Isles of Shoals race. This is a race among the members of the club exclusively. Half of the club races out, being followed by the other half of the club in the club's power boat. On the return trip each half of the club swaps places, thus allowing every one to race and to also enjoy a ride in the power boat. The race will take place on Sunday, May 28.

RECENT EVENTS

by George Edson

What is happening in Bolivia? Information which has just come to this country via Paris reveals that the coup d'etat wherein Col. Busch seized power and set up a totalitarian dictatorship in Bolivia was inspired by Berlin.

Genevieve Tabouis, foreign commentator on the Paris newspaper, 'L'Oeuvre', exposed the fact that Capt. Fritz Wiedemann, Hitler's confidential agent now installed as "consul" in San Francisco, was behind the coup in Bolivia.

Mme. Tabouis, whose information came from official sources, stated that Nazi agents in Bolivia, disguised as "diplomatic representatives" working under Capt. Wiedemann, manipulated events to enable Busch to seize control.

The sensational news of Wiedemann's—that is, Hitler's—part in the Bolivian coup, came exactly two days after the Nazi chief, speaking before the German Reichstag, denied any Nazi war-like aims against the Western hemisphere.

President Roosevelt is polite. That's the only reason he didn't call Arthur Krock, head of the "New York Times" Washington Bureau, just a plain "liar". Instead, last Friday he told the press officially that Krock's signed report in the "Times" of an alleged plan of Roosevelt to "meet the dictators at sea" simply was "not true". Krock was at sea, not Roosevelt.

Was the President of the United States' repudiation of their Washington correspondent as a liar "news fit to print"? No. Careful reading of the "Times" failed to reveal this news anywhere in the paper. We wonder if the non-appearance of the President's rebuff has anything to do with the fact that Krock is a member of the "Times" board of editors?

Track Squad Meets Northeastern Team

Stewart, Lufkin, Abbott, Piecewicz and Flaherty Lead Wildcat Attack

The Wildcat track squad will be out to avenge the Brown defeat when they take on the Northeastern Huskies tomorrow at Lewis Fields immediately following the Interscholastic meet, at about 4:30. The two teams are very evenly matched and the winner may not be determined until the results of the last event are tabulated.

Stewart and Piecewicz are expected to get New Hampshire off to a good start in the 100 yard dash and the 120 high hurdles. Mather, Long, and Crooks may also pick up additional points in the dash with the "H" Ayer twin a strong contender in the hurdle. In the mile that follows, McCaffrey, Jennison, and Underwood should show their heels to Joe Gallant and Sam Drevitch of the Huskies.

Abbott and Elliott will have a close race with Sullivan and McDonough in the quarter. Underwood, Bishop, Kirk and Snowman will try their speed against Tebbetts and Kelley in the two mile race. Warren Jones leads the Wildcat entries in the 880 unless Ted Underwood decides to run this event also. Tabb is a strong contender in the 220 who is not in the shorter dash, and the other Ayer twin finds the low hurdles more to his liking.

Flaherty will have a chance to show his class in the hammer and discus, and he should get some good help gathering in the points in these events from Dick Neilson and Johnson. Lufkin and Currier look good to take the javelin, but New Hampshire is not as strong in the shot put, an event where the visitors are expected to excel. Other strong events for the Huskies are the pole vault and the high jump.

Stewart and Mather should give New Hampshire a decided advantage in the broad jump.

INTERSCHOLASTICS

New Hampton quarter miler, Marcorrelle, St. John's dash man, and Watson, Huntington School's star half-miler. At least two of last year's high school winners will be competing in the prep school class in the persons of Bob St. Pierre, former Brunswick broad jumper and now representing Maine Central Institute, and Joe Sebasteanski, with Portland in 1938 but now an outstanding hammer thrower for Seton Hall Prep of South Orange, New Jersey.

Ralph Strachan, South Portland hurdler, and John Turner, discus thrower from Portland are defenders of their titles in the Out of State division.

Portsmouth High, last year's champion, will defend its title against the following New Hampshire high schools—Concord, Dover, Franklin, Keene, Laconia, Lebanon, Manchester West, Manchester Central, Meredith, Milford, Nashua, Penacook, and Towle High of Newport. Concord, Nashua and Central high are expected to be the strongest contenders with Portsmouth for the title.

Very little is known about the competition in the other high school group which includes: Springfield, Vt.; Braintree, Mass.; Bellows Falls, Vt.; Brattleboro, Vt.; Brunswick, Me.; Lynn Classical, Mass.; Worcester Commerce Mass.; Deering High of Portland, Me.; Gloucester, Mass.; Gardner, Me.; Lawrence, Mass.; Kennebunk, Me.; Weymouth, Mass.; Waltham, Mass.; Thornton Academy, Lincoln, Me.; Melrose, Mass.; Milton, Mass.; Orono, Me.; Peabody, Mass.; So. Portland, Me.; Portland, Me.; Quincy, Mass.; No. Quincy, Mass.; and Scarboro, Me.

In the Prep school division the battle will be between St. John's, who will be after its seventh consecutive victory, and Seton Hall, a new entrant into the meet this year. Other schools entered are: Austin Cate Academy, Bridgton, Coburn Classical, Fryburg Academy, Governor Dummer Academy, Hebron, Huntington School, Kimball Union, Maine Central Institute, New Hamp-

Cubs Continue to Show Punch; Nip Andover Nine 8-7

Lefty Tighe and Fred Draper Hurl for Frosh; Bogrett Leading Hitter

The Wildkittens, upholding the tradition of 1939 New Hampshire baseball, journeyed to Andover Wednesday and defeated a powerful Andover nine by a score of eight to seven. This victory is definitely a feather in the hat of Coach Johnny Fabello's boys, since Andover had already beaten a strong Yale freshman team. Outhitting the prep school club eleven to nine, the boys showed unmistakable power. Johnny Bogrett was the leading Kitten, connecting for a double and two singles in five trips to the plate, while Wood and Alimi each came through with two singles.

The pitching chores were handled by Lefty Tighe and Fred Draper, who gave up nine hits between them. Each allowed three walks, while the former fanned four and the latter whiffed two. Andover scored six of their runs in the first four innings and were able to push across only one more counter in the remaining frames.

Next Wednesday the yearlings travel to Exeter to play our neighbors, who can be counted on to field a good team. With a continued show of the balance evidenced so far, the Cubs will provide stiff opposition for any team they will face and have a good chance to chalk up their third straight win against Exeter.

Broader Campus

by G. E. Meinelt

Acrobatic tumbling went on the air for the first time when University of California gymnasts performed for a television broadcast. (ACP)

Northeastern University has devised a novel way of disposing of lost and found articles. After the students are given a chance to claim their lost property during the year, it holds an annual student union auction. Textbooks, drawing instruments, and slide rules are kept on reserve for loaning purposes. It is usually a highly successful sale, scarfs are the best selling items, with a large number of "air-conditioned" hats proving a drug on the market.

Kitten Nine Wins Opening Encounter

Beats Austin Cate, 7-0 As All Runs Are Scored In Second Inning

Under a grey, overcast sky, Coach Johnny Fabello's freshman nine won a dull opening game from Austin Cate Academy last Monday afternoon by a score of 7-0. The game, played before a sparse gathering, was far from thrilling, the only redeeming feature being the pitching of Lefty Tighe and Fred Draper, Kitten twirlers. The former fanned eleven, walked one, and allowed two hits during his five-inning tenure on the mound, while the auburn-haired right-hander finished the game equally impressively, setting down six batters via the strike-out route and giving up one hit. His control was well nigh perfect as he wailed to give one base on balls.

The Kittens scored all their runs in the second inning when MacDonald led off with a sharp single to center. Johnny Bogrett then sent a double play ball down to the second baseman who picked it up and threw wildly to first enabling Johnny to reach second and advancing Mac to third. Richards tapped a slow roller down to third and the fielder could not decide what to do with the ball, making all hands safe. Then on Sughrue's banjo single to left center, MacDonald and Bogrett scored, and Richards moved to second. Both Sughrue and Richards advanced when Tighe reached first on an error. Thayer sent a grounder down to the visiting second sacker who once again committed a miscue. This error let Richards and Sughrue score and put Thayer on second and Tighe on third. Hall's walk followed by Connor's sacrifice fly enabled Lefty to score. The ninth batter of the Alimi, reached first on an error which scored Thayer and sent Hall to third. Alimi was erased on an attempted steal when the batter interfered with the catcher. MacDonald, batting for the second time in the inning, hit a pop single, scoring Hall. Bogrett then came through with a single, but Richards ended the carnage by grounding out to the shortstop.

No opinion can be formed regarding the merit of the yearling outfit in the light of the calibre of the opposition. Austin Cate was woefully weak in the field and at bat, looking as if this was the first time it had worked together as a unit. Forsaith, the visitor's pitcher was throwing them up nice and easy, but New Hampshire failed to score earned runs and, although connecting for eleven hits, left nine baserunners stranded. The fact that the yearlings scored in only one inning is also significant. The pitchers looked as if they had the goods, but proof of the ability of the freshmen in the other departments will have to wait until they have a chance to test their mettle against some more powerful rival.

Fenno, Austin-Cate catcher and clean-up hitter, led the visitors' attack. He made two of the three hits off the duo of freshmen pitchers.

Outing Club Organizes New Department of Horsemanship

by Hertzell Weinstat

And so "Boots and Saddle", the department of horsemanship of the Outing club, gets under way as the first attempt of its kind by a university organization. The newly secured saddle horses, from the Lynnwood Riding Stables, Lynn, are all that can be desired. These handsome mounts, four in number, have taken to the Durham scene with a will, and you'll see them every day, stamping briskly along the bridle paths. There's Dick, a sturdy little brown gelding, who has become the favorite of many of the riders. Then there's Tip-top, a big-bodied mount, built along the lines of a true hunter. He is lighter brown than Dick, and his gait is fast and as smooth as a rocking chair. Tom is smaller-bodied than Tip-top but every bit as sturdy and the most intelligent of the four. Finally, there's black-polished Tony, the patriarch of the lot.

At first glance the organization of a horseback riding club on campus seems comparatively simple, what with some of the finest riding trails in New England in our back yard. But for months on end, the further the project was studied, the more this "Sport of kings" faded into wishful thinking. Could we afford to support such an organization on campus, and if so, to what extent? These and other problems were mulled over by various committees, and as the weeks passed, certain plans were formulated: "Boots and Saddle", the department of horsemanship of the Outing club, would attempt to sponsor a riding club on campus, with horses, a professional riding master and five well-trained student riding masters, all seeking to establish the club on a safe and sane footing. But because of its late start, "Boots and Saddle" would run from May 1 to June 1 inclusively, and to all intents and purposes would take the form of an experiment towards a much larger and more nearly permanent club in the fall.

It goes without saying that the majority of New Hampshire students take to horseback riding. Many students have horses of their own, and with over a hundred miles of excellent riding paths within a ten-mile radius of Durham, the experiment is almost certain to be successful.

"Boots and Saddle" membership is open to all students, the faculty, and the townspeople, who wish to ride. One does not have to be a member of Outing club to ride "Boots and Saddle" horses. And there are no membership dues. Beginners receive their instruction individually, while mounted, and with very few exceptions, a riding master will accompany each rider or groups of riders over all "Boots and Saddle" trails. Finally, patrons of "Boots and Saddle" should use their own judgment as to what will be best in the matter of riding habits. Riding is the most important thing, and the riding club will permit dungarees or any other comfortable wear.

The Outing Club is seeking to fill a long-felt need on campus: an efficient and inexpensive riding club. Students, faculty, and townsfolk are urged to ride. After all, horseback is one of the most exciting and beneficial of all sports, and with superior trails, better-than-average horses, competent riding masters, and a more than reasonable price, we'll go over the top or bust. Anyway, why not follow George Ham's advice, mount a horse and see the spring country from the top of a swinging saddle.

Smith Chapel Traditionally Is A Campus Landmark

by Barbara Peterson

Less than a half-mile from the center of the campus, overlooking the slow, winding Oyster River is the place which a Kentucky gentleman and assistant to the almost fabulous Rothschilds chose for his final resting place. This spot is the small cemetery where Hamilton Smith, one of the University's greatest benefactors is buried, his grave marked by a simple stone cross. The chapel, which is beside it, is of granite, in Gothic style and contains windows of beautiful stained glass. Plaques beside the entrance dedicate the chapel to the memory of Hamilton Smith.

Mr. Smith was born in Louisville, Kentucky in 1840. He attended the old Durham academy and was graduated from Dartmouth college. After practicing law for several years, he became a mining engineer for the celebrated Rothschild brothers. While in their employ, Mr. Smith made a large fortune by opening up important gold mines in Alaska and South Africa, where Mr. Smith met and married Mrs. Alice Congreve, an English widow. They returned to this country and lived in Durham until Mr. Smith's death in 1900. Mrs. Smith's daughter, Mrs. Edith Onderdonk, is buried in the little cemetery beside the chapel with her mother and step-father.

The house in which the family lived was named "Red Tower", but is now painted bright yellow, is occupied by students and faculty, and is called the Tower Tavern. Behind the tavern is a large green building which supplied the Smiths with water. They also had their own electric light plant, dairy, and laundry. The carriages used by the family may still be seen in the old barn. The Smiths boasted a negro coachman as well as a footman and numerous other servants.

Mrs. Hamilton Smith died in 1906 and left about $10,000 for the women's dormitory, Smith Hall, while Mr.

Smith gave the same amount to the Valentine Smith scholarship fund. The estate is now owned by Mrs. Quinby of Rochester, N. Y., Mrs. Onderdonk's daughter. Recently an alumna of the university asked and received permission to be married in the chapel.

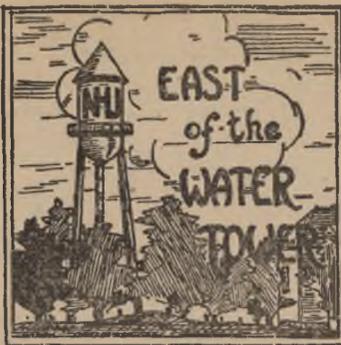

Each year Professor George R. Thomas takes his architecture classes to make sketches of the interior and exterior of the chapel. Last spring, while studying for exams, many students went to the chapel for the purpose, finding the peace and quiet conducive to concentration. The atmosphere of the chapel is so different that every New Hampshire student should visit it at some time in his college career.

Annual Tourist Service Meeting Held at Commons

The ninth annual spring meeting of the New Hampshire Tourist Service association was held on April 28 in the Commons Trophy room. The topic of discussion was "Serving the Public."

The meeting opened with a greeting by John C. Kendall, Director of the extension service. Among the speakers for the morning session were: Arthur Carpenter of Plymouth, speaking on "Meeting and Handling the Public"; Miss Daisy Deane Williamson, state home demonstration leader, telling of "Menus and Prices"; and Professor Raymond R. Starke, director of the department of hotel management here. Miss E. E. Ellis, extension nutritionist gave a demonstration of different table set-ups.

After luncheon the business meeting was held and then the group discussed "Signs and Business". Donald D. Tuttle, publicity director of the State Planning and Development Commission outlined the New Hampshire activities at the New York World's Fair.

"To err is human", so we will attempt to clear up a little mistake in the last issue. Connie Howard says she doesn't even know the guy we had her going to the prom with. Furthermore, she says she isn't versatile, just good-looking. The week's mystery — why didn't the physical education department add two more inches to the bottom of the fences running around the tennis courts? The balls end up in the brook. Speaking of tennis courts, the Lambda boys were oh, so industrious fixing their's up, and have been occupying it rather steadily since.

Messrs. Dunlap and Keniston were quietly listening to the opening ceremonies of the World's Fair on the radio last Sunday and suddenly decided they would like to go there. They raised four bucks between them and "mooched" on the traveling public all the way down. Our hats off to the geology prof who walks his class five miles and then dismissed it.

Why did Clayt Foss' girl wear dark glasses and visit the "health factory" twice during her stay in Durham? By the by, Mr. Foss' campus ex and Miss Belding took to B.B. in Boston last week-end so we hear.

There's a real Artie Shaw fan—Bob French attended Artie's recent engagements at Hartford and Westchester County. He is even thinking of quitting school and going out to California where the band leader is in the hospital. At a recent interview, Mr. French said that he was just a little dandruff trying to get ahead.

Wally Mather had better be careful about borrowing overcoats — anyway, Congrats! Wally.

A rumor has it that the Granite will be dedicated to our governor, Francis P. Murphy. We're proud to have him in this column.

Here are four good reasons why Mary Sarson is on "social pro"—1. Sitting on floor. 2. Feet on man's lap. 3. Getting in 7 minutes late. 4. Not considering Boston far enough away to sign out. Phil Harvey must be in the bucks—three orchids to his lady, Pearl Pierce. Be good, boys, there is a dance in Congreve the 27th, and one in Scott on the 12th. What's the matter with a local orchestra, Congremites? Barbara Shields has quite a good sized picture on her desk—come clean, Barb.

How does Prof. Hobby tactfully decide to be a chaperone? He was asked to chaperone only eight frats. "Rip" has a new excuse for cutting classes, "I had to wash some dishes, sir". Maestro Marty Holt has apparently deserted Stoneleigh for Scott Hall Theta Chi is slipping—quite a few of the lads went skiing last week-end instead.

One sure way to make the dirt column is to say that you don't want to. Ask Marjorie Holt if it works.

Millie Wood doesn't bother with just one or two or three fellows, she has four—Oh! well, there's safety in numbers. After all, the girls have dug up Memorial Field with their golfing—the Military Science department is going to use the field to give the regiment practice in fighting in battle-scarred fields. Where are the three small puppies saved from Morrill?

Why does Barbara Ames fight with a former boy friend over the telelink? Love is next to hate, they say. Here is a fellow who is itching to get his name in this column. Paul Sleeper Shaw, Esq.

We hear the Pan-Hell dance may be a Sadie Hawkins Party. The boys are all for it—but the fair sex, we wonder! I guess that's all the scum we can skim off for this issue.

Did you know that radio broadcasting stations from coast to coast are linked by more than 53,000 miles of special telephone circuits?

Even before the earliest days of broadcasting, Bell System engineers developed means of transmitting sounds of all kinds by wire. These have been improved constantly to transmit the extremely high and low sound frequencies of music and entertainment.

Just as years of telephone research stand back of today's special broadcasting circuits—so the research of today is helping to solve the communications problems of tomorrow. Another Bell System contribution to your daily life.
