Fall River Takes Forensic League Oratory Contest

Maine Schools Tie For First Place in Debates, Traip Academy Second

Fall River High school of Fall River, Mass., won the annual contest in debating and oratory sponsored by the National Forensic league which was held here Friday and Saturday. South Portland and Portland were the runners-up. Portland and South Portland tied for first and Traip academy of Kittery, Maine was second in the debate.

The high schools were competing for the New England championship and the winners in each class will go to the national finals in Berkeley, Calif., next month. The debates were under the direction of William Mahoney of Laconia, New Hampshire, chairman of the league. The preliminaries were held Friday and Saturday morning and the finals were held Saturday afternoon. Members of the faculty and students of debating and public speaking chosen by Edmund Cortez, assistant professor of English, were the judges for the debates.

Fiftieth Production of Mask and Dagger Will Open Tomorrow Night

George McCaffrey Chosen Scabbard and Blade Capt.

Scabbard and Blade, national honorary military fraternity, has announced its officers for the coming year. Elected as Captain was George McCaffrey, a member of Theta Kappa Phi, Student Council, Blue Key, and the track squad. Fred Winterbottom, a member of Theta Chi, Blue Key, and the football team, was elected first lieutenant, and Carl Randall was elected second lieutenant. Randall is a member of Lambda Chi Alpha and Blue Key, and is active on the hockey and lacrosse squads. The first sergeant's position will be filled by Burton Mitchell, who is affiliated with Alpha Tau Omega; he is a member of the Athletic Advisory Committee and both the football and track teams.

Swimming Pool Improved By Addition of Showers

A shower building, which will be twenty feet square, is now being constructed at the entrance to the swimming pool. As the building is planned in two sections, the men's will consist of six showers while the women's will have only four compartments. In another part of the building there will be an inspector's office. The showers and footbaths have been constructed at the suggestion of the State Board of Health in order to safeguard the health of the students using the pool.

University workmen are repairing a break in the wall which was caused by a frost heave during the winter. It is hoped that both the pool and the showers will be ready for summer swimming.

Richard Foote Plays Lead in Kaufman's "You Can't Take It With You"

Tomorrow night at 8:00 o'clock, Mask and Dagger's fiftieth production "You Can't Take It With You" will be presented in Murkland auditorium. The curtain will rise three nights this week and a fourth time during commencement week.

The play centers around the character, Grandpa Martin Vanderhof, played by the veteran Richard Foote. Other leading characters that will face the footlights are Doris LeClair as Penelope Sycamore, Anne Swenson as "Essie", Barbara Shields as "Alice", Leslie H. Goodnow as Tony Kirby, Walter Webster as Mr. Kirby, and Robert Olsen as Boris Kolenkhov.

RICHARD FOOTE

Kaufman's Most Laughable Comedy

This is Kaufman's most laughable comedy, even when Mr. Foote as Grandpa Vanderhof philosophizes about life. The plot of the play is centered around the life of twelve people, all living in one house, and doing exactly as they please. The idea that the author, Mr. Kaufman, attempts to get across to the audience is a philosophy of life; his idea is to relax and let life come to you: don't let life's troubles bother you.

The stage and technical staff has been experiencing some difficulty because of the late arrival of the materials for the set. The set was ready, however, for the publicity pictures that were taken by Professor Moran Sunday night at Murkland auditorium. The 700 odd articles that make up the properties for the play were also on hand for Mr. Moran's camera.

Firecrackers for the sound effects have been purchased and stored in an unknown place so that there will be enough on hand for the four performances. This was found necessary after a number of them disappeared and turned up around Congreve hall.

A large block of seats has been reserved by a group of Laconia High school students for tomorrow night. They are coming down in a body and expect to return home as soon as the performance is over.

Federal Officers Conduct Annual ROTC Inspection

Federal officers, detailed by Major-General James A. Woodruff of the first corps area, headquarters in Boston, inspected the undergraduate regiment of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps May 17th and 18th in a thorough examination of classroom and drill-field work. A complete check of the rifles and other governmental equipment at the university was made by the Ordnance Department at the same time. Results of the inspection will not be known until the inspecting officers make their reports.

Major William F. O'Donoghue, now stationed in Manchester with the reserves, inspected the infantry, while Major Lucas E. Schoonmake of the Coast Artillery Corps, Boston, inspected the artillery.

Colonel Edwin K. Smith, professor of military science and tactics, expressed himself as well pleased at the regiment's work, and remarked that everything went off "efficiently and smoothly". He felt that the work was superior to that of last year.

For the last seven years, the New Hampshire unit has received the rating of excellent, the highest rating in the R.O.T.C., denoted by a blue star worn on the right sleeve of the uniform.

Notice — Senior Class

There will be an important meeting of the senior class on Thursday, May 25, in James auditorium at 7:15 P. M. Mr. Auerbach will show pictures of last year's commencement exercises, and Professor Shimer will give the instruction for marching. Other class business will also be transacted.

Summer School Featured by Second Writers' Conference

Like the man who thinks that the whole universe collapses on the day of his death, most of us imagine Durham a dead and dusty little village after we leave in June. But the college has a summer life as productive as and even more interesting than its winter career. Librarians, school teachers, policemen, students from other colleges, labor leaders, publishers, authors and various other personages will populate Durham during the summer months.

Probably the most interesting of the many conferences scheduled for July and August is the second annual Writers' conference. Authors, although they may have cut their hair and come out of their garrets, are still a novelty among us. Lectures, small-group and round-table discussions, manuscript readings, publishing advice, private consultations and informal gatherings will feature the ten-day conference, and a staff of eight prominent poets, novelists, short story writers, reviewers, playwrights and literary agents will conduct the meetings.

Heading the program, under the leadership of Dr. Carroll S. Towle, director of the conference and associate professor of English, is Robert P. T.

Rhode Island Rams Retain Track Title Despite Opposition

Athletes Smash Three Records and Ties Three Other Existing Marks

The Rhode Island Ram successfully defended his cup, symbolic of the New England track and field championship, Saturday afternoon on Lewis Fields as they piled up 24½ points. Qualifying twelve men in the trials on Friday, the defending champions went on to nose out Brown, Holy Cross, and Boston College, all of whom were in the running until late in the day. Following these schools were Maine, Tufts, Williams, Bowdoin, Amherst, Northeastern, Connecticut State, New Hampshire, Wesleyan, Boston College, Bates, and M. I. T. in that order.

Association Records Fall

Three association records fell while three others were equalled in a day of keen competition. John McLaughry of Brown, superb hammer-thrower, broke the existing mark of 173 ft, 11½ inches, by tossing the iron ball over 175 feet. New Hampshire's Matt Flaherty did not offer the expected competition, as he placed fourth behind Johnson and Bennett, both of Maine.

Don Smith, the brilliant runner from the University of Maine, equalled to a fifth of a second the records of the one mile and 880 yard runs. His wonderful endurance, perfect stride, and final sprint brought him home in front on both occasions. His time of 4:18.6 in the mile equalled the twenty-nine year old mark, and the 1:54.4 for the half-mile also tied a record.

Dan Miles, of Northeastern, topped the high jump bar at six feet, four and one-half inches to smash another record. Ken Clapp was the outstanding performer of the day, as he won three events. In the 220-yard low hurdles, he set a new record, in the 220-yard dash he equalled the record, and also won the 100 yard dash.

by Donald A. Lawson

There are two alternatives open to a person who undertakes to review a book. He may say that everything is perfect, whether he thinks so or not, he may go to the other extreme and tear the work apart in a destructive manner, or he may present an unbiased appraisal of the volume as it appears to him. It is from this latter point of view that I shall undertake to review the 1940 "Granite", junior year-book of the University.

Taking the book as a whole, it compares favorably with preceding publications and is, without a doubt, far superior to last year's book. As may be expected, there are many places where this writer would question the quality of the work and the wisdom of the Editors' choices. However, one opinion is perhaps as good as another in such instances.

The outward appearance of the 1940 "Granite" is, to say the least, excellent. The double padded cover with modern silver lettering presents a distinguished and rich appearance which has been lacking at times in the past. The airplane views of the campus provide a very suitable backing for the covers, both front and rear, and give to the book a bit of uniqueness.

The frontispiece shows originality and good taste as do the many other campus views, while the vast space devoted to informal snaps of students at work and play is well filled with unique and characteristic poses. The dedication of the 1940 "Granite" has not followed the established precedent, for this year, the book is dedicated to Governor Francis P. Murphy. While there is no particular harm in this move, I question the wisdom and advisability of going off the campus to select a personage for this honor. There are several persons who have contributed to the University over a long period of time who might well receive this honor. The list of eligible faculty members has not, as yet, been exhausted by any means.

The formal photography of this year's book does not come up to the standards set in previous years, to this writer's way of thinking. However,

TRAINING

While most people nod their heads in agreement and say that the coach of the lacrosse team should be congratulated for his recent action in dropping four members of the team for breaking training rules and while everyone seems to agree that he was right in doing what he did, yet the problem which it presents is not so easily disposed of.

This particular case is ended inasmuch as the players turned in their uniforms and also because the season itself has ended. However, there are more seasons to come and more training rules will be broken. It follows then, that several members of the several teams will be subject to dismissal from the team or teams.

Now that the idea of dropping men has begun it should be followed. It is definitely discouraging for most of the members of a team to put forth an honest effort to complete a play only to have it fail because one member of the team didn't have that last push which would have come had that person been in training.

Every person who goes out for the athletic teams here at the University knows that there are training rules and that they have been drawn up with a purpose. If anyone is willing to sacrifice the time and effort to go out for any team they should at least have the willingness to complete the job and train for the sport.

Anything that is worth doing at all is worth doing well and the best example of this is an athletic team. Members of the teams should have enough spirit and will power to train faithfully during the season. If they did such unhappy incidents as occurred last week would be avoided.

SUMMER SCHOOL

There is little doubt but that Durham in the spring and summer is as beautiful as any place in New England. What, therefor could be more enjoyable than a summer school course here in Durham. I am referring of course to those who have no plans for the coming summer and who would like to do outside work or perhaps start work on an advanced degree.

New Hampshire's summer school has advanced tremendously in the past several years and many of the departments have become nationally famous. Outstanding lecturers and instructors from other institutions will be on the campus and an excellent recreational program has been arranged.

Students who enjoy a summer in the pleasant surroundings of Durham will profit immeasurably by a session in summer school here in Durham. This is not a sales campaign, but the summer school here at the University will soon be one of the outstanding features of the school and we who are here in Durham throughout the entire school year, should be the ones to profit the most from it.

Dr. Elmer Andrews Speaks on Labor

Highlighting a discussion of better living standards for workers, the federal government's wages and hours division administrator, Dr. Elmer Frank Andrews made his first appearance on the University of New Hampshire campus as he spoke before the second annual public conference on labor and industrial relations Saturday. Brought into the fold of federal administration following passage of the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938, Dr. Andrews was trained for his present job during four years under Frances Perkins when she was New York State industrial commissioner, and five more years in the job she left when she became secretary of labor. Termed as one of the ablest of Washington's extensive group of leaders, Dr. Andrews is given credit for his success with the Fair Standards act because of his ability to pick and manage an able staff and to work cooperatively but forcefully with his fellowmen. Brought up by middleclass parents in Manhattan, he was schooled to be a civil engineer.

Dr. Andrews heads a program of industrial leaders under the chairmanship of Professor Harry W. Smith of the economics department. Among labor administrators are John L. Barry, president of the New Hampshire Federation of Labor; Hon. Eugene Feed, Federal Housing Administrator of New Hampshire; Dr. Herman Feldman, professor of industrial relations at Dartmouth college; and Mrs. Elizabeth Elkins, minimum wage director for the New Hampshire Bureau of Labor.

Topics discussed were the need for better homes; services of the federal housing administration, better health for workers, and better standards for the low wage group.

If warm weather, or steam-heated bleachers don't happen soon, ye olde Dirte Column will have to go into the hands of the receiver, the waste basket.

This springtime is unprecedented for its dearth of dirt. However, the track team went to Mass. the last week-end and returned Saturday, P. M. Skid Abbott missed the bus and returned Monday night. Skid says it was an awfully long walk. Bill Haubrich is also holding out concerning said jaunt. Commons has an innovation, napkins with pictures of Betty Boop thereon, at least at Edna Riley's table, anyway.

A new chaperone has been added to the list up in the Dean's office, a typewriter. Pete Sampatacos found one quite helpful at his lakeshore party in Maine. Maybe it was the margin release.

Mrs. Dunning was heard to ask a sweet young thing if she knew what the ash-tray was for. The sweet young thing, Ruth Pollard, replied that it was something to put butts in if there was no floor. A little drama will bring out the pathos of the following event in the best way.

1st girl: Oh!

The End

Public enemy number 1, President Torrey is sporting a brand new police record. It's vagrancy this time and solitary confinement was the sentence.

This issue's problem: How can Audrey Pettingill make an interviewing superintendent think she's four feet eleven inches of bustling humanity?

From the amount of pandemonium let loose by some of these little girls wearing wooden shoes, that we observe, we suggest that little Audrey try a pair.

Warren Jones had to exercise a lot of control last week-end when a lot of girls his size were in town for the prize-speaking contest. He is in the cradle-snatching class. Here' a little ode that Harry Thyng composed to his car, Asthma. The tune is "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes".

They asked me how I knew
My poor Ford was thru
I quick-ly replied
Something there in-side
Rattles when I ride—and Smoke gets in your eyes.

Speaking of smoke, how about a little caution to prevent a little fire job going to town around here? We hear that Jean Adams caught Charlie Craig napping behind scenes the other night. Charlie was talking in his sleep, and happened to let Anne Swenson's name fall. Careful, Charlie.

Swanton Speaks to Skulls at Banquet

Senior Society Holds Annual Gathering; New Pledges Are Present

Following the tradition built up over many years, the Senior Skulls Society last Sunday night held their annual banquet at Simpsons'. Toastmaster for the evening was Major Donovan Swanton of the Military Science Department, who pointed out to the members the value of such honorary societies, and reminded them that by being members they had an unusual opportunity to foster school spirit and to contribute substantially to the advancement of the school and the benefit of the state. He also pointed out that experience in conducting such an organization afforded the members excellent preparation for life in our democratic country.

Carl Lundholm, acting director of athletics of the University and an alumnus of the society, congratulated the present members on the work they have done in the past and wished the new members well in their coming year. Mr. Lundholm also thanked the society for the efforts which have been made toward the establishment of a trophy to be awarded the winner of the annual football game between New Hampshire and Maine. It is hoped that the Skulls at New Hampshire and the Skulls at Maine will be able to present such an award.

Raymond Dunn, Creeley Buchanan and Victor Tyson spoke for the Junior members and thanked the seniors for the opportunity to carry on the traditions of the society and promised to do their utmost in furthering the traditions which have been set up this year.

The initiation of new members will take place tomorrow evening after the final business meeting of the year. The new officers and pledges are: President, Victor Tyson; Vice-President, Creeley Buchanan; Secretary, Frank Wright; Treasurer, Raymond Dunn; Thomas Johnson, John Hersey, Albert Roper, Eli Power, Richard Johnson and Herbert Keadin.

Senior officers and members are: President, Gordon Martin; Vice-President, Norman Haweeli; Secretary, Kenneth Huff; Treasurer, Roger Bruford; Arthur Bishop, Robert Sinclair, Fred Hillier, James Couser and Howard Platts.

Pooley's Orchestra Plays For Commencement Ball

The plans for the Commencement Ball, which will be held this year on the night of June 9th in the Commons, are rapidly nearing completion. The committee, headed by Roger Bruford and including Elizabeth Brown, Elizabeth Bremner, William Rivers, Philip Haskell, Arthur Little, and Joseph Doyle, has secured the services of Bob Pooley's orchestra.

Pooley and his band have just returned from an engagement at the Dashler-Wallick hotel in Columbus, Ohio, and are currently playing at the Bancroft Hotel in Worcester, Mass. Frosh Stickmen Bow to Dartmouth

The Kitten stickmen, finding much to their chagrin that the innocent looking green hills of Hanover were swarming with a ferocious group of young Indian tomahawk wielders, emerged Saturday on the short end of a 15-5 score. Coach Karazia's yearling outfit were especially plagued by Wilder, Dartmouth's first attack, who personally accounted for ten of the opponents' goals, an imposing total in any league. Showing more experience and finesse than the Kittens, the Big Green yearlings completely dominated the afternoon's proceedings. No New Hampshire freshman was able to score more than once.

The yearling outfit wound up its season with a .500 record of three wins against three defeats. Considering the fact that most of the squad never played lacrosse before this year, they have done well in breaking even and some of them should prove valuable varsity timber next year.

The summary:

Dartmouth Fr. 15, N. H. Fr. 5.

Dartmouth, '42: Hoch, Maxwell, g; Richards, p; Buckalew, Nehring, cp; Lamson, 1d; Holmes, Davis, Lapres, 2d; Riley, c; Melanson, Caproni, Farnolo, 2a; Wilder, Rugen, 1a; Bride, Caproni, oh; Gilpatrick, ih.

RECENT EVENTS

The British have issued a so-called "White Paper" for a "final solution of the Palestine question", which may soon be turned red with the blood of Arab and Jewish people.

To grasp the central features of Chamberlain's new "solution" for the Palestine issue one must connect events beginning with the Balfour promise of 1917 for "a Jewish national homeland in Palestine", up to the latest "appeasement" intrigues of the British.

Back in 1917 both Jews and Arabs were tricked by promise of a "homeland" and "Arab independence" concurrently and with a definite double-cross intent.

Mussolini was assisted by the British Tories to seize Ethiopia, to demand Tunisia and a share in the Suez Canal. Now how can Chamberlain help Italy in the Near East area? The White Paper says that perhaps in ten years the Arabs may get their independence. Meanwhile they are to remain in the British Empire. Jewish immigration is to be supervised. And the Arabs are to be divided.

Many of the Arabs see through Chamberlain's trickery. Others are sadly fooled. The Jews themselves are threatening violence, evidences of which have already taken place. This, of course will only intensify the whole problem and makes its solution much more difficult.

The city of Toronto, Canada, began Wednesday its boycott of German-made goods—from five cent pencils right up to imported automobile generators — with the sponsor claiming widespread public support of the ban. Toronto's City Council approved the boycott motion by a vote of 14 to 5 Monday after Alderman Donal Fleming urged it because of "Germany's newest act of aggression."

So now city purchasing agents are looking elsewhere for supplies previously imported from Germany. Fleming said his promotion of the ban had brought "hundreds of favorable comments" from people in Toronto.

Officials were disinclined to discuss what the ban entailed, or what amount of goods would be affected. It was understood, however, that city purchases of Nazi goods have amounted to several thousands of dollars each year previously. The ban applies to all German goods brought into Canada since April one.

"The boycott", Fleming said, "applies to everything from a five-cent Bavarian pencil to the German Bosch generators ordered for a fleet of 12 new police radio cruisers."

The boycott motion provides that the city shall not purchase any goods "manufactured, grown or produced in any part of the German Reich."

Fleming told the council that Germany "has already declared economic war against the British Empire and, therefore, the city should not use taxpayers' money to buy Nazi goods."

Some aldermen said they believed the boycott should be also directed "against other aggressors, namely Japan and Italy".

Varsity Lacrosse Squad Downed 13-5 by Dartmouth Team

Donald Otis Paces N. H. With Three Goals In Season's Last Contest

A ferocious Dartmouth Indian played host to the New Hampshire varsity lacrosse team Saturday afternoon and did a very thorough job by swamping Johnnie DuRie's charges 13-5. This victory clinched the conference title for the Big Green although it still must meet Tufts in a season finale. A large crowd of enthusiastic supporters was on hand to witness the massacre, but there was very little roughness although both teams were doing their utmost to win. Clean sportsmanship and fair play predominated throughout.

New Hampshire scored first early in the opening period but Dartmouth retaliated quickly with two goals. Thus, with the game less than two minutes old the score stood 3 to 2, in Dartmouth's favor. Every member of the Wildcat team played extremely well, but the expert stick-handling of the home team and its perfected team play was too much for the wearers of the Blue and White.

There was but one penalty called in the entire first half, that being against Lloyd Coutts of New Hampshire. In the second half a few more were detained in the penalty area.

Merriam of Dartmouth who last year was on the All-American lacrosse team was the outstanding performer for the opposing team. He was the high scorer of the day with four goals to his credit. Donald Otis was runner-up, as he placed the Wildcat stickmen with three counters. Coutts contributed the other two to bring the New Hampshire total to five.

This was the concluding contest on the seven-game schedule, and marked the end of Coach John DuRie's first year as mentor. Coaching many of the boys with whom he was playing last year, was an entirely different proposition but the youthful director did a commendable job. His squad went through a season of playing against some of the best lacrosse teams in the country and finished with two defeats and five victories. The victims were M.I.T., Tufts, Union, Harvard, and Stevens Tech, while Williams and Dartmouth were the flies in the ointment.

The encounter Saturday marked the last appearance of several of the varsity squad who are graduating in June. Those who will never again wear the colors of New Hampshire on the lacrosse field are: Sam Levine, Jim Liberty, Don Otis, Bill Quinn, Joe Tinker, and Gratton Stevenson. Three of the four players who were dropped because of infraction of training rules are also seniors.

The starting lineup for Saturday's game was: Levine (G), Brunel (P), Tinker (CP), Knox (2D), Glines (1D), Stevenson (C), Randall (1A), Quinn (2A), Coutts (OH), Otis (IH).

Tennis Team Wins Last Three Games

Beats Bates, Colby and Maine in Season of Five Wins, Two Defeats

Winning the last three games of its schedule on three successive days, the University tennis team defeated Bates, Colby and Maine on its recent trip and thus concluded its first season as a recognized sport with five victories and two set-backs. The Maine schools fell victim by 7-2, 5-4, and 6-3 respectively on last Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

John Conroy's charges were particularly successful in the singles matches but in the doubles they encountered more difficulty. Red Wilson, number one man on the squad, went through the series winning all his singles matches. In the doubles Bill Greer and Warren Davison played for New Hampshire on all three days to give some of the singles men a rest. They won against Colby but lost on the other two occasions.

Wildcats Set Back Mass. State, 4-0

Buck Jordan Pitches Five-Hit Game; Frank Leary Stars at Bat

In winning its sixth straight victory, the New Hampshire varsity baseball team once more had the benefit of superlative pitching and defeated Mass. State, 4-0. The game, played Friday at Amherst, represented another futile attempt on the part of the opposition to do something against the baffling slants of a Wildcat hurler. Buck Jordan was selected to handle the pitching duties and his mound work was truly remarkable. He limited the Stamen to five hits, struck out five, and gave up but one free ticket to first.

The Swaseymen, whose nine hits went for fourteen total bases, scored twice in the fourth, once in the fifth, and added their final tally in the last frame. Frank Leary, continuing the demonstration of real hitting ability shown in recent contests, gave further evidence of his battery prowess by connecting for a triple and two singles. Jack Hersey, who has finally begun to show some power with the willow, drove out a three base hit and a single in five trips to the plate.

Tomorrow the Wildcats play host to Coach Herb Gallagher's Northeastern nine. Although Coach Swasey's outfit defeated the Huskies by a decisive 12-4 score in their first meeting in Boston in the earlier part of the season, the Hub team has shown much improvement, handing the highly touted Rhode Island Rams a defeat, and should provide worthy competition for the Wildcats. Al Roper will probably toe the slab for New Hampshire.

RHODE ISLAND RAMS — TRACK

Earl Dugger, negro timber topper of Tufts, was another conspicuous star as he broke the tape in the highs and finished second to Clapp in the lows. Holy Cross made the largest number of points for any one school in a single event, as she swept first, second and third in the 440-yard event. Maschanica, Northeastern sprinter, led most of the way, but in the home stretch three purple shapes sped by him. O'Donnell was first, followed by Cunningham and Wallace.

New Hampshire Poor

The New Hampshire athletes were somewhat of a disappointment, as they finished poorly in most events. Larry Stewart, who qualified for three events on Friday, was out of the running after he pulled a muscle in his leg in a 100-yard dash final. He placed fourth in the broad jump. Underwood was outclassed in the two-mile, as he finished far back. Small but determined Warren Jones of the Wildcat squad furnished one of the surprises of the day when he came in a strong fourth in the mile run. "Jonesie" has been running the half mile all year, but was entered in the longer distance and did remarkably well.

Awards Made at Mendum Outing

Induction of the new Women's Athletic Association Board, and the awarding of numerals, "NH's", and pins were held at an outing at Mendum's pond on Thursday, May 18. The retiring president, Rachel Moore, was called upon by President Eleanor McNulty to give a short speech after the awards were given out, and Miss Evans also gave a short talk. The present W.A.A. board is made up of the following: president, Eleanor McNulty, succeeding Rachel Moore; vice-president, Lois Draper, succeeding Eleanore Adrian; secretary, Dorothy Page, succeeding Madeline Papachristos; treasurer, Helen Bartlett, who retains her old position; publicity manager, Winifred Kennedy, succeeding Barbara Chase. A new position has been created out of necessity this year, that of Rec manager, occupied by Ruth LeClair.

The following awards were given out at the meeting: "NH's" given for 1000 points: Anna Hemminway, Louise Fudela, Janet Henault, Doris LeClair, Louise Reddon and Helen Bartlett. Pins, awarded for 600 points: Muriel Chase, Eleanor McNulty, Elizabeth McCrone, Helen Snook, Mildred Bacon, Jeannette Gagnon and Ruth LeClair. Numerals, given for 200 points, to the following girls: Angeline Janetos, Rosetta West, Eleanore Adrian, Marie Donahue, Eleanor Gould, Rita the engraving is considered by many to be the finest ever to be seen in the "Granite". The sharpness and fine grain of the plates tends to strengthen the weak photography. The printing in places could have been run a slight bit heavier to good advantage, but as a general observation, it is a good job.

The compactness of the make-up is a very favorable characteristic of the book. Economy in space has filled in the yawning gaps of previous volumes and given more space for the many line drawings which add much to the attractiveness of the class pictorial sections. However, I cannot see the object in the name arrangement in the Junior class section. It is very confusing and not at all accepted practice, however the economy in space possibly accounts for this.

The brevity of the sports department write-ups and the wealth of cuts makes it a very 'readable' section. The lack of post mortems that usually are found in this section is a decided improvement.

In summation, it may be said, that the 1940 "Granite" is the result of much hard work and many long hours, and will serve as a memorial of campus life in years to come.

Broader Campus

by G. E. Meinelt

At DePaul University there appeared a clever two line job on the door of the administration office of the Museum of Natural History:

"Science will be just one-sixth dumber,
We're closing Saturdays for the Summer."

The person who wrote the (Soph?) English book must have been a chir-opodist . . . judging from the number of footnotes!

— Campion Courier.

It seems that a fair co-ed (on a blind date) had not done so well for herself, and thus:

Co-ed: "Would you like to take a nice long walk?"

He: (softly) "I'd love to."

Co-ed: "Well, don't let me detain you."

— The Setonian.

This is a new angle: "Absence makes the mark grow rounder."

— The Cormant.

A teacher was dictating a Latin theme: "Tell me, slave, where is thy horse?"
Freshman: "In my desk. I wasn't using it, honest mister!"

— De Paula.

Among the younger writers at the conference will be New Hampshire graduates — Shirley Barker, whose "Dark Hills Under" appeared while she was still in college, and George Abbe, author of "Voices in the Square", which drew much favorable attention from the critics last summer.

Serving as publishing advisor for conference members is William E. Harris, Boston newspaper critic and literary counsel. Mr. Harris was once a student under the late Professor George Pierce Baker in his "47 workshop" at Harvard university.

Special lectures during the two-week period will include John P. Marquand, a Pulitzer prize winner and author of "The Late George Apley" and "Wickford Point", and Gladys Hasty Carroll, whose "As the Earth Turns" reached the ranks of the best sellers. It is also expected that New England's Robert Frost will visit the campus during the conference.
