University Student is Seriously Injured in Auto Crash

Wm. Schmidt, Freshman, Suffers Fractured Skull; Dover Woman Is Killed

by Sumner Fellman

One woman was killed immediately and six other persons, including William A. Schmidt, a member of the freshman class at the University of New Hampshire, were sent to the Wentworth Hospital in Dover with serious injuries late Sunday night, as the result of an automobile accident involving three cars.

The list of those injured in the accident is as follows:

Mrs. Regina Wentworth, 39, of Dover, who was fatally injured.

William A. Schmidt, 18, a freshman at the University of New Hampshire, who suffered a compound fracture of the skull.

Alfred Morin, 20, of Newmarket, who received a broken leg.

Leo Leblanc, 19, of Newmarket, who suffered a fractured right arm.

Thomas Lebreque, 16, of Newmarket, who sustained minor injuries about the body.

Warren Campbell, 17, of Portsmouth, who was treated for cuts on the chest and head and possible internal injuries.

Mrs. Victoria Couillard, 42, of Topshfield, Mass., and Dover, N. H., who suffered a severe shaking-up and minor injuries.

Of the surviving six, all but Lebreque, whose injuries were found to be not serious, were required to remain in the hospital.

Heart Failure Cause of Death

The dead woman, Mrs. Regina Wentworth, died immediately of heart failure, according to the report of Forrest M. Keay, medical adviser of Strafford county, while Schmidt, the most seriously injured of the other six, suffered a compound fracture of the skull. His condition was described to "The New Hampshire" reporter early this morning as "exceedingly grave" by the hospital physician. Although he is resting more comfortably than

Campus Spotlight Shifts to Outing Club Horse Show

New Permanent Ring To Be Used for First Time; Outstanding Entries

The new permanent ring across from the tennis courts will be swarming with horses this coming Thursday, October 12, when the annual horse show, sponsored by the Outing Club and the department of Animal Husbandry, becomes the cynosure of all horse lovers. The show is scheduled to start at 1:00 P. M.

Many leading riding horses from all parts of New Hampshire and neighboring states have already been entered. Outstanding among the early entries is the national champion, "Wonderman," who will be exhibited by Dr. W. L. Orcutt of West Newbury, Mass. Last year, "Wonderman," took first prize in the natural tails class at Madison Square Garden. Besides this, he was a winner in the Morgan saddle division at the Eastern States Exposition. Dr. Orcutt will also exhibit three other Morgans, "Gayson," "Jayless" and "Ulywood."

Several Belgian horses will be ridden to the judges' stand by the Diamond Slash Stock farm of Pittsfield. These horses were brought to the United States at the outbreak of the war in Europe. Diamond Slash animals have appeared in the New Hampshire show for several years, carrying off many of the prizes.

Many Other Leading Entries

Other leading entries on the program are from Clark's Riding School of Bethlehem, Hooper's Riding School of Rye, Lynwood Riding School of Lynn, Mass.; Coakley's Riding School of Portsmouth; John Woodbury of Newburyport, Mass.; Mrs. L. E. Morrison

French Professors Write New History

Professors Clifford S. Parker and Paul L. Grigaut, of the modern languages department, are collaborating on a history of French civilization entitled "Initiation a la Culture Francais." The book is divided into three parts: one, the middle ages; two, the sixteenth, seventeenth and eighteenth centuries; three, the nineteenth century.

The first part has already been completed and is being used by French 5 in mimeographed form this fall. The second part will probably be completed and used later in the year, and it is expected that the last part will be ready for use in January. In addition to giving the culture and history of France, the book will contain chapters on the provinces, some of the outstanding persons and cities in French history, literature, art, sciences, and economic problems. It is expected that the book will be printed next spring.

An article by Professor Paul L. Grigaut, assistant professor of languages, appeared in the May, 1939, issue of the "French Review." It was entitled "Art and Literature," and its purpose was to indicate how the teaching of French literature could be enriched by the use of masterpieces of the various literary schools, such as classicism, romanticism, and realism.

President and Mrs. Englehardt Spend Summer in Europe

Many Places of Interest Visited During Travels In France and England

Seeking a needed rest after a busy year administering the affairs of the University, President Englehardt, with Mrs. Englehardt, sailed for Europe last June on a trip that carried them to England and France. Although he lived near or on the water much of his life, it was the President's first trip abroad.

At Plymouth, England, the Englehardts rented an automobile for three weeks and settled in the lake region near Cornwall where they found a peaceful, quiet spot reminiscent of New Hampshire. While resting there, the President did much hiking about the surrounding countryside.

During this stay in the lake region, motor trips were taken to many points of interest. Some of the places visited were Ann Hathaway's Cottage, Shakespeare's grave, Oxford and Cambridge universities, several old castles and venerable Westminster Abbey, which particularly impressed President Englehardt.

On these trips, many signs of England's preparation for war were noticed such as the development of landing fields, the building of hangars and many motor lorries traveling along the highways.

In London, the Englehardts found many of the famous places of Samuel Johnson's day replaced, in most instances, by modern buildings, with only inscriptions to mark the spot where they had stood. A few of the taverns however, which Johnson frequented are still there.

From England, President and Mrs. Englehardt flew to Paris where they spent two days before leaving for Havre to embark for home. In the capitol, they found the Parisians going normally about their everyday life showing none of the uneasiness that was in the air.

The Englehardts sailed directly to New York from Havre, the President returning immediately to the University to resume his duties. Mrs. Englehardt remained in New York for a few days to enjoy the World's Fair.

Classical Club

The Classical club is for faculty members and students who are not actively pursuing the classics, but who would like to maintain contact with them. The meetings usually consist of illustrated lectures on some phase of ancient life, or literature, and they are intended to enlarge the background of prospective teachers. The club, which meets at the home of Professor John S. Walsh, holds meetings only when there is a worthwhile program, rather than at regularly stated intervals. The first meeting of the year will be held soon.

Second Start of Season Sees Sauermen Soar to 15-6 Victory over Huskies

Showing a decided improvement in their second start of the season, Coach Sauer's fighting New Hampshire Wildcats carved out a 15-6 victory over the Huskies of Northeastern, Saturday afternoon at Lewis Field. Scoring touchdowns in the first and third periods and a field goal in the second, the New Hampshire team was never headed. Northeastern, always threatening, managed to push over a fourth down tally in the first period, after a goal line stand by the Wildcats. The whole New Hampshire team played heads-up ball throughout, the blocking being especially effective and a great deal better than the brand shown in the opener.

The Wildcats kicked off to commence things and Northeastern, deep in her own territory, kicked out on first down. Clark, at safety for New Hampshire, returned the ball ten yards to the Huskie 46. In seven plays, with Hall, Clark and Gordon carrying, the Wildcats marched to the three yard line, with Hall going off-tackle on the next play for a score. Matt Flaherty's boot for the extra point was wide. After an exchange of kicks Northeastern came right back with a drive of her own. Starting on a march from their own forty, the Huskies, with Caswell lopping 35 yards on a reverse to plant the pigskin within striking distance, banged down to the three. On fourth down, Struzziero lugged it over his left tackle for the lone Huskie tally. The attempted conversion by Tubbs failed. Another exchange of kicks found Northeastern in possession of the ball on New Hampshire's thirty-nine. Flaherty received Struzziero's fumble, on the thirty-one, after a rugged tackle by Piretti. The period ended as "Angel" Gordon slammed off 15 yards on a buck.

Wildcats Dominate Second Period

The second quarter was dominated by the Wildcats, as they rolled up three first downs while holding Northeastern to none. Featuring several well-executed reverses with fleet Stacey Clark carrying, New Hampshire threatened, but the Huskies held for downs as Parker's pass into the end zone was blocked by Barry. After Anderson covered Clark's fumble on the punt-out by Tubbs, the latter was again forced to boot when New Hampshire's line stymied the Huskie attack. Taking the ball on their thirty-five the Wildcats began to move. Burt Mitchell made his entrance into the game at this point and immediately snagged two down-the-alley passes from "Heavin' Harold" Hall for gains to the Northeastern thirteen. The Huskies braced and held Gordon to four yards in two tries. Coach Sauer sent in "Pepper" Martin to place-kick a field goal. "Pep" came through with an up-right splitter from the nineteen, with Hall holding. Martin then kicked-off over the Northeastern goal and the half ended on the next play as Ed Gould piled up Yetten on a reverse.

After the rest period, Flaherty kicked to Tubbs. The latter shoveled a lateral to Barry who fumbled when

by Stella Pinska

It is safe to say that everyone on campus either during the general reappraisal of the campus upon returning to school, or on the way to the all-classes Convo, has already viewed the completed Nesmith Hall, and has agreed upon its pleasing exterior.

But that isn't the half of it, as Dick Nellson would say; for inside, where the construction is fire-proof to a large extent, are to be found all kinds of brand-new and shiny equipment and apparatus, and a very adequate library for the departments housed here.

The Zoology department is happy over the larger office space provided and takes pride in its enormous new aquarium which will be used for a collection of salt water life. Zoology students find their work greatly facilitated by individual drawer space and real laboratory desks.

On the ground floor the Poultry department covers so much space that a loudspeaker system has been installed for departmental intercommunication. New vats for sterilizing the tubes in which the blood of chickens and cattle has been tested have also been installed here.

In the laboratories, special daylight lamps have replaced the old fixtures, providing for an improved field of vision. In addition to these lamps, the Bacteriology department boasts of a new refrigerator, an incubator which the laboratory assistant explained helps the germs to grow, and animal cages in which animals will be kept for inoculation and other experimental purposes.

An herbarium, consisting of expensive cases of a special design with a capacity for approximately 30,000 specimen, aids those interested in herbs to efficiently classify the dried specimen and also allows for anticipated expansion.

Deserving attention is the large spick and span lecture room with its good-looking folding doors which partition the room into two separate units when necessary.

The grounds around Nesmith will enhance the building when they are landscaped.

DURHAM, N. H., OCT. 10, 1939

CIVIC PRIDE

Here is another of those editorials which an editor finds himself writing from time to time. It certainly is trite to have to remind students of their obligations which should be obvious to them, but apparently they need such prodding, although this affects not only the students but the townspeople and faculty as well.

The gripe at present is the untidy and messy appearance of Durham's Main street. Now the fall is apt to be an untidy time of year, what with leaves falling and large crowds coming to Durham on football week-ends, leaving a trail of debris in their wake, but the fact remains that the street is pretty sloppy. It certainly is no credit to the town or the college for visitors to find Main street littered with newspapers, beer cans, and just plain waste-paper.

Now the student isn't entirely to blame for the paper and other waste being on the street. But inasmuch as the students outnumber the townspeople it is not unreasonable to assume that they are responsible for a greater portion of it. Since we are all at least temporarily citizens of Durham we should manifest a minimum of civic pride and try and keep the streets clean.

There is another matter along the same line which should be brought to the attention of the students and townspeople. That is the way in which the waste receptacles on the street have been misused. These cans were placed at supposedly strategic and helpful points by the local Lions' Club in cooperation with the town authorities. It is certainly a disgrace to the student body the way they have been stolen, burned and otherwise destroyed. No small amount of expense and trouble was taken to provide these as a convenience to the town. It is not only vandalism to destroy them but it shows a weak mind as well.

Instead of trying to keep the town and campus looking its best as much of the time as possible, the idea of some of these supposedly educated people is to make it as ugly and unattractive as possible. A fine group of citizens we have in the making.

Restored Lee Grist Mill has Genuine Colonial Machinery

Lovers of antiquity and early American history will welcome the announcement made by the Robert E. Lee Memorial Foundation, Inc., of the restoration of a 200-year-old Grist Mill with its "over-shot" water wheel and genuine wooden mill machinery of this early period.

This old mill, which was built by Richard Lee, progenitor of the Lees of Virginia, is located on the Potomac River, on the Lee family estate Stratford Hall, the house in which General Robert E. Lee was born. The mansion and out-buildings, the gardens and grounds, have been restored by the Robert E. Lee Memorial Foundation.

The restoration of the mill was made possible by the combined contributions of Senator and Mrs. Jesse H. Metcalf of Providence, Rhode Island, and General Mills, Inc., of Minneapolis, Minnesota. When Mr. James F. Bell, president, became interested in the restoration of this ancient mill he commissioned Professor B. W. Dedrick, consulting engineer at Pennsylvania State College, to investigate historical sources and conduct a careful research on old mills and mill machinery, and install the old equipment. Historical data proved that the original mill was built in or about 1740, but of this only the foundations and fragments of stone walls remained. Professor Dedrick, assisted by Mr. Alden Ackels of the General Mills Inc., spent a year searching remote corners of Virginia and surrounding states before discovering a set of mill machinery 200 years old that could be used in the restored mill at Stratford. This machinery was found at Linesboro, Maryland, and it is now installed in the mill at Stratford. The reconstruction plans for the mill were drawn by Mr. Fiske Kimball, internationally known architect, and the executions were conducted under the supervision of General B. F. Cheatnam, Resident Superintendent of Stratford Hall, the Colonial Estate.

This old Grist Mill on the Potomac River, with its picturesque surroundings, will be the scene of a distinguished gathering on October 19th, when members of the Robert E. Lee Memorial Foundation, and friends, will gather there for an informal dedication and another center of colonial plantation activity will be open to the public at this great American Shrine.

A mid-week post card would be appreciated by the folks at home. It's so easy to visualize your activities with pictures of dormitories, classroom buildings, and campus views before them.

University post cards and stationery are reasonably priced.

The University Bookstore

After a stroll around campus we noticed that at last the freshman boys have put their shy ways in their pockets and are now delving into the mysteries of the fairer sex's fatal charms. They have even gone so far as to monopolize the bleachers, formerly the exclusive property of upperclassmen. We give them one warning on the subject: look out for splinters!

Alma Elliott seems to be doing a bit of stepping out regardless of conditions in other parts.

Have you noticed how inseparable are Joan Sweet and her Louie?

Harold Hall and Dick Gordon are slated to be this week's heroes after their touchdowns for the sake of Alma Mater.

And wasn't it good to see Mitch kicking the old gong around after his forced vacation from the gridiron?

The unheralded visit of Brad Moore, Twinnie Ayer, and the inimitable Charlie Betz was quite a treat to Congreve. After all, it isn't every dorm that can have such charming gentlemen come in one door and out the other.

The cheers were on a somewhat different angle Saturday, what with the new Pep cheer and the newly inaugurated girl cheer leaders. They gave what you really call color to the scene. Dick Nelson showed his loss of partiality to Alpha Xi girls by taking an off-campus girl to the Victory Dance, one Barbara Lee by name.

Jan Gagnon came through in a burst of glory at the dance with past master Jim Conrad.

According to Marion Wendell, there is at least one freshman boy who is tops. If the one we saw her at the dance with was THE one, his initials are Freddie Saunders.

Dick Sughrue did a fine piece of manipulating when he persuaded Nancy Kinsman (via the charm method) to go with him Saturday night. After all of his pursuing for the past week we are glad that his efforts were rewarded. We certainly are!!

We are definitely at a loss for once. In the first place, we don't know who the lucky girl was that Ed Stannard was swinging around; and in the second place, we just don't understand how he manages all of those intricate dance steps.

Northeastern had its first break when the dance began, because didn't one of their star hockey players take Elly Doyle to the celebration? At the same time Carl Randall was free-lancing around on the outside track.

Al Lucia did a neat job at the dance. It would seem that he took one Miss Clark to the gym for a bit of prancing; he then proceeded to take her to Dover for a brief intermission; and to top off the end of a perfect evening he gave to Audrey Pierce the pleasure of his company on the home stretch.

Varsity Plodders Win Over Bobcats

The University of New Hampshire cross country team showed its heels to a visiting aggregation from Bates on Lewis Field Friday afternoon and swamped them 21-36. This was the first meet of the season for both teams, and Paul Sweet's charges came through in grand style as they swept the first three places and also sixth place.

Jack Kirk, veteran, fiery haired, hill-and-daler, paced the Wildcat forces as he covered the four and one-half mile course in the good time of twenty-four minutes and forty-three seconds. Ray Rivers, sophomore runner, who last year starred on the Kitten cross country and track teams, finished a strong second. Ted Underwood, track iron-man, placed third, and Paul Shaw was in sixth place.

The first Bates man to finish was Rollins, who was fourth, and he was followed by Drury in fifth place.

Other New Hampshire men to finish were: Mullen, Swasey, Huntoon, Jones, Kimball.

This week Coaches Sweet and Blood are preparing for this Saturday's contest with Maine at Orono. They are encouraged by the first victory but expect a tough battle with the Bears.

The summary: Won by Kirk (NH); second, Rivers (NH); third, Underwood (NH); fourth, Rollins (B); fifth, Drury (B); sixth, Shaw (NH); seventh, Downing (B); eighth, Coffin (B); ninth, Mullen (NH); tie for 10th between Swasey and Huntoon (NH); 12th, Jones (NH); 13th, Kimball (NH); 14th, Houston (B); 15th, Nickerson (B). Time—24 m. 43 s.

Cost Accountants Meet this Evening

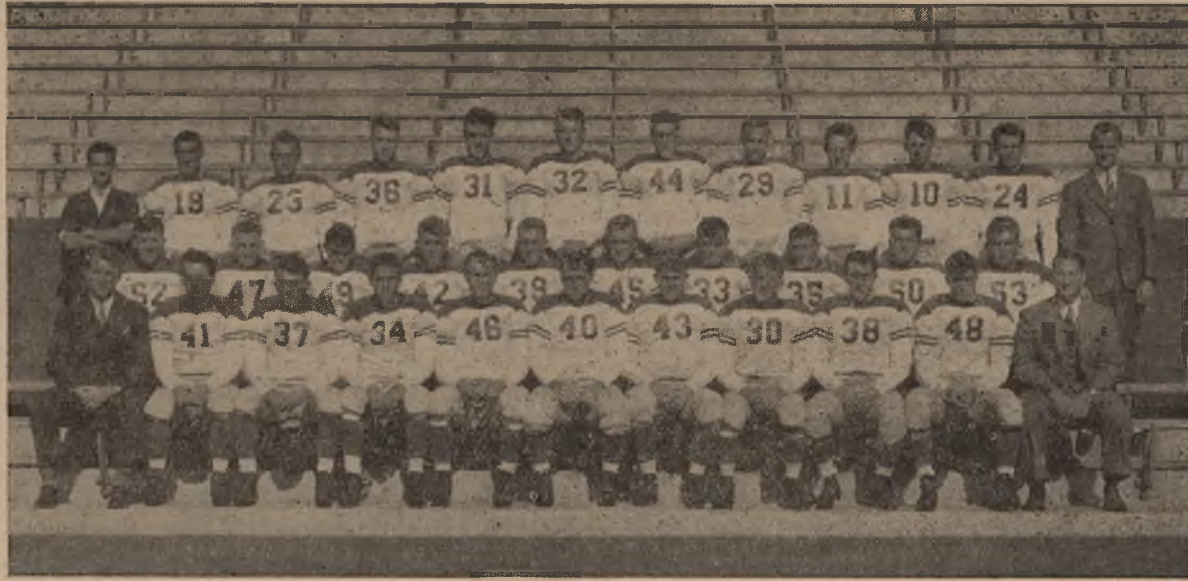

The newly organized New Hampshire branch of the National Association of Cost Accountants holds its second regular meeting at the Commons this evening.

Clinton W. Bennett of Boston will address the group of over fifty following the dinner served by the Commons. Mr. Bennett, an authority on inventory, will speak on "Inventory Control."

Students studying accounting under Professor Johnson, who is chairman of the program, are invited to the discussion which follows the address.

R. C. Magrath, treasurer of the University, is vice-president of the organization.

WILDCATS -- 1939 EDITION

Freshman Harriers Defeat Portsmouth

The freshman varsity and junior varsity cross country teams swept to a decisive victory over the runners of Portsmouth High Friday afternoon on the Durham course. The frosh varsity triumphed over the Portsmouth first stringers 19-36 and the Kitten Jayvees won out 25-35 over the Portsmouth junior varsity.

Wayne Lowry, New Hampshire ace, sailed over the two and a quarter mile route in record time of 13 minutes and 35 seconds. Lowry, running smoothly, finished with plenty to spare ahead of Boisvert of Portsmouth. Campbell of New Hampshire copped third place, followed by Perkins and Smith of the opposing team. Sixth, seventh and eighth places went to Gibbs, French and Joslin of the Kittens to clinch the meet for Coach Blood.

In the junior varsity contest Homer Hanlin of the freshmen led home the field in 14 minutes, 36 seconds. Fancy and Paulson took second and third respectively for New Hampshire with Harding and Pearson in sixth and seventh slots, completing the scoring for the frosh jayvees.

On the whole, the squad's performance was very satisfactory considering the fact that this was the initial meet and the boys are for the most part inexperienced in cross country running. Lowry's showing promises well for future races, as the New Jersey boy breezed in handily for the win.

Next Saturday the Kittens face the Concord High aggregation in a meet that should be fairly even. Concord took Portsmouth by as large a margin as did the Kittens, but another week of conditioning should find New Hampshire improved enough to offer a threat.

Twombly Added to Cast of "Our Town"

Professor Hennessey, director of the Mask and Dagger production "Our Town", announced Sunday evening that Robert Twombly has been cast in the role of the first dead man.

This play, a Pulitzer prize winner, should be of particular interest to residents of New Hampshire because the action takes place in this state, and some mention is made of the state university.

Rehearsals for the play are being held Monday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings.

Notice

There will be a meeting of the Home Economics club at the Craft Cottage Wednesday evening at 7:30. All girls enrolled in home economics are urged to attend. The meeting will be followed by a Hallowe'en party.

We can't say "We told you so", because we didn't dare prophesy as to the outcome of Saturday's game, but now that the smoke of battle has sufficiently cleared away we take pleasure in rejoicing. Congratulations to Coaches Sauer and Justice and to the football team for a splendid job! The student body has been doing its part in a very enthusiastic manner and now it should back the gridsters more than ever. Granted, Northeastern had a weak team, but the New Hampshire players showed so much improvement over last week that it certainly was encouraging.

In the line we liked the play of guards Onella and Piretti, center Ed Gould and ends Leary, Chase, Touart, and Lampson. Backs who deserve the Distinguished Service Cross are Gordon, Hall, Clark and Hanlon.

The three men who formed the center of the line proved to be a stone wall of defense. Time and time again the Huskies tried to penetrate the center of the line only to bounce back. The defensive play of Gordon and Hanlon was also a joy to behold as these men stopped the ambitious opponent ball carriers.

On offense it was the diminutive backfield speedsters from Massachusetts in the shape of Hall and Clark and the "Angel" of Portland, Maine, Dick Gordon. Stacey again thrilled the crowd by his spectacular running. Hall's running and passing was also of exceptional calibre. Gordon seems to be made to order for his line-battering job. His 190 pounds of heft charged through the opponent forward wall, sometimes carrying several opponents on his back.

Next Saturday it's Maine at Orono. There's plenty of work ahead before the Wildcats are ready to tangle with the Bears, so the boys are in for a big week of practice.

The band is bigger and better than ever! The songs and marches were played excellently (we don't claim to be music critics, but that's our humble opinion) and the marching and formations were executed with perfect precision. With the new uniforms, which are due by Homecoming, the band will be a real bunch of music-makers of whom we can be proud.

DANCING SCHOOL

There will be an informal opening Wednesday evening, October 11, 1939, of the Miss Judy's School of Dancing at the Grammar School auditorium, Durham, from 7 to 8 P.M. The school will be supervised by Miss Judy Grandmaison, a graduate of the Emma Bildeau Smith School of Portsmouth, N.H. An exhibition of various types of dancing will be given and Miss Grandmaison will meet parents and pupils to discuss the work to be taught. The public is cordially invited to attend.

tackled on the thirty-three. Onella recovered for New Hampshire. Here, the Wildcats were held up again as several incomplete passes coupled with a penalty stalled them, temporarily. Flaherty, Onella and Leary stopped Struzziero on two line thrusts and Tubbs kicked to Clark, who ran it back 16 yards to the Huskies' thirty-six. Gordon smashed the line hard on a delayed buck and pisted his way 17 yards. Hall went 13 more off-tackle for a first down on Northeastern's six yard line. Gordon went the rest of the way for New Hampshire's second touchdown, again on a delayed buck. Flaherty's kick was blocked. Matt kicked off to Beaton, Gordon and Hanlon making the tackle. Piretti, Touart, and Johnson gunned up three Huskie running plays and Tubbs punted. Hall received, and on a very smart play lateralled to Stacey Clark on the New Hampshire thirty. Clark ran wide along the sidelines, in a fancy broken-field exhibition, finally being shoved out on the Northeastern thirty. Gordon and Hall punched to the fifteen but the Huskies held and began a drive up to the Wildcat forty-six. Caswell stepped off substantial gains in this march as the third period ended.

Sauermen Stiffen on Goal Line

On the first play of the final stanza, Caswell raced 45 yards to the five. Fine defensive play by Poplawski, Piretti, Chase and Lampson kept the Huskies from scoring. The remainder of the period the pigskin see-sawed, with Northeastern being bottled up pretty well in their own territory. In the closing minutes, Hanlon intercepted a pass and the game ended with New Hampshire in possession of the ball.

It is difficult to single out individuals as the game was won by team-play rather than by the efforts of any one man. In the line the play of the guards — Piretti and Onella — was certainly outstanding. Both boys were all over the field, giving a bang-up performance all the way. Ed Gould, at center, played fine ball, also. The ends, Chase, Touart, Leary and Lampson turned in nice performances, spilling the interference and piling up the runner time and again. Wiry Steve Lampson did an especially good job. In the backfield, Hall ran and kicked well. His passes were hitting the target all afternoon, and his clever work aided the Wildcats no end. "Dick" Gordon, battering fullback, played excellently. The angelic one backed up the line beautifully, bucked the Huskie frontier viciously, and his blocks had plenty of jolt. Stacey Clark, shifty sophomore, teamed well with Hallie and was hard to bring down. Jack Hanlon, playing practically the whole game at quarter, handled the team in heady fashion, picking out Northeastern's weak points and mixing up the attack accordingly. In addition, Jack came up nicely from his halfback post on the defense for tackle after tackle.

Prof. Jackson Spends Summer in Biological Research Work

If you had been on Gaspé Peninsula at the mouth of the St. Lawrence last summer and had seen an American in hot pursuit of the fauna of southern Canada, you would probably have put him down as just another hunter. But the gentleman in question had no such intentions. He was Professor C. Floyd Jackson, ex-Dean of the College of Liberal Arts at the university, and now head of the newly-formed Biological Institute, and was in the north country to make a study of mammals to be used in scientific work this year.

Formerly, he tried a north woodsman's life, and paddled his canoe to southern Labrador for observation of the life and habits of mammals. Professor Jackson, with another companion, has traveled to this wild territory several times. In this land, barren of settlements for five hundred miles, he discovered several species of the mammal previously unknown to science. Through his efforts he has been able to bring to the University of New Hampshire the best collection of southern Labrador specimens in the United States, which he will place in his new Biological Institute in Nesmith Hall.

Professor Jackson came to the University of New Hampshire in 1908 as an instructor in entomology, and by 1917, he had already become professor of zoology. In 1930 he was appointed Dean of the College of Liberal Arts, which position he held until last year, when he resigned so that he might devote more of his time to the Biological Institute. He is a member of several societies and served for a time as president of the New Hampshire Academy of Science.

Grants are Given to N. H. Graduates

Three graduate scholarships of $150 each were awarded this week to two U.N.H. graduates and to one graduate of St. Anselm college. The two University graduates who are to receive the free tuition grants are Elizabeth M. Adams, '39, student of languages and literature, and Harry West, '35, enrolled in the biological science courses. Maurice W. Provost, graduate of St. Anselm, also taking a biological science course, was also named as a scholarship recipient.

The awarding of these scholarships was based on college academic achievement, financial need, and the results of competitive tests given to determine the mental ability of the applicants.

The total number of graduate scholarships awarded this year has been brought to 12 by this latest announcement.

Debate Squad Maps Vigorous Season

Dr. William M. Sattler, new director of debate, has announced plans for the present season. Both the freshman and varsity squads will concentrate on the questions Resolved: That the Federal Government should own and operate all railroads; and Resolved: That the present Neutrality Act should be amended.

An active program has been mapped out including a tournament at Dartmouth, to which varsity teams from Vermont and Middlebury have also been invited, and a series with Bates and Maine for the freshman squad. In addition, freshman teams will present debates for surrounding high schools.

ACCIDENT

when he was brought to the hospital Sunday night, and has regained consciousness, the nature of his injury makes the danger of infection very great, and the doctor was unwilling to make any definite statement regarding his chances for recovery.

The accident occurred on the Dover-Durham road, near Torr's Woods, on the outskirts of Dover, at about 11:00 P.M., Sunday. Campbell, owner and operator of the first car, had picked up Schmidt and the three Newmarket youths, who were hitchhiking, in Dover, and was driving towards Durham. Coming from the opposite direction was the second car, driven by Mrs. Couillard, who was accompanied by Mrs. Wentworth. Near Torr's Woods, the Campbell car was sideswiped by a third car, and swerved across the road, colliding head-on with the Couillard automobile. The third car sped away without stopping, and it was not until late Monday morning that the Dover and State Police succeeded in apprehending the driver. The alleged hit-and-run car, owned by J. E. Lariviere, of Dover, was operated by Hector Desjardin also of Dover.

Husband of Dead Woman in Hit-and-Run Car

By an ironic coincidence, Roland Wentworth, of Dover, husband of the dead woman, was riding in the car with Desjardin, when the accident occurred. Desjardin was taken into custody Monday morning by State Inspector Harold M. Foss and Assistant Marshal of Goffsville; Sara, Ramond and Scott Watson of Rochester; Upway Farms of Woodstock, Vt.; E. C. Fugerson of Pittsfield; Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Morrison of Goffsville; and Mrs. Earl Colliss of Sunapee.

Two new features will be added to the University show this year. These are a new class of intercollegiate riding, and an exhibition of horsemanship by Stoneleigh College for women.

The show will consist of 18 classes, the time schedule being as follows:

Time	Class	Description
1:00	1	Model Saddle Horses.
1:10	2	Draft Horse Exhibition.
1:20	3	Saddle Horses, 15-2 and over.
1:35	4	Adult Horsemanship.
1:50	5	Jumpers (3 1/2 feet).
2:00	6	Saddle Horses, under 15-2.
2:10	7	Saddle Ponies ("pet type"—ridden by children).
2:15	8	Student Horsemanship (U. of N. H. students only). Class may be divided.
2:25	9	Jumpers (knock down and out).
2:35	10	Pair Saddle Horses (combined ownership allowed).
2:45	11	Local Saddle Horses.
3:00	12	Intercollegiate Riding Competition.
3:15	13	Children's Riding Competition (under 16 yrs.) May be divided.
3:30	14	Stock Horses.
3:45	15	Road Hock.
4:00	16	Jumpers (4 feet).
4:15	17	Combination Horses.
4:30	18	Champion Saddle Horses.

The success of the horse show greatly depends upon satisfactory judging of the various classes, and exhibitors will be pleased to know that Mr. and Mrs. J. Loring Brooks, Jr., of Wilbraham, Mass., will again officiate.

The new horse show ring should prove more satisfactory than those used in past years with new rail and a smoother area. It is also larger than previous rings. This ring was built with funds furnished by the State Racing Commission for the purpose of exercising the stallions but it also functions ideally for the annual university show.

John Emerson, Dover, N. H., will be ring master. Mr. Emerson has been an untiring worker toward the success of all university horse shows.

Trophies Donated by Many Groups

Trophies for this show were donated by the Outing Club, the various classes, campus organizations, and local merchants. A list of the local merchants giving trophies is as follows: The College Shop, College Pharmacy, Grant's, The Wildcat, Rand's, and the Durham Laundry.

The proceeds of this show are divided equally among the Outing Club and the Animal Husbandry Department. The funds received by the Animal Husbandry Department are used to provide transportation for students entering cattle judging contests.
