Alpha Xi Pledges Seventeen Co-eds; Leads Sororities

Alpha Chi Omega Follows With Fifteen in Annual Fall Pledging Exercises

Alpha Xi Delta heads the list of sororities by pledging seventeen girls. Alpha Chi Omega followed closely with fifteen pledges; Theta Upsilon received thirteen; and Chi Omega, eleven. Kappa Delta, Pi Lambda Sigma, and Phi Mu received six, five, and three, respectively.

Though the quota for each sorority was set at 21 this year by Pan-Hellenic, all the groups had previously decided to hold a few places open for possible pledging in the spring of those girls who were unable to "go sorority" at this time.

The new pledges are as follows: Alpha Xi Delta: Barbara Lewando, Judith Austin, Alice Cowgill, Barbara Ellis, Margaret Hine, Jeanne Henry, Hope Leslie, Ruth Linscott, Kathleen Shinney, Rosamond Shortell, Sarah Van Waters, Natalie Weeks, Beatrice Grant, Clara Knight, Olivia Haley, Jean Bevan and Elizabeth Schmeidgen.

Alpha Chi Omega: Mary Vannah, Norma Prohaska, Barbara O'Neil, Constance Ester, Patricia Dowd, Betty Baker, Dorothy Keeffe, Betty Lucey, Ruth Lawson, Alice Whipple, Marjorie Head, Maxine Libby, Peggy Miller, Marilyn Whitcomb, and Ruth Grubey.

Theta Upsilon: Doris Ferguson, Vivian Smith, Patricia Carey, Dorothy Parker, Joan Smith, Mary-Louise Frazer, Beverly-Ann Blake, Mary Small, Shirley Leighton, Helen Pierce, Doris Dearborn, Marjorie Felker, and Dorothy Trow.

Kappa Delta: Esther Marden, Shirley Lyford, Alice Garland, Jeannette Peterson, Madeline Farmer, and Thelma Petersen.

Pi Lambda Sigma: Thelma Jordan, Helen Ann Kubicha, Clara Langley, Alyce Lawless, Ann Elizabeth O'Neil.

Phi Mu: Olga Yeaton, Edith Fisher, and Lorna Wakefield.

Defense Committees Meet; Discuss Foreign War Aid

A joint meeting of the Rockingham and Strafford defense committees was held at the Tower Tavern on November 27. Among those present were Professor Earl Barrett and Dr. Lewis Perry of Exeter Academy; Reverend Oluf Tandberg of Dover; Paul G. Richter, secretary of the New Hampshire state committee; and Professor Harry W. Smith of Durham, who presided.

The main topic of discussion was the question of aid to Britain and China. It was announced that a group of Exeter students had formed a defense organization, and it was voted by the Durham meeting to include all such student groups in the larger organization.

Library Exhibits Housing Projects

The art division of the Hamilton Smith Library is featuring a display of low-cost housing projects in Europe and America. The exhibit, which is being circulated by the Museum of Modern Art in New York, will remain in the library until December 16.

Besides an exhibit of wooden housing in America, the new display emphasizes the good use of sites, traffic-free "superblocks," recreation space, and planning for sun and wind. The physical nature of modern housing, rather than the economic and social aspects, is especially stressed.

Simple flexible design is demonstrated in photographs of 12 projects, six of which are from Europe and six from America. Included in these are the Chandler, Arizona, adobe settlement; the Pontine Marsh, Italy, housing; a PWA village in the Virgin Islands; the Camden, New Jersey, project; and a typical German plan, Siemenstadt. These projects indicate cooperative "white collar" housing, slum district improvement, and "a new and more human pattern for industrial life."

Annual Christmas Convocation Held

Madrigal Singers, Harp Recital, and Hungarian Dance Delight Audience

The Association of Women Students held their annual Christmas Convocation Wednesday, December 4, at four o'clock in Murkland Auditorium. The first part of convocation was devoted to a business meeting for the purpose of electing a representative from the women commuters to Student Government. This position was formerly held by Marie Donahue, who is now living on campus. Marie will still remain on the board, however.

Names submitted to the association for voting were Teresa Foley, Marguerite Olson, Iris Valley, and Grace McDaniels. Iris Valley was elected.

Next on the program was a graceful Hungarian dance executed by Dorothea Bancroft, who was dressed in a colorful Hungarian costume. She was accompanied on the piano by Doris Trafton.

Martha Boutwell, from the Westminster House in Boston, gave six selections on the harp. They were, in the order given: "Impromptu," "Chapel Bells," a special Spanish selection, "Prelude," "By the Side of the River," and "The Zephyrs."

The program concluded with four songs by the University of New Hampshire Madrigal Singers. They were: "Midwinter," by Holst; "Bring a Torch, Jeannette, Isabella," traditional French carol; "There Was a Rosebud Bloomed in the Snow," by Martin Shaw; and "Deck the Hall," traditional Welsh carol.

Music Department Presents 'Messiah'

Handel's Oratorio, Annual Christmas Custom, Given by Glee Clubs

The "Messiah," renowned oratorio, will be presented by the music department of the university in New Hampshire Hall on December 15, at 7:30.

The "Messiah" was written by George Fredrick Handel in 1741 for the Dublin Choral Society. Handel, one of the two greatest composers of sacred music, completed the work in twenty-four days. As he wrote it, Handel said the "gates of heaven" opened before his eyes. The oratorio depicts the life of Christ and is divided into four sections: prophecy, birth, crucifixion, and resurrection. The text was compiled by Charles Jennens from the Bible, the majority of it being from the last part of the book of Isaiah.

The first performance was given in 1742 in Dublin, Ireland, for the aid of charity. Its first English presentation was given in London in 1743. It was at this performance that the custom was initiated of standing during the singing of the Halleluyah Chorus. The audience was so impressed by the music that they, along with their king, instinctively rose to their feet. It has also become customary not to applaud.

The "Messiah" was first performed in its entirety in the United States in Boston, December 25, 1818. It is now a yearly Christmas tradition in almost every English-speaking community.

Thirteen Fraternities Will Close Week-end With Traditional Dances

Tonight, mingling with the smell of new wood and fresh floor wax, the excited chatter of an expected record throng of strutting undergrads, proud alumni, well-groomed officers, and co-eds in glittering formals will buzz through clean-cut New Hampshire Hall. It's the eagerly anticipated Event of the Year, Scabbard and Blade's grand Military Ball, with its impressive ceremony and lavish decorations.

It is well that the new auditorium has a capacity twice that of the old gym, for at least three hundred couples are expected to hum and shuffle to Will Hudson's music—twenty-five more than the record crowd of last year. Besides being director of a famous band, Will Hudson is one of the better known arrangers and composers in the business. Some of his best known songs include, "Moonglow," "Sophisticated Swing," the "Organ Grinder's Swing," and "You're Not the Kind"—all smash hits.

Included in the evening's program will be the formal pledging of nineteen juniors into Scabbard and Blade, national honorary military society, by lovely Jean Sughrue. Miss Sughrue, who was chosen to the high position of Honorary Cadet Colonel from a covey of ten beautiful coed seniors by the members of the ROTC Advanced course, will be assisted by aides-elect Priscilla Booth and Dorothea Bancroft.

A special ceremony will begin at 11:30, at which time the officers in the military science department will assign the positions of cadet officers to sixty-three members of the ROTC unit, these positions to be permanent throughout the present school year.

Invited guests include Brigadier-General and Mrs. Charles Bowen, Lt. Colonel and Mrs. Edward Cowan, all officers of the military science department, deans of the university colleges,

Fooling the Public

There is a common belief, growing even more prevalent because of the movies, the pulp magazines and the newspapers, that American college youth has no interest in its books. We, the students, have contributed quite cheerfully to this conception. We've chanted, "It's not for knowledge that we come to college" and like ballads. Whenever we have guests, which is fairly often since most of us come from New Hampshire and are within easy traveling distance of our friends and relatives, we blithely cut classes, let our studying go and show them such a round of gayety and festivity as Durham can afford.

Visitors and those people who read magazines which "expose" the younger generation never see us hunched over a book in the library, or at our typewriter late at night. They have no idea of the hours we spend bent over a microscope in lab or wide-awake in class. They never see us with our glasses on.

Tonight they will come and watch us dancing and laughing without a care in the world. Of course when we get back to the house at two-thirty we'll have to sit up for an hour or two soaking our feet and studying for that English exam tomorrow morning. And we won't look quite so glamorous with our curls pinned back and our glasses on.

But no one will ever know that we studied.

New Custom

The custom, inaugurated at the Mortar Board dance, whereby students will no longer go through the receiving line at the close of the dance, will be continued at all social functions on campus. It seems like a very sensible idea to us, since there is always a rush for coats and most people cut the line anyway.

Freshman Campers Hold Annual Reunion Monday

All freshmen who were at Freshman Camp last August held a reunion Monday, December 2. The group had supper together in Commons and then proceeded to Ballard Hall for an evening's entertainment.

All members of the group participated in singing, which was followed by colored movies taken at Camp and slides. Baby pictures of various individuals were shown and their identities guessed, then recent photos of the same persons were shown. Dave Eastman contributed to the evening's pleasure by giving an exhibition of magic. Refreshments consisting of cider and doughnuts were then served.

The committee in charge of the reunion were as follows: Judith Austin, Mary Brewster, Frank Chellis, John Davis, Kenneth Wiggin, and Marcy Woodworth.

Girls' Basketball Teams Start Interclass Games

Virginia Percy has just announced this year's schedule for girls' basketball. The interclass games will be played first. This will be followed by the Round Robin Tournament, that is, the freshmen play the seniors, the juniors play the sophomores, and winners of these games play each other. Later the best players of all four classes are chosen for the all-star team which will play several outside games. Miss Evans wishes to stress the fact that a new fan-backboard is being used this year.

The practice schedule is as follows: Monday, Dec. 9, Seniors and Freshmen; Tuesday, Dec. 10, Juniors and Sophomores; Wednesday, December 11, Seniors and Freshmen; Thursday, Dec. 12, Juniors and Sophomores; Monday, Dec. 16, Seniors and Freshmen; Tuesday, Dec. 17, Juniors and Sophomores.

The interclass games will then be played, followed by the Round Robin Tournament.

Track Team Faces Eight Meet Slate

Kittens Have Six Meets; Strong in Field Events But Lack Running Power

Facing one of their longest schedules in history, the winter track team is steadily progressing toward getting in shape for their first meet at Boston Garden, January 11. Coach Sweet has his usual group of experienced men in the varsity and expects a good season this year.

With the freshmen, he faces a different situation than in other years. In other years, the yearlings have been strong in running events, but the field events have brought down their score. This year, most of the experienced men are concentrated in field events, and although the boys have not had much of a chance to prove themselves, it seems that the running events will be weak. They are still conditioning, but are starting to work on pace. Coach Sweet says that most boys think of winter track as cold and icy, but once the boys get started, they warm up in a hurry. He still wants more men, especially in the running events, hurdles and high jump. This is a good chance for a fellow to get on a team, because of the many opportunities.

The coach is the busiest man on the campus at this time with all the different sections of winter track. Men are working out from one-thirty to six. He usually starts out on his rounds at the pole vault corner. From there he moves down to the shot putters and on to the high jumpers. After pausing at the hurdles, he goes outside to the board track where his largest group is working out. About quarter of five, he turns on the lights and practice continues as briskly as ever.

The slate this year begins with the Veterans of Foreign Wars games at Boston. Four dual meets are scheduled away from home: Maine, Feb. 15; Tufts, Feb. 22; Colby, March 1; and Dartmouth, March 15. Four meets are scheduled in Boston, the Veterans of Foreign Wars games, the B. A. A. games, February 8; the Knights of Columbus meet, January 25; and the I. C. 4-A meet for Mar. 1.

The freshman schedule consists of six games: January 11, Veterans of Foreign Wars games; January 25, at Andover; February 8, at B.A.A. meet; February 15, Portsmouth High; February 22, at Tufts; March 1, at Colby.

Juniors! !

All proofs for the Granite which have not been returned, must be brought to Room 302 in Ballard Hall by Wednesday, December 9. Finished pictures may be obtained on Thursday, December 10 by going to the Organization Room in Commons any time after 10:00 o'clock.

Juniors who haven't had sittings or who wish retakes must contact with Photography Editors, Ramona Williams or George Page at once.

Group pictures will be taken before Christmas vacation; these will start on Wednesday of next week.

Swasey Cuts Squad; Prepares for Colby Invasion Thursday

Zitrides and Davis Play Vital Part in 'Cat Hopes; Final Cut Wednesday

The 1940-41 varsity basketball quintet is rapidly rounding into shape under the critical eyes of Coach Henry C. Swasey, for the opening engagement with Colby here next Thursday. The basketball floor has been completed and everything is in readiness for a fast campaign. New Hampshire has practically a veteran team to throw in there against the Mules, having lost only ex-Captain Jimmy Hatch, who is now coaching at Troy, and Joe Griffiths, who is an apprentice in the Portsmouth navy yard. In all probability the Wildcats will line up with Captain Lou Cryans and Sparky Adams, forwards; Art Zitrides, center; Matt Flaherty and Hal Monica, guards. For reserves he has capable men in Red Davis, Ken McLeod, Eddie Mackel, Dick Sughrue and Roger Judkins. He also has Sam Clark, Morris Pinks, and Ralsey Stevens available for service.

When questioned about the season's prospects, Coach Swasey seemed more optimistic about the whole situation. "Yes sir, I think that we all can be ready to see some pretty good basketball. The boys have it in them and they are raring to go."

Swasey is very much pleased with the work of Red Davis who was one of the mainstays of the yearling quintet last season and he will see plenty of service alternating with both Cryans and Adams.

Dick Sughrue is coming along in grand fashion. This is his first experience as a collegiate basketballer and he is progressing rapidly.

The first cut was made last week and the final cut will be made next week. Surviving the first cut were Captain Lou Cryans, Sparky Adams, Red Davis, Fred Charron, Sam Clark, Morris Pinks, Ed Mackel, Fred Saunders, Fred Carr, Matt Flaherty, Roger Judkins, Irving Karelis, Charles McLaughlin, Ken McLeod, Hal Monica, Dick Smith, Dick Sughrue, Ralsey Stevens, Bob Wood and Art Zitrides.

Kitten Hoopsters Begin Scrimmages

The freshman hoopsters, coached by Johnny DuRie, started their season's work last Monday afternoon with a hard drill on the newly laid floor in the Field House. This first session was featured by scrimmages so that the coach could find out how each boy rated as a basketballer. About thirty-five hopefuls arrived at the Monday scrimmage, but later the coach expects to slice the number down to approximately fifteen or twenty.

In DuRie's opinion, this year's turn-out produces a team that may be as good as last year's crack yearling team. He maintains, however, that the Kittens of this season are taller than the former first-year-men. A few of the basketballers have had experience in the famed Durham Tournament. Whether this experience will prove to be valuable or not remains to be seen throughout the campaign.

This year the freshman quintet shall pitch battle with eight opponents. There are two games scheduled against Northeastern and one each against Tufts, Exeter, Bridgton, Tilton, St. Anselm and Boston University. The officials are still striving to increase the number of contests so as to offer greater opportunities for experience to the freshmen. It is the duty of the freshman coaches to make basketball players who will be fully capable of competing in varsity competition in the oncoming three years. In the pursuit of this goal, fast-breaking passing is stressed. If this brand of basketball is solidly created, then all other schools will find this school very difficult to defeat. It is the opinion of the coaches that a smooth, fast-breaking offensive will produce many satisfactory results.

What kind of Math do you call this?

It sounds crazy—but let's see how it would be perfectly possible in the telephone business.

Suppose an improved method is devised that clips just one second from the time required to handle one toll ticket in the accounting department. Apply this method throughout the Bell System—handling an average of some 55,000,000 toll tickets each month—and it would effect a monthly saving of nearly 1 3/4 years!

A second saved here, an unnecessary step cut out there—on such close attention to "little" things rests the Bell System's ability to provide the finest, fastest, cheapest telephone service in the world.

Why not telephone home often? Long Distance rates to most points are lowest any night after 7 P. M. and all day Sunday.

Stars Glitter in "Wilderness" as Rehearsals Hit Last Lap

by Barbara Ames

There seems to have been no fanfare of trumpets accompanying the preparation of Mask and Dagger's first production of the year "Ah, Wilderness." Unusually quiet is the northern front of New Hampshire Hall as the cast goes about its work, and the campus awaits with suspense the opening premier, December 11. Meanwhile, anticipation and speculation founded on gentle whisperings together with a little scientific deduction float along T. Hall walk and Frat Row.

As far as the cast goes, to young Richard Miller, life becomes just one drink after another, interspersed with the women who drive men to drink, when his girl Muriel, jilts him. To Elwyn Dearborn, veteran star of Mask and Dagger, and player in stock, Richard Miller of O'Neil's "Ah, Wilderness!" is one more character to bring to life and add to the already lengthy memoirs of his theatrical career.

A lady whom the dramatic world has been waiting to herald ever since last year when she read a few unforgettable lines from Murkland's stage in an obscure tryout, steps forth in the role of Belle. Miss Jeanette Too-hill, leading actress in Rochester Little Theatre comedies, proceeds to intoxicate Mrs. Miller's son.

Mrs. Miller is duly shocked; and Hope Leslie, debutante number 2 in the dramatic world, sheds tears and rings hands agitatedly in the fine fashion of women in 1906. Hope continues the standard which she set for herself in Guilford College, No. Carolina, in a word, she is convincing.

Mrs. Miller accuses her son hysterically of being crazy. Sid states slowly with a grin, "He's soused." From principal, to gentleman-bad-man with English accent, to Sid (Peck's Bad Boy who has never grown up and is going on forty-five) David Crockett exemplifies versatility in the line of acting. And co-sharing this versatility, is Libby Kinsman as Lily, the old maid aunt. Sir Hennessy, standing out of sight behind the heavy curtains, was heard to say as he watched Libby remove her coat in a scene from "Kind Lady"; "There is an actress."

And the fair maiden who jilts Richard and causes him to quote bitterly: "Drink! for you know not whence you come nor why!" is Muriel, alias Virginia Alden.

To Mr. Miller, as head of the family, falls the duty of explaining to his son Life. Indeed, Walt Webster does such a genuine job as Mr. Miller that he takes us back to those days when our own fathers stuttered and stammered over the duty. Remember Walt as he took us in his own memorable human way along the streets of "Our Town"?

Lighting Problem Course Given Weekly by Experts

A six weeks' course, concerning lighting problems and their solutions, is available at the university now for all interested engineers and workmen. This course, which is held in a weekly school session every Tuesday evening, is sponsored jointly by the Illuminating Engineering Society of America and Tri-County Electrical Associates of New Hampshire.

The school's second session was held Tuesday night, December 3, and discussions on light sources were conducted by P. N. Clarke of Westinghouse and C. M. Snyder of General Electric. Equipment, lighting calculations, necessary light for seeing, selling, production, and floodlighting will be taken up in later meetings. Other illumination experts coming to the University to discuss such electrical problems are Meritt Hanner of the Halphane Company; R. B. Brown Jr., of the Edison Company; and D. P. Caverly of the Hygrade Lamp Company, all of Boston, and Paul Manchester of the Blackstone Valley Gas and Electric Company of R. I.

and all house mothers. Chaperones will be President and Mrs. Fred Engelhardt, Colonel and Mrs. Edwin K. Smith, Lieutenant Colonel and Mrs. Paul Starlings, and Stan Low and Peg Preble.

As an anti-climax, rounding out a full and what promises to be a completely hilarious week-end, the thirteen Greek letter fraternities on campus will bust Saturday night wide open with an astonishing variety of barn dances, bowery dances, and general informal shindigs. New pledges will all be invited to attend these affairs, each reaping his first reward for having joined "the best fraternity on campus."

Lens and Shutter

Lens and Shutter Club will hold a meeting on Monday, December 9, at 8 P. M. in James Hall. Professor Scudder will give a demonstration of photographic Christmas cards. There will also be an exhibit of colored slides.
