PRICE, THREE CENTS

Crime Can Be Reduced Says James M. Hepbron

Increased Efficiency of Judicial System Remedy, Says Crime Authority

by Dorothea Dowell

James M. Hepbron, specialist in the field of criminology, stated in his lecture on "Keeping Justice on the Job" that crime can only be reduced in proportion to the increase in the efficiency of our system of justice. The United States has the highest crime rate of any of the civilized countries. Among the reasons for this is that it is harder to catch the criminal, and when he does there are many loopholes through which he can easily slip. Certainty of apprehension is more important than stressing the harshness of punishment.

We need men for magistrates who understand people and their problems. Many of the present magistrates can neither read nor write, and some of them can't even speak the English language. Mr. Hepbron described trial by jury as the thing most worthy of the "ignoble" prize. Most of those who serve on the juries are men of

Library Features Artistic Exhibit

The current exhibition of drawings and paintings at the Arts Center at the library were selected from the 926 entries submitted by the artists of the "P. M." competitions. Any artist was eligible for the competition except the members of the jury. Work in any medium suitable for newspaper reproduction was eligible. Drawings, paintings, and prints in black and white, black, white, and one color, or one color were eligible. As far as style and technique were concerned, there were no limitations.

The work here exhibited was selected by a jury and cash awards were made amounting to $1500.00. Another cash award of $250 was made to the picture which received the largest popular vote in balloting by visitors to the exhibition at the Museum of Modern Art, New York.

The members of the jury were: John Sloan, Wallace Morgan, William Gropper, Holzer Cahill, and Ralph Ingersoll, publisher of the magazine P. M.

These journalistic pictures could be considered a record of contemporary scenes that will one day spell 1940. Some of them shown are: patching the Trylon at the World's Fair, the unfinished Queen Elizabeth slipping into the New York harbor, a picture of a parade, a horse race, and a crowd in the bleachers. All such would be journalistic pictures with the artist in the role of reporter.

The exhibit will last until March 31.

Singing Chorus of New Musical Borrows from Greeks, Spitalny

You just can't anticipate the latest turns of that screwy musical show Dearborn's directing. Anything is liable to happen at each rehearsal, and everything does. Lines are cut, replaced, and cut again; action is heightened—boy, can that Vaughn swing a mean hip! Her Cleopatra will have you screaming—for air.

The latest news item to drift in from the rehearsal front however, concerns the singing chorus. The attention a chorus in any musical usually receives is comparable to the interest generally accorded the activities of a vice-president. But this chorus is different. Granite Varieties of 1941 is going back to the Greeks of old for something new. The singers will mass together in the orchestra pit. They will answer and keep in tune with the principal actors, and they'll sing special numbers throughout the show, their harmony soaring into the air in carefully chosen spots.

Borrowing from the famous Phil Spitalny, choral director Lou Israel is now training the all-girl chorus to hum melodiously in accompaniment to certain starred solos. Mitchell's new violin section in the orchestra will add a great deal to the general smoothness of this effect.

The girls will be seated inconspicuously behind the band, so that their humming should seem merely to pour

Press Club

There will be an important Press Club meeting in "The New Hampshire" office Monday, Mar. 24, at 8:00 p. m. At this time Press Club officers for the coming year will be elected and other pertinent business will be discussed. It is urged that everyone who is connected with newspaper work attend this important meeting.

Debaters Triumph as Rutgers Loses

Team Wins Decisively; Turns Back Second Strongest Squad in East

New Hampshire's varsity debaters continued their successful argumentations Wednesday evening by winning a decision over Rutgers' first-class debaters, thus defeating one of the best teams in the East. After turning back Harvard in a spectacular radio debate last week, Ray Keesey's team was well prepared to speak on the topic: Resolved that the nations of the Western Hemisphere should enter into a permanent union. New Hampshire took the negative point of view while Rutgers fought on the affirmative side.

The Durham team was composed of Herman Skofield, the up-and-coming freshman, and James Moulton, a sophomore. The strong Rutgers team had two fellows, Mr. Lieb and Mr. McKay, who were capable of handling their problem well.

The final decision was New Hampshire 3, Rutgers 0.

The judges for the contest were: Miss Rosella Lovett, Debate Director at Traip Academy; Albert Oliver, Headmaster of New London High School, and A. J. McCaffrey, Headmaster of Newmarket High School. The timekeeper was Hershel Clesner, a freshman debater.

The debate with Harvard scheduled for tonight has been postponed until April 22.

On Tuesday, March 25, Traip Academy will bring two teams to debate our freshmen at 4:00 P.M. Thus the debating season continues in full swing.

It will be well to watch this New Hampshire squad in the future. Under the truly excellent guidance of Ray Keesey, and with the ability which the rest of the boys show, aside from the indomitable Moulton and Skofield, prospects look bright for New Hampshire.

Students Sponsor Benefit Dance for Greek War Relief

Sponsors Hope to Send Four Hundred Dollars to Greece for Medical Needs

Ever since Greece was invaded in the fall of 1940, sentiment all over the world has been aroused in favor of the underdog, especially in America where fair play is expected of everyone, in every activity — including warfare! Consequently, every campus in the country with a Greek population of one or more has endeavored to raise funds for the purchase of medical supplies — medical supplies for a badly wounded, but game little state that is still holding out.

The Greek War Relief Dance that will take place tonight is sponsored solely for that purpose. The proceeds will go directly to New York City, where, with the money received from other organizations, it will be pooled to buy supplies. And so, the people at the dance tonight will not only enjoy the music of Jack Mitchell's orchestra, but will have the knowledge that the money from the dance is going towards a cause that could not be worthier.

Outing Club Shows "Ski America 2nd"

Ninety-three minutes jammed full of ski humor, beauty, and thrills, will be featured in "Ski America 2nd," tops among ski films, Friday, March 28, at 7:30 in New Hampshire Hall. Sponsored by the Outing Club this film will be shown by the well-known ski photographer and lecturer, Sidney N. Shurcliff.

The movie will show all the tricks of the slalom trade, spectacular jumping, speeding dervishes and snow plumes in downhill racing, the breathtaking beauty of cross country in the High Sierras, telephoto shots of Tuckerman's, and riotous humor of novices and their sitzmarkers, schuss-boomers, and fancy panthers.

Such well known skiers as Dick Durrance, Marian McKeane, Hannes Schroll, Friedl Pfeiffer, Toni Matt, Hannes Schneider, Hans Faulkner, Thor Tørlund, Walter Prager, and others will be starred. High spots include a ski meet between Dartmouth and McGill, the National Jumping Championship, the Hochgebirge race, and the lifts at Cranmore and Cannon.

Ball and Banquet Given by Waiters

On the evening of March 28, one of the more important campus functions will take place in the Commons dining hall. Amid scenes of appropriate and original decorations, and to the dulcet strains of the sophisticated swing of maestro John Mitchell, the fifth annual waiters ball will add its color to the yearly calendar of social events.

Some 70 fortunate couples are expected to attend this exclusive affair and they will spend their evening in this manner: at 7:30 there is a pre-dance banquet arranged, which will be held in the cafeteria. The girls will find corsages at their places and the dress for the evening will be informal. After the banquet they will retire to the hall upstairs and dance. The committee in charge of decorations and organization is trying to arrange some sort of entertainment suitable for the evening besides the dancing but as yet they have not decided on anything in particular.

Ralph Hart is giving a lot of his time in getting the plans to materialize, while Dick Bryant and others are doing their bit, in anticipation of a successful evening.

Barbara Burns Elected to Lead Campus Women

Spring?

So this is Spring. A polar spring, bubbling up through icy terrain. The New England weatherman is on our black-list, dated today. Didn't you know? This is the First Day of the mayflower season, tra-la! Rumors are rampant that Roosevelt is contemplating a new alphabet bureau to regulate this beastly weather. Well, if he does, we'll take back all we've said about him.

Freshman Hop Will Feature Art Davis

Popular College Band, Soloist to Furnish Music at Annual Spring Formal

The Class of 1944, true to its already well established tradition of doing things well, is making no exception to this as they complete plans for the annual Freshman Spring Formal, to be held Saturday, March 29. It will really be a semi-formal, but will be conducted in true formal style.

Art Davis, "New England's Sweet Swing Stylist" and his orchestra have been engaged. Davis brings New Hampshire something special in the way of entertainment, as he will feature his beautiful soloist, Phyllis De Forest (formerly with Isham Jones, Tommy Reynolds), the Davis Trio, and Earl "Seat" Healey.

Art Davis has played at such places of note as Dartmouth, Harvard, Brown, Bowdoin, Holy Cross, Wheaton, and Yale, and at the Colonial Casino, Onset, Mass., the King Philip Ballroom, Wrentham, Mass., The Commodore Ballroom, Lowell, Mass., and many others.

Chairman of the whole affair is Jeanne Henry, whose leadership ability has frequently been demonstrated in the freshman dining room on Sunday nights. Under her are: Marjorie Blaisdell, chairman of the decorations committee; Florence Fisher, chaperon committee; Maryannah, tickets; and Herbert Blaise, special features. Chaperons will be Coach and Mrs. Charles Justice and Coach and Mrs. George Sauer.

The dance will be held in New Hampshire Hall. Since the date is so near Easter, the decorations will carry out an Easter theme. Guests may expect to see a line of rabbits circling the walls, leaping, hopping, sitting, and assuming typical bunny poses. Refreshments will carry out the theme also, but these may not be just what is expected. A surprise is in store for persons partaking of them. That is another of Miss Henry's ideas, and apparently a good one.

'George' Hancock Chosen Vice-President; Winifred Curtis Soph. Member

Barbara Burns, a member of Alpha Chi Omega sorority, was elected president of the Association of Women Students at the annual election of officers held Wednesday. Mary Louise Hancock was elected vice-president and Louise Griffin and Winifred Curtis gained offices of treasurer and secretary, respectively.

Other officers elected were: first senior member, Eleanor Mauricette; second senior member, Dorothy Page; first junior member, Dorothy Kimball; second junior member, Marjorie Chalmers; and commuters' representative, Teresa Foley.

Miss Burns, a junior, has been for the last year the first junior member of the women's governing body and succeeds Madeline Pappachristos to the office of president. She was secretary of the organization in her sophomore year. Miss Burns lists among her other activities the office of corresponding secretary of her sorority,

Old Homestead is Cast by Hennessy

After nearly a week of carefully weighing possibilities and potentialities, Director William Hennessy tonight announced his selections for the cast of the coming University Mask and Dagger production, "The Old Homestead." The cast of the native New Hampshire drama by Denman Thompson is one of the largest ever to face local theatre-goers, and the character of its chosen personnel indicates a new trend in Mask and Dagger offerings, for although many familiar names are to be seen on the honored list, several newcomers have been added, making the cast fairly representative of dramatic talent to be found in all classes at the university.

The heaviest burden of the script, however, is still on the shoulders of tried and true members of the university's semi-exclusive dramatic group; principle roles will be enacted by Dave Crockett as Joshua Whitcomb; Jack Wentzell as "Happy Jack"; Don Crafts as Eb Ganzey, a delightful comedy rube; Justine Pillsbury as Aunt Matilda Whitcomb; Virginia Alden as Nellie Freeman; and Hope Leslie as Maggie O'Flaherty, the Irish maid.

Following is the complete cast of characters. Josh Whitcomb, David Crockett; Cy Frime, Merrie Rawstron; Happy Jack, John Wentzell; Frank Hopkins, Chester Turner; Eb Ganzey, Don Crafts; John Freeman,

Opportunity to Relax Between Studies Given Students by Rec

by Dorothea Dowell

Shuttlecocks whirl through the air, and there are cries of "I've got it" "A good shot!" On the other side of the partition a vic plays "A Nightingale Sang in Berkeley Square." From the adjoining game room one catches the phrases "three diamonds," "I'll pass," and "by me" in between records. A ping pong ball barely hits the edge of the table and then ricochets along the floor with a player gleefully scuttling after it. It's the hour between 6:50 and 7:50 P.M., known as Rec, when students take time out for the play that refreshes.

Rec once consisted of dancing for an hour, but now with the facilities for recreational activities which New Hampshire Hall provides it is possible for a student to participate in any one of a number of different games, if he doesn't wish to dance. The folding doors enable the gym to be divided into two rooms, one for dancing and the other for badminton. In the game room with its brightly colored furniture and gay curtains, there are ping pong tables, a shuffleboard set, card tables, and magazines. A large closet furnishes ample space for all the equipment.

Miss Nell Evans, faculty advisor for W.A.A., is in charge of the recreational program, which includes not only the Monday and Thursday night Recs, but Commuters' Rec on Tues-

Lectures and Concerts

The free lecture series for the current school year came to a close Wednesday evening with James Hepbron's talk "Keeping Justice on the Job." This lecture was no exception to the generally high level which the preceding ones had established and was fairly well attended by students and faculty members.

The opportunities offered by the University to the students and general public is one of which better advantage should be taken, however. The men who were brought here this year were the best known in their fields; experts in their respective work, journalism, literature, art, and crime. The expense entailed in obtaining the speakers has been great.

Although the four concerts in the musical series were not free, they were offered at a very nominal fee. Two dollars seems a ridiculously low price to pay to hear four presentations by some of the world's greatest musicians. Alexander Kipnis, Metropolitan basso and final concert artist, is rated by many critics as the greatest bass in the world.

The attendances at the lectures and concerts this year were on the whole much larger than previously. A few years ago it was not unusual to see less than one hundred people in attendance. Gradually the student body has come to appreciate the opportunity offered. The committee in charge of obtaining the guest performers have acted wisely. The programs have been exceptionally interesting as well as entertaining and educational.

Greek War Relief

Although it is not the policy of The New Hampshire to invade world politics and to discuss the current European conflict, we do feel that there is a group on campus indirectly involved in World War II which deserves commendation. We are referring to the students of Greek descent who are tonight sponsoring a dance for the benefit of one of the few remaining democracies in the world.

Greece has come through a great ordeal with flying colors and as a result has won the admiration of all free-thinking people on the face of the earth. Now on the brink of a still greater crisis she needs and deserves the encouragement which a relatively small sum of money can bring her.

It is with respect and admiration that we endorse tonight's Greek War Relief dance and feel certain that the student body feels the same way sufficiently to support the worthy cause.

Honorary Societies

Honorary societies may obtain the scholastic average of their groups by sending a list of their members to the registrar's office. This information will be of value in answering questionnaires sent out by the national headquarters. The membership list should be in the registrar's office by Saturday, March 29.

Campus Center of Many Conferences

During the next three months the University of New Hampshire campus will be a spot where eighteen interest groups will hold conferences as part of the 75th anniversary celebration. The get-togethers of the next three months will make Durham the center of attraction of this part of the state. Henry B. Stevens, chairman of the program committee, recently released a calendar of meetings so that everyone could realize the huge dimensions of the project.

Many groups of interested people such as psychologists, educators, grange lecturers, mathematicians, deans, student leaders, chemists, political scientists, business and professional women, and poultry growers have scheduled district meetings here, the first listed being the New England Collegiate Association of Psychology Clubs on April 4 and 5.

"The Welfare of New Hampshire" will be discussed by a dozen or so organizations during the ten-day period between June 17 to 26.

Organizations and their meeting dates for the spring are as follows: New England Collegiate Association of Psychology Clubs, April 4-5; New England Association of Chemistry Teachers, April 5; Fourth Annual Conference on Secondary Education, April 7; New England Modern Language Group meeting, April 7; New Hampshire State Grange Lecturer's School, April 10-11; Association of Teachers in Mathematics in New England, April 12; Association of College Teachers in English, April 18-19; Biological Conference of Eastern New England Colleges, April 19; Regional Conference, New England Deans and Advisors for Women, April 26; New England Conference, Alpha Chi Sigma, national chemistry society, April 26; State Convention of Home Economics Clubs, April 26; International Friendship Conference, April 26; Conference of Women Student Government Associations, May 2-3; New England Association of College Teachers of Education, May 9; Connecticut Valley Political Science Association, May 10; Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, May 11; Northeastern Section, American Chemical Society, May 24; New Hampshire Poultry Growers' Association, June 3 - 4.

Sweet Swing Tunes for Sophomore Hop

"It's sweet! It's swing!" That's what folks say about the trumpet of Harder Downing and his Continentals who will be featured at the Sophomore Black-out Party on April 4, at New Hampshire Hall.

Though the orchestra has never before visited this campus, it has received warm welcome elsewhere on campuses throughout our section of the country. The "sweet and swing" of the instruments will accompany the vocal varieties of Tommy Martin, and arrangements with a trio and glee club.

Maestro Harder Downing, formerly with Glenn Miller, Tommy Reynolds, Charlie Randel and others, will bring his orchestra to U.N.H. from its Utica home to play from 8:30 to 12:45 on the evening in question.

The time originally designated for the termination of the dance was 12:00 p.m., but through the efforts of the alert committee it has been extended to quarter of one.

Phil MacDonald is New Class Officer

When the popular Angelo Montrone left school early this semester, the freshmen found themselves without a class treasurer. Immediate action was taken to fill the post; yesterday a special election took place in the Commons Trophy Room.

Although the number of votes cast was relatively small, the winner received a substantial majority over his nearest rival. Phil MacDonald, Kappa Sigma pledge and football man, is the new Freshman Class Treasurer. Al Quinn, Russell Cushing, Earl Handy, and Shelly Prescott also ran.

TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:

I think there is a deplorable lack of evidence of a certain well-known American institution on campus. It is a social institution that is just as important to a person who expects to mingle in business or social life, as knowing whether to wear a white tie or a black tie with tails. I am referring to the lack of tipping on the part of people attending banquets at the Commons or any of the places set aside for such affairs on campus. Before I make a criticism, I know that the average student who participates in such affairs cannot afford to tip under ordinary circumstances. On the other hand there is no excuse for a member of the faculty to overlook something that he would most certainly include if he were in a strange city or group.

We all know that the waiters in Commons get thirty cents an hour while they work during these banquets. They get the same rate during the daytime meals. But the difference lies in giving their studying or leisure time for that rate. Thirty cents an hour is no compensation for a man who has to give up a good part of an evening after he has worked at least two out of the three meals in a day. Take the Lowell Thomas banquet for instance. The tickets were two dollars — exorbitant! you say. Well, if those who could afford two dollars thought it over they most certainly could afford ten cents per person more to insure the waiters getting some compensation for a very well-coordinated and conscientious job. I am sure that when any adult plans on taking someone out or going out himself he usually counts tips as part of his expenses. If he doesn't he is liable to find that it may cause a hitch in his plans at one time or another.

To go back to the Thomas banquet. There were over 600 people there — after the banquet some 70 waiters found that they were entitled to about six cents apiece. Total tips about six or seven dollars. There seems to be something out of balance in this ratio. During the school year there are many banquets, the average cost of these is about 75 cents. If a person can spend this amount then they can afford to leave at least ten per cent of it in recognition of the boys who give their time to serve them.

This does not mean that the waiters are disgruntled or dissatisfied with their jobs, they are a hardworking, conscientious bunch of boys, but they do think that there is no excuse for faculty members to overlook this pertinent social fact. I feel that this has not been brought to light before and that there has been no intention of deliberate slight on the part of the faculty or other people attending these banquets, but perhaps that there has been no mention of it before.

It all boils down to the fact that when people are considering going out to a banquet, or function where waiters are attending them, that they should consider a tip along with their cigarette expenses and the other expenses of the evening. In this I feel that we are not asking too much.

The tips that are left to the waiter are used in financing their annual ball and are not used for any personal gain, or to defray other expenses.

Sincerely,
A Wondering Waiter.

Hugh Ross Chosen as Guest Director

Hugh Ross, conductor of the Schola Cantorum in New York City, will be guest conductor of the New England College Choral Festival to be held April 18 and 19 in connection with the celebration of the 75th anniversary of the University. Mr. Ross is well-known in the music world and is hailed as the "Toscanini of Choral Conductors."

The conductors of the various groups which will participate in the festival met with Mr. Ross last Saturday at Simmons College in Boston. The directors went over the scores to be used with Ross while he discussed them, explaining his interpretation. All of the conductors are very much pleased with the selection of the conductor and very enthusiastic over the Choral Festival which is the first of its kind to be held in New England.

The concert to be given on Saturday will consist of two major works sung by a combined chorus of 500 voices. The masterpieces to be performed are Bach's Cantata No. IV, "Christ Lay by Death Enshrouded" and Mozart's Mass in F which is to be sung in Latin. Solo parts will be done by a solo group consisting of two soloists on each part from each group.

An orchestra consisting of strings, trumpets, two trombones, four French horns, and a few other pieces will accompany the chorus. This will include representatives from other colleges.

All arrangements have been made for the concert Friday in which each individual group will participate. The program will be announced later.

Diamond Prospects Report to Swasey

The varsity baseball candidates reported to Coach Henry Swasey this afternoon in room two of the Field House. The meeting was devoted to a discussion of the training rules and other pre-season details. The order to go to work is set for Monday.

Infielders who are expected to report are Jack Adams, Norm Flint, Dick Sughrue, Tom Callagy, Phil Richards, Jerry Thayer, Ed McDermott, and Bob Mathews. There are many other candidates who have not been tried out.

For the outfield he has the veteran Lou Cryans, along with Stace Clark, Shorty Boucher and Larry Blais as the only candidates known at this time. It is still a question whether Sam Clark and Clarence Parker will be available for duty this season or not.

The New Hampshire mentor is faced with a stiff problem of molding a team to meet such formidable competition as Colby, Maine, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Northeastern, American International, Harvard Grads, Bates, and Boston College. There are some good ball players to be in the above-mentioned, however. Jack Adams and Lou Cryans are experienced veterans who can be depended upon for consistent performances. Norm Flint and Tom Callagy are pretty fair ball players in any league and Larry Blais and Stace Clark are expected to produce in a creditable fashion. Dick Sughrue is one of the best fielding prospects ever seen here although he is a light hitter. Then there is Phil Richards whose main asset is that of team spirit. Not an outstanding performer, but a man whose influence is invaluable to a ball club. Bob Mathews is a good fielder with a sharp whip who may be shifted to the outer garden.

The first game is scheduled with Colby College on April 26th.

Congreve North, Smith Triumph in Semi-finals

On Wednesday afternoon the semi-finals of the inter-house basketball tournament were played to the tantalizing rhythm of the Granite Varieties music. Despite the distraction of the dancing girls on the stage, Congreve North was able to defeat Alpha Xi Delta by a score of 24 to 14, while Smith trounced Scott 28 to 8.

Congreve North got away to a good start when Cass sank two baskets. From that time on, the Congreve North team kept ahead of Alpha Xi. At the end of the half they led by a score of 17 to 6.

During the first half of the Smith-Scott game, Smith overwhelmed Scott and left them on the short end of a 17 to 1 score. Although Scott began a feeble rally they were unable to stop the Smith team.

Kitten Pucksters End Hard Schedule With Two Victories

Garrison, Thresher and Adams Lead Yearlings; Pin Lawrence, Hebron

The University of New Hampshire freshman hockey team went through the recent hockey campaign with two victories and four losses. The Kitten aggregation, having only one experienced player, turned back Lawrence Academy and Hebron Academy but lost to Boston University, Boston College, Exeter, and Tilton. The scheduled game with New Hampton was cancelled because of bad weather.

Joe Garrison was the only player on the squad that had ever participated in hockey to a great extent so that Coach Rood had the task of making a team out of green men. However, he went to work to form a good team. The yearlings had drills with Dover High and Portsmouth High in order to get into shape.

The first clash was with Boston University and the New Hampshire men dropped this decision. The next game should have been played against New Hampton but it was cancelled. Then the Durham forces prepared for Exeter Academy, a strong team.

The Kittens lost to Exeter after putting up very stiff resistance. The Exeter boys were leading 4-1 going into the last period when the Kittens came back with an attack that netted three goals to knot the score. But this deadlock didn't last long since Exeter whizzed a goal in the last minutes to win.

The first victory was registered against Lawrence Academy. The Roodmen didn't have a hard time in this contest but once, when they relaxed a mite, the foe put on a good rally. The final score was 5-4 in favor of the yearlings. Red Adams got the winning goal to be the star of the day.

The freshmen were then swamped by Hebron Academy to the tune of 10-0. The Kittens tipped Tilton in the next game to give the Kittens their second win and Boston College won from New Hampshire in the last game to make the final result stand with two wins and four losses. The loss to Boston College was not unexpected since the Eagles had an extremely powerful sextet.

Garrison, Thresher and Adams led the New Hampshire attack most of the time. Unfortunately, however, Thresher left school and was lost to the Rood sextet. Along with these boys were York, Greenaway, Whitty, and Randall. Other players who saw plenty of action and fared well were MacDonald, Manning, Kingsbury and Mudge.

Schedule Interclub Game for Saturday Afternoon; Coach Sauer Optimistic

The spring football sessions will close with an intersquad game at the Field House tomorrow afternoon at 2 P.M. Coach Sauer will try to put on a game with all the possible atmosphere of an autumn classic. He will, however, be hampered by the lack of space.

Coach Sauer is worried over the situation in the line. "It is the line that worries me," he said, "I have some good backfield material, in fact, the prospects are better than they were a year ago, but the line is rather weak."

Bill Feeney who served as a sub in the backfield last season has been shifted with a marked degree of success. "Bill has shown me enough blocking, passing, receiving, and speed to make me sure he will make a good end. His heart is in the game and in football that is half the battle," Coach Sauer declared.

Other ends available next season will be Eddie Mackel, Son Lamond, Art Galli, Ralph Pino, Roy Goodfellow, Fred Scannell and Chet Moore. Complications set in at tackles, however. He has Ed Bove who alternated with Al Sakoian last season and a group of freshmen. Coach Sauer, however, has plenty of confidence in his assistants Chick Justice and Tony Dougal to whip a couple of good tackles before the opening game comes around.

The guard position is much brighter. Leading candidates are Ed Lyszczas, Jim Simon, Whitey Ackerman, and Angus MacDonald. MacDonald was shifted from tackle and is coming along fine. From these guards, the Wildcat mentor has every confidence of being strong in this particular position.

At center he has Mickey Meserve who has been moved over from end, Bob Neal, Tony Peyou, and Frank Lambert. Sauer has been pleased with the work of them all.

The cream of the squad is found in the backfield. Coach Sauer predicts that he will have as good a backfield as any in colleges of this calibre. They are: Captain Joe Gordon, Chas. Judd, Stacey Clark, Harold Hall, Win MacDonald, Pete Meneghin, Phil DeGregory, Tuff Fitantes, Steve Flis, Leo Dupont, and several others. By next fall he will have Don Begin and Morrie Stetson who promises to be a first-class back. On the whole Coach Sauer is hopeful of putting on a fairly good team next fall. He does not predict an undefeated season but he said that every New Hampshire opponent will know that they have been in a battle.

Larceny and Levity Mix In East Hall Crime Wave

Typical Barracks wit was personified in a notice tacked up on the wall of the building between East and West. The original notice, handwritten in red pencil, read: "Will the fellow who took my sweater off the bar over No. 3 cubicle please return it to the occupants of room —, West Hall. It is light tan."

That afternoon the following pencilled note was appended at the bottom of the sheet: "Someone sneaked off with my white sweater in Commons cloak room — we'll have to get together and smoke out some of these thieving polecats!"

And the next morning this addition had been made to the notice: "For sale, cheap: large tan sweater. Also one white sweater. (signed) T. Polecat."

Design by Soph Used on Medallion

A design by a sophomore was last week selected for the Dr. Charles Holmes Pettee medal, to be awarded annually by the University of New Hampshire Alumni association to a citizen or former citizen of the state in recognition of distinguished professional achievement.

Winner of the design competition, in which 30 undergraduate and alumni artists entered sketches was Harry Lucas, a major in architecture at the university.

Three inches in diameter, the medal will be inscribed on the obverse side: "In honor of Charles Holmes Pettee this medal is awarded by the alumni of the University of New Hampshire to ——. Service and achievement to his state." A portrait of the late Dr. Pettee, who served the university for over a half century, is included in the design.

The reverse side depicts a man and woman who have reached the peak of achievement. Standing among clouds, the two draped figures hold torches above their heads.

Presentation of the medal will be made in a public ceremony on June 14 as a part of the alumni day program of the university's 75th anniversary. The recipient will be selected by a committee of ten from open nominations which will have been submitted to Alumni Secretary Eugene K. Auerbach before March 15.

Sweet Wants Large Spring Track Team

Following the release of the spring track schedule by the faculty senate committee, Coach Sweet will hold the first meeting for any men interested in track at 4:15 Monday afternoon at the Field House. The coach wants to see a very large turnout at this meeting, and says that anyone interested should come up. Track is one of the easiest sports to make numerals or letters and if anyone is in doubt as to what section of track to go out for, he can ask Coach Sweet and the athletic test given at the beginning of the year will be used to find the boy's ability. Upperclassmen are also urged to come out since it is not too late to make his letter. Sweet cited the example of Steve Lampson who did not come out until his sophomore year and is now a record-breaking pole vaulter. No one will be cut from the squad if he comes regularly. The trouble with this year's record was that although they had good men who usually came in first, there were not any men to back them up and take second or third. Coach Sweet expects that this year's freshman squad may be the best in history if enough men turn out. The winter track season showed the freshmen to be remarkably strong in field events, but weak in the running events.

The varsity will have only two meets at home this year and the freshmen have three. A medley relay race is pending for the freshmen at MIT if a good enough team is available. Last year in this race, the Kittens finished second.

The schedule: April 26, Maine at Durham; May 3, Brown at Providence; May 10, Northeastern at Durham; May 17, Rhode Island at Kingston; May 24-25, New England Intercollegiate Amateur Athletic Association championships at Cambridge; Intercollegiate Amateur Athletic Association of America championships at Randolph Island, N. Y.

The freshman schedule: May 3, Portsmouth and Deering at Durham; May 10, Exeter Academy at Exeter; May 13, Dartmouth '44 at Durham; May 20, Brown '44 at Durham; Pending medley relay at M.I.T. on May 24-25.

SINGING CHORUS

out of and into the darkness this side of the footlights. But besides singing, the chorus will further pursue the Greek tradition of taking part in the show, answering the actors in unison where the script calls for voices from offstage.

The number of singers has been kept at a minimum due to lack of space in the pit. But this should result in a higher quality performance, for only the best of campus warblers have been chosen. Mr. Bergethon was glad to allow the finest of his glee club personnel to take part in the show. The chorus will be made up of the following students:

First soprano—Louise Edson, Clara Knight, Ellen Stoddard, Jean Tebo, Mary Ann Wheeler. Second soprano—Clare Langley, Marion McIver, Norma Prohaska, Ramona Williams, Olga Yeaton. Alto—Judith Austin, Caroline Gove, Leslie Ireland, Virginia Page, Margaret DePalma.

Rehearsals are being held Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday from 5 to 6 o'clock in Room 301, Thompson Hall.

CRIME LECTURE

low mentality; those who have the ability for such work usually dodge their service.

Mr. Hepbrun briefly discussed some of the theories regarding crime in general. Originally, it was believed to be the result of innate depravity or the work of the devil. Both animate and inanimate objects were punished in efforts to drive out the evil spirit that had caused the crime. Beccaria, an early Italian criminologist, advised the prevention of crime, but in cases where punishment was inevitable, he advocated only such punishment as would just outweigh the crime. A later worker in the field, Lombroso, thought that criminals were doomed to their career by nature. This theory was discredited by Dr. Goring, an English physician, who discovered that there was no material physical difference between criminals and others. In recent years the glandular theory has been advanced as the cause of anti-social behavior. Mr. Hepbrun read an amusing poem entitled "Modern Criminology" which described how every crime could be traced to a glandular disorder.

In a discussion of the work of the Criminal Justice Commission in Baltimore, Mr. Hepbrun demonstrated how the efficiency of justice can be increased when representatives of the business men, civic organizations, colleges, and people at large work together. Everybody's business is apt to be nobody's business; it is only by presenting a united front that social agencies can really accomplish an effective change in the present judicial system.

Dr. Hepbrun's talk, which was filled with illustrations from his own personal experiences in work in all phases of criminology, was both informative and stimulating. A short question period followed the lecture.

The salvage crew, under the direction of Grindle, rescued most of the furniture downstairs, while Ladder Chief Bowles ran up and down an icy ladder carrying dresser drawers from the second floor. Cram was made an official fireman when he broke a window and was greeted from the other side with sprays from a hose. Marshall, chief receiver, completed eight forward passes from the second story windows. It was the first major alarm the ATO fire department has answered this year, but their coordination worked well and all out was sounded at 8:00 A.M. . . . Arthur Graham and Milton Cram are out for varsity lacrosse while pledges Jack Mudge and Claude Henry are working hard on the freshman squad. . . . BENEFIT DANCE

With William Aliapoulos as leader of the group, Greek students on campus have worked hard to make the dance a success. Their goal has been $400, the amount which the four students on the Dartmouth campus raised a short time ago. From the reports on the sale of tickets and the contributions already made, it would seem that the goal of $400 may be reached. Generous donations have already been made by the following people: Prof. Hermon L. Slobin, Mr. Raymond C. Magrath, Prof. George N. Bauer, Prof. L. Phelps Latimer, Prof. Donald C. Babcock, Prof. T. G. Phillips, Prof. Harry C. Woodworth, Asst. Prof. Albert F. Buffington, Prof. Albert F. Yeager, Prof. Helen F. McLaughlin, Mr. Carl Lundholm, and many others. Letters have been sent to all fraternities and sororities reminding them of the appreciation with which any contribution, however small, will be received.

The National Greek War Relief Association is attempting to raise $10,000,000 to be used in aid for Greece and the Greek boys on campus are doing their utmost to have this university contribute its share. Every effort has been made to cut the cost of the dance to its rock bottom; gifts from merchants in Durham, Dover, Portsmouth, Manchester, have been received in the widespread drive. Many of the tickets sold have been bought by people in the towns mentioned.

The dance will take place tonight at New Hampshire Hall with Jack Mitchell's 8-piece orchestra giving out. The dance is informal, will start at eight and end at eleven-thirty.

Those who wish to contribute something to the cause may do so by contacting William Aliapoulos at Hetzel Hall or the advisers of the group, Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Colovas, or any of the Greek boys on campus.

days and Fridays, 12:45 to 1:30 P.M., and recreational periods on Saturday and Sunday afternoons from 3 to 5. The rooms are open on other afternoons between 4 and 5:30. In the afternoons there is no dancing, but badminton and battleboard tennis are especially popular. One of the members of the Women's Physical Education Department is always on hand to supervise and give out equipment. Two N.Y.A. assistants, Mary Jane Marr and Jane Belrose, help in carrying out the program.

Rec gives students a grand opportunity to relax in between studying. But remember boys, if you don't come with a girl, it's a dime. 'Cause when the stag line gets too long — well, it's just more fun if the members are kept somewhat balanced.

John Holmes Makes Interesting Visit

Again the value of exchange professors was proved last Monday and Tuesday with the visit on campus of John Holmes, well known poet and professor of modern poetry at Tufts College.

A full two days of lectures, conferences, and discussions started out with a bang Monday morning when Mr. Holmes visited the eleven o'clock section of the Advanced Composition class. At this time he gave some valuable advice on writing, particularly emphasizing the importance of gaining order out of chaos. He also read the preface and a number of poems from his new volume of poetry, "The Unknown World," which is to be published early next fall.

That evening before one of the largest crowds ever to be gathered at Folio Club Mr. Holmes read some more of his poetry and discussed student writing.

Most eight o'clocks are anything but inspiring but Tuesday's eight o'clock in Modern American Poetry was singularly interesting because of Holmes' discussion on Robinson Jeffers' poetry and philosophy, just as he had heard Jeffers himself express it in a recent talk. This talk with Jeffers was an unusual opportunity for Mr. Holmes because it was the first time that Jeffers had ever been persuaded to speak out in this way. Mr. Holmes was using Jeffers' own typed script in reading his poetry.

Mr. Holmes closed his visit Tuesday afternoon by playing a number of recordings which are now being issued for public distribution by Harvard, of modern poetry read by the poets themselves. Highlights of these readings included recordings by Walter de la Mare, David McCord, and Mr. Holmes.

The quiet and untheatrical way in which Mr. Holmes used his own poetry to illustrate some of his ideas about writing will long be remembered by many of the people who heard him speak during his visit.

Dr. Carroll S. Towle, who was responsible for this visit, after Mr. Holmes left to go back to Tufts said: "I am convinced that these exchange visits are worthwhile and I hope to have at least one, if not two, other people doing the same thing before the close of the year."
