Nine Groups Compete Tonight In Third Annual Songfest

New Rule Restricts Choice of Songs; Contest Open to Dormitories

Two hundred and forty-six voices representing five male and four co-ed groups will compete tonight when the third annual Senior Skull's Songfest gets underway at 7:30 in New Hampshire Hall.

In what promises to be the best Songfest yet, in participation, program, and interest, Kappa Sigma, Sigma Beta, Phi Mu Delta, the Hetzel Glee Club, and Theta Chi will try to sing their way into possession of the cup, for the last two years held by Theta Chi. Competing in the sorority contest are Theta Upsilon, Alpha Xi Delta, Phi Mu, and Alpha Chi Omega—winner in the two previous contests.

Featuring this year's contest is the opening of the Songfest to non-fraternity groups for the first time. Congreve North had a stroke of bad luck when music which they ordered failed to be sent. Don't be surprised though if you find even this group competing.

Patriotic, Spiritual

Judges will be Dr. Harold Iddles, Professor Robert W. Manton, and Mrs. Lucinda P. Smith.

Each group will sing one patriotic song, one spiritual, and one song of

Swanzy Director Views Local Performance of Play

by Elwyn Dearborn

An interesting sidelight to Friday night's performance of "The Old Homestead" was the presence in the audience of James Drenan, director of the Swanzy production, and Harland Barrett, who plays the part of Seth Perkins. In commenting on the drama, both thought it remarkable that the young people in the cast portrayed the older characters with such understanding.

Mr. Barrett has had the pleasure of seeing Denman Thompson himself do the part several times, and also William Lawrence, who followed Thompson in the Josh Whitcomb role. He added to the legend of their being doubles, but he asserted that Thompson's voice was much richer than that of his successor. The performance here was a great deal different from the original production, but it resembled that done in Swanzy a great deal, according to Mr. Barrett. He was particularly pleased with the way Ralph Parker played the same part that he does, and as Ralph is a native of that district, he thought it a very good idea that Ralph should take over the part for one show this summer.

Mr. Drenan gave high praise to the Mask and Dagger production, saying that it was very different from his own in many respects, but there was a marked similarity in the action and staging of the second and third acts. He commented very favorably on the many modernisms that Director Hennessey inserted into the show. The new lines and added business were excellent and greatly enhanced the fine Durham performance. He could not use anything new in his production, however, because of the objections of the natives of Swanzy, who regard the various prompt scripts as sole authority, almost to the point of viewing them as sacred.

Backstage after the show they were introduced to the members of the cast, and invited all to visit Swanzy this summer when "The Old Homestead" is produced there.

Theta U Sophs Plan Weddings

Community Church Scene of June Nuptials

by Rachel Morrison

Cupid is seriously depleting the sophomore class of Theta U this June. Beadie MacDougall, Polly Hitchcock, Jeanette Peno and Ginger Lydiard will all tread the nuptial aisle in the near future. The prospective bridegrooms are respectively Jack Kirk, Theta Chi '41; Prescott Farrar, Kappa Sigma '41; Winston Leavitt, Phi Mu Delta '41; and John Hale Jr. ex-'43.

Beadie and Jack will be married in the Durham Community Church at 4 o'clock on June 8. Rev. Emerson Hagen will perform the military service. The bride's sister, Ethel MacDougall, will be maid of honor, while Gar Frey will serve as best man. Marion Ingebreten, Marcia Weatherill, Alma Coury and Mildren Ellis will be among the bridesmaids. Al Ferry, Stan Low, H. S. Martin, Jr. and Bob Piper, all members of Scabbard and Blade, will be the ushers. After a short trip the Kirks will return to Durham for the commencement activities. After that, their destiny rests with the U. S. Army. Jack will receive his commission June 2, but is awaiting his assignment to duty.

Tony Touart New Head Cheer Leader

At football games next year, students of the University of New Hampshire will rise and give out to the animated antics of a new head cheer-leader, Tony Touart. The recent election, besides naming Tony as Stan Low's successor, has placed William Keough and Wayne Lowry on the Award Committee with Professor A. W. Johnson as faculty adviser.

The popular Tony Touart played varsity football last year and so should make an able successor to Stan Low. Keough and Lowry are famous for their skiing and track respectively.

The Student Activity Tax for both men and women has been passed without any changes over last year's assessment.

Convo Thursday

Men and women who have earned the privilege of wearing the "N.H." will be honored for the last time this year at a student convocation, Thursday, at 1:15, in New Hampshire Hall. This program will take the place of the usual award night, sponsored by the N.H. Club in previous years, and it is hoped that the entire student body and faculty will turn out to honor the athletes and coaches who have carried New Hampshire's colors during the past year.

Catholics Attend Newman Club's Yearly Breakfast

Former Faculty Member, Major Devens, Given Honorary Society Award

In a fine demonstration of Catholicism, about 250 members of that religion participated in the 5th Annual Communion Breakfast of the Newman Club held Sunday morning at the Commons cafeteria.

Members of the club, faculty members, invited guests, and townspeople received the Holy Eucharist at the 9 o'clock Mass in Murkland Auditorium, and then marched to the Commons where they were served breakfast.

Invited guests included the Most Rev. John Peterson, Bishop of Manchester, Fred Engelhardt, President of University, Hon. Dennis A. Dooley, State Librarian of Mass., Rev. Hector A. Benoit D.D., Rev. Wm. J. Collins S.T.A., Col. Conrad Lanza, George T. Hughes, trustee of the University, and Major W. George Devens. Mr. John Neville served as toastmaster.

Five Years Old

All of the speakers praised the Newman Club for the remarkable progress made in the five years since its organization on campus, and special tribute was paid to the Rev. J. Desmond O'Connor, chaplain of the club, for the splendid work that he has done in making the club so successful and for the excellent influence that he exerts on the young people on campus.

Highlight of the program was the presentation of the John Henry Newman Honorary Society Award to Ma-

During the summer months bills for tuition will be sent to the students. The money for the bills must be mailed or sent before September 15, or paid at the Business office on Friday, September 19. If they are not paid by this date, the late registration fine will be imposed beginning on Saturday, June 20. To any student who pays his fees and then for some reason cannot come, a full refund will be made if the registrar's office is notified before classes start on Monday, September 22.

Any student who fails a course this semester and has to revise his schedule must come on September 19 to make the necessary changes. Sheets containing directions for the preliminary registration will be issued soon. Room and hour schedules will be available either today or tomorrow at the Registrar's office.

N. H. Hotel Men Confer Today

Registration for the Hotel Men's Conference began about 9:30 this morning as members of the New Hampshire Hotel Association started arriving on campus. After registering the delegates were conducted on a tour of the campus.

The highlight of the morning was the lecture given by Anthony Vaughn, Vice President of the American Hotel Corporation. This was followed by lunch at one at Commons at which President and Mrs. Engelhardt and Governor Blood were present. After lunch there was a meeting of the association in the Trophy Room.

At four, the conference adjourned to the ball game where seats were reserved for the delegates in the third base section. To end the day there will be a lobster picnic at Emerson's Beach at 6 o'clock.

And the Rains Came - From The Drill of the Same Name

by Lou Geller

Everybody will remember last Thursday, especially the freshman, sophomores, and the advanced R. O. T. C. cadets. Last Thursday was the day set aside for the perennial federal inspection of the R. O. T. C. units, but the Gods of Fate, which many students preferred calling the Gods of Justice just wouldn't allow it.

You all know what happened. It rained. But "this rain" was a different rain for the potential inspectees. It is suspected that the clouds which precipitated this rain were formed by their gloom—the gloom which always accompanies Federal Inspection especially when it is as hot as it was.

Krupa Thought of

The cops of deduction began to mesh as the reason for this long-hoped for but little expected rain. Some swing-minded soldiers thought of the thunder as Krupa on the war drums beating away at a furious rate in their favor, perhaps in return for the many admis-

Lou Barnett and Flowers Greet Dancers at Smith

Smith Hall danced to the melodic strains of Lou Barnett and his band Saturday night. Despite the rainy evening, the myriads of apple blossoms which grew mysteriously from the banks of green, gave the two reception rooms and the lobby an air of spring. (But since when have fake posies reeked of Roger and Gallet Sandlewood?) A white fence around the lobby, terminating in white-washed gates, picturesquely set the garden scene. An arbor, blooming with yellow roses, framed the entrance, and the hall-way provided a cosy garden spot.

Mrs. McLellan, Miss Beckwith, Mr. Blicke, Betty Jo Weaver, and Herb Smith composed the receiving line. In general charge of this attractive affair was Betty Jo Weaver, but the success of the dance was due largely to the whole-hearted cooperation of all the girls in the house.

Appreciation

Today's issue being the last of the current scholastic year for The New Hampshire, the editor wishes to take this opportunity to publicly thank all those who have worked so faithfully during the last semester to assure the paper's appearance every Tuesday and Friday afternoon. Healers, fraternity and sorority reporters, staff members, and workers in the Durham Print have all cooperated splendidly to ease the task from the shoulders of any one person. Sincerely appreciative of everything that all concerned have done, the editor wishes everyone a pleasant summer vacation.

What to Do?

This year more than ever before graduating seniors face a world which presents many problems of a serious nature. Every phase of our national life is directly or indirectly influenced by the war in the eastern hemisphere which daily seems more anxious to involve the United States. What to do about it is the question that must be answered wisely by college students.

The Class of 1941 has made a remarkable record here at the University; its achievements are far too numerous to mention. Graduating at the end of the Seventy-fifth Anniversary year, it has enjoyed a college career which will be hard to forget.

Almost every senior has made up his own mind as to how he will cope with the difficulties already arising. Many will go into active military service immediately, either through the draft, the air corps, the reserve army, or voluntary enlistment. Those who remain in civilian life may choose to attempt to prevent this country from being involved in this war, but at any rate everyone will be called upon to cooperate in the national defense effort in some way.

No matter how connected with the hostilities, the important thing for graduates to remember is their college education and the things it stands for. Regardless of any personal prejudices an individual may have against war he must be ready to back the government to the fullest if and when the United States becomes openly involved.

The impression made on the university by the present seniors will be a lasting one. Through their four years they have worked and played here together to the mutual advantage of all. If this school is to grow and its spirit develop and manifest itself, however, the graduates-to-be must remember New Hampshire and return to the campus occasionally to renew that spirit of eagerness which should live here.

Although they will undoubtedly hear this many more times before the end of commencement week, we would like to wish the seniors every success possible in a world which they have taken four years to prepare themselves to face. And a final admonition—keep the optimistic, youthful attitude, never exchange it for one of pessimism or defeatism.

It is Unfortunate that the exhibit in the lobby of New Hampshire hall, center of many anniversary festivities, has been spoiled by some immature person stealing the photograph of the Junior Prom from its place on the wall. Whoever is responsible should make it a point to return the picture immediately and reshape his sense of values.

Pettee Medal Goes To Justice Stone

United States Supreme Court Justice Harlan Fiske Stone, recently became the first man to receive the Charles Holmes Pettee service medal presented by the University of New Hampshire Alumni Association.

In a brief ceremony in the Supreme Court building at Washington, Justice Stone was awarded the emblem by Senator H. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire. Other members of New Hampshire's legislative delegation (state citizens in government offices) and Alumni Secretary Eugene K. Auerback were present.

Perpetuating the name of Dr. Pettee, who for over half a century served the university as teacher and administrator, the medal is presented annually as a symbol "of rare devotion" and was created "to honor selected native sons and daughters of New Hampshire . . . who may have rendered a unique service to this state."

Justice Stone was characterized in citation as one who for over a quarter of a century has been "a most valuable citizen to his country."

Columbia Graduate

Born in Chesterfield and educated through high school in this state, Justice Stone was graduated from Columbia University's School of Law in 1898 and was admitted to the bar that same year. He returned to Columbia in 1902 where he served as Professor and Dean of the Law School.

President Coolidge appointed Mr. Stone Attorney General on April 7, 1924, and Associate Justice of the Supreme Court on March 2, 1925.

The medal was designed by Harry Lucas, student of architecture at the university.

THAT UPWARD TREND!

Although there have been some ups-and-downs, nevertheless, New Hampshire's sports prestige, in general, seems to have taken a definite rise during the last ten years or so. We are quite apt to become slightly discouraged at times by sudden, unexpected setbacks, but if the general athletic field is analyzed thoroughly, one easily perceives the upward trend. It has taken more than one brand of athletic competition to manufacture this rise so, in order to get a full picture of the situation, the activities of all the teams should be traced. This being the last issue of the year, however, we can only touch the high spots.

Ski Team Best

The most impressive team that bore the NH was the ski team. By virtue of its victories over Dartmouth our ski team made the headlines in all big New England papers. The reputation of the Wildcat skiers is now widespread so that this team leads all the rest in the work of raising the New Hampshire sports prestige. Paul Townsend will be lost next year but there remain Ralph Townsend, Bill Keough and the rest of the stars to make the hopes for the coming year appear bright.

The football team, was good last fall. Granted that we did lose to Vermont and St. Anselms, we showed up well against all the other teams. The most encouraging thing is the fact that practically all the backfield will be back but much work has to be done with the line since some of the old stars like Flaherty and Ripper Jones are leaving.

The basketball forces had a fair season but we must remember that our worst beating came at the hands of Rhode Island's powerful five. Cryans, Adams, and Flaherty will not be available next season so that it's going to take a lot of work to organize a new basketball machine. Some of the stars of this year's yearling court team may come through but still the services of the graduates will be missed.

Baseball Good

Baseball was quite fruitful this season even though the team was very weak in hitting and the number of pitchers was limited. We sympathize with Swasey because we feel that it was purely unlucky that rain stopped the Wildcat-Maine tilt. New Hampshire, Northeastern and Rhode Island were tied for first place and then, last Saturday, Rhode Island defeated Connecticut to take a half-game lead while New Hampshire was rained out. In our opinion, Karelis would very probably have beaten Maine. Next year's hopes are very encouraging. Karelis will be back to do the pitching and a number of Freshmen may be able to bolster the offense by hitting more.

The lacrosse team had a good season, losing only two games but it wasn't good enough to repeat last year's performances. The tennis team will miss Paul Conway very much but it still has material enough to do as good if not better than this year's team did.

Bear Game Rained Out; Rhode Island Captures Title

'Cats Meet Lowell Textile This Afternoon; Karelis Or Draper to Hurl

It rained here Saturday afternoon and consequently the weatherman gave the league title to Warner Keaney's Rhode Island Rams. Coach Henry Swasey was very anxious to have the game staged but it was absolutely impossible to meet the Bears. Rhode Island, meanwhile, emerged with a 9-2 victory over the Nutmeggers of Connecticut, to clinch the bunting.

The Swaseymen meet Lowell Textile today in the final game before the finals. Textile is not a powerful team but it can be very troublesome. That was the case last year. Lowell was unusually weak but they traveled up here and held the locals to a 3-3 tie. Either Sheik Karelis or Fred Draper will toe the slab for the locals.

There is a possibility that Tom Callagy will be shifted to right field for the game and Jerry Thayer will take over the keystone duties. Right field has been a headache all season long.

After today's game all activity will shut down until June 14 when New Hampshire meets the Eagles of Boston College.

WAA Awards Made this Week

The Women's Athletic Association will make its awards sometime this week. The awards are all made on a basis of points earned. Points may be earned by participating in inter-class hockey, basketball, softball, archery, tennis, and women's rifle squad. Class team managers and class sports leaders also receive points.

The first award made is in the form of numerals and is made to all who have earned 200 points. Girls receiving numerals are as follows: Seniors: Sally Barnwell, Dorothea Bancroft, Virginia Percy, and Betsy Chamberlain. Juniors: Alice Peckham, Claire Richard, Elizabeth Blood, Jane Haubrich, Claire Parker, Priscilla Preston, Dorothy Weden; Sophomores: Florence Baukman, Pauline Cummings, Virginia Woodward, Mabel Bartlett, Marjorie Johnson, Marion Phillips, and Lorene Scott; Freshmen: Adrienne Astle, Shirley Lyford, Theda Oakes, Ellen Sanborn, Doris Flynn, and Shirley Loughton.

Next award is a pin. All who have earned 600 points are entitled to this. Girls who are to receive pins are: Seniors: Dorothy Minor; Juniors: Virginia Dow and Dorothy Perkins; Sophomores: Margaret Dower, Louise Griffin, and Audrey Pierce.

The highest award consists of letters which are given to all who have attained 1000 points. Those who are to receive their letters this year are: Seniors: Anne Carlisle, Lois Draper, and Joyce Sanborn; and Junior, Eleanor Mauricette.

Dartmouth Trims Wildcats, 10 - 3

Glines, Mackel, Duprey Score in Final Game

Continuing their undefeated season in New England and showing the type of playing which made them New England League champs, the Dartmouth varsity lacrosse team trounced New Hampshire's stickmen 10-3 at Hanover Saturday afternoon.

Dartmouth scored easily six times in the first half and four in the last half, but used very few substitutes. Wilder and Seel provided the scoring punch for the Big Green, scoring four and two goals and Nehring also scored twice for Dartmouth. Mackel, Duprey, and Glines each scored once for the Wildcats.

Wildcats Second

The game had no effect on the standing in the league, since Dartmouth had already clinched the crown and New Hampshire was in sole possession of the number two spot, nevertheless it was characterized by hard and rough checking, and playing.

This game brought a very successful season to an ending for the Wildcats, having defeated M. I. T., Springfield, Tufts, and Harvard, but losing to Williams and Dartmouth for a four and two record. Although they did not finish in a tie for first place, they defeated Harvard, a team which nosed out New Hampshire last year and dropped them into a tie for the crown. Coach Dougal did a great job this year after losing his two ace attack men Coutts and Piretti and deserves a lot of credit.

Dartmouth—Lapres, g; Baker, p; Lamson, cp; Delaney, Temple, ld; Nehring, 2d; Lansburgh, c; Sigler, Porter, Klein, 2a; Riley, la; Slingluff, Seel, oh; Wilder, Geller, ih.

Rain Washes Out Tilton Frosh Game

Rain postponed the freshman—Tilton which was to have been played Saturday at Tilton. The team got as far as Concord when the rain forced them back to Durham.

The Kittens opened the season with a 12-11 victory over Andover. Fred Jervis went all the way for the Roodmen and the game was featured by some lusty hitting on the part of Hal Burby. Austin Cate did not have a team so consequently the game was cancelled. The Roodmen next traveled to Exeter and absorbed a 7-6 defeat. They marked time until Northeastern struck town and outlasted then went down 12-9. Loose fielding was the chief cause of defeat. Mickey Meserve shut out New Hampton to the tune of 10-0, and on Mother's Day John Fabello's Bridgton Academy team eked out a 7-6 victory over the locals. The freshmen ended the season with a 13-2 victory over Clark.

At the end of the season Ike Ruhland was elected captain of the team. Ruhland is a very promising catcher and will undoubtedly be a big help to the varsity in another year.

Frosh Lacrossemen Edge Dartmouth

Scoring two goals in the final minutes of a hard-fought game, the freshman lacrosse team edged out the Dartmouth Little Green sticksters 6-5 at Hanover Saturday afternoon.

Bill York was the boy to come through with the tying and winning tallies just before the gun went off. They were his second and third of the period, his first one coming earlier in the quarter.

The Dartmouth frosh had not been behind in the entire game, leading 2-0 at the quarter, 2-2 at half-time, and taking a long lead of 5-2 at the end of the third period. Tom Niles scored the first goal for New Hampshire and Bill Kolinsky tied the game up at 2-2. In the third quarter, the Kittens were held scoreless, but came back with a vengeance to blast four goals past the helpless goalie.

The Kitten attack clicked very well with plenty of team-work between all the members. Howie Darling, Lenny Wolfe, and Joe Garrison did well on defense.

The game was the final one for the freshmen and closed one of their most successful seasons in years. They won four games and their only loss was to Phillips Exeter Academy.

NEWMAN CLUB

Dr. W. George Devens, formerly of the faculty of the university, by Father O'Connor.

This key and scroll, signifying outstanding work in the Newman Club, was given to Major Devens for the splendid job that he did in helping to organize the local chapter. This was the first time since its founding that a member has been so highly honored.

Prexy Speaks

In a few brief remarks, Dr. Engelhardt stated that he was very pleased to participate in the affair, as he considered the work of the Newman Club in cooperation with the other religions here to be the finest example of true democracy.

Bishop Peterson commented that in times of duress such as we have now, more loyalty to God, to country, and to our school should be had by all. He emphasized that the students often forget to be loyal to the taxpayers of the state, without whose help and interest the university would not be possible.

The principle address of the affair was delivered by the Hon. Dennis A. Dooley. Taking as his theme the Catholic Church as an exponent of democracy, Dr. Dooley pointed out that representative government began in the church, and that in the beginnings of our own country in the state of Maryland, freedom of religion was at its best. He illustrated his speech by brief excerpts from the encyclicals of the Popes of fifty years ago, on labor and capital, and showed how many of our present fair labor laws were derived from this source.

All Over Now

The curtain fell on the intramural athletic campaign Monday afternoon with the track meet and a baseball game between West Hall and Phi Mu Delta. Kappa Sigma emerged victorious in the track meet with Hetzel Hall running second.

Lampson Vault Champ, Flaherty 2nd in Hammer; Fourth Win for Rams

Two New Hampshire performers stood out in the NEICAAA track and field championships held last Friday and Saturday at Briggs Field, Cambridge. Rhode Island won with 30 points and New Hampshire was tied for sixth place with 8 points.

Steve Lampson's 12 ft. 9 in. vault won him the well-deserved title of 1941 New England champion pole vaulter and Matt Flaherty threw the hammer 172 feet for a second in that event. Matt's throw was just eight and three quarters inches, short of Rhode Island's Norman Wilcox's winning heave of 172 8/16 in.

Just A Beginner

For Steve, the championship meant the crowning achievement in a season in which he was undefeated in dual competition. And the remarkable angle about his accomplishments is the fact that Steve didn't even come out for the pole vault until the winter track season of his sophomore year.

Interesting to note is the consistency of Lampson's performances at Cambridge. He went over the bar on his first trial every time except on his winning vault. Nearly all of his rivals, on the other hand, required two or three trials before getting over. Steve certainly deserves all the congratulations in the world for the practically miraculous manner in which he has actually made himself, with coach Paul Sweet's help, into a champion pole vaulter.

Matt's defeat in the hammer may be explained by the fact that he just couldn't seem to get going on Friday, the day that the weather was good, whereas on Saturday, when he made his near winning throw, the weather was awful, the rain having started to fall a half hour before the events got under way and making the circle a small sea of slippery mud.

On to N.Y.

Note—Matt, along with Steve Lampson and possibly Homer Hamlin, is going to compete in the ICAAAA's in New York this Friday and Saturday; so they will all have the opportunity to go after new successes. Flaherty has made the season's longest hammer throw for 1941—175 ft. 6 1/2 in.—and has made a heave of 179 ft. 3 in. before that, so he will have a good chance to win.

Dent's Prize Play,
Powerful Tragedy
Ends Radio Series

by Shirley Evans

Bringing to the campus a new form of creative expression, Mike and Dial Thursday afternoon presented the last in a series of three prize-winning plays, written, directed, and acted by student talent. This university has for several years been noted for its excellent writing, and also for the high quality of its acting; but for the first time the two fields have been combined, and the drama as a living art has become a reality here.

The freshman class recently sponsored a one-act play contest. Two of the plays, Elwyn Dearborn's Faces to the Sun, which tied for first place, and Bernard Rosenblatt's Euthanasia, have already been presented by Mike and Dial. On Thursday the third play, which with Dearborn's won first place, was given. This was Richard Dent's Listen to the Rain. Dent, already known on campus for winning first prize in the Harper's poetry contest last year, and for his excellent poetry published in the Student Writer, wrote his play in blank verse, and brought to it a lyrical quality seldom reached in a one-act play.

Tragedy in Verse

Listen to the Rain is the story of two kinds of love—of the warm, normal love of a mother for her sons and for life—and the terrible love of a man so stern it crushes the very lives of the ones he loves. Anthony Tenny says of his dead son, "My son is dead, I shall mourn him not. I killed him with love men cannot understand." Anthony's wife, Anna, wants only to escape this octopus-love that has killed one of her sons, that she knows will crush the lives of her other son, of her cousin, and of herself. But in the end, knowing Anthony has won, she only says, "Do not think; let us believe we have won. Only listen to the rain, like tiny, half-struck bells across the night."

Amy Rand, as Anna, and Bernard Rosenblatt as Anthony, were easily the outstanding players in the production. Both spoke the difficult blank-verse lines with sensitive feeling, and without losing the poetry. Dent himself played the part of Anna's pathetic cousin, Albert. Elwyn Dearborn played Anthony's son, Warren, and Jerry Wolcott took the part of Mr. Stark, the road agent. The play was capably directed by Tom O'Donnell.

The Leavitts will leave for their home in Bridgeport, Connecticut, immediately after the ceremony.

Plans for Ginny Lydiard's wedding are still indefinite. At present the marriage is scheduled for early fall.

Crafts Cottage Offers
Varied Courses for Next Year

By Lilly Carlson

"What courses can I take next year?" is a question that is popping up in the minds of most of the students at this time of year. Sometimes students need just a few more points, but cannot find a course that will fit into the rest of the schedule. But even if this is not the case, one will find that an interesting and convenient course is that of Applied Design which is given at Crafts Cottage. This course is open to men and women alike. No previous art training or other prerequisite is necessary.

Crafts Cottage is open most of the day for students to work there. The course may be taken for one to three credits depending upon the number of hours actually spent in laboratory work. The hours may be fitted into the schedule of the student, for the only scheduled time is once a week for beginners for instruction in design. Miss Bowen is there most of the time to help the students.

Plastic Marble Popular

Some of the arts and crafts which one can practice include stick printing and weaving scarves and rugs. Chip carving, wood burning, leather work, and Burgess board modeling are also carried on. Working with plastic marble is a popular craft. Moistened marble dust is shaped about molds and is dried in air. The finished product resembles pottery but it differs in that it does not need to be fired.

So far, the crafts have been limited to those which do not require many tools, so that persons can continue their work after having left here. Since tools are provided, the student need only pay for the materials used.

Crafts Cottage is open all day and visitors are welcome to come in at any time.

NEW ENGLAND'S

In addition to Flaherty and Lamson, Homer Hamlin, Willard Crook, Warren Jones, Wyane Lowry, Jack Kirk, James Lufkin, William Cannell, and Clifton Flint, also made the trip.

Hamlin qualified on Friday with a 50.4 second quarter as did Crook in the 220 and Cannell in the 220 low hurdles. New Hampshire had men entered in the 100, 220, 220 yard low hurdles, the half mile, two mile, pole vault, discus and hammer.

Last Meet With N. E.

This Tuesday, at 2:30, the New Hampshire varsity track team will compete in its last dual meet of the season. Northeastern will provide the competition. Since a good part of the squad is being graduated and another good share will be lost next year through the draft, it will be the last chance for us to see most of the men in action. Here's hoping a good crowd turns out. Don't forget—Tuesday—at 2:30 P. M.

Finally, in this, the last issue of the 1940-41 New Hampshire, the sports staff of the New Hampshire would like to pay tribute to Paul Sweet, the coach who is responsible, in great measure, for the great performances of New Hampshire's track teams.

HONOR BISBEE

Bisbee are known for their skill in bird feeding and bird banding, their hobbies of furniture making and gardening, and their active support of the Community Church.

In a recent interview, Professor Bisbee emphasized the splendid work the Rotary is doing at present in improving and cementing friendships between the two Americas. With his wide experience and speaking ability, he is well qualified to assume the position of governor, one of the most important in Rotary.

dripping soldiers when they had to go on the field anyway. Although most of them felt like the dauntless Lochinvar going into battle marching out there in the rain, there was no limit to their ecstasy when after fifteen minutes they returned and were dismissed.

All Wet Anyway

Because they were all wet anyway (no irony meant), some went from rain into the chlorinated water of the swimming pool, others put their bathing suits on and promenaded around East Hall, and the rest took showers. From one form of H-2-O to another; but the other was voluntary.

Major Ralph A. W. Pearson and Major John D. Mitchell, the inspecting officers, commented favorably on the whole R. O. T. C. unit and the school was again given an excellent rating.

Student Writer

by David Jolly

In this year's Student Writer a sizeable share of the contents deal directly or incidentally with college life. The greater part of the remainder deal with experiences, subjects, or emotions which have either become part of the writer's self or in which he has shared deeply, if vicariously. Thus, for the most part, the contributors have written about things they knew well. This partly accounts for the general excellence of the work. It is, indeed, a worthy achievement.

Youth and War

Of all the pieces included therein, I thought the best was Teresa Foley's essay, "For Better Understanding." Miss Foley has written a clear, thoughtful and intelligent answer to the criticisms that have been levelled at youth because of its stand on the gravest issue of the day—the war. She has spoken, I think, for a large group of youth who view the international complexities objectively when she has said, "We would go to war to preserve the democratic situation. But quietly and determinedly we would go, knowing that we fight not to gain but to preserve."

The second essay, "Death and Ernest Hemingway," by Paul Bonner, is a mature critique of an important artist. As such it is an arresting study, tracing Hemingway's treatment of and attitude toward death, from the publication of The Sun Also Rises to For Whom The Bell Tolls, and it is representative of the type of scholarship and criticism which demands encouragement.

College Romance

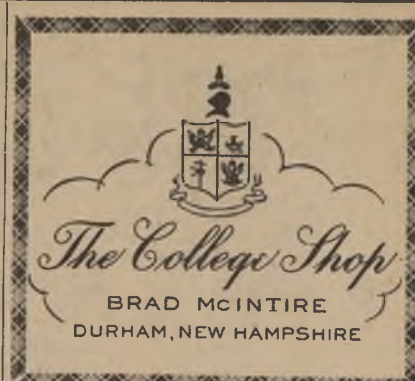

Three of the seven short stories in the Writer are contributed by Shirley Evans. In "If We Meet Again," Miss Evans tells of a college romance, ecstatic in its sweetness, but brief in its flowering. She handles the nuances of a difficult romantic situation with skill and sureness so that what might have been just another sticky story comes alive in its vibrant poignancy. Her narrative skill shows to advantage in "The Kinsington Buck" and in "Poppies at Noon" as does her ability to characterize and handle conversation. It is somewhat remarkable to note that in these two latter stories no female character plays a direct and vital part.

Teresa Foley is represented among the story-tellers with "Lucy," a powerfully drawn portrait of a woman whose love for her enfeebled son compensated for a bleak and indifferent existence. Miss Foley twists a grim, ironic note into her tale many times with artistic deftness. Whether you like the story or not, you are certain to be moved by it.

Dent and Lyons

While the ladies evidently are supreme in the short-story realm, among the poets the men definitely assume the positions of leadership, with Paul Lyons and Richard Dent vying for top honors.

In "Burning Mountains," Lyons has given us not a narrative poem, as he calls it, but a love poem. A poem strong and valiant, pledging faith in and love for his New England, its people, and its history. Laid "where mountains burn in a crucible of dawn"; peopled with Ethan Allen, Webster,

UNH Extension Service
Cooperates with AAA on
"Food for Defense" Plan

The chief policy of the United States Government during the present world crisis—regardless of whether it gets us into the fight or not—seems to be an attempt not to make the mistakes of the last war. As a result, the U. S. Department of Agriculture has composed the "Food for Defense" plan, with which the New Hampshire Extension Service is cooperating.

The purposes of the plan are many: to insure adequate supplies of food during and after the war; to stabilize prices and prevent their too rapid rise, to build up surpluses of food sufficient to care for the needs of war-torn areas during and after the war, to protect the conditions of our farms from the ravages of uncontrolled war-time production, to provide for the health of the citizens and army of the United States by producing the right foods in the right proportion.

Ask Increase in Tomatoes

As an example of the extent to which the plan is being carried, an increase of fifty percent in tomato production is demanded by the Department of Agriculture. All food production will be coordinated to produce the most and best foods at the least expense to the soil. Soil conservation officials believe that the conditions of our farming land after the last war ordains that this program be carried out as extensively as possible.

A brief prepared by the Division of Information, A.A.A., states that government purchases of food will be used for (1) transfer to Great Britain and other countries under the Lend-Lease Act, (2) release upon the market in case of unwarranted price increase, (3) Red Cross shipments to war refugee areas, and (4) direct distribution through school lunch programs or State welfare departments for public-aid families. Thus, according to recent developments in the food world, America will not be only the "arsenal of democracy" but the granary of all hungry nations.

and a comfortable hermit "Smiling from dirty beard and wrinkled ease"; and thronged with images and scenes that capture the fire of poetry; this long poem has a singing strength and movement that make it successful. Lyons's shorter poems will also merit your attention.

Dent's poetry shows skilled workmanship, a cool, almost detached passion, and disciplined writing. He writes in measured cadences, using full rich sounds and carefully selected imagery. In "Harvest in Spring," the harvest of love-born pain, appear these lines:
"Love begs for crumbs of beauty lest it starve.

It whets its keenness on a hone
of moon
And makes forgetting sharper than itself."

Many other pieces merit attention not possible in this restricted space. Elinor Sawyer, Malcolm MacLean, Ruth Stoughton, Jack Mitchell, and Paul Wheeler are creditably represented within the 236 pages of this year's Student Writer.

SOCIOLOGY CLUB

There will be a meeting of the Sociology Club Wednesday evening in the Commons Trophy Room at 7:30 P.M. for the election of officers. Amendments to the constitution will be voted upon and moving pictures will be shown.
