Largest Senior Meeting Scene of Class Party

And so the Seniors had themselves a party—and what a party!! On Wednesday evening, last, New Hampshire Hall was the scene of the largest Senior class meeting in the history of the university. The far-seeing class officers saw a need for closer unity, a "firmer foundation" on which to build a stronger alumni body; and for that purpose laid tentative plans for three get-togethers. And if the first one was any index to their appeal or success, ask almost any member of the class about it.

The evening started off with a buffet supper at 6:30. The '42ers entered into the spirit of things; pulled their chairs in small circles all over the hall, ate and talked while the College Inn provided music throughout the meal. At 7:30 the meeting was called to order by retiring president Ray Doyle, who said a few words to the group and introduced newly-elected president of the class of 1942, Don Crafts. Don welcomed the class, explained the purpose of the parties, and in turn introduced the class officers.

President Engelhardt was enthusiastic in his praise of this idea, which is an innovation in the annals of class organization here at New Hampshire. After President Engelhardt's talk, Don introduced Bishop Dallas, of the Board of Trustees, who gave an inspiring twenty-minute talk to the members of the class. He spoke of the functions of the trustees and their importance to a university.

After the business meeting, an hour and a half of dancing to the music of the College Inn orchestra was held, climaxing one of the most successful evenings of the year.

From the New Yorker:

WORDS OF ONE SYLLABLE DEPARTMENT

(From the Lowell Sun and Citizen-Leader)

With Al Sakoian and Art Galli definitely out of the game because of injuries, fears were expressed today that Captain Dick Gordon of the University of New Hampshire football team might be able to play against Tufts Saturday.

Delegates Report On Conventions

Chalmers and Kimball Speak at Women's Convo

Since the first couple of meetings of the Women's Student Government this year have been devoted to prominent speakers of New England, such as Nell Giles and Natalie Hammond, the meeting on Wednesday afternoon was turned into a regular business one. At this time president Barbara Burns announced that Ann Hale, Helen Pearce, Gail Daly, and Dorothea Dowell had been chosen to serve on the Student Committee on National Defense. Following a few "scoldings," the floor was given to Dorothy Kimball and Marjorie Chalmers who gave an account of the trips they had made to national conventions of student governments at Wellesley and the University of Vermont. Dorothy spoke first about the meeting at Wellesley, which centered strictly around a national defense theme. There was a delegate at this gathering from Elmira College who said that at her college, courses are being taught about the present war so that the student can learn precisely what this fight is about.

Marj Chalmers said that the thing that impressed her the most at the convention held at U.V.M. was the amiability of the girls. The major topic of discussion was "Today's Challenge to Democracy." One of the important speakers was Dorothy Canfield Fisher, a native Vermonter and a staunch supporter of defense projects. It was learned that at some colleges extracurricular activities are being abandoned in order to devote more time to defense measures.

At the close of the meeting it was announced that sometime after Christmas, Nell Giles will make a return trip to U.N.H.

Coeds Will Debate With Middlebury

Middlebury College is sending a team of women debaters here to meet a woman's team from New Hampshire. The debate is to be held December 10, 2:30 p.m., in room 308 Thompson Hall. The New Hampshire team consists of Dorothy Roy, Ann Willard, and Betty Nelson. The subject of debate is, "Resolved: that every female citizen of the United States before reaching the age of twenty-one should be drafted for one year of non-military service during the period of an unlimited emergency." On December 11 at 4 P.M. in the same room this New Hampshire team will compete against an all-women team from the University of Maine on the same subject. These debates will be non-decisional contests. New Hampshire will support the affirmative against Middlebury and the negative against Maine.

There will be no more debates by the varsity or freshmen until after the Christmas vacation.

Second Concert by Siberian Singers

The Siberian Singers, presenting the highest achievement in male choir singing, will appear Wednesday evening in New Hampshire Hall.

For several years the American public and critics have applauded the superb singing of this group. Whether in a metropolitan center, or in some great university hall; they are equally effective, capable of producing deep resonance, perfect blending of voices, and a sensitiveness to music seldom heard today.

Proof of their popularity is the fact that all the concert tickets were sold more than a week before their arrival.

Formed some years ago in St. Petersburg, these men were selected from the finest male voices to be found. The concert is led and directed by Nicholas Vasilieff who is one of the remarkable vocalists.

Mike and Dial to Make Inspection of W M U R

Members of Mike and Dial and Professor Cortez's radio class left this afternoon for station W M U R in Manchester for an inspection tour. Miss Alberta Sullivan, director of Women's Programs, is scheduled to interview several of the group on her broadcast at 5:45 this evening. According to plans, cars will return to campus by 7:15 in order to allow those desiring to attend the Mil Art ball an opportunity to do so.

The next broadcast from Durham by the workshop is scheduled for December 12 at 4:15 o'clock. The following week, December 19, members and guests will hold a Christmas party in the workshop at 4 o'clock. The last meeting of the semester will be held the Friday after Christmas vacation when names of prospective members will be discussed.

President Engelhardt Accepts Chairmanship

According to announcement made recently, President Fred Engelhardt accepted the chairmanship of the military affairs committee of the National Association of State Universities. He succeeds President Arthur C. Willard of the University of Illinois.

MASK AND DAGGER

There will be a meeting of Mask and Dagger on Tuesday, December 9 at 8:00 P.M., in Murkland 116.

Signed: Dave Crockett, President.

Newman Club to Attend Communion Breakfast

Under the sponsorship of the local chapter the annual Fall Communion Breakfast of the New England Federation of Newman Clubs will be held Sunday morning in Boston. Mass will be celebrated at the Holy Cross Cathedral, after which the delegates will partake of the breakfast to be served at the University Club.

All plans for the event have been made by the local committee, headed by Ray Doyle, who will also serve as toastmaster at the breakfast. A large delegation from campus will make the trip. Transportation will be provided and the group will leave from the Commons at 7 a.m.

The committee in charge of the affair includes: Ralph DesRoches, Kay Sullivan, Dot McCready, Wini Kennedy, Bill Cone, Tom O'Donnell, and Esther Doyle.

Outdoor Day to be Held at Guilford

Because the annual Winter Carnival has in the past few years become merely a social week-end, it was recently announced by Blue Circle that this year a special Outdoor Day will be held at Guilford. In the past, Saturdays have been spent showing the gal friend the Library and the various other points of interest on campus, but instead the 1942 Carnival will feature a day of skiing, snow balling, square dancing, and events in the Belknap Region.

Carnival Chairman, Dave Sleeper, announced the following committee Monday night: Carnival Ball—Ralph DesRoches; Decorations—Dot Jasper, Claire Richards, Judy Austin, John Gowen, Maury Winn, and Anne Stevens; Refreshments—Lois Richardson and Theda Oakes; Chaperones—Barbie Pride; Programs—Ginny Fuller; Tickets—Buhrman Garland and Margaret Preble; Outdoor Night—Red Preble, Bob Stewart, Phyllis Churchill, Jane Carter, and Ray Hastings; Midnight Show—Ginny Hill and Lily Carlson; Basketball Game—Dick Horan and Chipper Curtis; Publicity—Phyl Devenau, Monroe Evans, Marcia Robinson, and Lily Carlson; Snow Sculptures—Carolyn Napier and Ken Millar; Posters—Howie Steele; Buttons—Elly Mauricette; Outdoor Day—Monty Evans, Ted Stebbins, and Dot Page.

Doyle, Moore, Aides For Military Ball; Donahue Plays

Junior Pledges Inducted To Scabbard and Blade in Traditional Ceremony

Tonight at 9 o'clock the gay social season of the university will be officially underway when the long anticipated Mil Art Ball becomes a reality. Hundreds of eager, excited students will dance to the syncopated rhythms of Sam Donahue and his orchestra, who comes here from many successful engagements at colleges throughout the East. Acclaimed one of the finest young bands in America by such authorities as Benny Goodman, Harry James, and Gene Krupa, Donahue's band was organized during his high school days and still contains three of the original members. Featured with Donahue's orchestra will be his vocalists, Frances Claire and Andy Blaine; and drummer, Harold Hahn.

Cadet Colonel Dot Perkins

Presiding over the festivities will be Cadet Colonel, Dotty Perkins, escorted through the arch by Tony Touart, captain of Scabbard and Blade. They will be ably assisted by aides Elinor Doyle and Marjorie Moore.

Miss Perkins, a popular member of the senior class, has participated in many activities during her college career. She has played on the hockey and basketball teams and is a member of Psi Lambda, Home Economics Club. Last year she was a candidate for Carnival Queen and also served on the Granite Staff.

The role of aide is not new to Elinor Doyle or Marjorie Moore, since they were aides to the Junior Prom Queen last year.

Elly has been secretary of her class for four years and a cheerleader for three. This year she was among those students elected to Who's Who.

Midge Moore, the other aide, is president of Mortar Board and on Pan Hellenic. She has served on the Big Sister Committee for three years and this year was chosen a member of Who's Who.

Military Decorations

New Hampshire Hall, scene of the colorful ball, will be decorated in a military theme. The walls will have a white border at the top with red and blue streamers reaching from the edge of the ceiling to the center. A large American flag will be featured on the blue backdrop and about thirteen groups of flags will be scattered around the room.

Highlight of the evening is the induction of the junior pledges, which will occur just before intermission. At this time the senior officers form an arch with their sabers, through which the Cadet Colonel, captain of Scabbard and Blade, and the two aides will march followed by the pledges. When they reach the front of the hall the cadet colonel and aides will turn and

Student Council Urges Red Cross Drive Support

Student Council is sponsoring the 1941 Red Cross Drive under the leadership of Carl Carlson. Boxes have been distributed throughout every house on campus for the purpose of collecting any extra pennies—or dollars—that the students may wish to contribute. Everyone is urged to share in making this drive the most successful of any previous one by finding one of the thirty-four Red Cross representatives scattered on campus and by giving the biggest penny he can.

Progressive Seniors

The senior class party on Wednesday evening was definitely a success. This was a major accomplishment, for it is always hard to promote any completely new idea especially among a skeptical student body. By an almost unanimous vote it was decided to have more parties of this type during the remainder of the school year. This wholehearted cooperation on the part of the seniors is conclusive proof that they are sincere in furthering the purpose for which these informal gatherings were designed; that of organizing a unified group of well-informed alumni.

There are some students in the senior class, however, who have failed completely to grasp the intent of the administration and the class officers who planned and sponsored the highly informative and interesting meeting. These benighted people, represented in part by the authors of the letter to the editor in an adjoining column, seem to think that the officers hit upon this party idea as a means of getting rid of a substantial amount of money which has been accumulated through the thriftiness and careful planning over a period of more than three years. This is not the idea at all as was pointed out by several prominent seniors who spoke on behalf of the continuation of the party idea at the class meeting at Wednesday's gathering.

Saying that by the time they are seniors students should understand the duties and functions of university officials and the alumni association does not solve the problem. It is granted that they should understand these vital problems but it is also very clear that very few students do. "Better late than never," and "Its never too late to start" are old addages which may well be applied in this situation if they are not depended upon too heavily. The time to start educating the seniors in matters of university government and alumni organization passed long ago. But there is still time to do plenty of good, as was evidenced by the amount of new information garnered by the seniors at their initial meeting.

Almost complete cooperation in this worthwhile venture has been assured. Wouldn't 100 per cent cooperation be very advantageous to the class as a whole, to its individual members now, and a few years hence when they will be scattered over the country as individuals of that intangible body of graduates known as alumni?

Mrs. Coburn Leaves Money For Exeter Scholarships

It was learned here recently that the university has named a beneficiary in the will of the late Mrs. Corinne H. Coburn of Exeter.

The amount, the residue of the estate after a number of bequests have been fulfilled, will be used for the founding of scholarships for Exeter residents attending the university.

A native of Exeter, Mrs. Coburn spent much of her life working with boys and girls in her home town.

EXETER PROGRAM

C. David Hacker will speak on "Opera in the American Scene" at the Phillips Exeter Academy, Sunday evening December 7, at 6:45.

He will be assisted by Sylvan Kevin, conductor, and several stars of the Philadelphia Opera Company. The program, exclusive of the talk, will include a program of solos, duets, and trios from the operas to be given during their Boston engagement.

This presentation will be given in the Academy Chapel. The public is invited to attend.

To the Editor

To the Editor

Last Wednesday the members of the class of '42 received mimeographed letters from the "executive committee." The philosophy of that little rendition may be summarized in one brief sentence: "Come on gang, we've got money to burn—let's spree." That philosophy sounds more like the traditional talk of the factory pay line as the Saturday "five o'clock whistle" blows.

We have five hundred dollars in our treasury. All congratulations to the helmsmen of the class, they've worked hard to make the class activities a banging success. Now, after three years of accumulated effort are they willing to slump back and toss the surplus into a few hours of turkey gobbling and jiving? Please—say not so!

We concede that the basic stimulant to this senior splurge campaign is a noble one; there should be class organization. But, the year 1942 being next on the calendar of events, one is reminded of the town that started organizing a fire department while the last roof smoldered in ashes.

Should we allow the fact that preceding classes have never bequeathed more than a given amount to the University bar us from donating what we are able to donate? Above all, in view of the current world situation, doesn't this preferred plan brand us as being slightly self-centered, just a little self-indulgent?

Air Raid Courses Prove Successful

Citizens Respond to Call For Civilian Organization

The first session of Durham's new Air-raid Precaution School, held in Murkland auditorium Sunday evening, was attended by one hundred and fifty enthusiastic citizens who were introduced to the courses by an extremely interesting program. First of all; Mr. Guy Smart, the local chairman of the Civilian Defense committee, explained the origin of the movement. This was followed by a speech by Mr. Eugene Auerbach, in charge of the series. Mr. George M. Foulkrod of the university faculty next gave an informative description of the aircraft warning service, explaining that this service is a civilian function under the direction of the U. S. Army. He emphasized the distinction between wardens and the men who dispatch warnings throughout an area after information has been received from officers in the control centers who in turn have been enlightened by air-raid spotters.

The man at the head of defense training in Haverhill, Mass., Mr. George Dalruple, stressed the need for civilian defense education, reminding his listeners that the skills learned are applicable in many instances not connected with defense.

As a finale for the evening, the real-life movie, "The Warning," depicting the action of English military and civilian forces, was presented.

Last Wednesday, sixty citizens attended the Red Cross school in Hood House. Aided by Red Cross instructors, Drs. McGregor, Roberts and Wilbur were in charge.

All residents of Durham are invited to attend the second of the Air-raid Precaution meetings to be held in the lecture room of James Hall this evening at 7:30. The subjects to be treated are communications systems and gas and decontamination. Mr. J. Edwin Howard will represent the telephone company of Dover, in the first section. Professor Iddles, of the university, will speak on gas and decontamination. In addition, another film of outstanding merit will be shown.

NEWMAN CLUB

Newman Club will hold a meeting in New Hampshire Hall at 7:30 Sunday evening. Hon. John P. McGrail of Boston, Commissioner of Adult Education for the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, will be the guest speaker.

Fielding Selected To Coach Kittens

Many High School Stars Get Berths on Hoop Team

George Fielding, varsity tennis and assistant frosh grid coach, was recently appointed mentor of the Kitten hoop squad by school authorities. Fielding succeeds Johnny DuRie, who vacated his berth last year for Uncle Sam's cause. The Missouri grad is the ideal choice for the job having had wide experience in basketball circles.

The new mentor lost no time in calling out his squad and for the past week has had them working out at the gym. Over 60 aspirants reported but after a few days of try-outs only about 15 survived the cuts.

Stars Make Team

Many high and prep stars have landed berths on the squad including Soc Bobotas, Nick Bograkus, Al Britton, Bob Stafford, Dick McDermott, Bill Lewko, George Pasichuke, Rolly Stroyman, and Bob Bedard.

The Kittens, who open a nine-game schedule on January 7, have only about 10 more practice sessions before their first tilt. Fielding will naturally have to work the boys hard to have them in condition and in good working order by that time.

Dots on Campus Opinions!

We realize that the football season is finished as far as the University of New Hampshire is concerned but, nevertheless, there is something that should be printed in this column regardless of the time. The opinions of the student body on sports matters usually don't appear in print because their thoughts are considered personal and do not represent a common solid front. There is one matter, however, that deserves mention and this concerns football. Many times these questions have been asked:

1. Why don't we get better teams to play in football?
2. Why don't the cream of New Hampshire high school football players come to this school?

The first question can readily be answered without much difficulty. We haven't the human material with which to tackle such teams as Dartmouth. Most of New Hampshire's high school players go to out-of-state colleges because they obtain greater aid. The counter-attack runs like this—why don't we get these players? The argument is that many of these players possess scholastic grades that are so low that they are unable to enter the university.

Sauer Remarkable

We don't believe that football players should be handed everything but we do believe that if they are given jobs and are willing to work and study that they should be allowed to get an opportunity to show their stuff. Coach Sauer has done a remarkable job in organizing teams that oppose foes that practice the policy of helping players more than we do and if he is allowed to get a pick of the New Hampshire football material, we firmly believe that the Wildcats would eventually have a team respected by all New England colleges.

Better School Spirit

Just because a fellow doesn't do well in high school is no assurance that he'll fail to achieve success while at college. The present scholastic rating of the college would not be shattered because the methods of grading will remain unchanged and all athletes would be required to have certain grades. The players will not be getting everything for nothing and thus lose all sense of responsibility because they will work for their board and room as much as possible. Harvard had a wonderful gridiron team this year but is its scholastic rating low? A good football aggregation, although not a necessity, would put our school's name in the limelight all the time, create a better school spirit, increase the desire to attend this university, make the students prouder of their school, and to achieve this dream would not require many concessions.

'Cat Cagers Look Ahead As Opener Approaches

Hockey Team Faces Season with Fair Hopes for Success

Dougal Gives Optimistic Outlook; Good Nucleus in Nugent, Perkins, Sakoian

Although faced with the problem of making up for the loss of last year's entire first team, Coach Tony Dougal nevertheless voiced optimistic hopes for his varsity hockey team yesterday, when he issued the following statement—"With Larry Perkins, Al Sakoian, and Paul Nugent back in defense, we should have as good a defense as we have had since I've been here."

Last year Sakoian and Perkins made up one defense combination while Pepper Martin and Bill Brunell were on the other. The forward line consisted of Bob Allard, Paul Conway, and Larry Perkins while Ray Paquin and Bob Quinn saw plenty of action. First string goal was ex-Captain Jack Wentzell and his relief man was popular Paul Nugent.

Defense Strong

Out of this entire group, therefore, just four men, only three of whom are lettermen, have returned to school. However, as written above, with prospects of a fine defense very good, with a highly dependable goalie in Paul Nugent, all that the team apparently lacks to achieve a fair measure of success is some scoring punch, a weakness which Dougal will be attempting to overcome until he gets satisfaction.

The team engages in its first competition of the year when it travels to Lake Placid to take part in the College Week program of games on December 27, 28, and 29th. Four games, the minimum in which every team takes part, will go a long way toward determining who's who and what's what with Wildcat hockey this year.

About 20 men have reported for hockey so far this year. In addition to those men already mentioned, other promising candidates include Bruce Singleton, a junior, and sophomores Joe Garrison, Jack Mudge, and John Lunt.

Grid Award Goes To Stacey Clark

The coveted William Cowell award which goes to the outstanding football player was presented to Stacey Clark last Tuesday night by the Gridiron Club of Boston. Memorializing the late director of athletics, the Cowell award is presented annually to that member who is outstanding in the sport, scholarship, and leadership.

Team Rapidly Rounding Into Top Shape in Drill Sessions at Field House

With the opening game of the season only two weeks away, Coach Henry Swasey's varsity basket-tossers have completed their limbering-up exercises and are concentrating their efforts on the formation of a fast-breaking offense to cope with the tough seventeen-game schedule which they must encounter this winter.

Swasey, although working with a coterie of players who are mostly inexperienced in intercollegiate basketball competition, has been impressed by the rapid improvement shown by the squad during the practices up to this date and is of the opinion that the Wildcat courtsters will be able to furnish ample competition to many of the foes on the schedule.

Team Built Around Sophs

The core of the outfit is made up of sophomores, players who saw plenty of service with Johnny DuRie's forces last year and who are fighting for starting berths on the varsity organization. These sophomores, Wheeler, Harris, Kolinsky and Rhuland, and Jervis, are presently giving the others plenty of competition.

Coach Swasey does not really know just who will start the first game against American International but the following is the possible lineup: Bob Wheeler at center, Hall and Kolinsky forwards, with Harris and Monica at the guard positions. The rest of the fellows are giving these boys a real battle and certainly will see plenty of action. Stacey Clark and Bob Mathews are playing forward with Fred Jervis and George Alimi guarding. Shiek Karelis is fighting for the center position and is showing up well.

Vaughn, Rhuland, Pinks and Saunders are still in the midst of action according to Swasey and deserve credit for their fine showing to date.

Before tackling the American International quintet on the seventeenth the Durham team will play a few practice games against service teams from Portsmouth. This will enable the boys to get the feel of real action and make them better prepared to entangle with their first intercollegiate foe.

Stacey is probably one of the tiniest players in Eastern football, tipping the beam at 138. He, however, was one of George Sauer's iron men, playing a bang up defensive game. He was more famous for his naked and double reverses and was one of the greatest climax runners seen here in many a year.

Clark is a member of Theta Chi, treasurer of his class, and Blue Key. Beside football he has been active in other sports.
