Week's Subscription Drive for Granite Begins February 26 Entire Student Body Will Be Canvassed in Effort To Promote Yearbook Sales

A mammoth subscription drive for the 1945 edition of THE GRANITE, the annual senior yearbook of the University of New Hampshire, will be conducted for a week's duration from Monday, February 26, through Friday, March 2, it has been announced by Jack Flaherty, of THE GRANITE business board in charge of subscriptions. Representatives of the yearbook will canvass every member of the student body during the drive.

THE GRANITE will cost $2.50 and a check, money order or cash must be presented to the business board before the subscription will be accepted.

Members of the faculty and the university staff, who wish to buy a copy of the book, may send their subscription blank and check through inter-campus mail. Undergraduate clubs and organizations will be canvassed that they might complete their files with copies of the book.

Immediate action is requested by the staff in order to estimate the total number of copies to be printed and to meet the deadline. Speedy and complete conclusion of the drive will mean earlier date of publication. The staff asks the cooperation of the entire student body.

At a meeting of the GRANITE staff on Thursday, February 15, Libby Sagris, Congreve South, was elected to the post of assistant editor.

Urge Vets Utilize Every Opportunity

Dean William A. Medesy, Dr. Everett B. Sackett, Charles E. Green, Chief of the Veterans' Rehabilitations Program, and Carl Lundholm, Director of Physical Education at the University of New Hampshire were guests of the Student Veterans' Organization, Monday, February 19, 1945, at their regular meeting held in the Commons Trophy Room.

Dean William A. Medesy welcomed the new veterans, as advisor of the organization and in behalf of the University of New Hampshire. To these new members Dean Medesy explained the policy of the organization, its functions and its purpose, and assured them that every facility at his disposal would be used to make their stay at the university a pleasant and successful one. Dean Medesy acted as toastmaster and introduced the speakers to the members.

Entrance - Continuation - Graduation

Dr. Everett B. Sackett confined his talk to the Educational Standards of the university. He said, "That attaining any educational level has its values, certain requirements in all fields must be met and college standards should not and would not be lessened at the University of New Hampshire." "In college," he said, "standards fall into three parts: Entrance -

Congreve South Wins Sculpturing Contest

Congreve South won the snow sculpture contest of the NHOC Winter Carnival with its true-to-life figures of a walrus and a seal backed by an aurora borealis. The walrus was outstanding with its huge wrinkled body, prominent tusks and perfect proportions. The delicate colors of the aurora borealis were in keeping with the Alaskan theme and the grouping of the figures was excellent for balance and unity. The entry was designed by Lee Schramm and Barbara Stackpole.

A silver cup was given to Lee Schramm, representative of Congreve South, by Ruth Hodgkins, carnival queen at the ball. This cup will remain in possession of the house for one year unless it is won three years in succession by the same house. In that case it will become a permanent house trophy.

The falling skier of Alpha Chi Omega and Schofield's ski boot received first honorable mention. Second honorable mention went to Grant House for its polar bear and to Phi Mu's Penguins.

Judges of the sculptures were Miss Verna E. Moulton of the home economics department and Wesley F. Brett of the arts department. Almost all of the dormitories and sororities participated, and a few of the other exhibits which attracted much comment were Commons' aviator, the totem pole of Chi Omega, and Smith's skier.

Prof. H. R. Bruce Speaks At the A.U.W.O. Meeting

The newly organized Durham chapter of Americans United for World Organization is holding a public meeting at Murkland Auditorium at 7:45 on Friday evening, February 23. At this meeting Harold R. Bruce, professor of government at Dartmouth College and New Hampshire Chairman of Americans United for World Organization will speak on the subject of New Responsibilities In A New Day.

The following article which will appear in the warrant for the Town Meeting to be held March 13 will be explained.

"To see if the town will vote to support United States membership in a general system of international cooperation, such as that proposed at the Dumbarton Oaks Conference, having police power to maintain the peace of the world."

Americans United for World Organization, Inc. under the chairmanship of President Ernest M. Hopkins of Dartmouth has been organized to promote interest and enthusiasm among the American people in a world organization for the promotion and preservation of world peace.

C.A.P. NOTICE

The play is under the direction of Mr. Donald Bachelder and Miss Jane Phipps is the assistant director.

Skiing Exhibitions Held on Beech Hill

Among the outdoor events that helped to make this year's Winter Carnival a success were the skiing events, held on Saturday afternoon at 1:30 on Beech Hill. Because of the war, there were no intercollegiate races, but there was separate competition among NH students in the cross-country and downhill events.

In the women's downhill race, Connie Ledward took first honors with the time of 28½ seconds. Nancy Dakin came in second with 29 seconds, and the third place winner was Ardelia Hutchins with 30½ seconds.

Mary Roberts came in first in the cross-country race with the time of 8 minutes 55 seconds, and Arlene Taylor and Connie Ledward placed second and third respectively. Their time was 8 minutes 57 seconds, and 9 minutes 1 second.

In the men's downhill, Rudolph Honkala placed first, his time being 27½ seconds, while Will Bertrand, 28 seconds, and Gordon Swift, 28½ seconds, came in second and third respectively.

The men's cross-country was won by Gordon Swift in 10 minutes 45 seconds, while Burt Rounds came in second with 11 minutes 52 seconds, and Rudolph Honkala placed third with 12 minutes 44 seconds.

There was no competition in jumping, by Si Dunklee, Bruce Bolger, Leo Lejois, Rudolph Honkala, and Henry Spear gave several exhibition jumps, and Si Dunklee and Leo Lejois made a dual jump.

300 Couples Attend NHOC Carnival Ball

by Nancy Tupper

The University of New Hampshire Outing Club under the direction of Blue Circle held its 25th annual Winter Carnival which reached a triumphant climax Saturday evening when 300 couples attended the gala ball at New Hampshire Hall from 8 until 12 p.m. Bob Pooley and his 12-piece NBC orchestra, currently appearing at the Hotel Bradford Roof in Boston, provided music featuring Jumbo Hirt and his trumpet, vocalist Duncan Dewar and boogie-woogie piano stylist Bobby Holt. Blue and white icicles decorated the hall with wall and ceiling lights of every color focused on the orchestra and floor. The coronation throne, topped by a giant queen's head, was guarded by lifelike penguins, "Pen" and "Gwen." Refreshments were served from a blue and white table on which stood a miniature snowman.

Coronation

Feature of the evening was the coronation of Miss Ruth Hodgkins '46 of Alpha Xi Delta by President Harold W. Stoke during intermission. Miss Hodgkins graciously accepted the crown and bouquet of red roses before an admiring audience and presented her two aides, Miss Jacqueline Percival '45 and Miss Elizabeth "Biff" West '48. During her short reign, she awarded Lee Schramm, representing Congreve South, with a silver loving cup for the best snow sculpture, and awarded prizes to the various winners who participated in ski events on Saturday afternoon.

President and Mrs. Stoke, Dean and Mrs. E. Y. Blewett, and Dean and Mrs. William Medesy chaperoned the ball. Many other faculty and administration members were noted in attendance.

Committee Members

Nancy Ferguson served as general chairman for Outing Club's festive weekend. Wesley Brett and others of the Art Department in cooperation with Chairman Ruth Brown were responsible for decorations. Gerald Gordon and Ellsworth Kerr added a novel surprise to the evening by taking photographs. George Hatch and David Marshall supervised corsages for the occasion. Other chairmen for the ball included Coronation, Betty Collins; Refreshments, Frances Mikol assisted by Grace Shaylor; Orchestra, Warren Robbins and George Hatch; Tickets, Marie Marden; Heelers, Rebecca Fairbanks; Publicity, Suzanne Sickmon and Jack Flaherty, and Chaperones, Jean Goodyear. Members of Blue Circle were assistants in each committee and many heelers turned out. Leonard Sawyer, Howard Chandler, and Robert Novak were in charge of the cloakroom.

Welcomes Students in Convocation Address this Afternoon in N.H. Hall

"I belong to the school of thought which thinks that it is much less important to emphasize the fact that you are preparing for life than it is to emphasize the fact that you are living now," said President Harold W. Stoke at a general University Convocation at New Hampshire hall this afternoon at 1:15 P.M. "If it is true," he continued, "that we will never live more completely than we are living now or be faced with more difficult problems than we are facing now, the question is, 'How well are we managing?'"

In a speech of welcome to the new students, President Stoke said, "I should like to welcome the new students who have entered the University of New Hampshire this semester. You will find you have come to a friendly school."

President Stoke said that as a student he sat through a great many speeches designed to press upon him the fact that he was preparing for life with a capital "L." He continued by saying that there are a number of things which he wishes he had known when he was in college. "One of these things," he continued, "was a little more about the management of my health; a second was the importance of reading; a third was the importance of 'being in command' of the general routine of living. I think that all of these would have added materially not only to the enjoyment but to the profit of my own college experience."

Claude Henry, '46, President of Student Council, presided at the convocation.

Scott Hall Victorious At Annual Stunt Night

Blue Circle's Annual Stunt Night which marked the opening of Carnival week-end held Friday, February 16, under the direction of Dave Brown and Evie Cass at N. H. Hall, witnessed Scott Hall's triumph over a field of thirteen competitors.

Scott Hall's satire on class room life brought down the house with Barbara Rogers' clever impersonations of certain well known professors on campus; Mary Jane McCleave's rendition of "Barbara Fritchie" and Anne Daukas' guttural German song.

Phi Mu won first honorable mention with their burlesque of "Il Trovatore." Ginny Parker, as Count De Looney, brought forth riotous mirth as she strutted and swaggered on the stage. SAE was awarded second honorable mention with their "Poky-Huntus" skit.

Records were played between skits and Barbara Rogers and Ellie Getter filled in with an impromptu boogie-woogie duet.

Other houses participating were: Chi Omega, Pi Lambda Sigma, Al-

Brotherhood Week

Throughout our land, Americans will observe the twelfth annual Brotherhood Week from February 18 to 25, 1945, by proclamation of Franklin D. Roosevelt. Sponsored by the National Conference of Christians and Jews, Inc., the purpose of the observance is to give a tangible expression of the spiritual unity which makes us one people and to renew and strengthen the determination to serve the high principles of liberty in this democracy of freedom-loving peoples.

The following letter from the Rev. William C. Kernan, Executive Director of the Institute for American Democracy, Inc., expresses the spirit of Brotherhood Week far more eloquently than we could hope to.

"The wicked know that if they can persuade us to use their words, they have gained our consent to their cause. 'Set a watch, O Lord, before my mouth; keep the door of my lips' " (Ps 141:3) should be our constant prayer to God in these days of temptation to use our words in the service of evil.

We are invited to hate — which is the same thing as being invited to renounce our humanity, to defy the Law of God and finally, to commit murder.

In the arsenal of hate, there are numerous weapons. Among them is ridicule — one of the first weapons used by Nazis.

Twenty years ago they began to use it to separate German from German. Some of these Germans were Jews — or their great grandparents had been. The Nazis ridiculed them by telling stories about them, some of which were supposed to be funny. In turn, they taunted the Czechs, the Poles, the French. They heaped jeers and insults on those they had marked for destruction.

Words of ridicule were the beginning; mass slaughter was the end.

We Americans are free and fun-loving. We have a robust sense of humor. But a story that spreads ridicule, that breeds prejudice, that may harm our fellow Americans, should not be told.

Any joke that sets class against class, or race against race or religion against religion — that's funny at the expense of a minority group — should not be repeated.

It can lead to intolerance and bigotry. It can undermine our struggle for equality and liberty for men of all races and creeds in America.

So, let us watch what we think. And watch what we say. Let the world within us be clean, free of prejudice and hate, but full of thoughts that are honest, just, pure, lovely, and of good report."

ALPHA XI DELTA

Ruth Hodgkins, Carnival Queen, reigned over the Annual Winter Carnival. She was escorted by Richard Hastings of the Harvard Navy ROTC. In the skiing events Saturday afternoon, Connie Ledward placed first in the women's downhill race and third in the cross country.

Saturday evening we had supper at the house for the girls and their dates. Ruthie Hodgkins and Shirley Newcomer's mothers were guests at the house for the week-end.

Sunday afternoon Ginny Helf and Connie Ledward participated in the exhibition put on by the Skating Club. Nancy Johnson, Corinne Young and Jo Helf were also our guests this week-end.

Sunday afternoon June Pearce received word that her brother, Lt. Bill Pearce, had just arrived in the country after seventeen months action in the Gilbert Islands. Bill is a B-25 pilot with the 7th Air Force.

THETA UPSILON

Jane Cleveland entertained Lt. Chick Gerould, formerly of UNH, during Carnival Week-end.

Esther Sherburne from Simmons visited Peg Coburn at the house this week-end.

Toddie Drew, Frannie Smith and Anne Haskell spent the week-end as guest of Thet U.

Dee Hutchins came in third in the down hill race of the ski meet Saturday afternoon. Arlean Taylor placed second in the woman's cross-country.

Lila Hewson took part in the skating exhibition Sunday afternoon.

CHI OMEGA

During this past weekend Joan Eldridge, a sophomore at B.U., Barbara Hazel of Marblehead, Joyce Blodgett of Concord, were guests at the house.

Barbara Pauly and Betty Stevenson, graduates of Mary Washington College, were the guests of Evie Cass this week-end. Betty is staying until Thursday.

Eddie Epreman and Danny Beham from Schenectady, N. Y., were guests of Ruth Barton and Jean Hennessey.

Bee Rice had as her guests of the week-end Mr. Harold Rice of Keene, and Mrs. Beatrice Goodwin of Boston.

Alton Morice, a V12 student at Worcester Tech, was the guest of Lois Harney.

Saturday night Chi Omega held a buffet supper for the girls and their dates.

Evie Cass participated in the skating exhibition Sunday afternoon.

ALPHA CHI

The guests for the Carnival week-end included Dana Philbrook, Johnny Gooding, Jim Jones and Roland Miller. Saturday afternoon after the basketball game a buffet supper was served with Mrs. Adams presiding.

Missy Harding of Sanford, Me., was a guest at the house for Carnival week-end.

Lois Waterhouse '45 and Gerry Nollcott '44, were married in Muskogee, Oklahoma on Friday, Feb. 16. Lois is staying there indefinitely while Gerry is stationed at a nearby camp.

Last week we entertained Province President Miss Anne Reynolds.

We are proud of our snow sculpture which won first honorable mention.

PHI MU

Friday night Phi Mu won second honorable mention with their skit, "Ill Flows the Gore." Then, Saturday, our penguins were tied with Grant House for second mention in sculpture judging.

William Hadlock, USA; William Buzzard, USA, and Pat Knowles, USA, were the guests of Honey Thompson, Jean Goodyear and Joye Churchill for Carnival.

Lt. and Mrs. Robert Sanborn, former "Duds" Churchill, and Lt. and Mrs. Richard Henshaw were also able to make it to Durham for carnival events.

Roger Wood, Dan Butler and Bob Straw of Lebanon, were the guests of Bonne Ferguson, June Sinclair, and Rita Mitchell for carnival.

Skating Club Presents Exhibition for Carnival

The Skating Club of the university brought the Carnival week-end to an end with an exhibition of skating Sunday afternoon at the skating rink.

Glenn Vickery and Phyllis Rock opened the program with a pair skating number. Their intricate patterns brought spontaneous applause from the spectators.

Their act was followed by a colorful number all the members of the club participating. Sue Sickman and Elise Braun clowned on skates between acts besides their regular comedy routine. Their near falls and stumbling were a source of much amusement.

Barbara Kreiger and Glen Vickery were also featured in solo numbers.

Members of the club that participated were Marjorie Fletcher, Virginia Kendrick, Frances Mikol, Becky Fairbanks, Lila Hewson, Marjorie Bushway, Grace Emerson, Jean Cuthbertson, Phyllis Rock, Olive Brady, Louise Selig, Connie Ledward, Evelyn Cass, Sue Sickman, Dot Abrahams, Eloise Braun.

General skating to music followed the exhibition.

Mrs. Margaret Stoekeler Sculptures at AWS Convo

On Wednesday, January 14, at the Association of Women Students convocation, Mrs. Margaret Vincent Stoekeler, artist-in-residence of the University of Maine, gave a sculpturing demonstration. Miss Peggy Osgood, Scott Hall, was chosen by Mrs. Stoekeler as a model.

The twenty-five year old sculptress already has established a name for herself through her noteworthy works. A graduate of the Boston School of the Museum of Fine Arts, Mrs. Stoekeler received a scholarship to study in France, but was unable to go because of the war.

After working at the Rowantress Pottery in Blue Hill, Me., and studying in Mexico, the young artist placed third in a nationwide competition for a government commission to execute the sculpture for government buildings in Washington. She was later commissioned to do the mural wood carving in the Post Office of Norway, Me.

At the close of Mrs. Stoekeler's demonstration, Joye Churchill, president of Association of Women Students, presented to the students the names of nominees to fill the vacancies on the council created by graduation.

Yacht Club Shore School Holds Second Meeting

The second session of the Yacht Club shore school was held February 15 in the Pine Room of Ballard Hall. Miss Marion Beckwith of the Women's Physical Education Department was the speaker and her talk defined and explained various terms of sailing, different ways of sailing and special pointers that beginners must remember for safe sailing. The lecture was demonstrated with the help of a model sailboat.

Exit of UNH ASTP Unit Reduces Military Staff

Due to the fact that the ASTP has left campus, we have had a reduction in our military staff. We have lost 1st Lts. Winford E. Lombarde, John J. McDonough and T5 John O. Sharet.

Lt. Lombarde, who served with the 1st Division in North Africa, holds the Purple Heart and the Unit Citation. While at UNH he was executive officer of the unit. On January 30, after six months here, he was transferred to Camp Edwards Convalescent Hospital for duty.

Lt. McDonough, company commander of A Co., was reassigned after ten months in our unit, to the ASTP at Amherst College. There he is to be S-3 (plans and training officer.)

T5 Sharet, acting first sergeant of the ROTC, had been on the staff for over two years. He is now on the cadre at Tufts Medical School.

We wish these men the best of luck in their new assignments.

Continuance - Graduation. Normally, entrance into college is determined by success in high school, entrance examinations, or a combination of both. Deciding the continuation of those who are admitted however, is a much more difficult and arduous task," he said. "Graduation," he continued, "means that all college requirements have been met and these qualifications must be met by all students who receive a degree."

Dr. Sackett said that in some cases leniency had been shown to veterans in meeting the entrance qualifications. He gave as a reason for this that most veterans were more mature, and have learned through experience things which may overcome ineligibility due to high school records. However, once admitted, a veteran must live up to the university requirements. In the future a program may be prepared for those veterans whose protracted absence from high school makes it harder for study habits to be resumed. This program may be in the form of a refresher course, but as yet a definite plan has not been laid. He concluded by saying, "Whether you like it or not, you are veterans and as such you are subject to criticisms as a group. It is up to you to show the world that these criticisms are erroneous."

Use Opportunities

Mr. Charles E. Green, explained to the new veterans the G. I. Bill of Rights and the Veterans' Rehabilitation Program. He said, "In the last war, we veterans, were hard to put to prove we weren't all thugs. You men are different, every opportunity in the world has been given you, and it's up to you men to make the most of it." He closed his speech by adding that any man who needed aid would find him more than willing to co-operate, but any man who willfully neglects his opportunities cannot be given another chance.

Mr. Carl Lundholm, physical director at the university said that he was disappointed so many veterans wished to be excused from physical education. "It's hard," he said, "for many of you men to step into college life, but believe me it is of major importance that you men have a clean, wholesome output for your physical energies." "I know that many of you," he said, "are sick in one way or another and I sincerely regret that adequate provisions have not been scheduled to hold your interest." He told the veterans that he and his staff were working on such a program now, and would gladly welcome any suggestions from the veterans.

Schoolboy Basketball Tournament Starts Today at Field House

Twenty New Hampshire High Schools Compete For Class Championships

The 23rd Annual New Hampshire State Basketball Tournament is underway today, February 22nd and will continue on through Saturday evening when the finals in class A and B will take place.

The tournament grew out of an idea by Coach Henry Swasey in 1922 and with one exception, in 1943 when it was cancelled due to wartime restrictions, it has been held each year in Durham. The tournament, run in conjunction with an Interscholastic Track meet in the Spring, presents the opportunity for the outstanding schoolboy basketball teams in the state to compete for the state championships in their respective classes. These classes are: Class A, including such schools as Manchester Central and West, Dover, Portsmouth, Nashua—the larger schools in the state with enrollments of over 200 students; Class B, schools like Pinkerton, Somersworth, Franklin, etc., with enrollments of between 51 and 200 students, and Class C, the smaller schools in the state with enrollments of under 50 students—Ashland, Vilas, Marlboro, etc. The teams with the best season's records are invited to come to the tournament and compete for their class championship. Eight schools from Class A and Class B, and four schools from Class C have been chosen for this year's competition. They are as follows: Class A: Dover, Keene, Portsmouth, Concord, Manchester Central, St. Joseph's, Nashua, and Spaulding; Class B: St. John's, Franklin, Peterboro, Pinkerton, Somersworth, Conant, Exeter, and Littleton; Class C: Marlboro, Ashland, Vilas of Alstead, and Lincoln.

Since 1922, the Tournament at different times has been under the direction of Mr. Swasey, Mr. Lundholm, John Conroy, former coach at the university, "Chick" Justice, now a lieutenant in the Navy, and again this year the faculty director is Mr. Lundholm.

In 1934, the Student Supervisory system was inaugurated in which the managers of the various university athletic teams are delegated with the task of running the tournament. For the past two years, with the absence of formal varsity athletics, this job has been handled by interested students. A staff of almost fifty students are in complete charge of housing and feeding the teams and of seeing that the tournament is conducted smoothly and efficiently.

The staff for this year's tournament includes: Faculty Supervisor, Carl Lundholm; Student Supervisor, Warren Robbins; Ass't Supervisor in charge of Information, Ed Ellingwood; Ass't Supervisor in charge of the managers, Bill Holleman; Aide to Scorer, Bruce Bolger; Aide to Press, Jack McGinn; Aide to Referees, Ken Russell; Announcer, Marty Delbrouck; Utility, Murray Aisenberg, Fred White, John Henneberger. A partial list of team managers and ushers is as follows: Managers, Honkola, Vickery, Heath, Swekla, Evengelou, Stearns, Hawke, Bailey, Simms, Colcord, Chandler, Rogers, Healey, and Yeaton.

Ushers: Mooradian, Ryder, Doyle, Stern, DeGross, Spear, Abbott, Barron, and Beaugard.

By Roger Bernard DeHayes

In a preceding article we briefly summarized the history of Poland until the Treaty of Versailles, and argued for the return to Russia of all territories taken by Poland.

Accordingly, the boundaries of Poland should be as follows: beginning on the north and running west from Mlawa to Bromberg through Thorn, leaving the Vistula to follow the Notec River to a point south of Scheidmuhl in Pomerania; then south along the pre-war frontier including the city of Teschen, but excluding Jablonka which must revert to Czechoslovakia; thence, east through the West Beskid, Tatra and East Beskid Mountains along the old Slovak border up to the San River; then, the proposed border will parallel the San to Jaroslav; next, following the line of the 1939 partition between the San and Bug rivers, and north along the Bug to a point south and east of Ostrow; north to the Narew at Ostroleka; then north and east along a tributary of the Narew that empties into the Spriding Sea in East Prussia, to a point where it crosses the old east Prussian border; then, along the old East Prussian border to a point south of Neidenburg at Mlawa.

There has been some dispute about the proposed cession of German East Prussia to Poland in compensation for the loss of other territory.

East Prussia is a territory of about ten thousand square miles. It is bounded by Russia on the north and east, with Poland lying to the south, and the Polish Corridor separating it from the rest of Germany. Originally, it was wrested from a now ethnologically extinct group of semi-barbaric peoples known as Borussians, or Prussians, by the Teutonic knights. It was colonized by settlers from the Rhine provinces, Swabia, and Bavaria. Politically, East Prussia was constituted a duchy, with the original colonists enjoying extraordinary privileges as an inducement to colonization. These included exemption from most feudal restrictions, especially in regard to land-ownership, the settlers being allowed common lands for pasture as well as game and lumber.

This situation prevailed until three centuries later when the knight-protectors were in a position to strip the settlers of their long-time rights. At the end of the Peasants' War, power became concentrated in the hands of an aristocratic ruling military class known as the Junkers. The East Prussian peasants consequently found their position completely reversed. They became the most oppressed serfs of Western Europe. The peasant-worked estate was the foundation of the Junker system and political power was its monopoly.

In the fifteenth century, East Prussia became affiliated with the province of Brandenburg under the leadership of the House of Hohenzollern. This eventually became the Kingdom of East Prussia, with East Prussia an integral part of Russia, but excluded from the Holy Roman Empire. Frederick the Great was the ruler to establish the supremacy of Prussia. As a result of a series of wars, he secured Danzig and West Prussia. Since that time, East Prussia has been united to the Germanic lands, and its original population has been absorbed by the Teutonic race.

Over a period of two hundred years, a great deal of Polish agricultural labor was imported into the Masurian Lake region by landowners having difficulty with the native peasantry. This resulted in an ethnological problem which was not to be solved till after the first World War. At that time the Allies held a plebescite and the Lutheran Polish population overwhelmingly decided to remain part of the German nation.

The transfer of East Prussia to Poland involves several difficulties. The population must be transferred to Germany to avoid a minority problem. Further, Germany, which is already over-populated, would be deprived of a substantial part of its territory and further burdened by some two million inhabitants, for the most part farmers. In addition, East Prussia is a highly developed agricultural region and Poland, having a predominantly agricultural economy would have this huge tract of land, absolutely devoid of population.

However, the transfer of East Prussia to Poland would solve forever the problem of Junker militarism, and would end this old-time threat to world peace. This consideration must, in the final decision, outweigh all others.

Library Features Display In the Art Department

An exhibition of the American Institute of Graphic Arts is now on display in the art department of the library. The collection pictorially depicts the many phases of book publication.

Special stress is placed on the work involved in designing and printing book covers and jackets. Interesting illustrations show the varied processes, from the rough sketch of an original idea to the final print of a colorful jacket.

There is also a large collection of finished books on display. These vary in interest from "Hellas, A Tribute to Classical Greece," to Samuel Clemens' ever popular "The Adventures of Tom Sawyer."

450 Attend Late Show at Franklin Theatre Friday

Friday night's late show at the Franklin Theater with its accompanying 12:15 permission drew an estimated crowd of 450 to see the varied program of cartoons, sports shorts, and a community sing. The midnight movie is a traditional part of carnival week-end. Blue Circle's Evie Cass and Dave Brown were in charge of arrangements.

CORRECTION

Due to a mistake in the February 15 issue of The New Hampshire, Alpha Xi was declared the winner in the Interhouse basketball tournament. Congreve South was the final winner in the tournament, defeating Alpha Xi 26-25. At the present time Alpha Xi is leading in the interhouse tournament, but the final winner will not be known until the end of the semester.

UNH Hears H. Hudson Of T. B. Association

Holland Hudson, the National Tuberculosis Association's director of rehabilitation, conducted an open meeting at the University on February 15, for state rehabilitation workers and others interested in rehabilitation. Mr. Hudson, who is also treasurer of the American Occupational Therapy Association, treasurer of the National Council on Rehabilitation, and a well-known author, devoted a great deal of his talk to rehabilitation for veterans suffering with tuberculosis.

Mr. Hudson declared that between 250 and 300 men each month are discharged from the service because of tuberculosis, and this figure will total 30,000 cases after the war. One of the greatest difficulties in this whole problem of veterans with tuberculosis is keeping the patients from leaving the hospitals before their cases have been cured or arrested. A reason he gave for this situation is that patients worry about their families.

Mr. Hudson concluded his address by telling of the many jobs recovered tubercular patients could take. He mentioned the Saranac Lake guild where patients have been trained as x-ray technicians to work in mass surveys of industrial population for the U.S. Public Health Service. Mr. Hudson also said that many war industries such as Kaiser shipyards and Eastman Kodak plants, have been extremely successful with the many former patients they have hired.

Dr. Robert Kerr, medical director of the New Hampshire Tuberculosis Association, Manchester, and Wallace D. Black, senior state supervisor of vocational rehabilitation, Concord, also attended the meeting.

Earlier in the afternoon Mr. Hudson spoke to the girls who are majoring in occupational therapy at the university.

INTERCLASS BASKETBALL

Interclass basketball teams will be chosen at the end of the practices, February 21. The schedule for the game is as follows:

Monday, February 26, Sophomores vs. Seniors; Tuesday, February 27, Freshmen vs. Juniors; Wednesday, February 28, Freshmen vs. Sophomores; Thursday, March 1, Seniors vs. Juniors; Friday, March 2, Makeup; Monday, March 5, Sophomores vs. Juniors; Tuesday, March 6, Freshmen vs. Seniors.

REC

Evening Recs are being held on Monday and Thursday nites from 7 to 8 p.m. Rec on Sunday afternoon is from 3 to 5 p.m.

ALL STAR TEAM

On March 6, girls from all the classes will be chosen for the all-star basketball team.

NOTICE TO ALL STUDENTS

Wildcats Trounce Undermanned Lowell Textile Aggregation 51-36

by S. C. McGinn

"Fell apart in the last quarter." That is practically the summary of the BU game. The game, marred by numerous fouls and almost a few fistcuffs, was far from pleasant to watch. The Wildcats held their own for the first three stanzas and then, bingo! The Terriers, with Mooers and Maynard hitting from all angles, suddenly overcame a one point lead and in the twinkling of an eye had the duel completely under control. From then on the Wildcats seemed to disintegrate and with Freddie White closely guarded, the Cats only notched 2 points for the entire quarter bringing a drab finish to what had seemed like a toss-up game.

Saturday afternoon next may find a revamped Wildcat squad playing the Maine Bears. The Bears will be gunning for their second win at the expense of the Wildcats and unless the Cats pick up, the Bears may gain it. The loss of the three first string men is being felt increasingly as the season comes to a close, but if the five can regain some of the spirit and fight it had while Therrian, Hollingsworth and Szalucka were in New Hampshire together the boys from down east may find themselves on the short end of the score. We shall see.

Tournament Siftings

The ultra climax of the schoolboy hoops season is upon us and no doubt you have all noticed it in the lengthening of the various chow lines. By this we mean that ardent hoop fans from far and wide have gathered in the fair town of Durham to see their home town heroes play. Yours truly in an earnest desire to keep New Hampshire students completely informed on tournament doings has absolutely and definitely divorced himself from all studies or any matters pertaining thereto. Of course you all understand that it takes terrific willpower to do this (that'll be the day). Consequently your humble scribe will be in attendance at each and every game played, watching all that passes before him with an eagle eye (I mean basketball games). Now we'll stop wasting newspaper and give a slight summary of the participating teams (very slight). In Class A it looks like Manchester Central to cop the title. The boys from Central have coped almost all of their tilts and at present have a grand record of 11 straight against top flight opposition. However, it has been pointed out that Central usually plays on a small floor and their very efficient zone defense will be hampered by the large Field House floor. This remains to be seen however. Another large factor that may ruin the prospects of our choice is the upset angle. Upsets are about as numerous in tourney play as the crowd that gathers in the Field House. Some teams are spoken of as "Tournament teams" and by this it is meant that teams, regardless of their season records are dangerous in tourney competition and are capable of taking the crown. Among these so called teams are Portsmouth and Manchester Central. With this view in mind we feel confident of our choice. The tournament is not without its darkhorse and we nominate Portsmouth as the tournament's pony.

Watch Hartiman

Our choice for the Class B crown is St. John's of Concord. The Fighting Irishmen from the Capital city have a fine season's record and have

Terriers Clip Wildcats In Dull Fracas 48-34 Hoopsters Suffer Third Loss as B.U. Puts on Last Stanza Rally; Maynard Hot

Durham, N. H. Feb. 17—Playing before a capacity Winter Carnival crowd the University of New Hampshire Wildcats went down to defeat at the hands of the Boston University Terriers here today at the Lewis Field House, 48-34.

The game opened with White and Mead flipping in two baskets for the Wildcats but the lead was short lived as Maynard and Correale hit for the Terriers to knot the score. The battle see-sawed back and forth with both teams playing tight defensive ball and as the quarter ended the Terriers were in front 14-13. The second quarter was a repetition of the first as both played dogged ball, neither team having the advantage over the other. The half-time score found the Terriers ahead 28-25.

B. U. came back strong on the second canta racking up a quick 6-point lead but the Wildcats were equally as good and in the space of a few minutes knotted the duel up. The Terriers really broke loose midway in the fourth quarter as Mooers and Maynard found the range sinking shot after shot to put the game on ice for B. U. The Wildcats were stymied by the tight B. U. defense and in the last quarter scored only 2 markers.

Maynard and Mooers played grand ball for the Terriers with Maynard leading the afternoon's score with 17 tallies. Pacing the Wildcats were Mooradian and White.

not tasted defeat at the hands of any Class B opponent. St. John's is led by the brilliant Tommy Hartiman who seems to be able to dent the twines from any angle on the floor. This lad, who is only 15 or 16 is really an outstanding performer and should bear watching. Incidentally the St. John's aggregation, win, loose, or draw in the tournament, has been invited to participate in the annual New England Catholic Tourney.

Our Class C choice is Marlboro. Why I don't know. Just intuition. Or maybe General Beauregard influenced us. Where is Marlboro anyway, General? Adios.

Game on Even Terms for First Half but Weavers Weaken in Last Canto

Durham, N. H., Feb. 20—Completely outplaying an undermanned Lowell Textile five the University of New Hampshire hoopsters notched their 4th triumph of the season here tonight at the Lewis Field House, winning handily 51-36.

The game was closely contested during the first quarter with both teams knotting the count constantly. Lowell took a 4-point lead as Milgrim hit twice but it was short lived as White and Mooradian countered for the Wildcats. The Wildcats went out in front on Ryder's tally and at the end of the quarter they led 13-11. Lowell bounced right back in the second quarter as Milgrim and Horwitz found the range tying the score. The Cats came right back, matched them point for point and as the half ended the Wildcats still hung on to their 2-point margin, leading 26-24.

The Wildcats roared back in the second half and went well out in front as Red Ryder sunk three in a row. The Lowell team tiring fast put on a valiant rally but were no match for New Hampshire's speed demons. In the closing moments of the game the Wildcats went on another scoring spree and the game ended with New Hampshire well on top out in front 51-36.

Sparkling for the New Hampshire cause were Fred White and Jack Richardson. Sid Milgrim was Lowell's top man.
