President Stoke Speaks At Veterans Meeting

"There is a Great Deal of Self-Consciousness About Returning Veterans"

Dr. Harold W. Stoke, president of the University of New Hampshire, was guest of the Student Veterans Organization Monday evening, March 5, at a regular meeting in the Commons' Trophy Room.

"I would like to say that I am very happy to have this opportunity to meet you in a body. I have not been unaware of your presence at the university. There is a great deal of self-consciousness about returning veterans in this country," he said, "and it has even gone so far as to become somewhat hysterical. Many people have been led to believe that returning veterans will leap in rage when the baby cries, beat his wife on the slightest pretext, and on the whole be a worthless and lazy person."

President Stoke referred with approval to an article in the New Yorker and said, "This condition is a dangerous one for it is fretting our young women and making thousands of them literally unfitting to be normal, healthy wives. Man can endure many things but no man can endure the studied glare of an unsympathetic wife. He would far rather meet the enemy in battle. Self-consciousness about these problems should be used to establish a feeling of communication, a clearing up of misunderstanding, not only of your problems but of the whole world."

Exact Reverse

President Stoke continued that civilian life was the exact reverse from that in the army. "No doubt," he stated, "it was an interesting experience, but many problems and adjustments had to be made. You went through a period of construction which saw you emerge not only in the habiliments of a new man, but also with a new psychological observation. You were not required to think, you were told what to do, when to do it, and how to do it. Not only were you told when to eat, but also what to eat. This condition at first may have been hard to swallow but very soon many of you became accustomed to this routine and some of you even grew to like it."

"Then came one of the greatest moments of your life; you were mustered out of the army, and immediately plunged back into a social organization where you had to reassert your relationship to others. The biggest difference you had to overcome was

Subscriptions for Granite Under Quota

Subscriptions for The Granite have lagged considerably and the percentage of students who have already signed up is only a fraction over fifty per cent.

This publication is definitely not just for upperclassmen but is the UNH annual, and of interest to all undergraduates, containing pictures of class officers and organizations, and a number of features. It was formerly paid for in the student activity tax.

Freshmen are especially urged to subscribe, with the deadline set for Saturday of this week. The price is $2.50 and may be given to the representative assigned to each dorm. These are: June Sinclair, Pette, Grant, and Schofield Houses; Harriet Porter, Arlene Ekman, and Barbara Berger, Scott; Louise Larrow, Smith; Alva Hiller and Dorothy Hansen, Congreve North and South; Claire Hunter, Commons; Barbara Vogt, Elizabeth DeMeritt House; Lois Hunter, Chi Omega; Marie Marden, Alpha Xi Delta; Elinor Abbott, Alpha Chi; Beverly Moses, Sigma Beta, SAE and Theta Chi Houses; Ruth Carens, Theta Upsilon; Marian Johnson, Phi Mu; Jack Flaherty, East, West and Fairchild Halls.

Prof. Parker Speaks On France at Convo

Professor Clifford S. Parker, head of the language department at the university, spoke Wednesday afternoon at the first regular March convocation of the Association of Women Students on "The Future France."

Dr. Parker, who was introduced by Joye Churchill, president of the association, is well-qualified to speak on France because of his life-long study of that nation. He is the author of ten textbooks on French language, history, and culture. Initiation a la Culture Française was published last year in collaboration with Professor Paul L. Grigaut.

Dr. Parker discussed the last one thousand years of French civilization asserting that France has recovered from great struggles and will recover from the present conflict.

A medical aptitude test will be given at 3 p.m. on April 13 in Nesmith Hall. Those who are interested should consult with Miss Erma L. Andrews, Nesmith 101.

HEELERS

Will all reporters of The New Hampshire, and anyone else who is interested in writing, please report to the New Hampshire offices Monday night, March 12, at seven o'clock sharp for a short talk on news writing.

Achievement Tests For L.A. Sophomores

All Liberal Arts sophomores will take a series of three achievement tests in co-operative English, general culture, and contemporary affairs on Friday and Saturday, March 16-17 to determine the academic standing of the University of New Hampshire in relation to other colleges. The purpose of the test is to determine the strong and weak points of the College of Liberal Arts, and to facilitate individual advisement in junior and senior years of study. The last test of this type was taken here in 1942 when the university scored 17 points above the average of all other colleges participating in the program.

The tests are being given as a part of the 14th Annual College Sophomore Testing Program. It was voted to subscribe to this national testing system by the faculty of the school of Liberal Arts.

Paul E. Schaefer, assistant to the dean of Liberal Arts, will be in charge of the testing which will take place in Murkland Auditorium and Nesmith 219. Tests will take about seven hours, and sophomores being tested will be excused from classes during that time.

Collection of Photos On Display at Library

Emblems of Unity and Freedom, 50 photographs of color drawings of everyday objects bearing national emblems, is currently on display at the art department of Hamilton Smith Library. This collection is part of the large Index of American Design, compiled by the State Art Projects of the Work Projects Administration, which consists of over 20,000 carefully documented drawings, water colors, oil paintings, and photographs, and is the one great pictorial repository of the American tradition of craftsmanship. The Metropolitan Museum of Art has been made custodian of the index, and to expand its usefulness, offers this series of exhibitions for national circulation.

The library exhibit includes pictures of printed and embroidered textiles, carved ship ornaments, inn signs, flatiron stands, and a colorful Civil War drum.

Reversed Techniques Highlight Two Plays

By Lila Sprague

A reversal of stage techniques that future plays must be expected to have, is an interesting feature of the two plays, Gammer Gurton's Needle and Pullman Car Hiawatha, to be presented by Mask and Dagger March 22 and 23.

Gammer Gurton's Needle, whose authorship is uncertain, was written in the 16th century, probably around 1560. In the pre-Elizabethan and Elizabethan age little realistic scenery was used in the staging of a play. Audiences had to use their imaginations and the stage resembled the curtained platform of Shakespeare's time. Shakespeare employed a chorus to aid the imagination of the audience, but when there was no such device the total effect of the play was produced by the actors and their lines. Pantomime and acting were accented and scenery played no part. The probable setting for the production of Gammer Gurton's Needle at the time of its writing was a platform with a curtain background. Two openings represented the two houses that form the scene of the action. Now in the twentieth century Mark and Dagger will present this sixteenth century play with semi-stylized scenery. The backdrop designed by Ann Arnold is gay in color, decorative rather than naturalistic. It will play an impor-

New Council Elections

Student Council recently held elections to fill in vacancies. Earl Huse, vice president of Student Educational Policy, was chosen vice president. Steve Aliopolous, active in Mask and Dagger and the UNH football team, was elected representative of Fairchild Hall. Casidine Demopolous and Ken Sanborn will represent East and West Halls respectively.

UNH Host to SCM N. E. Conference

The Student Christian Movement of UNH will be hosts for a conference sponsored by the SCM in New England for the eleven colleges in the Maine area, on March 10 and 11.

Speakers and leaders of discussions will deal directly with the local programs of the colleges, presenting material in Christian Faith, Christian Community Responsibility, World Relatedness, and local organization. The preacher at the Sunday service, held at the Community Church, will be Rev. Ralph Hyslop, Minister for Students of the Congregational Christian Churches.

The conference begins at 2:30 p.m. on Saturday, with the opening session in the Trophy Room. During the evening social period, Miss Marion Beckwith and Miss Dorothy Kline will assist with the recreation. The chairman of the committee on arrangements is Edith Costley, and the chairman of the UNH delegation is Dorothy Nye, with whom local students should make their reservations.

Last Sunday evening, Dr. G. R. Johnson led the third in a series of discussions on the theme, "Jesus and His Teachings." These meetings are held at 6:30 p.m. in the Community Church on Sundays. *All who are interested are invited to come and join the discussion.

Mr. M. Solt Speaks At Shore School

The Yacht Club Shore School held its last meeting of the season on Thursday, March 1, in Ballard Hall, with Mr. Marvin Solt, of the Math Department, as speaker. In his second address to the Yacht Club this year, Mr. Solt explained the working of the tides, and the significance of the moon's and the sun's pull on the water of the earth. He also spoke of the currents accompanying the rise and fall of the tide, and the part they play in yachting.

Mr. Solt continued with a discussion of lines and their care. At the conclusion, he gave an informal demonstration of the methods of tying knots and splicing a line.

University Religious Assemblies Theme is Religion and Education

The University Religious Council, consisting of the advisors and student representatives of the Hillel Club, the Newman Club, and the Student Christian Movement, announces plans for the observance of Religious Emphasis Week, March 11 to 17.

University religious assemblies will be held on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday at 7 o'clock in the evening at Murkland Auditorium on the theme "Religion and Education." Rabbi A. I. Jacobson of the Temple Emanuel, Haverhill, Mass. is to speak Tuesday evening. The Very Rev. William J. Murphy, S.J., president of Boston College, Boston, Mass. is the main speaker for Wednesday evening. The final speaker of the week will be Dr. William Park, president of the Northfield Schools, Northfield, Mass., on Thursday evening. President Harold W. Stoke will preside at these assemblies and will introduce the speakers.

Student discussions will be held in the dormitories after the University Religious Assemblies. The discussion leaders will be of the same faith as the chief speaker of the evening.

On Friday evening, each religious organization is having separate meetings as the closing event of Religious Emphasis Week.

Lecture-Concert By the Goldovskys

A delightful as well as informative lecture-concert of songs, arias, and piano pieces was given in New Hampshire Hall, last evening at eight o'clock, by Margaret and Boris Goldovsky.

Before the concert, Mr. Goldovsky explained that he had arranged the numbers into four groups; compositions written from inspiration alone, pieces influenced by folk songs and dances, those of a romantic nature, and final those of an entertaining or amusing type.

For the first group, Mr. Goldovsky played Bach's "Prelude and Fugue in C-Sharp minor" and Mozart's "Sonata in D major."

Mrs. Goldovsky sang the sprightly aria from Der Schauspieldirektor by Mozart, "Wer hat dies Liedlein erdacht" by Mahler, Reger's melodious "Wiegenlied" and the well-known aria from "Die Fledermaus," "The Laughing Song."

The third group, or romantic group, was expressed by the "Larghetto" from the "Concerto in F minor" by Chopin, and Brahms' "Intermezzo in A major." Mr. Goldovsky's final number was the unusual "Russian Dance" from "Petrouchka" by Stravinsky.

The New Hampshire

The New Hampshire has been published by students of the university since 1918. During the spring of 1942 the staff decided it would be best to suspend publication for the duration of the war. The results of this decision left the campus with no all student publication in 1943.

A group of students realized the need for an organized student voice and succeeded in having the paper resume activity.

The first semester of this year the members of The New Hampshire staff worked hard to make the paper as much like the old New Hampshire as possible. It was hard, everyone was new on the staff, there were none of the old staff to look to for advice, mistakes were made, but most important valuable experience was acquired.

The purpose of a student organization such as The New Hampshire is primarily for the students of the campus. It is supposed to serve them in any way that it is possible. The New Hampshire fulfilled this purpose in the past. It will try to fulfill it in the future.

Red Cross

The Red Cross has no month; it has no year. Its work is not limited by geographical boundaries or by the space of thirty-one days. The month of March has been designated Red Cross Month in order that its work remain unlimited. It needs money and it needs workers. This is a time for the American people to reaffirm its faith in and to express its appreciation of the Red Cross by giving it both time and money.

Just because we go to the University of New Hampshire doesn't make us less obligated to the Red Cross than the people who are receiving its services. We are the more obligated to the Red Cross. The people whom it serves are not in the position to give, but to receive.

Although the Red Cross is included in the College Chest Fund and we are not solicited for money, it cannot be forgotten. The Red Cross is too much a part of our life to be forgotten. Let's not.

Indifference

The students, ever quick to gripe about the lack of this or that on campus are equally indifferent in supporting whatever activities and functions are inaugurated through the hard work and initiative on the part of interested students at the university.

There was considerable complaining from every corner of the campus over the lack of adequate recreational activities on the weekends. Yet when Friday Frolics were begun and off campus bands were hired and brought to Durham, the students did not even turn out in sufficient numbers to make the affairs financially self supporting, let alone put any money in the fund for a name band in the spring. Nor were they anxious to prepare any skits or entertainment to help make the affairs a success. The outcome is that the Frolics have been cancelled.

The cry was far and wide for a Granite this year and a group of students have been working hard and under many wartime restrictions to publish such an undergraduate annual. But in two weeks the quota of 1000 copies of the Granite has been only one half filled. Certainly the students have had enough time to raise the nominal sum of $2.50 to purchase the book. Chalk it up to lack of interest and sheer unconcern as to whether we have a yearbook or not.

Then there is always dissatisfaction expressed about student representatives, yet the student body itself does not take enough interest in the elections of these officers at the time of their election. The most recent example of this is the indifference shown toward the AWS elections two weeks ago. There is a large element of students, both male and female, who take no interest in campus affairs other than to complain and criticize. Under such circumstances it seems criticism should start at home.

To the Editor:

I believe that we, as citizens of the United States of America, should realize that one of the fundamental principles of democracy is the right to vote. College students, representing a mentally bright section of our population, must sense this responsibility by this time.

But as a concrete example of the lack of "something," less than half of the women students on this campus took the interest or the trouble, or the inconvenience to vote for replacement officers for the Executive Council of the Association of Women Students last week. The Council arranged purposefully to have elections take place before and after the convocation so that all the women students would vote. Ordinarily, the percentage is low because the booth is under T-hall arch, but here we expected to contact nearly every girl.

Are you so rushed that you cannot take an active part in an organization to which you belong? I dare say, the Women's Student Government on this campus is not in unimportant function. Be it as it may, every girl shares a part of it as she automatically becomes a member upon registering at the university. The girls on the Council are taken from the ranks, so to speak; they are elected by you and you, making it a plurality vote. How can it be that you show no interest in those who make decisions about your government? We want your confidence in us; furthermore we want to know that everyone of you helped put us there. Only with your suggestions and cooperation can we be successful.

Fighting moisture and fungus— communication's jungle enemies

Ever-present dangers to military communications are the twin enemies of the jungle—moisture and fungus. By impairing the efficient working of telephones and radios, they can halt vital messages as effectively as cutting the wires.

The long experience of Bell Laboratories engineers in designing telephone equipment for use under all climatic conditions has helped the Signal Corps in counter-attacking these enemies of the jungle.

Lessons learned in this wartime emergency will aid in building better communications equipment for war and peace.

Rifle Team Faces Difficult Problem

The progress of UNH's rifle team has been seriously slowed down by the departure of Lt. Labombarde, who had assumed instruction of all Military Science classes after Lt. J. J. McDonough left for duty at the Convalescent Center in Camp Edwards. Colonel Daly, who now must take over the direction of the team, is faced with a new, and therefore difficult task.

The schedule must be completed soon, and not all the team has returned this semester. The original team, selected by elimination firing, consisted of Ervin Doyle, Paul Brisson, Stanley Parker, John Breynart, Robert Beauregard, Ed Noyes, Francis Whelan, John Grady, Charles Thayer and Paul Revene. Of these, Brisson, Parker, and Thayer have left and must be replaced by comparative newcomers.

Shortly after Christmas, Lt. Labombarde organized the team, arranged a heavy schedule, and demonstrated the fine points of competitive marksmanship. Few of the fellows had had any experience with a rifle range but the Lieutenant, starting from the beginning, quickly whipped the team into shape for their first match, with the University of Idaho. UNH's range, in the basement of the Fire Station, is modern, cement-lined, and has been declared the best equipped in the east.

A section of women's physical education has joined the National Rifle Association and, with the cooperation of the Military Science Department, has been firing on the range.

Yacht Club Offers Excellent Program

The University of New Hampshire Yacht Club was organized on a permanent basis in September and October, 1937 and is now the second largest student organization on campus. Its purpose is the advancement, encouragement and improvement of yacht sailing and racing at the University of New Hampshire. The primary interest is instructional and recreational sailing.

Membership is divided into student, faculty, alumni and honorary. Membership has averaged about 100 each semester with the majority of members non-sailors. Dues are $3.00 yearly for students and $5.00 for faculty and alumni. Meetings are held weekly during the sailing season, and twice monthly during the winter. A shore school is conducted during the winter usually taking up six to eight meetings. Other meetings are taken up with lectures by off-campus speakers, talks by faculty or club members, and getting acquainted.

The club has been recognized from its beginning by the university. It is under the direct supervision of a faculty committee, appointed by the President of the University. This committee is made up of four faculty members and has functioned with one change in membership since the appointment.

Intra-mural racing and physical education sailing are recognized by the men and women's athletic associations. The club, wishing to be of service to the greatest number possible, offered its facilities to the athletic departments for physical education sailing. Transportation to and from the club anchorage is arranged by the club, and paid for by the students taking the course. Instruction is given by qualified skippers under the supervision of the faculty advisor of the club. Examinations are given at the end of the course to become club members.

Fleet

A fleet of six boats is owned by the club, being purchased in the spring of 1938. They are sixteen foot lapstreak, sloop rigged, Town class juniors, built by Marcus Lowell and Son, Amesbury, Massachusetts. They have five feet, four inches beam, a twenty-two foot mast, centerboard, and carry 115 square feet of sail. A clubroom has been assigned by the university, where executive committee and small groups can meet, and where records and certain equipment can be kept.

Alumni Interest

The interest and cooperation of the alumni has been excellent. They have supplied labor, building materials, transportation, one boat, and money in the form of a loan. A group of alumni raised funds among themselves, and purchased a boat for the club. Ex-Governor Francis P. Murphy donated funds for a boat. Building materials for a float were obtained through the efforts of alumni and faculty. Three boats were wrecked in the 1938 hurricane, but within ten days, due to the excellent cooperation of the builder, Marcus Lowell and Son, they were repaired.

Racing has been a part of the club's activities from its advent. Two crews (continued on page 4)

Russell Harmon Reports To Keesler Field, Miss.

Pvt. Russell S. Harmon, Jr. has reported to Keesler Field, Biloxi, Miss., to take the Army Air Forces Training Command examinations and begin his military training. These tests place him in that type of air crew training for which he is best suited. From Keesler Field, he will transfer to the proper station to begin his specialized training.

He is the son of Lt. Commander and Mrs. R. S. Harmon, 15 Rosemary Lane, Durham, N. H.

On campus, Russ was known as secretary of the class of 1948, and was a member of the cheering squad. Last summer he attended classes with the ASTR, getting advance preparation for his Army career.

Lower Requirements For Entry Into SPARS

The Temporary Reserves of the United States Coast Guard, headed locally by Professor C. F. Jackson, are at present conducting a recruiting drive for SPARS.

Any girl wishing to join the SPARS should apply at once to Prof. Jackson in his office in Nesmith Hall, or get in touch with him by calling Durham 154.

No applicant can be considered unless she is between the ages of 20 and 35, an American citizen, has at least two years of high school or its equivalent, and has no children under eighteen years of age. Eyes must be 20/30 or correctible with glasses to same. The height requirement is 4' 8" or over. All those in essential industry must obtain proper release papers.

The height and vision requirements are revisions of previous qualifications and may allow some girls to enlist who previously were unable to join the SPARS because of former regulations.

REC NOTICE

Recs are again being held on Monday, Tuesday, and Thursday nights from 7 to 8 p.m.

There will be no Rec from Thursday, March 15 to Friday, March 23, due to play rehearsals.

At the Rec next Tuesday night, March 12, the crowd at Rec will decide what kind of dancing it wants. Tuesday nights are being devoted to one particular type of dancing alone, such as square dancing, rumba, tango, and jitterbugging. Any requests for a different type will be welcomed.

H. C. Swasey, Coach of Baseball

by Jack McGinn

At the present the sports scene in Durham is very dull. So dull in fact, that there is very little to write on other than the coming (?) baseball season. As the question mark implies it is still unknown whether the university will or will not sponsor a team this spring. There are several factors to take into consideration in regards to the sponsoring of a team, such as the male enrollment, number of boys interested, and, above all, draft status. The University Committee on Athletics will, no doubt, in the near future, gather the statistics regarding the above factors and vote on the measure. Time and time alone holds the verdict but in the meantime all you baseball enthusiasts can keep your fingers crossed and hope for the best.

Track? ? ?

Another spring sport being considered is track. The vital question concerning this at the present moment is the number of trackmen interested. While talking to Coach Sweet recently, I was told that it would be utterly impractical to have a team unless there was at least one man for each event. In this respect the possibilities of a team becomes slightly dim because there is a dearth of track material on the campus at the present. True perhaps, that any long-legged individual can canter along at a fairly moderate pace but very few possess the skill to pole vault, hurdle, broad jump or participate in the various other events that are necessary to form a well rounded track team. Optimism still prevails, however, as Coach Sweet held a meeting yesterday for all those interested in a team. No definite results were reached so we must refer you to our old adage, "time will tell."

Odds and Ends

Tommy Hartiman, who played great ball for St. John's in the tournament, was chosen utility man on the Catholic Tourney All Star team. The tourney held at the Boston Arena this past weekend was won by DeLasalle of Newport, Rhode Island. St. John's was defeated in the first round by St. Mary's of Waltham 43-37 with Mr. Hartiman contributing 16 points.

It's probably stale news by now but Red Crory has been signed by the Phillies. The redhead did plenty of pitching last spring for the Wildcats and from all reports is the man to watch both on and off diamond. One of Red's great pals is Freddy Harlow former shortstop and quarterback for Fordham College. Red has learned a great deal from this former flash especially in the hitting department. Am I right Red?

tant part by reproducing the visual background intended for this play. The lighting will center on the actors, not the setting.

Twentieth century playwright Thornton Wilder reverses the procedure in Pullman Car Hiawatha by using no scenery and once again requiring audiences to use their imaginations as in the fifteenth century. The theater-goers of the present day, after years of seeing plays with realistic staging have been more or less passive. To enjoy this play they must be active in creating within their own minds the setting a train bound for Chicago from New York.

the fact that where you didn't have a choice in the army and had help all the time, in society there are no top sergeants. It is a tough job and must be very depressing at times but you are your own man again. It is entirely up to yourselves to complete the reassertion of self-direction."

Experience Invaluable

"We are glad you are here," President Stoke said, "because even though most of you are young in age, you are old in hours. We are glad to have your experience, the impact which you veterans will give the university. Unlike the average college student you have discovered, very often the hard way, and will continue to discover the fact that whether it is in an army, a government, society, or in a university, success and efficiency depend on the competence of individuals. You already know that in a functioning unit every individual must possess skill and knowledge and if mistakes are made, a whole organization suffers. You have apprehended that fact and that is why you are here. You have discovered that to be effective, competence of the individual is necessary."

President Stoke quoted a young aviator in the air forces who upon being asked what would happen if he missed his island 3000 miles from shore and six miles wide, replied, "if you miss, you get wet."

"Fortunately," President Stoke continued, "peacetime requirements for competency are not quite that high but you have learned the importance of succeeding or getting wet. You can enrich the atmosphere of this university, you all possess a seriousness of mind, and have an end in view. Be self-confident of your knowledge for you are better equipped to face the future. You can do it and I have all the faith in the world in you all."
