You are invited to participate in an upcoming Social Justice Educator (SJE) training, an interactive program to explore social justice from personal and professional perspectives and as related to your everyday personal and professional practices.

What is SJE training?

SJE training is a professional development opportunity for UNH faculty, staff and graduate students to further diversity awareness, knowledge and skill sets allowing for critical analysis of the services we provide and of the relational dynamics we seek in a diverse institution. We will explore social justice via personal and institutional lenses to analyze power and privilege, discrimination and prejudice, inclusion and equity through the multiple social identities of race, gender, sexual orientation, class, nationality, ethnicity, ability (physical and mental), religion, etc. This process will include open and honest discussions, readings and interactive/experiential activities in a respectful environment. The training is facilitated in a small-group setting, usually around 25 participants.

When is the next SJE training?

The training is scheduled to take place on in MUB 334/336 on Wednesday, June 26, 12:30-4:30 p.m., and Thursday, June 27, 12:30-4:30 p.m. with participants expected to attend both days. There is $25 fee to attend the training. If you need assistance with funding, please contact us to work with you to provide scholarship funding. Payment may be made using an encumbrance or check.
