

Radio Critics Praise Mike and Dial Show

Manchester radio critics praised Mike and Dial's version of "The Silver Coronet" as the "best amateur radio drama produced in this state in many years" following its broadcast over WMUR in Manchester last Saturday. The station reported they had received an unprecedented flood of phone calls from appreciative listeners lauding the production. This program will be rebroadcast over WHEB in Portsmouth this Sunday at 2:30 p.m. It is a drama concerning the last days of Mary, Queen of Scots. The show features Jeanmary Durant as Mary, with a supporting cast of Leon Stevens, Hazen Gifford, Frank Blair, and Joe Broderick. Bob Rollins handled the control room. The entire production was directed by Sid Dimond. Their efforts are doubly praiseworthy insofar as the play was rehearsed and transcribed during the noon hours of last week to meet a time commitment, this being the only time the cast had available.

In an election held last Friday in T Hall, Frank Blair was elected to succeed Don Clough as Mike and Dial's program director for 1947-48. Blair, who has had professional experience with WBRY in Waterbury, Conn., was previously the production manager. Clough, who is graduating, received a rising vote of thanks for the splendid work he did as program director.

Earl Hill, also a man with several years of commercial radio broadcasting experience, was elected the new production manager for the next year. Hill has previously served Mike and Dial as program director and chief announcer.

Dave Oliphant, who has been the club's secretary and publicity man, was re-elected to the office of secretary. Barbara Lane was also returned to her position as script director.

Three newcomers to Mike and Dial were elected to fill vacancies created by graduating members and promotions. George Buckley was made Business Manager to succeed Virginia Helff. Buckley is one of the few students to serve on the club's Board of Directors during his freshman year. Jeanmary Durant was elected dramatics director to succeed Natalie Fairchild. Miss Durant is well known on campus for her outstanding work both on the stage and in radio. Hazen Gifford was named chief announcer to succeed Earl Hill.

Pearl Lewis was made chief engineer to complete the list of officers.

The next meeting of Mike and Dial will be held on February 7.

The following is a list of Mike and Dial and Extension Service broadcasts for next week:

"G.I. Bill Goes to College" (Mike and Dial) WHEB, Portsmouth, on Saturday at 12:15 p.m.; WMUR, Manchester, Saturday at 1:30 p.m.; WLNH, Laconia, Saturday at 6:45 p.m.; WKNE, Keene, Tuesday at 3:15 p.m.

Illini Tech Offers W.E.F. Fellowships

Applications for the Westinghouse Educational Foundation Fellowship in electric power systems engineering, effective September 22, 1947, are being accepted at Illinois Institute of Technology, William A. Lewis, dean of the graduate school, announced.

Established in 1945 to encourage graduate study in power systems engineering, the fellowship provides free tuition for a three semesters' period of study and an additional grant of $500 each semester. The program consists of a prescribed course of study including research and actual work in power systems studies being made by the power and manufacturing companies cooperating on the Institute's recently acquired A/C network calculator. Upon completion of the course, the student will be awarded an M.S. degree in Electrical Engineering.

Selection will be based on personal qualifications and interests, as well as on the scholastic ability of the candidate. All candidates must have a B.S. degree in electrical engineering from an accredited engineering college.

Committee Signs Rising New Band

The music for the annual Carnival Ball, which will be held February 14th, will be furnished by Johnny Bothwell, it was recently announced by Jane Whitney and Johnny Atwood, co-chairmen of the Ball.

Hailed by the press and New York audiences as one of the top new bands of the year, Bothwell started his career with such musical greats as Tommy Dorsey, Gene Krupa, and Woody Herman. As a featured alto sax man, he has consistently proven his solo star status by placing among the top three polls conducted by Downbeat, Metronome, and Esquire.

His band consists of 18 artists including vocalists Claire Hogan and Don Darcey, who also hold high ratings on the Downbeat poll.

With its Signature recordings of "I'll Remember April," "Laura," "I Cover the Waterfront," "Street of Dreams," and "Lonely Serenade," which will soon be available in local juke boxes, the band has attained a new high in juke box and record store popularity. New York music circles are still talking about his distinctive style which brings a new trend to modern music.

Sororities, fraternities and dormitories desiring to participate in the sculpture contest to be held February 14th should notify Rick Tibbetts, Hetzel Hall, of the sculpture proposed prior to the day of the contest. Sculptures will be judged on the basis of originality and appropriateness.

All those interested in heeling for Winter Carnival work on decorations, shoveling show, ski events, or any other work of this nature will please contact Toby Moscovitz at Scott Hall or John Garnsey at A.T.O. Everyone will be welcomed with open arms.

Los Angeles, Calif.—Opportunity in our progressive industrial country is unlimited for specialized-college-trained men and women, it was discovered recently in a tour of Southern California industries by press representatives from some 10 local colleges and universities. The tour was sponsored by the National Association of Manufacturers.

Whether the individual desires to organize his own business or to join a well-established organization, the chances of success are great for an adequately trained college graduate. This fact seemed evident of the executives of all the industries visited.

Throughout all the plants visited, large and small, the management-labor-situation presented no serious problem. In fact the workers in about half of the companies expressed complete satisfaction with their working conditions on numerous occasions by voting to stay out of unions altogether.

Purpose of the tour was to acquaint college students with the problems and production methods of California manufacturers and to demonstrate the opportunities for men and women with college training.

Rank and Rankin

Regimentation or democracy are the two alternatives as a basis for the organization of society. We are all aware of the obvious manifestations of regimented society. We have just concluded a war to defend the principles of democracy against the forces of regimentation. We constantly give lip service to the American way of life and have committed ourselves to its perpetuation. But all too often our actions are not compatible with our words. We have in our heritage the basic principles wherein the individual may achieve self-determination and freedom of expression — the premise of democracy. But today we are faced with a constantly increasing number of Americans who are determined to preserve the status quo, to prevent certain individuals and groups from exercising their inalienable rights, and to bring disfavor upon those who disagree with them.

America has become the great nation which she is today because she has allowed her citizens to speak, assured that a free people must be informed and that they are capable of determining their own future. Progress has been her by-word; the four freedoms have been her goal.

Today, those forces which would seek to deter her course are attempting to throttle her educational institutions. The Rankin Committee asks the authority to pass judgment on the teachers, professors, and students of her schools and colleges. We must grant that there are those who may wish to destroy democracy, but we can hardly hope to preserve it by a process of regimentation — dictation of the ideas and ideals which may be studied and discussed in the American educational system. That would merely mean that the job was being done for them. We would be destroying the spirit of democracy of our own accord.

We must seek to instill a sense of responsibility and a desire in every American and prepare him for the task of making his own decisions. The dictation of what may be taught and who may teach was the first step in preparing the German people for the ranks of fascism.

Meet Your Profs

by George Buckley

The stage is the ultimate goal of many an aspiring young artist, and too few actually realize their ambitions. But right here on campus we have a professor who was in the legitimate theatre for a few years back in the days of the first World War. That man is William G. Hennessy, Professor of English.

Professor Hennessy was born in Boston and attended English High School there. Then the portals of Boston University opened to him, and, for the next four years, this was to be his stamping ground. White at B.U., he was literary editor of the Beacon and also participated in the dramatic society there.

After receiving his A.B. in 1916, he had the desire to enter the theatre, and there he remained until the United States entered the war. In 1917 he entered the army and served for two and one-half years, serving in the European theatre of operations.

After his discharge he returned to the theatre for two years and participated in the presentation of Shakespeare and modern plays. But now things had changed; Motion pictures had entered the scene and the stage as a foremost factor in the entertainment world was on its way out. It was then that Professor Hennessy decided that he wanted to teach.

His friends, William Powell and the late Donald Meek, migrated to Hollywood, but Prof. Hennessy, realizing he "was no second Barrymore," turned his steps once more to the Bay State institutions of learning. His graduate work at Harvard and Boston University netted him his A.M. in 1924.

Thus we find him here at New Hampshire after his sojourn at Boston. His ambitions of settling down and becoming a respected member of the community were on their way towards becoming realized.

The student body was composed of a thousand diligent souls at that time, and Professor Hennessy waded into their midst.

Besides his routine duties as an English prof, he has taught courses in Shakespeare, the Victorian Age, and, in alternate years, the History of English Drama. In addition, he coached the debating teams and for twenty years directed Mask and Dagger aspirants in over seventy productions including work in the summer sessions along this same line.

His hobbies include gardening and an interest in art, exemplified by his collection of antique furniture and paintings which he started in high school.

Although Professor Hennessy maintains he is "just a plodder - a

Letter to the Editor

To the Editor:

Many of us here on campus may have thought of the trouble in Georgia that we read about in the papers as an amusing political farce. But let us look at the situation for a minute. Georgia has just passed through a period of liberal government under which the problems of intolerance and race-hatred were being faced and solved. Now we see the picture of an elected government being deprived of its power by armed force. Many of us who have fought in other parts of the world against such a system should feel a little cheated to find that the things we fought against are right here in our own country. In some parts of this country, we see and hear of other veterans being refused permission to vote or to live without fear for themselves and their families. In Georgia, these elements that work for intolerance have taken a bold step. We must not forget that anything which has happened in one part of the country could happen in another part. We should look at these events in Georgia as an indication of the forces that work to destroy the American way of life and try to become aware of their character and strength; for these groups exist everywhere. We are all affected by the things that happen to any group in our country.

N.E. College Downs Stubborn J.V. Five

The J.V. basketball squad lost its first game of the season last Saturday as a strong New England College five downed the N.H. team, 41 to 38.

Starring for the UNH cause was George Wilmarth who scored five baskets and converted once to rack up 11 points.

Boo Morcom lived up to all expectations last Saturday at Bates when he scored a triple win to lead the track team to a decisive win over Bates and Northeastern. In winning the pole vault, high jump, and broad jump, the slim champion was not forced to the limit of his ability, but, as it was, he set a new cage record in the vault with a leap of 13' 9". That is just about the height that Boo makes every afternoon at the Field House when he is practicing, but it is considerably better than the average college jumper can hope to make.

Ed Styrna won his event without much trouble and Vernon Hall staged a terrific driving finish to cop the mile run. These men deserve a lot of credit for being able to win because of the handicaps under which they have been practicing. Since the snow fell, Ed has had to go through the following routine: throw the weight, walk through the snow and retrieve it, sweep off the throwing circle completely because the least bit of ice would cause a bad fall, wipe off the weight, and then dry his hands, and then make another throw. This monotonous grind would discourage many a potential weight man, but even a title holder like Ed would do better if the facilities of the school were more similar to those of other schools against whom the track team competes.

Hall and all the other runners have been running on the frozen cinder track all winter and then they had to compete on a banked, board track indoors. This gives them quite a handicap to overcome.

The school should be proud of the stamina and courage of these men and also appreciate the capable coaching of Coach Paul Sweet, who has directed and developed these men under the most adverse conditions.

Ed Blood's ski teams will resume competition this weekend at the Middlebury Carnival at Middlebury, Vt. The boys have been working out very seriously since the Lake Placid race and are determined to be near the top when the race is over. The teams will be scored on six events: down-hill, slalom, down-hill and slalom combined, cross-country, jumping, and cross-country and jumping combined. One of the best balanced ski aggregations in any Eastern college will represent UNH. The eight man team includes: Ralph Townsend and Al Merrill, Ollie Cole, Ray Ellis, John Hibbard, Roger Howard, Si Dunklee, and Lloyd Hawkensen.

Morcom Scores Triple Win to Defeat Bates and Northeastern

Devens Pucksters Defeated by UNH

Captain Don Perkins paced the UNH hockey sextet to its second victory Saturday chalking up four goals and one assist as the New Hampshire squad downed the Massachusetts State College pucksters of Fort Devens, 6 to 3.

Scoring for Perkins came twice in the first, twice in the second, and one assist in the third. Right wing Ronnie Sleeth and center Bill Forbes aided Perkins by able disc handling and after 1:10 in the first canto, the Dougalmen were never headed.

Sleeth passed to Forbes to Perkins for the first score of the game, early in the initial period. Another tally was scored by the Blue and White line when Perkins slipped one past the Mass. State goalie after a quick pass from Woody Noel has set up the play.

In the final period, Forbes, assisted by Perkins, tallied a marker at 4:17 and Lanza, on an assist from Noel, shapped one into the nets at 4:45.

Only four penalties were called during the whole game, two for each team. Two tallies for the Bay Staters came in the second marker and the remaining score was made in the middle of the third.

Defensively the Blue and White line was nearly impregnable and the Fort Devens skaters found it very hard to get past Woody Noel, Bruce Singleton, and goalie Bob Keith.

Huskies Edge Out Wildcats at Boston

Northeastern's Huskies snapped the winning streak of the UNH Wildcat's when they downed the Blue and White in a nip-and-tuck contest in Boston last Saturday night, defeating the New Hampshire quintet, 51 to 46.

When the half ended, N. H. held a one-point margin over the Bostonians. Both teams fought for the lead in the next two periods but the Huskies gradually built up a slight margin for the victory.

High scorer for the 'Cats was Paul Kennett who had 11 points. Ten markers were tallied by K. V. Dey in the scoring column and George Willey notched eight points.

Northeastern University and Bates College fell before the onslaught of Coach Paul C. Sweet's winter tracksters as the UNH squad outpointed both teams in the triangular meet held at Lewiston, Me., last Saturday afternoon. Final score read New Hampshire 63, Northeastern 40, and Bates 14.

Top scorer of the afternoon was Richmond "Boo" Morcom, national known UNH pole vaulter, who scored first in the pole vault to break the existing record by more than a foot at the Lewiston stadium. Morcom also bettered all competition in the broad jump to win this event with a leap of 21 ft. 11½ in. His winning mark in the high jump was 6 ft. 2 in. Before the team left for the three-way meet, "Boo" was elected Captain for the 1946-47 winter track season.

Vernon Hall, ex-cross country runner for Coach Sweet, turned in a 4 min. 41.5 sec. performance in the mile run. Barnard, Chase, and Paulson finished in that order in the two-mile run and this threesome scored within fractions of a second to clinch that event for the Blue and White.

Ed Styrna, interscholastic record holder in the hammer toss, sparked in his side event by throwing the 35 lb. shot for a distance of 46 ft. 2 in. to cop that event.

The 40-yard dash was won by Dick Lopes of UNH with a time of 4.7 sec. Freshman Dick Barnes raced home the winner in the 300-yard dash in 35.6 sec. Close behind him came Bruce Mather. New Hampshire won eight of the possible thirteen first places in the triangular meet and walked off with seven of the second place positions.

Next encounter for the 'Cats will be on Saturday when Morcom and Styrna journey to West Point for the relays there, while two relay teams will be in Boston for the K. of C. meet.

Rideout on Selection Committee For NH Rhodes Scholarships

by Burton E. Nichols

The Rhodes Scholarships recently made news when Dr. John G. Rideout, a Rhodes Scholar and member of the English Department, was appointed to the state selection committee, and when Calvin D. Rollins, a former member of the English Department, was selected as a Rhodes Scholar. These scholarships are not well-known and often the question is asked, "Just what is it?"

The general impression of a Rhodes Scholarship is that — like the cookie jar mother used to keep on the pantry shelf when we were children — it is just out of reach. It is, to be sure, an appointment requiring high standards. The competition is based upon a program which calls not only for high-ranking scholarship, but also several other qualities.

Cecil John Rhodes, who in 1902 left ten million dollars for these scholarships, bequeathed that the candidates should be selected on a four-point program which should include not only scholastic ability and achievement, but also character, interest in their fellows and instincts for leadership, and proficiency in mainly outdoor sports. Thus through the years the committees, states Frank Aydelotte, the American Secretary to the Rhodes Trustees, base much of their choice upon a personal interview whose purpose "is not to conduct an examination in the academic sense; it is rather to discover the quality of the mind and character of the aspirant, his intellectual interests, his personal traits and all that range of qualities which can never be adequately determined by academic marks or the record of past achievements — in short, his promise for the future. It will naturally center around the experiences and interests of the candidate, his plans for study at Oxford and for his career in the future."

For purposes of selection and distribution of scholarships, the nation is divided into eight districts of six states each, of which New England is one. In the past, four were chosen from each district, but at present, during the post-war period, six are chosen, making a total of forty-eight appointments a year. This year the six candidates from New England colleges represent Bowdoin, Williams, Dartmouth, Yale, and Harvard, the latter placing two.

Calvin D. Rollins, who was a member of this faculty during the spring semester last year, has received a Rhodes Scholarship from the district which includes Nebraska. He was an instructor of English here at the University, teaching a "Survey of English Literature." Mr. Rollins is at present at Suffolk University, Boston, where he is Assistant Dean and an Assistant Professor of Philosophy.

Dr. John G. Rideout, Assistant Professor of English here, is a Rhodes Scholar (Colby, 1936) of the state selection board, having been appointed by the President of the Rhodes Trustees this year. It was this committee which selected, among candidates from New Hampshire who were recommended for appointment by the New England district, Charles G. Bolte, appointee from Dartmouth. Dr. Rideout has stated that the committee would like "a decent number of qualified candidates (from the University) for the scholarships."

Mr. Bolte, who will be enrolled at Oxford next year, is the chairman of the American Veterans Committee and author of "The New Veteran." Leaving Dartmouth in 1941, he enlisted in the King's Royal Rifle Corps and lost his leg in the Battle of El Alamein. Returning to this country he took a position with the Office of War Information and it was largely through his efforts that the American Veterans Committee was organized. He is planning to study the "Greats," economics, politics, and philosophy. He would like to continue his career as an author.

The scholarships are for two years at Oxford and usually a third year is granted. On occasion the third year is spent at Cambridge. The yearly stipend is usually $2,000, although as a post-war development, an added stipend of $500 is being offered this year.

WRA NEWS

Competition is keen in Interhouse sports. Schofield and Smith are tied for first and Alpha Xi and Brook House are both in second place. The freshman houses are giving the upperclassman dorms a hard fight this year.

In the first basketball interhouse game South defeated North 41-13. Apparently some of the members of the victorious North squad of last year are now living in South.

The basketball schedule is:
 Fri. Jan. 24 4:00 North vs. Smith
 Mon. Jan. 27 4:00 Phi Mu vs. Kappa Delta
 5:00 Schofield vs. Alpha Xi
 Tues. Jan. 28 4:00 South vs. Scott
 5:00 Schofield vs. Chi Omega
 Wed. Jan. 29 4:00 Theta U vs. Chi Omega
 5:00 Commuters vs. Brook

Alpha Xi has reached the semi-finals in the Table Tennis Tournament. Joannie Stevens is patiently awaiting her opponent who will be the winner between Phyl Messer, North, and Cathy Newell, Pi Lambda. The deadline for the tournament is Monday, January 27.

The seniors insist that the following error, which occurred in last week's paper, be corrected. The sophomores were victorious over the seniors in a hotly contested basketball game, 26 to 23 not 35-13.

CLUB NOTES

by Henry W. Lutz

The Flying Club met on Monday, January 13, in the organization room in Commons at 7:30. The possibility of securing a field nearer the campus for the use of their plane was discussed. Professor Stolworthy and Lt. Col. Gilbert, club advisors, attended the meeting. The next meeting will be held January 27, at 7:30 p.m.

The Folio Club met at the home of Dr. Towle last Monday. The evening was spent on readings whose theme was cruelty and sadism. Portions of "The Devil is a Lonely Man" were read. This is a very startling novel written by Morrison Wood.

The American Society of Civil Engineers met Tuesday, January 14, in Conant Hall. Student members who addressed the group were Ray Pomeroy, who discussed "Photo Mapping," Howard Brown who delivered a "Biography of Dr. John Lucien Savage" (prominent hydroelectric engineer), and Jerry Miller, who explained "The Use of Chlorine Dioxide to Improve Small City Water Supply."

On Wednesday, January 15, the Sociology Club and Psychology Club held a joint meeting in the Pine Room of Ballard Hall at 8:00 p.m. A panel discussion, "Critique on Higher Education," was conducted.

Also Wednesday the A.I.M.M.E. met at 8:00 p.m. in room 14 Murkland. A movie illustrating copper leaching and nickel mining was shown. A business meeting was held and was devoted to minor revisions of the club's constitution and the planning of future programs. The next meeting will be held Wednesday, February 12.

Thursday the Poetry Workshop met at Dr. Towle's house at 7:30 p.m. Poetry by Gordon Folsom, Harold Orel, Don Murray, Ruth Winn, and Doris Choate was read. Prof. Daggett was present and assisted in the criticism.

A meeting of Lambda Pi (honorary language society) was recently held at which time Prof. John Floyd, formerly of UNH, gave an interesting talk on Colombia. At present Mr. Floyd is a director of Central Colombo - Americano in Colombia.

Just in case anyone reads this and belongs to any of the organizations on campus, won't you please turn in your news to the New Hampshire office. Anyone can write it up and turn it in as long as we get it by Sunday night. It is so easy to get your club a little publicity.

With the addition of Keynote Records our jazz department has attained the completeness we have strived for these twelve months past. Keynote records are similar to Commodores in respect to the ultra-smooth surface and brilliant array of jazz artists represented on them. Our initial order has a little bit of everything in it, so whether a Dixieland or Be-Bop fan come on in and dig these great discs.

Peggy Lee's new sizzler is called "Everything's Movin' Too Fast." Smart lyrics, a throbbing boogie-woogie tempo, and the Barbour guitar. "It's Lovin' Time" is soft, sultry, and just made to order for Lee's voice.

The up-and-coming Desi Arnaz outfit has a top coupling in "Mi Vida" and "Another Night Like This." Both are in beguine tempo.

Two old tunes return via the Herman herd on his latest Columbia release. "Sidewalks of Cuba" has fine guitar and a hard-to-beat beat. "Stars Fell On Alabama" has a noteworthy arrangement with plenty of Woody's clarinet.

An addition to the Capitol stable of stars is that gent from way down yonder in New Orleans, Wingy Manone. The great Wingy, who has never received the acclaim due him, sings both "Paper Doll" and "Besame Mucho." "Doll" is a fine example of back room trumpet, while the reverse, in non-rumba tempo, has everything plus a sense of humor.

Betty Rhodes' smooth vocals on "Bless You" and "You'll Always Be The One I Love" are two examples of singing songs as they should be sung. The first is slow and romantic, the second melodic, and both with lush orchestral backgrounds.

The Stan Kenton albums are going mighty fast, so don't waste an hour in getting yours. Have you heard those June Christy sides yet?
