Carnival Spirit Rules UNH Over Weekend

By George Buckley

Carnival weekend came to an official conclusion last Sunday night as 3500 students prepared once more to take up their academic pursuits within the halls of old UNH.

Tuxes and tails were reluctantly stored away in mothballs until spring and all that remained were pleasant memories of an even more pleasant four days.

Sigma took place at the field house Thursday evening and Sigma Beta emerged victorious. The floor was then taken over by a group of physically minded gals 'n guys who presented another "basketball game" for the entertainment of the crowd. It was proved that the girls can play basketball if given a little help. The annual ski boot informal followed these two games

Currier and Fraser

Phi Mu Delta, wins snow sculpture again, as they did the four years preceding the war. Due to the lack of snow, they cut and hauled 72 cakes of ice from the UNH Reservoir.

Despite the lack of snow, typical Carnival spirit prevailed and students entered into the festivities of the occasion with high hopes for an "interesting" weekend — they were not disappointed!

The field house was the scene of the annual Convocation on Thursday. President Stoke addressed the student body, comparing present day campus life with that of a year ago. Following his address, Sandy Brainerd presented the Carnival Queen, Miss Betty Ann MacAskill and her four aides, Shelly Boyd, Judy Hill, Estelle Poirier, and Anne Thompson. At 7 p.m. that same evening President Stoke crowned Miss MacAskill queen before scores of students in front of T-Hall.

An intramural basketball game between Sigma Beta and Kappa and woe be to him who wore ordinary footwear!

The scheduled varsity hockey game between UNH and Boston University on Friday afternoon was cancelled — no ice!

The success of the Carnival Ball exceeded all expectations. Couples thronged the floor and danced to the music of Johnny Bothwell, the new musical star on the horizon. At 10:30 President Stoke again crowned Betty Ann MacAskill as Queen of the 1947 Winter Carnival and presented her with a cup and flowers. Then Miss MacAskill announced that Phi Mu Delta was the winner of the snow sculpture award and Andy Hastings stepped forward to receive the presentation. Their colorful fireside scene was the talk of the campus.

Townsend Winner Of Olympic Trials

Ralph Townsend staked a claim to a place on the United States Olympic ski team by winning the Olympic trials. He negotiated the 11-mile cross-country course in 1 hour 22 minutes 44.2 seconds to give him third place behind Wendy Broomhall of Rumford, Me., and Don Johnson of Salt Lake City.

Al Merrill was fifth with a time for 1 hour, 22 minutes, 42 seconds. Paul Townsend, an instructor in the Civil Engineering Dept. was eighth and Si Dunklee was tenth.

In the second day of competition, the Wildcat skiers continued their pace with Ralph finishing fourth in the jump with a jump of 197.6 feet. He garnered a total of 434.6 points to give him a lead over his closest rival, Corey Engen, one of the famed Engen brothers of Ogden, Utah. Al Merrill scored 427.1 points to take fourth place and Si Dunklee was tenth with 333.6 points.

Dr. West Named Admissions Director

Dr. Elmer D. West, director of placement and counseling at the University of New Hampshire, has been named director of admissions, according to an announcement by President Harold W. Stoke. Dr. West has been at the University of New Hampshire since April, 1946, in his present capacity and as associate professor of psychology.

The admissions work of the university has been directly administered by Dr. Everett B. Sackett, dean of student administration, who will relinquish the work immediately to Dr. West. "Applications for admissions to the University of New Hampshire stand at an all-time high," said the president. "It has been necessary to secure additional assistance with the necessary professional skill and experience to help us make the proper decisions. The university has received requests for more than 14,000 applications during the past 18 months."

EXTENSIVE BACKGROUND

Dr. West received his bachelor's degree in education from Ohio University in 1930. In 1934 he received his master's degree in education from Harvard University, and in the following year he was awarded his doctorate by the same institution.

From 1933 to 1934 Dr. West served as special instructor in psychology at Simmons College, and in the summer of 1934 he was lecturer in education at Lehigh University. From 1935 to 1943, Dr. West was on the staff of Stoneleigh College, Rye Beach, N. H., serving as provost and director of projects until 1937, and filling the position of dean and director of projects from 1937 to 1943.

Dr. West entered the Navy April 21, 1943, and was associated with the Navy's College Training Program. He was released from active duty March 8, 1946, coming to the University of New Hampshire shortly afterward.

Dr. West is married and has two children.

Blue Key Sponsors Annual Stunt Night

Blue Key will revert to the traditional sponsorship of Stunt Night on Friday, March 7, in New Hampshire.

Since 1927 Stunt Night has been an annual event on campus and has featured a program of skits, comedy acts, and musical numbers.

Elimination contest will be held on Wednesday and Thursday nights, March 5 and 6. A committee of faculty judges will select the final entries.

Any fraternities, sorority, dormitory and commuting group may participate. Representatives of these interested groups should contact Herm Skofield at Hetzel prior to February 24.

Forestry Department Gets New Building

President Harold W. Stoke announced that additional facilities for the University's forestry department will be provided in a building moved to the campus through arrangement with the Federal Government.

Used by the Navy during the war for office and classroom space at a Naval shore establishment on Gallops Island in Boston Harbor, the building now is being dismantled and loaded on trucks for shipment to Durham.

"Laboratories, lecture rooms and a library to be provided in the building are needed very badly because of the University's increased enrollment," President Stoke explained. "Space in Nesmith Hall now occupied by forestry will be made available for other crowded departments, but even more classroom and laboratory space is still needed if the University is to accommodate its students properly."

Although weather conditions are slowing construction work, completion of the structure is expected this spring. The foundation has been laid and work started on a cement-block semi-basement.

The University has provided a site for the building at the rear of Hewitt Hall and will install a heating system, water and electricity. The federal government is moving the building, will assemble it on the campus, and upon its completion will turn the structure over to the University.

The building is a one-story, frame, three-wing, H-shaped structure. A 55 by 28 front will contain departmental offices, a forestry research laboratory, and a laboratory for the study of forest products. A lecture room, drafting room, and a silviculture laboratory will be included in the 94 by 20 foot rear wing.

A semi-basement below the rear wing will contain a lecture room, and a forestry shop equipped with saws, planers, and other milling equipment for practical instruction in lumber preparation and use. A 30 by 35 foot connecting wing will hold a seminary room and a forestry library.

New Parking Lot Under Construction Downtown

Chief Louis Bougoïn announced that a new parking area is being constructed in back of the Durham Post Office. The land for the area was made available by the University and is expected to be ready early next spring.

When the parking area is completed a one-hour parking limit will be enforced on the Main Street. There will be no meters, but the local police force expects to cope appropriately with all offenders.

The area will have a tarvia surface and numbered stalls to provide extra space for Durham residents. It will also be adjacent to the new Catholic Church that is to be erected across the road.

Mike and Dial To Hear Prominent Radio Experts

The entire campus and members of the faculty are invited to attend tomorrow's meeting of Mike and Dial in the T-Hall studios to hear two outstanding men in the field of radio broadcasting. These men are Ben A. Hudelson, Educational Director of WBZ, and Elmer Newton Eddy, WBZ news analyst. The meeting will start promptly at 3:45 to enable these men to catch a train.

At last week's meeting of Mike and Dial, Program Director Frank Blair outlined to the club members an organizational plan for the campus radio station now under construction.

Mike and Dial again extends an invitation to all those interested in radio work. With the creation of a campus radio station, there will be additional openings in fields such as script writing (of original scripts and of adaptations), news gathering and editing, dramatic work, advertising copy-writers, and technical work. Positions are open for a news editor for the new station, and a phonograph record librarian.

Tournaments for Bridge Enthusiasts

Another series of duplicate bridge tournaments will be held for all those who are interested in competitive matches. The first match is scheduled for Thursday, February 27, at Congreve North at 7:30 p.m. The matches will be under the direction of Mr. William B. Nulsen.

Anyone who is interested may participate, but it must be remembered that only couples may compete and that the same couples must play in each tournament. Each series will probably run for three consecutive matches. An entrance fee of 10c per player will be charged. The frequency of matches will be decided by majority desire of participants.

These tournaments are of purely local interest and not in connection with the national association.

Students Dislike Action Taken by College Officials

A number of students of Michigan College have been placed on "permanent disciplinary probation" for distributing a leaflet on campus supporting a Michigan FEPC (Fair Employment Practices Committee). These students, many of them veterans, are members of the AYD group (American Youth for Democracy) on that campus. The AYD stands for a program of non-discrimination, full employment, and aid to education.

Because of these aims, many student groups in various parts of the country have expressed their disapproval of the action of the college officials at Michigan. Among these groups are the newly formed Committee for Academic Freedom at the University of Michigan, the Michigan Student Veterans Association, representing 43,000 student veterans, the Harvard Liberal Union, and 25 student groups from colleges in New York.

The Methodist Federation of Social Services, the CIO Teacher's Union, and the United Auto Workers (CIO) also disapprove the action taken.

Chorus Girls, Dancing, Floor Show, "Wildcats" Take Over NH Hall

Tomorrow evening will witness the gala reopening of "Club 400." The brainchild of Opus 45, "Club 400" promises to GAL-vanize New Hampshire Hall into a star studded night spot complete with waiters, a la carte chow, and fast moving entertainment.

Last year a new student organization was born. It grew out of a common need of music students for a pooling of their interests and talents. Because it was formed during the year 1945 the club chose the name "Opus 45." Before the tiny group was a year old the members embarked upon a very ambitious enterprise. Overnight New Hampshire Hall found itself transformed into a sea of tables, scurrying waiters, and hilarious stage entertainment. The entire production was conceived and executed by "Opus" members.

This year "Opus," many times larger and consistent with its growth, plans to make this "Club 400" bigger and better than before.

After paying the thirty-cent "Cover Charge" at the gate you will be shown to a candlelight table of which there will be many grouped about a semi-circular dance floor. In a short while you will be given a menu with sandwiches, non-alcoholic beverages, and pastries listed. After the waiter takes your order you may choose to dance. Throughout the evening the "New Hampshire Wildcats" will furnish sweet and swing for your dancing enjoyment between the acts of the stage show.

Returning to your table you may find the waiter has brought your order for which you pay a very reasonable fee so don't forget to bring some small change. Relax, have a smoke, and enjoy the ensuing performance. Among the attractions will be an original surprise composition for twin pianos combining semi-classic, swing, and boogie woogie moods. Another feature will be the old standby dance routine by an All-Gal Chorus. An innovation in this year's program will satirize the confusion experienced by the music student in Ballard Hall.

Boston Cartoonist Speaks to AWS

Francis Dahl, noted cartoonist and humorist of the Boston Herald staff, is scheduled to speak here tonight as the first speaker in a series of lectures sponsored by the Association of Women Students.

Mr. Dahl was born in Wollaston, Mass., on October 21, 1907, and now lives in Quincy. He started working for the Boston Herald in 1928 and has been with the paper since that time.

Mr. Dahl is famous for his cartoons which mildly satirize life, people, and odd incidents of our times. He is especially fond of depicting Back Bay folks, feeders of pigeons on Boston Common, and the suburban firemen who rescue cats from trees.

Among the more popular cartoon books to appear recently are the following by Mr. Dahl: "Left-Handed Compliments," "Dahl's Cartoons," "What, More Dahl?" and "Dahl's Boston."

The lecture is a regular AWS convocation, and all women students are expected to attend. However, the general public is cordially invited. The lecture will take place in New Hampshire Hall at seven o'clock.

CLUB NOTES

Opus 45 held a business meeting February 10 in the Pine Room of Ballard Hall. Chaperones

This past semester it has been difficult to get professors and their wives to chaperone house dances. After having looked into the situation, we find that the faculty has good reason for not wanting to chaperone house dances.

We find that the social chairmen of the fraternity houses and dormitories think that they are doing a professor and his wife a FAVOR when they ask them to chaperone a house dance. They don't realize the inconvenience they are causing a professor, as most of them have to hire someone to stay with their children while he sits bored to death in a dark corner, while the younger generation dances to one of the latest "pop tunes."

A small scale investigation brought to light the fact that some of the faculty are refusing to act as chaperones at house dances because of a lack of good old New England hospitality. If the social chairmen and house presidents would follow these suggestions, the problem of getting faculty members to act as chaperones would be solved. First of all, the social chairman and president should introduce themselves to the chaperones when they arrive at the house or dorm. Secondly, they should be seated in comfortable chairs in some pleasant spot in the living room. Thirdly, they should be served refreshments by some member of the house. Fourthly, all members should go through the receiving line, and introduce themselves and their guests. Last of all the house president should exchange at least one dance with the chaperones. This little courteous deed would only take five or ten minutes out of a whole evening.

If these suggestions were followed perhaps the faculty would look forward with pleasure to the house dances. After all, professors are human, and like to have fun too!

Indoor Track

UNH is currently represented by one of the best track teams in New England, if not the best in small college competition. We would like to take this opportunity to congratulate the members of the team on their splendid showing this year even though they have the POOREST facilities for practice in this section.

It seems that a school of this size could do something to better this situation. We hear that the University of Conn. has obtained a surplus hanger and converted it to an indoor track. Since UNH is a state university, why can't a surplus hanger be obtained for practice purposes?

If it is impossible to obtain a hanger, why can't a track be suspended from the ceiling and walls of the field house? Yes, we know the field house is a little small for a regulation size track, but a small track is better than icy cinders at 5 below zero.

Answers and comments are requested to the foregoing editorial. We will print no letters which do not bear at least the last name and initials of the writer. Names will be withheld on request.

Life at UNH Sixty Years Ago Shows Progress in All Fields

By Dick Carpenter

Back in the dear, dead days beyond recall, New Hampshire students led somewhat of a different life than they do today. Sixty years isn't such a terrifically long time, is it? But just take a gander at the oceans of water that have passed under that notorious bridge since Grandpa's day.

Suppose we turn back the calendar sixty years and look in on New Hampshire College when it was still a whippersnapper in knee pants, a pesky newcomer squatting precariously on the reservation of the Dartmouth Injun at Hanover.

We Have Grown

The first thing we notice is a slight discrepancy in numbers. Let's see, there are roughly 3500 students at UNH now. Well, in 1887, there were 25. The good citizens of Hanover were not exactly overwhelmed by our Wildcat representation. Dartmouth bulked mighty large beside them but it could boast of only a few hundred. And when it came to faculty — well, haul out your glasses, folks, we may need them to find ourselves a lone professor or two.

And what do we have for buildings here in Hanover? Our campus doesn't seem to be too crowded. Well, there are the farm buildings; there's Conant Hall (1880's version of the Commons), a combination dormitory and dining hall; there's Culver Hall, classrooms and labs, which we share with Dartmouth; and there's — say, that's all there is, there ain't no more. Well, no janitor problem here anyway.

Cost Less Than

Our typical student of 1887 would have gone into handsprings and backflips over a monthly income of $65. Unfortunately for him, he had no G.I. Bill of Rights to sustain him, but on the other hand, his financial difficulties look pretty trivial today. Let's take a look at the expense account of Mr. 1887. In the first place, his tuition fee was thirty dollars, assuming he had no scholarship and a goodly number of students in those days were lucky enough to go through school tuition-free. Setting up the account on a minimum-maximum basis, here's how it looked:

	Cost Per Year
	minimum	maximum
Tuition	free	$ 30.00
Library and reading room tax	6.00	6.00
Room rent, including steam heating or fuel	18.00	30.00
Board, from $2.70 to $3.00 per wk. for 37 wks.	100.00	111.00
Laundry, 25c to 50c per wk.	9.25	18.50
Textbooks	6.00	12.00
Total	$139.25	$207.50

Not too bad for a college education. But as usual, there's another side to the picture that's not nearly as pretty. Most of the gay blades of the eighties helped to pay their way through school by working. And the pay scale of the times was lower than the proverbial snake's underpinnings, $1.25 per ten-hour day to be exact, or roughly twelve (12) and a half (½) cents an hour, and no time-and-a-half for overtime.

Oh, Horrors!

And incidentally, university financial assistance was limited to those deserving students who eschewed, refrained, abhorred, avoided, and abstained from the use of tobacco and/or intoxicating liquors.

Oh yes, another interesting point we nearly overlooked — the student Casanovas of the eighties were severely handicapped. Alma Mamma didn't go co-ed until 1890, so the playboys of the eighties led a sombre and thoroughly frustrated life.

Heck, let's get back to 1947, shall we?

No Dough, Thanks, or Glory; A Reporter Sings the Blues

By Duane A. Hatch

Once every week the local rag comes out filled with bits of newsy items just loaded with pathos, humor, sadism, and extrovert human nature. Behind all this lies the ultimate in human misery; the blood, sweat and toil of the millions of the editors, to say nothing of the hours of mental strain.

In large print at the top of the second page stands out to smile the unwary, the names of the cogs of the press — editor in chief, news editors, business managers. Never do you hear of the ones who slave and gallop about the campus to track down these items which you read with eyes agog and bulging with a thirst for local news.

As the news editor makes his unsteady way to the local ulcer kitchen for his morning cup of coffee, his bloodshot eyes happen to fall upon a bit of board or a pile of sand innocently lying in some inaccessible field or an impenetrable swamp somewhere in Rockingham County.

Immediately his diabolical mind begins its maladjusted functioning. He plots hours of mental torture especially designed for some poor misbegotten reporter or rewrite man. He takes from him time which should be spent in cultural improvement and study and directs him thither and yon to pester a hard working farmer about his pile of sand.

After walking for three days about the country side the reporter locates the farmer and begins to question him in the approved journalistic fashion. The farmer becomes suspicious and refuses to divulge any information except to state that the sand isn't sand at all, but another material commonly used only on farms.

When the reporter reports this to his editor, the editor decides that he doesn't want that type of story after all and assigns one that requires six weeks of intensive research at the library on the sex life of the Luna Moth.

Exhibition Now on Display at Hewitt

"The Incas," a photographic exhibition which is the result of a six months tour of Central and South America by Life photographer Frank Scherschel, is now on display in Hewitt Hall.

Included in the group are photographs of the heartland of the former Inca Empire, the Urubamba Valley, and many views of the Peruvian Mountains. These mountains contain remnants of the now extinct Inca civilization which is still a mystery because of the lack of records and the limited amount of exploration in that area.

PLATTER CHATTER

While awaiting the sequel of "Open The Door, Richard", we will fill this column with reports of the latest popular records. The title of the forthcoming ditty is "The Key Is In The Mailbox", by the way.

"Hong Kong Blues" coupled with "Stardust" are the Hoagy Carmichael contributions for this trip. The first is a duplicate of the song as sung in "To Have and Have Not", and the reverse is sung and whistled in the unique, Carmichael manner.

Also on Decca is the finest Roy Eldridge record in years. "It's The Talk Of The Town", and "Les Bounce" are the titles. Plenty of the Eldridge horn at its very best.

Herbie Fields comes through with a reasonable facsimile of Barnett's "Cherokee" which is sure to please. Backed by a smooth one named "Moon Nocturne" both qualify for excellent dance music.

For the two dozen people who enquired about Claude Thornhill's "Snowfall", all we have on it so far is a little item in "Downbeat" which says that "Snowfall" and "Autumn Nocturne" are to be re-issued this month. We will have them as soon as they are available, so watch this column.

The steadiest band in the land, Les Brown's, does it all over again on "You Should Have Told Me", and "My Number One Dream Came True". Vocals, fine arrangements, and a top performance.

The intimate style of King Cole puts across "I Want To Thank Your Folks", and "You Should Have Told Me". Both are unusually simple songs which are dressed up with outstanding instrumental work by the trio. This release stacks up with the King Cole Trio's best.

Hiya Tabbies and Toms:
It's one thing to be just plain broke but quite another to be Winter Carnival broke. The jingle has left my loose change purse, and the membership cards have begun to wink at my meat tickets in that knowing manner. Think I'll con- tract to sell Phi, Mu Delta's king-size ice cubes for them. I'll sell Orchids to the gals in the University Bookshop. Mail, that there's "ruff duty" around the first of the semester. I won't say it was crowded up there but I did see one ex-G.I. standing on tip toes above the swirling tide of humanity shooting a compass course to the door. Some joker apparently recalling Coconut Grove yelled "Fire" — Immediately four ex-Infantry soldiers hit the floor and began feeding cartridges into imaginary M-1's.

They told me there would be a three-hour wait, but I played it cozy: I told the guy in front of me I was a billiard ball whereupon the whole line played me for a "three bank shot" off the walls and behind the notebook counter.

I finally got my order in — They gave me everything I asked for except textbooks, dictionary, slide rule, drawing instruments, and notebook.

The other night at the coronation of our lovely queen Prexy lamented the dearth of poetic genius on campus. Then in the same breath he proved that he himself takes the poet laureate cake — H-o-w-e-v-e-r, them there's fightin' words, Prexy — Hold on to your hats, cats.

O Prexy, dear Prexy, your poetry's sublime
It greatly surpasses this effort of mine
And though they be flattering 'tis plain to be seen
Your verses fell short of describing the Queen
Man, She was TERRIF!!!!
Well, we've blown the foam off another one, Cats. So long,

Double credit should be given to all those who helped in the erection of the sculptures around campus as, in every case, the snow and ice had to be hauled for some distance from the site of construction. The men could be seen working by outside light as the deadline drew near.

Following this ceremony Miss MacAskill and her escort, Don Burnett, danced once around the floor and then were joined by the other couples.

Saturday afternoon the open ski events at McNutt's Headwall were cancelled — again due to lack of snow. At 2:30 the field house was the scene of the JV's defeat at the hands of Exeter, 47-46.

House dances began at 8 Saturday evening and lasted until 11:45. This was the last social event for many for the weekend, but for those who still wanted more, there was an Outing Club ski trip to Gilford Sunday. Buses left T-Hall at 9 a.m. and returned at 6 p.m. The skiers, tired but happy as they trudged to their respective abodes, were evidence that another Carnival fete at UNH had ended and the Queen's crown was laid away until next year.

Do you believe in THRIFT?

"I'm a regular Scotsman for thrift. I never throw away anything that I can use again.

"Every year I salvage millions and millions of pounds of metal from what you might call junk.

"I collect all the old telephone equipment, wire and cable no longer useful to the Bell System . . . and all the machine scrap, turnings and rejected parts from the factories where I make Bell Telephone equipment.

"I turn this scrap metal into bars and billets of refined metals and alloys out of which I make new telephone equipment.

"I salvage rubber, textiles and paper, too . . . and anything I can't use again, I sell. Nothing is wasted.

"My thriftiness, as supply unit of the Bell System, is one reason why you get telephone service . . . the world's best . . . at the lowest possible cost.

DURHAM BULL

by R. C. O'Connor

Ralph Townsend and Al Merrill came through as all their rooters in Durham knew they would in the Olympic trials. These two boys have been coming out on top of ski meets over since they came here in 1940, except for the time that they were in the service. As freshmen they went up to Dartmouth and were instrumental in winning the carnival meet for the Wildcats. The Easterns have always been their pet meet having come in one, two in 1943 and 1946. This year the Easterns have been postponed because of bad skiing conditions, but when they are held, these two perennial winners are sure to be on or near the top.

Leo Fafard won the three mile run in the New England's last Saturday. Leo is at one and the same time the joy and bane of Coach Paul C. Sweet's existence. Leo is one of the best mile runners that has come to school in a long time, but he is enrolled in the two year course and is not eligible for inter-collegiate competition. It is one of the oddest situations in Coach Sweet's career to see a fine miler jogging around the track while at the same time he is trying to fill a spot in his team for a miler.

Leo has faced the same difficulties that the rest of the squad has faced in not having a decent winter track to run on, but this winter he has been competing against the better milers, two milers, and three milers in the country in national meets.

Schoolboy Tourney To Start Feb. 26

The annual New Hampshire Interscholastic Basketball Tournament between the outstanding schools of Classes A, B, and C is scheduled to begin on February 26 running through March 1 at the Field House. As yet the contenders in the respective classes have not been named. However, last week evaluations of referees were submitted to the Board of Basketball Officials by some 35 schools competing for bids. These selections counted heavily in the Board's nominations which included Edward "Smokey" Kelleher, a tournament tradition for the last 21 years. Thomas Padden of Manchester, W. Jaskowski of North Walpole, Mass., and Richard Roberts of Framingham, Mass. also were chosen. Jaskowski at present is the physical director of the newly created G.I. College at Fort Devens, Mass. One vaulter in the nation today, it is evident that a team that scores more than 60 points against two other colleges must have more than one man.

Ed Styrna is a little off his usual form and hasn't made the same distances in competition that he has made in practice, but he is still one of the best in New England, and when he hits his stride he will be among the best in the country.

Dick Lopes was a double winner and did a great job in the 40 yard dash. In the finals, he got off to a very poor start and was about three yards behind the rest of the pack, but he zoomed out of the starting blocks and continued to accelerate until the finish line and was then well in front of the rest of the field.

Burt Cram took top place in the shot-put without much trouble and nearly won the discus-throw with a heave of almost 132 feet, which would have been a new cage record, but he stepped out of the throwing circle and the try was not counted officially.

The basketball team took a trip through Maine to play Colby and University of Maine. The boys dropped both contests and the last was a real heart-breaker. They held Maine right until the last minute of play and lost by only one point, 70 to 69.

REC

For the benefit of the new students on campus, here is the official "Rec" schedule:

Every Monday, Tuesday and Thursday nights NH Hall is open from 7-8 for dancing, badminton and pingpong. The girls' dorms and sororities act as hostesses. On Monday, Feb. 24, girls from Congreve North will be hostess, Tuesday, Scott Hall and Thursday, Alpha Chi.

vacancy remains to be filled, but two alternates, Emil Bolzake of Nashua and John Aylward of North Walpole, Mass., have been named.

Carl Lundholm and Arthur Toll, heads of the Board, announced that all tickets will be sold at the Field House only and only one session in advance. They believe that this will avoid speculation as well as the confusion that has reigned in previous years when home-town rooters were unable to purchase seats to watch their favorites perform.

Ski Team Fourth At Green Carnival

The Wildcat ski team placed fourth in the 37th Annual Winter Carnival at Dartmouth behind Dartmouth, Middlebury, and McGill. They were without the services of Ralph Townsend and Al Merrill, both excellent four event men, and Si Dunklee, a cross-country and jumping specialist, who were at the Olympic trials at Lake Placid.

New Hampshire took third in the downhill when Ray Ellis came in seventh and Ollie Cole eighth. They dropped to fifth in the slalom, but made third in the combined.

In the cross-country race, Lloyd Hawkensen finished eighth to give the team fourth place in team scoring. In the jumping, Hawkensen came in fifth, Ellis thirteenth, Roger Howard 18th, and Ray Churchill 24th for a team standing of third.

The final team standings and scores are:

Dartmouth	588.5
Middlebury	569.0
McGill	556.9
New Hampshire	545.1
Vermont	520.9
West Point	477.6
Harvard	474.2

Sweetmen Capture Triangular Meet

A powerful UNH track team defeated Colby and Bowdoin Saturday in the latter's cage by the score of 67½ for NH, 50½ for Bowdoin, and 25 for Colby. The feature of the meet was the shattering of the old cage record in the pole vault by Boo Morcum, who jumped 13 ft. 9½ in. to raise the mark by 1 ft. 3 in. Boo also took a first in the high jump with a leap of 6 ft. 1½ in., he was prevented from attempting a triple win by his injured ankle which was bothering him slightly and he did not wish to risk it in the broad-jump.

Dick Lopes, veteran dashman for Coach Paul Sweet, copped the 40 yard dash in 4.7 seconds after getting off to a slow start. He also won the broad-jump with a distance of 21 ft. 5¾ in. The weight men scored sweeps in the discus and shot-put. Ed Styrna won handily when he threw the platter 130 ft. 7 in., teammate Bert Cram, who was second, threw it almost 132 ft. and was within inches of a new cage record but he fouled and the throw was not counted. He came back in the next event to put the shot 41 ft. 4¼ in. with Bobo Johnson, Don Mullen, and Norm Tupper finishing in that order behind him. Bruce Mather, brilliant passer on the Wildcat eleven, tied for first in the 300 yard run in 34.2 seconds.

Robinson of Colby won the mile and two mile races with a terrific sprint that allowed him to overtake the pace setters in both events.

Branche of Bowdoin won the 45 yard high hurdles in 6.1 seconds and was second in the high jump and broad jump.

Exeter Basketeers Down Junior Five

Exeter Academy downed Coach Jere Chase's Junior Varsity squad 47 to 46 last Saturday afternoon in one of the major events of carnival weekend.

The Prep schoolers were leading 29 to 17 at half-time and it was only by a sustained drive in the last two periods that the UNH'ers were able to come from behind and seriously threaten the visitors.

Top point-getter for the J.V.'s was Martin Fleit, who garnered 10 points at his pivotal spot. Charley Long netted 8 points from his forward post and the rest of the scoring was about evenly split amongst the remaining players of Coach Chase's two-team basketball club.

A word or two on what to do about knotting

1. You're off to a swell start when your tie is an Arrow—perfect knots are part of their make-up.

2. Cross the long wide end over and then under the short end as above.

3. Then bring the wide end around and over once more and up through the center.

4. Work the wide end down through front loop and smooth out to prevent twisting.

5. Next form dimple under the knot by pinching sides over the index finger and tighten.

6. Finis... a knot that's the last word in neatness. Arrows do a job like this every time.

Give yourself a treat and stop in and see our new Spring Arrows. The patterns and colors are out of this world. All are tailored of fine draping fabrics and have the resilient lining which prevents wrinkles. from $1

Carnival as we all expected was a huge success, even sans snow. Everything from its charming Queen and aides to its novelty Frat dances was perfect. Hard getting back to the grind isn't it? . . . As all good things must come to an end let's turn our thoughts to more serious matters hmmm. . . . Traitors to the cause are Arie Whittemore and Connie Garbutt, of Alpha Chi, and Dorothy Chase of Congo South who attended the Dartmouth Winter Carnival. . . . Theta U thanks Sigma Beta for its serenading Sunday morn — loudspeaker and all — more talent floating around there. . . . Phyllis Carroll, Chi O, became engaged Carnival Ball Night to Russell Clark of the Chemistry Dept. . . . Sigma Beta and The New Hampshire welcomes back Jack Knowlton after a three week's illness. . . . Phi Delta U owes the success of its terrific house party to its evercapable social chairman, Don Adams. . . . As far as we're concerned Phi Mu Delta had the best snow sculptures we've seen in years (on this campus). The prediction that they'd win hands down certainly came through. . . . Oh by the way, they deserve some credit too, for lugging 72 chunks of ice from the reservoir. . . . Through no fault of his own, J. A. of Theta Chi dropped a few votes at Alpha Chi over the weekend. . . . Ginny Worcester of Theta U also received a diamond this eventful weekend. The lucky fellow is Jerry LaChance of Rochester, N. H. . . . Scoop! Ray MacNamara of Sigma Bet is getting Apt. J15 ready for April and his bride-to-be, Pat Caron. Our joint award for the most novel decoration Saturday night goes to Kappa Sig and ATO. Kappa Sig with its Beachcomber effects such as nets, a gangway, and dates dressed as pirates was very nauhgtycal. Scollay Square moved into ATO and took over for the night. Congrats to the originators. . . . Hear tell that the whole campus moved in on Sigma Bet, formal, skirts and sweaters, dungarees, heels, thugs, saints and sinners. . . . A certain fellow from TKE got so absorbed with the N.H.U. Colby-Bowdoin meet that he got slightly confused. He invited his girl from Concord to attend the Carnival Ball next weekend. He is now having difficulty explaining matters. . . . At SAE Biff West and Walter Page were crowned "Miss Snowflake" and "Mr. Snowball," respectively, Saturday night. . . . TKE and PIKA collaborated for the best house-party since the war. . . . It's a toss-up as to whether Theta Kap or Lambda Chi had the jumpingest house dance. We tossed a coin and Lambda Chi won. . . . TKE fixed up an ATO pledge with an excellent blind date. So the pledge went to Scott to call for the young lady and forgot her name. . . . That's Jerry Dinsmore of Sigma Bet sporting a "47" convertible. . . . Theta Chi contributes its successful house party to its many lovelies both imported and domestic. The same might go for the rest of the houses, shall we say "Topsy" at Kappa Sig or "Polly" at Phi Delta U or, or, or, or. . . . As we go to press Sigma Bet and Theta Kap are already to thrash it out on the basketball floor to determine who will be the intramural champion. It should be a very good game. WELL, back to the books, and to trying to get on to the Dean's list, or should we say off the other list?

SDA Holds First National Convention

The first national convention of the newly formed Students for Democratic Action will be held in Washington from March 28-30. The purpose of this meeting is to set up a program and to set up an organization for independent liberal college students throughout the nation.

SDA is dedicated to the task of expanding the nation's program of social legislation, protecting civil liberties, and extending the Four Freedoms to all people of the world.

This organization was formed when the United States Student Assembly accepted an invitation to affiliate with the Americans for Democratic Action. Both groups reject any alliance with totalitarian groups.

Observe American Brotherhood Week

By Jean Carlisle

Defined as a willingness to give to others every right and dignity we claim for ourselves, brotherhood is essential to the fulfillment and perpetuation of democracy. This belief, which is in fact an important basis of the democratic way of life, has caused a neurotic condition peculiar to our country — caused by espousing this ideal and loudly acclaiming it but not practicing it. Until that conviction controls the thinking of our citizens democracy is not safe. So long as any minority among us is not free, all of us are threatened. It reaches into every walk of life and the disease, prejudice, has followed it.

As history has proved, when one group has been deprived of its rights, another group can also suffer similarly. Not only is this important to America, but the worldwide acceptance of brotherhood as the rule of life for nations is essential to permanent peace. We cannot hope to command brotherhood abroad unless we practice it at home. What we do in our own country speaks more loudly to the world than anything that we can say — "By their fruits shall ye know them."

This week is Brotherhood Week and the goal of this campaign is to enroll millions of people in an American Brotherhood dedicated to the extension of Freedom, Justice, and Responsibility as the foundation stones of a peaceful world. Not only is this campaign American, but also international. Last summer the first International Conference of Christians and Jews was held in Oxford, England. A permanent World Council was one practical result.

The implications of this belief are obvious. Brotherhood — Believe It, Live It, Support It throughout the year.

State High Schools Test UNH Students

Three New Hampshire high schools have been named as spring training grounds for 10 student "practice teachers" from UNH, it was announced today by Professor A. Monroe Stowe, head of the university's Department of Education.

Portsmouth will train Edith Emery of Munroe and Phyllis Willey of Greensboro, Vermont, in the teaching of music; Norman Turcotte of Belmont in biology and algebra; and Howell Atwell of Portsmouth in American and world history.

At Rochester's Spaulding High School, Paul Benedict of West Boylston, Mass., practices the teaching of history and English; Frank Brown of Whitefield teaches algebra and geometry; and Martha Farris of North Attleboro, Mass., practices instruction in home economics. John J. Callahan, teaching American history, and Elizabeth McLelland, teaching biology and physical geography, will be literally at home during their practice teaching, both being alumni of Spaulding.

Dale O'Connell of Nashua is teaching biology and physical education at Somersworth.

Mrs. Doris Pierce Swift of Melrose, Mass., has been practice teaching home economics at the elementary school in Durham since last fall.

Weather Officer Training by AAF

The Army Air Forces has approved and established a program for training weather officers at civilian universities. Former officers who are qualified for this training may request recall to active duty for the purpose of attending courses at the University of Chicago, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, New York University, California Institute of Technology, and the University of California at Los Angeles. Classes will begin at these schools for the mid-term semesters with additional quotas for summer and fall semesters planned.

Reserve officers in the grade of major and below who have completed at least three years of college work including mathematics through integral calculus and one year of college physics and who are physically and otherwise qualified, and eligible for recall to active duty for the purpose of attending weather officer training courses. Former officers who are not members of the Reserve Officers Corps and who are qualified for weather officer training must first apply for and receive a Reserve Officer's commission before they may request recall to active duty for weather officer training. Reserve officers of the other arms and services will be transferred to the Air Reserve upon acceptance of recall to active duty for weather officer training.

Individuals who successfully complete the prescribed course of weather officer training at these civilian schools will serve on active duty as weather officers with the Air Weather Service of the AAF.

Qualified individuals who desire this training should forward applications and transcripts of college credits direct to Chief, Air Weather Service, Washington 25, D. C.

Photos Wanted for Nat'l. Distribution

Photos which are not too obviously posed are wanted by the Associated Collegiate Press to represent activities on UNH Campus.

The Associated College Press publishes a pictorial review of campus life throughout the country called "The Collegiate Digest." It is sent here and distributed regularly along with the New Hampshire every Thursday.

Inasmuch as the Digest is nationally distributed, it will be an excellent publicity medium for UNH. Any contributions may be brought to the office of the New Hampshire in Ballard Hall and will be forwarded to the Associated Collegiate Press.

All photos must be sharp for rotogravure reproduction; at least 3 x 5 glossy print, news events or happenings, or posed shots of individuals, cheesecake, and other miscellaneous prints.

President Stoke Gives Greeting to Students

"The University of New Hampshire has the largest student body on campus of any state university in New England," said Pres. Harold W. Stoke, as he addressed the first general convocation of the entire student body in this unusual year, at the Field House last Thursday afternoon.

Included in his greeting to the assembled students was a welcome for all the newcomers who had just arrived for the new semester. "We're glad you're here, and we hope that you will soon feel at home."

Giving a few facts concerning this, the largest enrollment in the University's history, he said that we now have 1200-1300 more students than a year ago and that over half of them had never been on campus before. He added that he hoped we would not fail to carry on one of the University's cherished traditions — a more difficult task in the light of our greatly increased numbers — of always speaking to all those whom we meet on campus.

The fact that the student body is primarily composed of veterans or those "who seem to want to be closely associated with them," the President spoke at some length concerning their unique problems. Referring to the predictions which had been made about the return of the veteran to the campus, he assured them that the fears which had been voided had not been held by the University administration and faculty, and that the educational implications of their "travel" was being given due consideration.

In turn, he discussed the plight of the married veterans, the problems of allotments, and inconveniences of living conditions in the domestic refuges, which he preferred to refer to as the "Green Mansions." He added that the University wants to aid the situation in every possible way.

The commuters, not an inconsiderable number of the student body, were also considered. The President stated that there are as many commuters today as there were students a year ago. He mentioned that the Student Activities Building is planned to play a large role in adding convenience for the commuters. It was tentatively stated that April 15th might be the expected date of its opening.

The President continued with a survey of the major problems confronting the University, concluding that "today the University stands at all kind of turning point in its career. It faces many problems affecting its current operation and its future development. . . I think you would be interested in knowing that the pattern of financial support for the University was drawn in 1926, at which time it was expected that 'within a period of fifty years, the University would have between 2000 and 2500 students'. That pattern has remained substantially unaltered from then until now."

He stressed the fact that this situation must be remedied if the now greatly enlarged student body is to benefit as much as have University students in the past.

Meet Your Profs

By F. Douglas Bowles

James G. Conklin likes to collect bugs, but not for a hobby. He is Professor of Entomology and head of the Department of Entomology here at the University.

He was born in Hartford, Connecticut and, after the usual pre-schooling, entered Connecticut State. At this time he was interested in Forestry, but after his first course in Entomology, his interest switched to the latter course. He states that he had "a normal undergraduate experience." He went out for track and was cheerleader there for four years. He received his Bachelor of Science there in 1926.

He then worked with the U. S. Bureau of Entomology for two years. Most of this time was spent on European corn borer control. In 1929 he came to the University of New Hampshire and in June of the same year received his Master of Science degree. Following this he entered Ohio State to work on his doctorate but left with this work unfinished. He spent the summer of 1930 again with the U. S. Bureau of Entomology; this time he worked with leafhoppers on forage crops.

In 1931 he joined the staff here at the University. Mrs. Conklin and he were married at this time and now have two daughters, Cynthia and Nancy, who attend grammar school in Durham.

In 1939 he returned to Ohio State to work on his doctorate. He had never expected to complete this work, but he did, receiving his Ph.D. there in 1941.

This year Dr. Conklin became head of the Department of Entomology, Entomologist for the Experimental Station and was appointed State Entomologist. This three way division of his work keeps him pretty busy. The state work is mostly regulatory: the suppression of insect pest and plant diseases. His work at the Station is his main interest for it is research on insecticides and destructive insects generally.

Dr. Conklin's life in his work and outside his work has been interesting, if you can get him to talk about it. He is now temporary scoutmaster of the Durham troop. A position which he filled in 1942 while they were seeking a permanent scoutmaster.

Another of Dr. Conklin's interests is yachting, one more activity which he has had to neglect. He and 'Skip' Glover, who was instrumental in organizing the Yacht Club on campus, owned a boat together. Their experiences with this boat were many. He grins, "They were mostly attempting to keep the motor running and trying to locate a mud flat (which we had never hit) in the Oyster River between here and Portsmouth. On one trip between the Isle of Shoals and Portsmouth, they met 'Stub' Loveren, former supervisor of the campus grounds. His boat was adrift in the sea, without a rudder. They answered his distress signal and gave him a tow back to the Isle of Shoals. Dr. Conklin says, "There was not too much danger, but Stub was kinda glad to see us!"

Aside from these activities he joined the Sigma Xi fraternity at Ohio State, the Gamma Alpha, an honorary scientific fraternity, and the Phi Sigma here at UNH. He is a member of the Entomology Society of America and the American Association of Economic Entomologists.

Despite his past outside activities his real interest and work is Entomology. He says that the department here does mostly service work and does not have too many Entomology majors. He gives most of the credit for the department's work to Dr. W. C. O'Kane, nationally famous Entomologist, still on campus in an administrative and experimental capacity. However, he is proud of the fact that "the majority of the Entomology majors who have graduated are still very active in the field of Entomology."

BASKETBALL

The All-Star basketball squad will play Nasson College here Tuesday, February 25. This will be the second outside basketball game of the season.

CLUB NOTES

Rice. Following the order of business, David Laddy spoke on his experiences in Equador.

In order to stress the inter-faith understanding on campus, a joint meeting has been arranged through the combined efforts of the Hillel and Canterbury clubs. It is not known if a meeting of this sort had ever been tried before, but both groups are working to make it a success. This meeting will be held in the Organization Room in Commons on Wednesday, February 26. "Liturgical Similarity between the Christian and Hebrew Religions" will be the topic discussed.

In the next few days Mortar Board will send out invitations to their annual "Smarty Party" to which Freshmen on Dean's list and those Sophomores with an exceptionally high scholastic average will be invited.
