

Agriculture In The Developing World Focus Of UNH Talk April 1 As Part Of Women's History Month

Contact: Sharon Keeler
603-862-1566
UNH Media Relations

March 29, 2005

DURHAM, N.H. – Deborah Delmer, deputy director for food security at the Rockefeller Foundation, will speak at the University of New Hampshire Friday, April 1, as part of Women's History Month.

Delmer's talk, "Agriculture in the Developing World – Challenges and Opportunities: A Woman's Journey in Science, From Academia in the USA to the Development of Agriculture in Africa," takes place at 12:10 p.m. in Horton Hall, Room 210. It is free and open to the public.

The UNH Department of Biochemistry, Department of Plant Biology, Affirmative Action Office, Office of Sustainability Programs, and Farrington Fund of the Department of Natural Resources jointly sponsor this seminar.