DURHAM, N.H. -- Join skiers and boarders of all abilities at Attitash Bear Peak for a day of fun, and raise money for a good cause at the same time.

Northeast Passage, a program of the University of New Hampshire and an affiliate of Disabled Sports USA that provides recreational opportunities for people with disabilities, is holding its annual Winter Carnival/Ski-A-Thon Saturday, Jan. 25, 2003. Raise a minimum of $100 and get free skiing for the day, along with lunch, après ski party, T-shirts and prizes.

Team packages for four adults are $300, and family fun packages are $300 for two adult lift tickets and two children's lift tickets.

The more money people raise, the more prizes they qualify for, including backpacks, skis, snowboards, and Northeast Passage prize packages. Additional prizes, including a kayak, will be raffled.

Grand prizes for the top fundraisers include golf and accommodation packages.

Sponsors for the event include Fire on the Mountain Ski & Sport of Dover, 100.3 WHEB of Portsmouth, Granite Sports magazine and Bottom Line Technologies of Portsmouth.
