Dr. Reed Accepts New Post; Retires From UNH Position

Dr. John F. Reed, Acting President of UNH, has resigned to become President of Fort Lewis College in Colorado, Austin I. Hubbard, President of the UNH Board of Trustees, announced Tuesday. The resignation becomes effective June 30.

Fort Lewis College is a new four-year liberal arts college at Durango, Colorado. With state support, an existing two-year college is being expanded to a degree-granting institution and Dr. Reed will face the task of building a faculty and plant.

Came To UNH In 1956
Dr. Reed has been one of the chief administrative officers of the University since he came to Durham in 1956 from the University of Wyoming. He joined the staff that year as Dean of the Graduate School and Professor of Botany. He also held the position of Coordinator of Research.

When the post of Dean of the College of Liberal Arts became vacant in 1959 he took on the added responsibility for the largest college in the University.

Choice Of Trustees
He also served for a time as a special assistant to President Johnson. When deans for the Graduate School and the College of Liberal Arts were appointed in 1961 he became Vice President of the University. He was the choice of the Board of Trustees to become Acting President after Dr. Johnson left.

Dr. Reed was the first UNH representative on the New Hampshire Educational Broadcasting Council, Inc., which helped to bring educational television, WENH-TV, Channel 11, into New Hampshire. He served as secretary of the council.

Graduated With Honors
A native of Rockport, Maine Dr. Reed was graduated with honors from Dartmouth College in 1933 with an A. B. degree. He did his graduate work at Duke University, receiving the M. A. in 1935 and the Ph.D. in 1936. Botany was his major in all of his degree programs.

While studying at Duke, he served as a graduate assistant in botany in 1933-34. He taught natural sciences at Amarillo College in Texas for a year and then joined the faculty of Baldwin - Wallace College in 1938 to teach biology. He served there for eight years, including four years as Dean of Men.

Managed Science Camp
Dr. Reed went to the University of Wyoming in 1946 as an assistant professor of botany. He became an associate professor in 1949, and a professor in 1955. He also served as manager of the University of Wyoming Science Camp. He left Wyoming in 1956 to come to New Hampshire.

On a leave of absence from Wyoming in 1951-52 he served as a plant ecologist under the Economic Cooperation Administration in Ruanda-Urundi in the Belgian Congo in Africa.

He holds membership in the American Association for the Advancement of Science; the Ecological Society of America, of which he was secretary from 1953 to 1957; the American Society of Range Management; Ohio Academy of Science; Colorado-Wyoming Academy of Science; New Hampshire Academy of Science; and the British Ecological Society.

He is a member of the Council of the National Institute of Dental Research, National Institutes of Health, and a member of the Environmental Biology Panel of the National Science Foundation.

Dr. and Mrs. Reed have three sons: John F., a graduate student at the University of Michigan; Robert M., a sophomore at Duke; and James R., a student at Oyster River High School, Durham.

Seniors Unhappy Over Outing Cost

The four dollar price tag attached to the Senior Class outing to be held at Wentworth-by-the-Sea has caused some discontent among members of the Senior Class.

Several Seniors have voiced discontent about this price, especially since the class apparently has a substantial fund which they feel could be used for this purpose.

Another condition that has brought some disapproving comment is that they have to "bring their own drinks".

The tickets for this affair are on sale in each housing unit and at the Bookstore.

Discussions, Fireside Chats, Dances Planned by Frosh Week Committee

By Terrie Richard
Small group discussions will be added, and the President's Tea may be omitted, from next year's Orientation Week program, the Orientation Week Committee told The New Hampshire this week.

The discussions have been added in hopes of incorporating the spirit of Freshman Camp into Orientation Week.

Although there may be a new president by then, he may not be as receptive as President Johnson was to the teas.

Greet Freshmen At Ball
An alternate plan has been submitted whereby the President and his wife would greet the freshmen in a reception line at the Freshman Ball.

Freshman Camp Counselors, the Sophomore Sphinx, Mortar Board, and Senior Key are being asked to lead the discussion. The groups will be limited to 20. The topics discussed would be the same as those discussed at Freshman Camp.

The remainder of the program is similar to past years and includes the following:

The traditional Freshman Ball which will be held on the last evening of the week.

A Student Union open house, Freshman Beanie Hop, and exhibits by student organizations.

Discuss Campus Rules
The Convocation at which upper-classmen will speak to the Freshmen. This year, part of the program may be in skit form.

Dormitory Panel discussions at which dorm officers and other upperclass leaders will discuss campus rules.

For the Religious Organizations meeting the organizations presidents and their advisors will be requested to plan a stronger program in hopes of attracting more freshmen, since these meetings have been poorly attended in the past.

Two books which the freshmen are supposed to have read over the summer will be discussed at Faculty Firesides.

There will be a barbecue for the transfer students.

Bolster Sports Program
An attempt will be made to bolster the Men's Sports program which had poor attendance last year.

In addition to this program, the committee is also trying to get the Student Union to show a free movie on the Friday night of orientation week. Also, there will be an upperclass dance at the Union the same night of the Freshman Ball.

The Committee hopes that next year's Orientation Week Program will eliminate the weak spots and add many activities that will be of more interest to the students.

Many events which have been poorly attended in past years will be strengthened. The emphasis next year will be on "interest" of the new class, and the committee is striving for maximum attendance at all events.

Dr. Iddles Named Outstanding Prof.

Dr. Harold A. Iddles, Professor of Chemistry at the University of New Hampshire, was named one of the six outstanding college chemistry teachers in the U. S. and Canada by the Manufacturing Chemists' Association.

He will receive a $1,000 award and a medal at the association's annual meeting at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., June 7 as a teacher who has "awakened in students a genuine interest in chemistry, inspiring them to serious intellectual effort in studying the subject."

Dr. Iddles, who retired last year as Chairman of the UNH Department of Chemistry after 32 years, is on leave of absence this year, serving as Associate Director of the Summer Institutes Division of the National Science Foundation, Washington.

Other Positions
He is currently president of the New Hampshire Academy of Sciences. Since 1957 he has directed an NSF summer institute in chemistry at UNH. He is a member of the board of Visitors to the chemistry department at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and he is also a consultant to the University of San Marcos, Lima, Peru.

Theta U. Sorority Merges With Delta Zeta National

By Steve Taylor

Theta Upsilon, one of UNH's six campus sororities, last week changed its name. Effective Sunday, the local Theta Upsilon chapter was merged with the largest national sorority in the country, Delta Zeta.

Actually the entire Theta Upsilon organization, including national offices and some 18 chapters scattered across the United States, was absorbed into the Delta Zeta organization.

Miss Jean Lamothe, president of the UNH chapter, told The New Hampshire Tuesday that the merger would benefit both Delta Zeta and the former Theta Upsilon chapters.

Will Save Money
"It will particularly benefit our chapter with respect to membership expense," she stated.

"By joining Delta Zeta, the UNH chapter will stand to save a substantial amount on dues costs."

In addition, the UNH chapter will benefit from the backing of a larger and more affluent national organization.

Of particular importance to the UNH chapter was the fact that Delta Zeta has no restrictive or discriminatory clause.

Likewise Theta Upsilon had no clauses and the merger would not have been effected had the Delta Zeta national stipulated any such restrictions.

The decision to merge Theta Upsilon with Delta Zeta came after each of the 18 Theta Upsilon chapters had voted overwhelmingly for the move.

Many Chapters
Delta Zeta with the new member chapters will include some 142 chapters across the country. It was founded at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio, in 1902 and joined the national Pan - Hellenic Conference in 1910. Theta Upsilon was founded in 1914 on a national basis. It was established on the UNH campus in 1930.

Last week an initiation team, comprised of officers from both the Delta Zeta national and the former Theta Upsilon national, was on campus to initiate UNH's Theta Upsilon sisters into the Delta Zeta sisterhood.

Initiate 52 UNHers
Miss Lamothe said that 52 UNH women were initiated in ceremonies last Wednesday and Thursday evenings.

This figure includes this year's pledge class which had been initiated into Theta Upsilon prior to the merger.

"All Theta Upsilon alumnae automatically were made alumnae of Delta Zeta," Miss Lamothe noted.

The structure of the house leadership is due for some revision in order to conform to Delta Zeta organizational requirements.

This will not affect the top offices, Miss Lamothe said, rather several of the minor cabinet posts are due for revision.

No Big Changes
"We don't expect to have to make any radical changes in our house activities or policies," she said.

Several Delta Zeta chapters are situated near the new UNH chapter. This is in marked contrast to the days when UNH Theta Upsilon sisters were hundreds of miles from any other Theta Upsilon chapters.

Presently there are Delta Zeta chapters at the Universities of Maine, Connecticut, and Rhode Island. There is also a chapter at Jackson College for women at Tufts University in Medford, Mass.

UNH Sponsors Horse Show; Over 80 Entries Featured

Over 80 horses and ponies from Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, and New York have been entered in one of the largest horse shows ever to be presented at UNH.

The program, scheduled for this Sunday is expected to attract several hundred spectators from all over New England and New York.

Proceeds from the show will be offered by the UNH Riding Club towards replacing the horse barn that went up in flames last September.

Feature UNH Horses
This unprecedented day of horse activity will culminate in the awarding of eight championships with trophies inscribed with the UNH seal.

Two UNH horses, Silkolene and her 1961 foal UNH Astronaut, will play "host and hostess" to this show. Both are rated among the top Morgan horses in the country.

The program consists of 47 classes, running from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. at Putnam Pavilion. Judging the shows will be Professor Loring V. Tirrell of UNH, J. Loyd Marks of Peabody, Mass., Elmer Potter of North Dartmouth, Mass., and Miss Jean Campbell of Smith College.

During the horse show, the New England Arabian Association will hold its regular meeting. They will bring their Arabians with them.

The colorful Arabian costume class, with the eastern bred horses carrying riders clad in flowing ceremonial garb of the desert, will be a special feature of the show.

Trustees to Consider WMDR Plans

Preliminary consideration of plans to create radio station WMDR-FM will be discussed at the regular meeting of the Board of Trustees on May 19.

At this time a report prepared by the WMDR FM committee will be submitted. Included is a request that Mike and Dial, owner of the student radio station, be given permission to seek financial support for purchase of the needed equipment. This cost is estimated to be $30,000.

Operating expenses for the first year will be about $8,000. It is expected that this will be paid by Mike and Dial's share of the Student Activity Tax and from advertising revenue.

Police Review Techniques

By Carol Murray

For the past two weeks forty state troopers representing all sections of New Hampshire have been participating in a refresher course here at the University.

They have become a temporary part of the UNH scene and are most prominently observed marching in formation to Commons, their place of residence and board. This marching is called close order drill.

The first week was spent in review of criminal law "as it relates to search, seizures and arrests," according to Lt. L. B. Menzies.

The second week is devoted to a review of all motor vehicle laws and regulations.

Following this instruction all troopers are required to take an exam at the end of the week covering all the material they have studied.

Receive Tough Training

A typical day consists of calisthenics beginning at six in the morning followed by close order drill. Classes begin at nine o'clock and end at five. Four evenings a week are spent in night classes.

Following this two-week session, another group of forty state police will arrive on campus for the same training.

During this time other troopers throughout the state are serving double duty or covering two patrols instead of one. This means that their days off are cancelled.

In October a similar school will be held here for those who were unable to attend previously. Local police officers will also be receiving this training.

When asked if they enjoyed their daily marches to Commons some of the officers replied, "They look sharp, it's good exercise and they make a good appearance."

Other rationalizations were, "That's the way a semi-military group of men should travel from building to building. Nothing looks sloppier than a group of uniformed men casually strolling in a group."

One of the troopers expressed his appreciation for the hospitality extended by the University.

New Comm Formed

A new committee under Student Senate has been formed to plan a program for orientation of International Students. Many of the students who come to the United States to study go back to their countries with very little idea of what we are like.

This committee was organized to increase the awareness of the students on campus and to better International relations. The committee has 2 main projects this spring. It is writing a pamphlet about the university to be sent to all foreign students this summer, and organizing a Big Brother and Sister Program.

For this program the committee will need interested students to be at UNH during orientation week to help the international students.

Interested students may attend the next committee meeting Thursday, May 28 at the Student Union.

The program is expected to greatly benefit both the United States and international students.

ATO and PMD will meet

Phi Mu Delta, ATO Advance To College Bowl Finals

Alpha Tau Omega and Phi Mu Delta advanced to the UNH College Bowl finals last Sunday night when both teams came up with semifinal victories.

ATO came from behind twice to beat Smith Hall in overtime in the first match. Smith led most of the way through regulation time, but a rally in the last few minutes brought ATO up to a tie.

In the ten minute overtime period, Smith again jumped off to a substantial lead only to have ATO overtake them again, and win the contest 185-160.

In the second match, Phi Mu Delta over-ran Kappa Delta, 210-25. PMD had little trouble winning by a lopsided margin in a contest that saw KD unable to get a scoring streak going.

ATO and PMD will meet

this Sunday night at 8 p.m. to determine who will be the UNH College Bowl Champion.

In the previous elimination matches, ATO beat Gibbs Hall and Alpha Chi Omega, and PMD holds victories over South Congreve and Sigma Beta.

Kappa Delta went into the semi-finals with victories over Alpha Zeta Delta and Sigma Alpha Epsilon, and Smith Hall Beat out Hunter and Chi Omega to win their way into the semi-finals.

The contest final between ATO and PMD Sunday night promises to be close and exciting, with Phi Mu Delta favored to win.

The UNH College Bowl is sponsored by the Student Union organization. This is the second year that the Student Union has sponsored this intramural competition.

Concert Choir Gives TV Presentation

A program of religious music by the University of New Hampshire Concert Choir will be given on Channel 11's "Accent on Music" on May 15 at 8:30 p.m.

Residents of New Hampshire & Maine who missed seeing the Concert Choir make its annual Easter morning appearance on Boston's Channel 4, will be able to view the entire program on Channel 11, and WCBB-TV, Channel 10 in Lewiston, Maine.

The choir under the direction of Karl H. Bratton, Professor of Music, will sing sacred music by Randall Thompson, Wilson, and A. Kopylof.

One of the selections will be directed by Margaret Paige, student director of the group. Accompanist for the choir will be pianist Barbara Burrill, a UNH graduate, and organist David Bennett, a UNH sophomore.

The purpose of the banquet was the installation of newly elected officers for the year 1962-63.

The newly-installed officers are: Francis Cartier, commanding officer; Rod Crepeau, executive officer; Donald Curtis, operations officer; and Stephen Robinson, information officer.

A member of the AFROTC cadre and their wives that were present as honored guests were: Major Donald A. Lundholm, Major Eugene J. Cogan, Major Roger S. Teachout, Captain Theodore J. Finnegan and Captain Malcolm B. Robertson, Aeronaut's advisor.

Following the dinner a dance was held with music provided by John Howe and his band.

Memorial Day Rite Honors War Dead

The complete UNH cadet Corps, the Secretary of the Board of Trustees, and area religious leaders will honor New Hampshire's war dead at a special Memorial Day service at the Memorial Union concourse on May 25 at 3:30 p.m.

Trustee Mr. Dean P. Williamson will give the memorial address at the union building which was proclaimed the official state memorial by Governor Hugh Gregg on April 25, 1953.

The invocation will be led by Rev. Donald Farley, Minister to Protestant students on the UNH campus.

Rev. Daniel Novotny, Pastor of the Community Church, will conclude the service with a benediction.

There will be no parking in the Memorial Union parking lot after 1:00 p.m. on that date, Mr. Ronald Barrett, director of the building, told The New Hampshire earlier this week.

The Cadet band will play the National Anthem and Taps and the Cadet Corps will place a wreath in the Memorial Room of the Union in honor to the men and women of New Hampshire who have given their lives in service to their country.

Pershing Rifles Announce New Officer Appointments

Captain Gordon Lee has announced the following officer appointments in the Pershing Rifles Company of the University of New Hampshire:

First Lt. Hank Bergson, Operations Officer; First Lt. Walt Thyng, Adjutant; and First Lt. Dave Kenyon, Executive Officer.

Appointed to the office of Finance and Supply is Second Lt. Gilbert Bleckmann. First Sergeant Frank Socci is the Company Drill Master, and Master Sergeant Harvey Pearlstein will be Pledgemaster for the next year.

Appointments to Sergeant First Class include Al Rutherford, Dan Day, and Jeff Bergman. Also promoted to Sergeants were Ralph Young, Tony Gilmore, Ralph Small and Mark

Keeney.

Ten Pershing Rifles members and 20 Army ROTC Drill Team members were in Boston on the weekend of April 14 to watch and participate in the annual Pershing Rifles Regimental Drill Meet.

Pershing Rifles companies from almost every New England college were present to compete in the meet. The Drill Meet is only one of the many highlights that the Regimental Headquarters organizes each year for the member companies.

Inter-Company rifle matches and a radio network now being formed increase interest and experience in the military. Pershing Rifles has companies in Naval and Air Force ROTC units, as well as the army.

Photo Awards

For the third year in a row, a photo of a University of New Hampshire building has won first place in the "commercial" division, N. H. Professional Photographers Association, at the annual exhibit held Sunday in Concord.

Entitled "Evening Class," this dramatic picture of the Spaulding Life Science building was taken by John P. Adams, assistant University photographer.

He also received the Dorothy Eames Memorial award at the exhibition, which included the work of professional photographers from all over New Hampshire.

"Women in the Sciences" Discussed At Convocation

Last Thursday afternoon Women's Placement Council sponsored a convocation in the Stratford Room of the Memorial Union.

Six panelists from the UNH departments of the sciences and a representative of the General Electric Company spoke on the topic "Women in the Sciences."

Professor Clara H. Bartley of the UNH Department of Bacteriology said that a woman must have "stability of character and must keep on learning all her life if she is going to become a scientist."

Grades Open Door

She pointed out for students interested in a career with the government that women with secretarial training with a background in the sciences are much in demand.

Miss Betty Baldwin of the General Electric Company spoke on the topic of grades. She said that "grades will get the door open and will get you the job, but from then on they don't count. What counts is what you do and how you do it."

She cited G. E. as an example of a company that offers courses for further training. Many companies will reimburse their employees working for an advanced degree if they obtain a B average or better.

Marriage Blends Well

Professor Gloria G. Lyle of the Department of Chemistry served as leader of the panel. She introduced the next topic "Marriage and a Career."

Mrs. David M. Burton of the Mathematics Department said that "marriage per se, blends very well with a career." She added, "Most of you will come back, so be prepared to do something."

Must Educate Herself

The panel members felt that it was important for a woman to keep up with her area of study and the advancements that are being made in it.

As closing remarks, Professor Lyle said that it is a "woman's responsibility to educate herself to the fullest extent. Production does not stop at the maternity ward."

Other panelists participating in the discussion were Professor Margaret E. Loughlin, Biochemist, Professor Marian H. Pettibone, Department of Zoology, and special guest Miss Louise A. Rodriguez, Department of Botany.

Library Needs Help

A few days ago, we had the opportunity to discuss with Mr. Donald Vincent, the University's new Head Librarian, some of the difficulties of library management.

Heading the list of problems is the loss of material that occurs when students intentionally or unintentionally take books, pamphlets, and magazines out of the Library without signing for them.

Another problem is the failure of students to return overdue books.

The replacement of this material is a needless drain on the Library's budget, and the money necessary to re-obtain this material could be used more advantageously for other purposes.

We doubt if this problem can be completely overcome as long as the Library retains its open-stack policy.

But we do feel that the loss could be substantially reduced if a student organization, such as the Student Senate, sponsored a book drive at the end of each semester.

During these drives, all students would be able to return any Library property they might have, with no strings attached. No names mentioned, no fines, no disciplinary action.

The monetary savings from such a drive would far exceed the small amount that would be collected from overdue fines.

Most important, the material that is regularly lost would be available to other students, and replacement costs could be used for acquiring the new books that are necessary for the improvement of the Library.

For Idiots, Too . . .

Lately, we have had a glorious opportunity to witness the return to this campus of artistic-type behavior.

We would like to tell other students exactly how this is accomplished so that they too may participate in this increasingly popular no-letter-awarded sport.

The rules are quite simple, and even an idiot can understand them. They are as follows:

1. Enter Union cafeteria; sit at table.

2. Remove cap from sugar container.

3. Place piece of paper on top of sugar container.

4. Turn container bottom side up.

5. Pull out paper.

6. Place cap on container.

7. Leave Union.

If this game bores you, you can make crazy quilt-like patterns with salt and pepper on the table.

It's great fun KIDDIES.

MJB and Honesty

The editorial in last week's New Hampshire concerning the MJB deserves a little more explanation, since the responses we have received about it have completely missed the point we were trying to make.

Our point was that there is no place on the MJB for any student who is dishonest. We do not think that such a person can be a fair judge of student conduct.

We had no intention of picturing the MJB as a dishonest or incompetent organization, or of accusing all the board members of being thieves.

However, we do feel that recent incidents have shown that the quality of some of the students on the MJB is poor.

We recognize some of the difficulties the MJB has, both in deciding cases, and selecting board members. Both problems can be overcome only if qualified students take an active interest in the MJB.

The Board is now in the process of getting new members.

We suggest that any person who is not completely satisfied with the MJB apply for a Board position, either by contacting Board President Ken McKinnon at the Alumni House, or by seeing Dean Gardiner at T Hall.

"The Birds" Previewed

By

Linda Issa & Pat Smith

A Greek play is one of the hardest kinds of drama to present convincingly. The audience should always keep in mind that this is a Greek play over 2000 years old. The setting is permanent and all the action comes from acting, not from scenery and costume changes. With these points in mind, the audience can enjoy the play.

In general the production is good. Although the scenery is permanent, the lighting changes produce the many moods of the play.

An unusual but interesting addition is that of an orchestra, conducted by David Page. The music was composed by Thomas Desrosiers, and while it is quite contemporary, it has made an attempt to capture the spirit of Greek music. The costumes are conservative enough so that they do not detract from the play and yet, each character is rounded by what he wears.

The basic story of The Birds by Aristophanes, and translated by William Arrowsmith is of two Athenians who have fled from their glorious city and who wish to establish a new city. The escape blossoms into a well-planned new kingdom with the Birds as the rulers of heaven and earth. The two mortals become Birds and subdue the Olympian gods by situating their city in the sky. This location prevents the Olympians from receiving their sacrifices from earth and literally starves them into submission, thereby making the city of Birds supreme.

The two Athenians are played by Wayne Sanderson, as Pisthetairos, and Jerry Daniels as Euelpides. Barbara Cadrette is the chief of the Birds and J. P. Orr is Hoopoe, the half-man half-bird mediator.

The first act moves rather slowly and the focal point is hard to maintain at times. In several situations there is much confusion, but this may stem from the slow warm-up of the main characters.

Near the end of the first act is a modern dance which is supposed to interpret the message of the chorus. This group also appears in the second act. It is felt that this is not necessary, that it detracts from the story, and will probably confuse the audience.

The second act contains all the vim and vigor that is sometimes lost in the first. It is busy, gay and witty; highlighted by several actors who do an excellent job at their minor parts. The last scene of this play ends in a truly Greek way with the triumph of the Birds and the Traditional exit of the actors.

Mr. Toubbeh, the director, presents the play in the customary Greek form, yet his scope is large enough so that he can give the play a modern interpretation. This interpretation does not detract, because the audience must still pay strict attention to every line in order to get the full meaning of the play. And, is it so wrong to make an audience give a little of their own thought, in order to receive entertainment on a good, cultured, clean, censored level?

One-Eyed Jacks: (Thurs.)

Cub Scout Troop, bumblingly attempting to claim a Webelos badge in the calculated confusion of a private joke.

Sergeants 3: (Fri., Sat.)

Two westerns in a row, but only one with the necessary onions.

One-Eyed Jacks, starring and directed by Marlon Brando, is not art (even as Brando self-consciously attempts to make it so), but it is fine entertainment. Marlon, brooding like a sombreroed Hamlet, gives a "Stella!" performance as a re-venging gunman, and Karl Malden's nose seems just bulbous enough for the proper Claudius.

In contrast to this is Sergeants 3, a mere drum-and-bungle corpse rendition of Gunga Din, featuring the Hero from Hoboken (Frank Sinatra) and his Mouseketeerish Rat Pack (Martin, Lawford, Davis, and Bishop).

I guess that this film is a comedy, although the humor gives scant indication. In all, Sinatra has created no more than a visual diary of some 1870

Summer and Smoke: (Sun, Mon.)

Tennessee Williams again flits his magic across the Franklin's screen, and this time he almost dents it, simply because of a woman called Geraldine Page.

Miss Paige's effort saves the film, while impaling it on a single star; for poor Laurence Harvey, still wondering where his room at the top went, wanders around like a man in a mad fit, too much in a summer sun.

The King and I: (Tues., Wed.)

A middle-class classic of American film-making, starring the head of Yul Brynner (I've heard that a proposed title for this film was The Egg and I), and the heart of Deborah Kerr (aided considerably by the words and music of Rodgers and Hammerstein). Axylotyl.

Letters to the Editor

Don't Know All

To the Editor:

The Young Democrats seem to be quite indignant when we suggest that a debate should take a substantial amount of time to prepare. Realizing that we are novices, we do not claim to know all there is to know about politics.

Even if we did, other activities already scheduled by our club require time that could be allotted to such an effort.

Spans Many Subjects

The Young Republicans are sponsoring an eight-week Action Course in Practical Politics spanning a variety of subjects—an individual and businessman's role in politics, building political organizations through clubs and precinct work and effective campaigning.

Participants in this course concern themselves with politics at the grassroots level and engage in case studies and actual problems which confront politicians and workers. Research and preparation are necessary during the week to assure a worthwhile discussion on Wednesday nights.

Good Rewards

We gain knowledge from talking with experienced off-campus political leaders and precinct captains. All in all, this course entails much effort, but rewards acquired through the principles learned are varied and help us assume an active part in Party victories.

We would like to feel that thirty-four years of Republican supremacy in New Hampshire—which seems to mystify the Democrats—is, in part, a result of seminars like these.

Too Much Apathy

The Young Republicans are planning similar discussion-seminars for the fall. Recognizing the fact that much apathy is evidenced on the part of students at UNH, we seek to stimulate interest through diverse constructive methods—among these being a debate with the Young Democrats.

One must start now to become an informed citizen, not at the occurrence of the twenty-first birthday. Many spheres of government present challenges for ambitious, intelligent pre-voters to express their beliefs and ideas to the voting population.

See Both Sides

Development of an awareness of issues and current events today will enable a person to cast a meaningful vote tomorrow. Attracted by a debate between both clubs, freshmen and other members of the University campus community could witness both sides of a topic and decide for themselves which was valid.

Principles and issues should be the basis for deliberation, not personalities. But may we perhaps, suggest a more appropriate subject: "Is Kennedy fit to be President?"

A Protest

To the Editor:

In reference to the article concerning registration which appeared in the May 3rd, issue of The New Hampshire, I feel that if this new method were adopted, where-by the sophomores and the juniors would register after the freshmen, it would not be advantageous, and would be unfair to the upper classmen.

Certainly it is noble to want to prevent the upper classmen from filling all the courses which are required for freshmen, but is this really necessary? First of all, most courses which are required for freshmen, courses such as English I, II; history I, II; etc., are always available since most upperclassmen have already taken them. On the other hand, courses such as Gov. 5 & 6; Soc. I, II; Psych. I, 47; etc., which sophomores and juniors often need since they may be required will be closed out.

It is difficult enough for sophomores (and juniors as well) to simply obtain these courses, let alone obtain them at the times they desire, without having twelve or thirteen hundred freshmen registering before them.

Lerner Discusses America Proposes 'War' of Ideas

"This is an age of overkill" said Dr. Max Lerner, quoting the title of his latest book in a recent address to a UNH Honors group that covered topics ranging from the nuclear threat to India's opinion of American society.

Explaining this, he said that there are today enough nuclear weapons to kill the earth's population a multiple number of times.

From this fact come the "two nightmares" that plague contemporary life: 1. "The world will be reduced to a pile of radioactive ash"; 2. "The life of man will resemble a super organized ant colony."

But he said: "I'm neither an optimist, nor pessimist; I'm a possibilist." And as such "The choice is not either or, but neither nor."

External Menace
Then he added, "The crucial difference between people is the difference between the tough minded and the tender minded." The "tender minded" look at the world and see only what they want to see, whereas the "tough minded" see the facts of reality.

The communist menace is a fact, "and I'm just as concerned as any one, . . . but the menace is external not internal." He then began an emotional but factual tirade on the John Birch Society.

Of course, he said, "There are Russian spies in the U. S. but we have an excellent justice department and F.B.I. and the threat of internal subversion is their responsibility."

Fight With Ideas
The John Birch Society and their ultra right wing organizations that claim "Eisenhower was a Red dupe" and "Chief Justice Warren should be hanged," is the product of "tender minded" people who are "Frustrated" with the relative drop in U. S. power in the "Cold War" and the "arms race."

There is a war in today's world; but he said the "Political war must be fought with ideas . . . and the crucial race is the intelligence race."

America can never win that race if the "great psychic intensity" of the ultra right wing continues to create "an internal atmosphere of fear and suspicion and hatred."

Furthermore Mr. Lerner, who taught in New Delhi India, appeared concerned with the image of America aboard. Indians, he said, think of America only as one "Affluent Society."

Hope Rests With Idealism
But Lerner, the possibilist, sees "Two Americas." "The America of affluence", and "the America of Idealism."

It is with this idealistic America that the hope of the free world rests. Lerner then traced the heritage of America's Idealism from Jefferson through Jackson, Lincoln, T. Roosevelt, Wilson, F.D.R. and up to Kennedy.

"These men" he explained, possessed growth potential, which is the latent ability to put intellectual ideas into action, and it is this "growth potential" inherent in today's college student that will decide whether the "either or" will in fact become "neither nor."

Future Rests On Education

Everyone, he said, realized the key to the future lies in education. But the trouble is they refuse to allow the Federal Government to give financial aid. This is silly he said, "because if you will the ends you will the means."

Education, aside from Federal legislation like the Morrill Act, National Defense Act, and Federal Grants to colleges for research, has, as even liberals know, been left for the states. But the states just are not "willing the means." "America can not win by walking backward into the future."

Three Main Concepts
Dr. Lerner summarized his basis for America's hope in three "foreign but not subversive" concepts:

Elan, or "life force." The creative principle responsible for evolution or progress. To Lerner this creativity is the result of knowledge, imagination and feeling.

Elite. Not an economic or social elite, but the core of Americans who possess "growth potential," who can put creative ideas into action.

Ethos, or Moral Commitment. The firm American conviction to do what must be done to insure an "open world of diverse societies."

"America", Dr. Lerner said, "was built with hope and affirmation of these principles, and that is how it will survive."

Tradewinds Take Prize

Last weekend the Tradewinds, a vocal group representing the University, won first place honors at the National Inter-

College Music Competition at Lycoming College.

Competition was divided into three categories: jazz, rock and roll and vocal. A first and second place was awarded in each division and from this a grand prize winner was picked.

The Tradewinds won first place in the vocal division and the grand prize.

UNH Prof. Presents Round Table Paper

G. Reid Johnson, Professor of History at UNH, presented a paper on Chinese culture at a Round Table Conference on Chinese - American Cultural Relations.

He was one of the eighty Chinese and American scholars from all parts of the United States at the convention at the University of Maryland.

He was also one of the 27 scholars to present a paper to the conference sponsored by Maryland and the American Association of Teachers of Chinese Language and Culture.

Winners were judged on originality, harmony, showmanship, instrumental adaptations, blend, group appearance and audience response. The judges were representatives of record firms.

Presently the group is negotiating for a record contract. They do their own arranging and write many of their own songs.

The Tradewinds will be engaged in a tour this summer through New England and New York. They also plan radio and television appearances.

Alert Students Extinguish Fire

Last Saturday afternoon two alert pinmates enjoying the sun on the side steps of Lord Hall observed a sign of smoke emitting from Campus Woods near the swimming pool.

On closer observation it was discovered that it was a fire and this information was quickly disclosed to the Durham Fire Department which arrived on the scene in about two minutes.

The small grass fire was extinguished in approximately five minutes.

Several brothers of TKE fraternity who were passing by performed a community service by applying brooms to the blaze and thereby aiding in its extinction.

LESSON 7 - Keep moving

One of the most important rules of girl watching is this: keep moving. In fact, it is always a good idea not only to move, but to appear to be going somewhere. (This is especially important on group field trips.) Beautiful girls, although they enjoy being watched, are instinctively suspicious of strollers and downright fearful of loiterers.

The man who is walking briskly, who looks like he's "going places," makes a better girl watcher. For one thing, he sees more total girls and in the end he enjoys his hobby more. (If you are planning an extended field trip—to Paris and Rome, for example—be sure to pack a couple of cartons of Pall Mall.)

Connecticut Clobbers UNH Nine 10-2; Vermont Tops Wildcats In Eighth 6-5

The University of Connecticut defeated the University of New Hampshire 10-2 in a Yankee Conference ball game last Saturday in Storrs.

The Huskies averaged a 4-3 loss to the Wildcats earlier in the season.

Ed Jones picked up the win for the Nutmegers by pitching four hit, eleven strike out ball.

UNH made five errors and hit into three double plays in losing their fourth conference game of the season against one win.

UConn scored nine runs in the first three inning off Carl LeDuc and Barry Nordlinger. Bruce Nowak came in to relieve and gave up only one run and four hits for the last six innings.

The Wildcats now have a 1-6 overall record.

The University of Vermont strengthened its lead in the conference by defeating UNH 6-5 on Tuesday.

The Catamounts opened up a quick 5-1 lead after three innings as they hit UNH pitcher Bob Fortier hard. Fortier settled down and didn't give another run until the eighth.

Caramilli got Fortier's only walk of the day. He scored when Benway singled and UNH threw wildly to third in an effort to keep Caramilli at second. The run was unearned.

The Wildcat's first run came in the second inning. Fortier singled and scored on Pete Merrill's double. Dan Serieka scored the second run in the fourth inning after he had singled and stole second, Chuck Matraw singled him home.

UNH tied the score with three runs in the eighth. Serieka tripple in two runs and scored the third on Carl LeDuc's sacrifice fly.

Fortier gave up ten hits, three earned runs and walked one while striking out five.

Serieka, Merrill and Matraw each had two hits.

Hank Swasey Maine Wins Yankon; UNH Thinclads Last

Retiring UNH baseball coach Henry C. Swasey will be honored at a banquet on Saturday, May 26.

The featured speaker at the banquet honoring the veteran of 41 seasons as a coach will be Bill Summers, an American league umpire.

Toastmaster for the affair will be former UNH sports publicity director Bill Stearns.

Head table guests will include Acting President John Reed, Director of Athletics Carl Lundholm, and Arthur Tol, Chairman of the banquet committee.

Also umpires John Mullen and Dan Roberts, baseball coaches Ulysses Lupien of Dartmouth and Christianson of UConn and the UNH co-captains Barry Nordlinger and Bill Flint.

Plans are under way for a short ceremony to be held on Bracket field prior to the UNH-UMaine game, Swasey's last game as a UNH coach. The UNH band will play at the proceedings.

By Brawn Shonk

At the Yankee Conference Track Championships, held at Orono last Saturday, the University of Maine emerged as the undisputed winner, taking eight firsts and placing in almost every event.

High point-man for the day was the Black Bear's Bill Blood, who won the shot put with a 48'-10" heave, the discus in 137'-6" and the hammer in 170'-9" to take 15 points.

A double-winner for Maine was sprinter Pete MacPhee, pulling a first in the 100 with a 9.7 time. MacPhee also won the 220 in 21 flat and took third in the low hurdles.

Other winners for Maine were Dave Parker in the 440 in 49.2; Mike Kimball won the mile in 4:18.5, and Baron Hicken won the high hurdles in 14.7.

The closest race of the day was the two mile, won by Bob Brouillet of UMass in 9:34.5. Brouillet took an early lead over Kimball of Maine, but Brouillet's margin slowly decreased until both men were in an all-out sprint, and Kimball was unable to maintain the pace.

New Hampshire had three men in the scoring column. Red Sullivan placed third in the hammer and fourth in the discus; Russ Briggs took two fourths in the 100 and the broad jump; and John Morse finished third in the 440.

A seven MPH wind produced faster time in the sprint events than were expected.

This Saturday, the UNH Varsity will go to Providence to compete in the New England Championships. They will be accompanied by the Freshman medley relay team of Don Dean, Jack Higgins, Wally Johnson, and Capt. Dick Perry. Dean and Perry were on the distance medley team that finished first in the Connecticut Relays last winter.

Tennis Team Last In Yankon Matches

Bill Olsen's tennis team finished last in the Yankee matches held last weekend.

The Wildcats only two points were won by Stu Riley and Dave Joslin in the Singles.

Roger Twitchel a star on UMass' championship basketball team won the singles championship by defeating Barry Emanuel of Rhode Island. U-Mass won the championship with RI the runnerup.

The doubles team of Dan Marx and Wayne Waddington lost in three sets in the only other UNH attempt for a win.

On Tuesday, the 'Cats were whitewashed 9-0 by Holy Cross.

UNH Takes Third In YC Golf Match

The UNH golf team finished third in the Yankee Conference matches held in Manchester last weekend. The Wildcats placed tenth out of 27 schools in the New Englands.

Barrie Bruce of Tufts won the New England championship by defeating Mike Barry of Babson 1 up. UNH did not qualify anyone for the finals. Al Kidder was the low man with an 87.

UConn won the Yankee Conference championship and placed third in the New Englands. Rhode Island, which placed second in the conference, placed second behind Tufts.

Coach Carl Lundholm felt that the team would have done

Two new coaches will be on the UNH staff next year. Director of Athletics Carl Lundholm is currently reviewing applications of over seventy applicants for the two openings.

Here's the chance for you Monday morning quarterbacks to have a field day discussing who should get the new posts. No matter who gets the new jobs somebody will complain. Maybe the know-it-alls should apply themselves.

UNH sports fans have a real opportunity to show their appreciation for the fine coaching job that Hank Swasey has done over his forty one years at UNH.

A large turnout for his last game as a coach on May 26 against UMaine would be a fine tribute to the man who has done so much for UNH and state athletics.

An on the field ceremony is being planned for Swasey complete with a band at the start of the 2:00 p. m. contest. A large turnout of UNH students would help to highlight a long and successful career of coaching for the veteran mentor.

Despite the relatively poor showing of the UNH golf team in the recent Yankee Conference and New England matches the team will probably have a winning record of 9 wins and three losses.

The duffers have tough matches left with Babson and MIT, but they have been hard to beat in previous match play better if "they had had more experience in medal play." "In match play," Lundholm continued, "you can afford to have a few bad holes but not in medal play where the total score counts."

contests. The successes of the golf team are a tribute to coach Carl Lundholm and his fine New Hampshire bred golfers.

Football fans have a real treat coming up on Saturday, August 4. The Boston Patriots will hold an intersquad game in Durham.

The Patriots were the best team in the AFL during the last half of the season last year and preseason selections should rate the Boston eleven as the best team for the coming year.

According to the national lacrosse statistics up to May 9, 1962, Bo Dickson was 5th in the country in scoring with 25 goals and 15 assists.

LACROSSE COACH SNIVELY

Stickmen Top Holy Cross; Kittens Wallop UMass 9-3

By Ed Olson

The UNH lacrosse team defeated a mediocre Holy Cross club 10-7 last Saturday. This was not an outstanding game as the Wildcats played just good enough to win.

However, even without being spectacular, Bo Dickson managed to get 4 goals and 2 assists to lead all scorers.

Holy Cross jumped off to a 2-0 lead but UNH, led by Dickson, came back to take the lead, and then maintained it throughout the game.

The majority of the scoring was done in the early periods. After Dickson's early barrage of goals the HC defense tightened, especially on the high-scoring Dickson as he was contained for the remainder of the game.

Taking up the slack in scoring were Jim West, Dick Satter, Doug Dunning, Jim Edgerly, Walker Kaiser, and Paul Marro, all with one goal apiece.

Al Klopfer sparked the attack with 5 assists.

Marty Glennon played a good defensive game as did Ed Facey in the goal, with 23 saves.

This brought UNH's record to 5 wins and 8 losses with 3 games left to play.

The Kitten lacrosse team won its last game of the year by defeating the UMass frosh 9-3.

Pete Ballo led UNH with three goals and one assist. Also scoring for the frosh were John Gilday, Jim Kach, Joel Doherty, Jim Egan, George Batchelder and Carl Sandquist.

The Kittens ended up with a 4-3 record.

University to Offer 146 Summer Courses

Students and teachers may take their pick of 146 courses at the University of New Hampshire this summer.

Running the academic gamut from Agricultural Education to Zoology, the University's summer offerings are designed to meet the needs of teachers and school administrators working for advanced degrees, professional men, and college students who are speeding up their undergraduate careers.

UNH offers two distinct programs each summer.

An eight-week session will be from June 25 to Aug. 17, enabling a student to earn as much as 10 credit hours during the summer. A number of courses are also offered in two four-week sessions over the same period.

Most courses, however, are scheduled for the University's traditional six-week summer session, starting July 9.

Tuition for all courses is $17.50 per credit-hour, plus fees of $17 for New Hampshire residents and $32 for out-of-state students.

Prompter's Box

By J. P. Orr

When the actor feels that he has achieved the basic characterization of his part, then these are several more things about which he must be aware.

The first of these rules is stage technique. This difficult task combines efficient projection, ease and grace that appear to be part of the character. The actor must never make the audience feel as though his actions and words are filled with effort—rather, his characterization must appear effortless. This, needless to say, is difficult, and takes a great deal of time and rehearsal.

Secondly, the actor must have a sense of an audience. He must be aware that there will be reactions. But audiences vary. He must be ready to take any reaction without losing character. The difficult thing about this is that it can not be readily practiced until opening night.

Emotional freedom and control is another rule of basic training. The actor must possess imagination and sensitivity—ready to act and react to a given situation. He must have the ability to put himself in another person's place, and yet have restraint—a suggestion that the character is feeling more emotion than is visually expressed.

These are only a few more things about which an actor

CRAM COURSE NO. 5: SHAKESPEARE

Continuing our series of pre-final exam cram courses, today we take up the works of William Shakespeare (or "The Bard of Avon" as he is jocularly called).

First let us examine the persistent theory that Shakespeare (or "The Pearl of the Antilles" as he is affectionately referred to) is not the real author of his plays. Advocates of this theory insist that the plays are so full of classical allusions and learned references that they couldn't possibly have been written by the son of an illiterate country butcher.

To which I reply, "Faugh!" Was not the great Spinoza's father a humble woodcutter? Was not the immortal Isaac Newton's father a simple second baseman? (The elder Newton, incidentally, is one of history's truly pathetic figures. He was, by all accounts, the greatest second baseman of his time, but baseball, alas, had not yet been invented.) It used to break young Isaac's heart to see his father get up every morning, put on uniform, spikes, glove, and cap, and stand alertly behind second base, bent forward, eyes narrowed, waiting, waiting, waiting. That's all—waiting. Isaac loyally sat in the bleachers and yelled, "Good show, Dad!" and stuff like that, but everyone else in town used to snigger and pelt the Newtons with overripe fruit—figs for the elder Newton, apples for the younger. Thus, as we all know, the famous occasion came about when Isaac Newton, struck in the head with an apple, leapt to his feet, shouted, "Europa!" and announced the third law of motion: "For every action there is an opposite and equal reaction!"

(How profoundly true these simple words are! Take, for example, Marlboro Cigarettes. Light one. That's the action. Now what is the reaction? Pleasure, delight, contentment, cheer, and comfort! And why such a happy reaction? Because you have started with a happy cigarette—a felicitous blend of jolly tobaccos, a good-natured filter, a rollicking flip-top box, a merry soft pack. As Newton often said, "You begin with better makin's, you end with better smokin's." Small wonder they called him "The Swedish Nightingale!"

But I digress. Back to Shakespeare (or "The Gem of the Ocean" as he was ribaldly appelted).

Shakespeare's most important play is, of course, Hamlet (or Macbeth, as it is sometimes called). This play tells in living color the story of Hamlet, Prince of Denmark, who one night sees a ghost upon the battlements. (Possibly it is a goat he sees: I have a first folio edition that is frankly not too legible.) Anyhow, Hamlet is so upset by seeing the ghost (or goat) that he stabs Polonius and Bare Bodkin. He is thereupon banished to a leather factory by the King, who cries, "Get thee to a tannery!" Thereupon Ophelia refuses her food until Laertes shouts, "Get thee to a beanery!" Ophelia is so miffed that she chases her little dog out of the room, crying, "Out, out damned Spot!" She is fined fifty shillings for swearing, but Portia, in an eloquent plea, gets the sentence commuted to life imprisonment. Thereupon King Lear and Queen Mab proclaim a festival—complete with amateur theatricals, kissing games, and a pie-eating contest. Everyone has a perfectly splendid time till Banquo's ghost (or goat) shows up. This so unhinges Richard III that he drowns his cousin, Butt Malmsey. This leads to a lively discussion during which everyone is killed. The little dog Spot returns to utter the immortal curtain lines:

*Alack, the play forsooth was sad and sobby,
But be of cheer—there's Marlboros in the lobby!*

As the slings and arrows of outrageous finals loom closer, perchance the makers of Marlboro are not untoward to offer this friendly suggestion: Get thee to a library!

Students Return Filched Records To UNH Library

Last week the Library saved about $25. when some illegally removed materials were returned. This incident illustrates one of the stickiest problems of the UNH Library.

These particular items were returned probably as a result of the strong urging of Mr. Robert Bradford, who teaches Government 6.

Students in this class ran into difficulties recently when they found that more than half the issues of the Congressional Quarterly Weekly Log were missing. All but two have now been returned.

"I am relieved that most of the Weekly Log is back," said Mr. Bradford. "I hope the others return soon, because we cannot afford to be without them and yet we cannot afford to spend our limited resources on replacements."

Mr. Donald E. Vincent, the Librarian, pointed out that students are helping with the problem. "Students are assuming the responsibility of returning library property they find around the town and campus.

They are also taking advantage of the recent reduction in the cost of photocopies. If improperly removed items were returned many more dollars could be spent on books and services," Mr. Vincent said.

Song Fest Winners

On Friday night May 3 the annual Song Fest was won by TKE fraternity and Phi Mu sorority. Sponsored by Pan-Hel and Interfraternity Councils, this affair for many was the start of the Parent's Day activities.

TKE won with the selections "My Lord, What a Morning" and "The Animals a' Coming." Phi Mu, second place winner in last year's contest, sang "Madame Jeanette" and "You're the Tops."

Acacia and Alpha Xi Delta copped the second place prizes. The Tradewinds entertained at intermission and while the judges were making their decisions.
