

Senate Holds 'Police' Hour

Senate Resolutions Seven Enter Peace Corps; Nepal Project Takes Six

The Student Senate sponsored a coffee hour for State Troopers last Thursday night in the Memorial Union.

About 180 students took the opportunity to ask questions and discuss police problems with the contingent of troopers now at UNH.

The Student Senate felt that the coffee hour eased the strained relations between students and troopers caused by previous incidents. President Randy Bell felt that "it was an example of the kind of positive action that Student Senate sponsors."

Officers Elected

John Spencer won a run-off election over Jack Dye to become President of next year's Senior Class. The original vote ended in a tie.

Other senior class officers elected were Sue Gordon, Vice President; Gail Ela, Secretary; and Betsy Lamphere, Treasurer.

The class of '64 elected Pete Austin, President; Joan Wisel, Vice President; Jean Sullivan, Secretary; and Pam Abbott, Treasurer.

About 1-3 of each class participated in the election.

The Student Senate, in its last business meeting of the year, unanimously approved three resolutions concerning campus affairs.

The first resolution calls for "Senate support (of) the ideals and principles of the Peace Corps." Next, the Senate passed a motion calling for the student body to make every effort to return overdue books to the library.

A motion was also passed to set up a committee next year to investigate the possibility of finding some work for class officers to do.

The Peace Corps resolution followed a previous meeting at which Dr. Charles Wheeler, UNH representative, urged the Senate to support the Corps.

Student Senate received the thanks of Librarian Donald E. Vincent for the resolution to try to get students to return overdue books. Mr. Vincent said that "The response on the part of the student body is already evident in returned materials."

"I am greatly encouraged by the growing realization among students that the quality of our Library depends in a large measure upon how students take care of it."

Dissatisfaction with the class officer setup prompted the Senate to try to dig up work for almost functionless positions.

Six seniors have been selected for a Peace Corps project in Nepal.

According to Dr. Charles M. Wheeler, UNH Peace Corps liaison officer, the group may be the largest ever chosen from one college for a Peace Corps project. Nepal is a mountainous country between India and Tibet.

The students are Leslie Gile, Beverly Fogg, Richard Murphy, Rebecca Garside, William Cater, and David W. Towle.

A seventh UNH student, Mary F. Loughlin, was selected for a Peace Corps project in Nigeria.

Two of the Nepal group, Richard Murphy and Rebecca Garside, are engaged to be married June 10.

The students will graduate June 17, and will leave immediately for language training in Washington, D. C. They will then undergo rough-country training in Colorado, Dr. Wheeler said.

He added that the leader of the group will be Dr. Robert Bates of Exeter, N. H., a teacher at Phillips Exeter Academy and co-author of a book describing his ascent of K-2, the world's second highest mountain.

Coach Martin Takes New Job

UNH varsity hockey and freshman football and lacrosse coach Pepper Martin has recently announced his resignation to accept a post at the new Hamilton-Wenham, Mass., regional high school.

UNH varsity hockey coach since 1951, Martin will become the new submaster and a part-time teacher at the new school. He will also be head football coach.

Martin joined the staff in 1957, his coaching record for 11 years at UNH is 76 wins, 76 losses, and three ties. In 1958 and 59 he was named small college coach of the year.

"I have been taking courses for several years," Martin said "leading to public schools administration." "I feel," he continued "that there is a big future in this new school system and I'm looking forward to being a part of it".

Schaefer Retires To Teach Biology

Dr. Paul E. Schaefer is resigning his post as registrar in order to teach in the General Biology curriculum at the University, The New Hampshire learned last week.

Dr. Schaefer is a 1926 graduate of Bethany College, Bethany, Ohio. He received his Ph.D. at Ohio State in Entomology.

Before coming to the University he taught for eleven years in Ohio.

Positions he has held here since 1941 include Professor of Biology Assistant and Associate Dean of Liberal Arts, and acting Dean of Liberal Arts, during which he also taught several courses such as Biology Education 91.

Retiring UNH Baseball Coach Hank Swasey

Banquet Honors Swasey, Retires After 41 Years

"The road to success is more roundabout and harder," summed up coach Hank Swasey at his testimonial banquet last week, "but is the most worthwhile. You must have honesty and complete dedication in your field of endeavor".

With these words, Swasey closed out 41 years of coaching at UNH. Almost 200 people gathered to pay tribute to the man who has played such a large role in UNH athletics.

He started the first hockey team, began the high school basketball tournament, and was head basketball coach for 16 years. He also coached soccer and the first girls basketball team.

The highlight of his baseball career was the trip to the College World Series in Omaha in 1956.

Swasey received many gifts and awards from the head table guests. J. O. Christian of UConn represented the conference in honoring Swasey. Carl Lundholm, Director of Athletics, presented a gift on behalf of the UNH coaching staff.

Irving Gordon, president of the N. H. Basketball officials association made Swasey an honorary member of the group. Junior Blaisdell of the same group presented a plaque. Dan Roberts presented Swasey a gift from the umpires.

The members of the banquet committee and people present gave Swasey a portable TV set.

Swasey began his closing remarks with a thank you to all and asked that a tribute be also paid to Fred Jervis, one of his old players who lost his sight in World War II. Jervis is now a guidance counselor at UNH.

A high point in the speech was when Swasey spoke about the wins that his teams have had in years past. He stressed them as UNH's wins, not his own. He said the losses were his.

He also called on the Alumni to stand behind "the best qualified staff in New England."

The toastmaster for the affair was former UNH publicity man Bill Stearns and Bill Summers, American league umpire, was the featured speaker. The head of the committee was Art Toll.

And Summer Finally Got Here

Mrs. Peckett To Receive Pettee Medal

A Franconia woman who has devoted 17 years to helping young girls and women in trouble with the law will be honored by the University at Commencement Exercises on June 17.

Mrs. Robert P. Peckett Jr., an investigating officer with the New Hampshire Probation Department, will receive a Pettee Memorial Medal for her accomplishments since 1945 in the four northern counties of Belknap, Carroll, Coos and Grafton.

The Charles Holmes Pettee Medal is presented annually to a resident or native of New Hampshire in recognition of an outstanding accomplishment which has benefited that state, the nation, or the world.

An outstanding civic leader, she served as president of the State Federation of Women's Clubs from 1947-1948. She has been president of the Greenleaf Civic Club, the local women's club in Franconia and at present is chairman of the legislative program for the Ammonoosuc Valley Branch of the American Association of University Women.

Mrs. Peckett is a graduate of Vassar College, and attended New York Law School.

The Memorial Medal was created by the University Alumni Association in 1940 in honor of Pettee, who served the University of New Hampshire for 62 years.

The "Aye-ers"

The three resolutions passed by the Student Senate at its last meeting of the year are indicative of some of the positive actions that President Randy Bell is trying to push.

In principle, the resolutions are worthwhile. The Senate probably should support the ideals of the Peace Corps, it should try to get the students to return overdue books, and it probably should find jobs for the class officers.

But resolutions seldom accomplish much without some action to put a little strength into them. Apparently the Senate feels that all the action required is a unanimous vote of approval.

The Peace Corps resolution was passed with the belief that all students would automatically rush their books to the Library just because the Senate wants them to.

The motion to find work for the class officers was neatly filed away in the secretary's notes until next year.

President Bell is faced with a difficult task. He must try to find enough Senators who are willing to do more than vote "aye" to every motion that comes up for vote.

The aye-ers approved all three motions with only one or two minor questions and almost no discussion. No effort at all was made to put something besides passive approval into the resolutions.

Out of over 50 Senators, only 6 or 7 had anything to say during the whole meeting. Except when it came to saying "aye".

The three resolutions, plus some other less important motions, did not receive a single nay vote.

It is amazing that so many people can agree so completely on all issues. In fact, outside the Student Senate Chambers, this is practically impossible.

But we are forgetting to consider the dissenters, a group of fifteen to twenty Senators who didn't even show up for the meeting.

Most of these apparently didn't feel up to another meeting after the marathon of the preceding week.

Senators are elected to represent their respective housing units. We do not understand how they can adequately serve this purpose by staying away from the meetings, or by discovering themselves incapable of disagreement, or by merely voting "for" all motions.

Sorry Odors . . .

As the summer season approaches, our attention is focused upon the worst eye sore on campus, the college brook

The area stretching from S.L.S. to the bridge behind the Alexander parking lot is full of weeds, bugs, and whatnot.

The color of the brook ranges from a muddy brown to a slimy green. One passer-by remarked that it looked like the River Kwai after the battle.

This time of year isn't the only time the brook acts up. During the fall, its odor is the cause of many complaints from the housing units in the area.

What can be done about it is beyond The New Hampshire, but we hope some improvement will be made soon.

Drama

One, Two, Three

By Bill Moody

The absurdity of modern theatre needs no argument for certain judges. They feel their absurdity without an argument. With this in mind I would like to quote the program of three one-acts presented by the University Theatre last May 24, 25, 26. The mood (of the three plays) tends to be at once ridiculous and profound; the symbolism seems to be heavy and ornate, although quite often obscure. I don't believe this paradox needs to suffer any more than it has.

Krapp's Last Tape — Brackett

The first of these one acts, "Krapp's Last Tape" was flawless. Mr. Corliss who directed himself as "Krapp" reached and maintained the highest degree of organization. One is almost ashamed of anything that one can say about him. "Krapp" insists with his detached, mock pedantic, complicated tone that he's not feeling much, not half as much as his tapes tell him he has, or should be feeling about anything. And in the end who knows, certainly not "Krapp". Nor is the audience to

A "stalag" is the German word for "prisonerofwarcompound". Stalag 17 is the compound which contains William Holden. sure of what Breckett has said. The Chairs — Ionesco

The main trouble I have with Ionesco, is that I can't stop laughing long enough to root around and give myself an interpretation of what he is saying. The second one act of this production (the chairs) is portrayed by G. Daniels as the "Old Man" and Polly Ashton as the "Old Woman" (Directed by Miss Ashton).

Reaching the top or climax too soon was the one flaw in The Chairs. After this where can one go but down and a slow decent was noticeable. The actions of Ashton and Daniels helped to slow the falling off of the appeal of the play. The Old Man would have appeared more believable if his partner had not been Miss Ashton. My sympathy goes to the actor who works under such a handicap as the brilliance of his leading opposite.

No Exit — Sartre

I find that due to circumstances beyond MY control I was forced to exit from No Exit before a printable review could be obtained.

Music

By Jurgen Kruger

The Symphony Orchestra Concert last Wednesday night was the most exciting musical experience of the year. It was an exciting experience for two reasons: it was a program of excellent music, and the sound of the orchestra had improved to such an extent that one could relax and enjoy the program.

This improvement was noticeable immediately. In the initial pieces; the Vivaldi-Siloti "Concerto Grosso No. 11", the second movement, the Largo, was played with beautiful control by the string section. Throughout the entire piece dynamics were correctly observed in connection with the concertino. The concerto consisted of two solo violins played by Diana Wilson and Shiela Bratton and cello played by Jacqueline Wilson. All three soloists are students of the University's Music Department.

The demand on soloists in the concert was very high. It certainly was an act of courage on the part of Dian Wilson to play the violin solo in the Brandenburg Concerto No. 4 by Bach. Miss Wilson did a very good in meeting the technical demands of her part. The flute soloists were Susan Abell and Sandra Hoffman.

The orchestra would at times overpower the concertino in the Brandenburg Concerto. This made the tasks of the three celists even more difficult. I also failed to hear the piano continuo in this massive string sound.

Sheila Bratton was the soloist in the "Romance in F" by Beethoven. She has taken a very responsible part in the orchestra, and the success of this concert has to be partially ascribed to her and the other soloists.

The Romanian Dances by Bela Bartok added greatly to the variety of the program. The evening's climax came with the Haydn "Symphony No. 104" (London). Both the Roumanian Dances and the London Symphony proved that the orchestra is well balanced in its sections. The woodwinds and the brass section have greatly improved since the last concert.

This last concert should give much encouragement for the future work of the orchestra under it's new director, Dr. Andrew Galos. Mr. Galos has proven in one year that there is a future for a symphony orchestra. Technical perfection will come with time, the main part of this past concert was the excellent program that brought out the best the orchestra had to offer.

UNH has just completed one of its most dismal years of Yankee Conference action. The golf team did the best with a third place tie, followed by the football's fourth place finish. Tennis, track, baseball and basketball all ended dead last in conference play. Every other team except Rhode Island won at least one championship. Maine won football and track. Basketball and tennis were won by UMass. Vermont won baseball and UConn topped the golfers. Rhode Island was second in golf, tennis, basketball and track.

UNH is equal in size to at least four of the other six schools. The coaches are the best qualified available. The facilities, while poor for many activities, are adequate for the six varsity teams to have successful seasons.

Where does the problem lie? Very simple, with the students. If the many men with past records of athletic ability would participate in athletics the quality of the teams and the won-lost records will improve. What Coach Paul Sweet says about cross country could sum up the feelings of all coaches regarding teams, "Without desire, there is no use in coming out. We want a large turnout, but as great as our need is, we want only those people who are not afraid of hard work."

Whoops Snively, frosh hockey coach, will be the new varsity hockey coach and Andy Mooradian, frosh baseball coach, will take over the varsity baseball team.

These changes were announced today by Director of Athletics, Carl Lundholm, to replace Pepper Martin and Hank Swasey, both of whom are leaving the UNH staff. Swasey is retiring and Martin is leaving to accept a new job.

Director Lundholm is still reviewing the applications for the new coaches who will take over positions as freshman coaches. They will also be expected to teach in the department of Physical Education.

Pete Merrill, UNH varsity second baseman has recently been named to the Yankee Conference baseball team.

Champion Vermont placed four on the team, while runner-up UMass placed three. Maine and Rhode Island each placed one man on the team.

The captains of next season's varsity track, lacrosse and baseball teams have been announced.

Lacrossemen Lose To Green of Dartmouth, Dartmouth Tops UNH Lacrossemen 15 - 10

The lacrosse team climaxed a season with a loss to Dartmouth highly successful New England and an exhibition win over the Alumni.

The Big Green topped the Wildcats 15-10 behind the six goal performance of John Walters. UNH complied a 7-2 record against New England competition, the first loss coming against Brown. The overall record was 7-9.

Jim Ederly led the team to an 8-3 win over the Alumni with three goals and two assists. Dickson was the team leader in scoring with 43 goals and 17 assists for 60 points. Junior Jim West was second with 11 goals and 19 assists for 38 points. Al Klopfer had 5 goals and 9 assists for 14 points.

Thomas Russell, track coach of Rhode Island, has been elected president of the ICAA coaches association. He replaces Clarence Dussault of Tufts. The UNH basketball team will be on tour again during Christmas Vacation next year. Flying deep into Dixie, the Wildcats have tentatively scheduled to play Davidson College on Dec. 28, and Stetson University the following day. On Dec. 31, the 'Cats will play Jacksonville University and will play Oglethorpe University on New Year's day.

and an exhibition win over the Alumni.

Dickson was the team leader in scoring with 43 goals and 17 assists for 60 points. Junior Jim West was second with 11 goals and 19 assists for 38 points. Al Klopfer had 5 goals and 9 assists for 14 points.

Swasey-Men Split Pair With Maine

The varsity baseball team split two weekend games with the University of Maine, coach Hank Swasey's last games as a UNH coach. UNH reversed things the following day as they clobbered Maine 11-4 behind the pitching of captain-elect Carl LeDuc. Credit must also be given to the Maine shortstop, a converted catcher, who made five errors and contributed greatly to the UNH win. Maine made a total of eight errors. LeDuc, Flint Leaders UNH got three runs in the first and led 3-1 until the sixth season for UNH was LeDuc, when Bill Flint's long home run highlighted a five run inning.

TILL WE MEET AGAIN

This is the final column of my eighth year of writing for the makers of Marlboro Cigarettes, and this year, as in every preceding year, when I come to the last column of the season, I come to a problem. My contract with the makers of Marlboro calls for me to write a humor column and, truly, I do the best I can—all things considered, I am not, I should explain, a jolly man by nature. Why should I be? First of all, I am shorter than everybody. Second, there are moths in my cashmere jacket. Third, I work in television. All the same, when it comes time to write this column, I light a good Marlboro Cigarette, put aside my trauma, and try with all the strength in my tiny body to make some jokes. Sometimes it works better than others, but on the last column of the year, it just flatly doesn't work at all. Even in the very beginning this was true—and that, you will recall, was eight years ago when I was relatively young and strong and had not yet developed that nasty knock in my transmission. Well do I remember sitting down to write the final column of my first year. Day followed barren day, and not a yock, not a boff, not a zinger did I produce. I was about to give up humor and take a job selling mechanical dogs when all of a sudden, in a blinding flash, I realized why I couldn't think of any jokes! I leapt up from my typewriter and ran as fast as my little fat legs would carry me to the makers of Marlboro Cigarettes, and I tugged my forelock, and I said, "Sirs, I am well aware that you have engaged me to write a humor column, but today, as I approach the final column of the season, I am far too misty to be funny, for the final column of the season is, after all, a leave-taking, and when I think of saying goodbye to my audience—the swellest audience any columnist ever had—the college students of America—wonderful human beings, every man and woman of them—wise but kindly—astute but compassionate—perspicacious but forbearing—when, sirs, I think of saying goodbye to such an audience, I am too shook up even to consider levity, and so I ask you, sirs, to let me, in the final column of the year, forego humor and instead write a simple, dignified, straightforward farewell." Then I took out my bandanna, wiped my eyes, ears, nose, and throat and waited for a reply from the makers of Marlboro. They sat around the polished board room table, the makers, their handsome brows knit in concentration, puffing thoughtfully on the Marlboros in their tattooed hands. At length they spoke. "Yes," they said simply. I never doubted they would say yes. People who make a cigarette as good as Marlboro must themselves be good. People who lavish such care on blending tobaccos so mild and flavorful, on devising a filter so clean and white, on boxing a flip-top box so flip-top, on packing a soft pack so soft—people like that are one hundred percent with me! And so from that day forward, the final column of the year—including the one you are, I devoutly hope, now reading—makes no attempt to be funny, but is instead a simple thank you and au revoir. Thank you and au revoir, makers of Marlboro. The memory of our eight years together will remain ever fresh in my heart, and I would like to state for all the world to hear that if you want me back again next year, I shall expect a substantial raise in salary. Thank you and au revoir, college students of America. May good luck attend all your ventures. Stay well. Stay happy. Stay loose.

Small Max has said it all. We, the makers of Marlboro Cigarettes, can only add a heartfelt second chorus: Stay well. Stay happy. Stay loose.

Annual Award Picnic Angel Flight Picks Presented by WRA Ten New Members

The Women's Recreation Association held its annual award picnic May 23. Besides an entertaining skit presented by the seniors, and fun for everyone, many awards were presented.

Jill Flint, a senior major in social service, received the Alpha Xi Delta award. This award is given on the basis of athletic achievement, superior skill, physical fitness, and sportsmanship, to an outstanding senior woman.

This selection is made by the members of the Woman's Physical Education department, the Vice-President of Student Senate, President of Mortar Board, and a junior member of W.R.A. Executive Board.

The W.R.A. Gold Pin Award is presented to each woman accumulating 100 points. The following achieved this pin: Seniors Jill Flint, Linda Hall, Sandy Peabody, Mary Sturtevant; juniors Sandy MacIvor and Nancy Kennaday. Ann Morse, a senior, received hers last year.

This spring ten members of the sophomore class were chosen to be new members of Angel Flight. The girls, listed below, participated in the Parents Day Ceremony.

Sports Car Club Presents Contest

This Sunday the UNH Sports Car Club will present its last regularly scheduled event of the school year.

The event, The Commencement Gymkhana, will consist of a simulated, any-cornered, road course.

Cars will be judged according to the fastest time in which they are able to complete the course. Each car will receive at least three chances to better their time.

The event will be held in the parking lot at the Pic & Pay store on Islington Street in Portsmouth and the first car will go off the line at 1'clock.

Cars will be classed according to performance and will complete against other cars in the same class. Trophies are being donated by Kittery Auto Sales of Kittery, Maine and will go to the first three places in each of the classes competing.

The event is open, and anyone interested in competing should be at the parking lot by 12 noon. The only necessities for the event are driving skill, a car in good condition, and the $2 entry fee.

There will be a technical inspection prior to the event to make sure that the car is in safe driving condition. Spectators are also invited.

Summer supper's easy when you fold fresh fruits into a gelatin mold made with orange juice. Serve with cold cuts and French bread.

Girl Watcher's Guide

Diamond-Studded Starlet

LESSON 8- Becoming a specialist

Experienced girl watchers, for whom routine watching has lost some of its excitement, often become specialists. (This is definitely not recommended for beginners. However, it may be practiced as a change-of-pace by more advanced students.) They may spend an entire field trip concentrating on one part of a girl. This tends to step up activity, since it does not require that the whole girl be beautiful. For example, if you decide to specialize in knees, you watch only beautiful knees. (The doorman above appears to be an ankle specialist.) Whatever your watching specialty, make sure your smoking specialty is Pall Mall's natural mildness—it's so good to your taste.
