

John Economos, Gary Carkin and Buzzy Gillespie play the Three Comforters who offer false solace to Roy Scribner (kneeling, second from right) who plays J. B.

Pulitzer Prize Drama Opens Friday Night

J. B., by Archibald McLeish, will begin its run tomorrow night at 8:00 in the Johnson Theatre. It will mark the second major University Theatre production and will be presented both nights this weekend and again next Friday and Saturday, January 18 and 19.

J. B., which won the author his third Pulitzer Prize during its successful New York run, is a modern re-telling of the Book of Job.

In the title role of a contemporary American businessman, J. B., whose tribulations equal those of his biblical counterpart will be Roy Scribner. William Sharp and Alex Kamariadis will play two circus vendors who also represent God and Satan in what Brooks Atkinson, in the New York Times, called "one of the memorable plays of the century, ranking with the finest work in the American drama."

Others in the cast will be Donna Emmons as Sarah, J. B.'s sorely troubled wife, and Ann Robinson, Susan Edwards, Judith Cann, John Belcher and Mark Novotny as their children. The Three Comforters are played by John Economos, Buzzy Gillespie and Garry Carkin, while the Roustabouts will be portrayed by Richard McTague and Richard Foote.

Also cast are Alice Miller, Diane Dearington, Brad Lutz, William Lunt, Susan Weller, Ruth Ann Russell, Martha Berry, Joan Smith, Bonnie Gress, Judy Lieberston and Bruce Jarvis.

The complex settings representing scenes of J. B.'s home life within the soaring of a huge circus tent, were designed by Gilbert B. Davenport, and the production is being directed by the Chairman of the Department of Speech and Drama Dr. Joseph D. Batcheller.

Final Exam Schedule Released; 29 Exam Groups, Only Six Days

By Carol Murray

"The new method of scheduling exams this year is the most important thing the University has tried," said Owen Durgin, the new registrar.

An estimated one thousand students now have a different schedule than if they had been forced to choose their courses to avoid conflicting exam groups.

Consequently there have been fewer complaints this semester from students who were last in registration line and weren't able to schedule the courses they wanted.

After a complex process an IBM computer emerged with twenty nine exam groups to be spread over the six day period from January 28 through February 2.

There will be five exams each day Monday through Friday and four on Saturday. A schedule is printed on Page 3.

It is highly unlikely that any one student will have four or five exams on one day but if this problem should arise Durgin suggested that the student contact his adviser first and then the dean of his respective college to see if any relief is possible.

"This is the price to pay for greater flexibility in choosing courses. If the students don't want to pay the price, we'll go back to the old system," he stated, explaining that with every improvement there is bound to be some loss.

The schedule was formed around freshmen to ease the burden on these students in their first year of college.

Required freshman courses as biology, history and English were given separate exam days to reduce the possibility of having multiple exams on one day.

The seniors automatically fall into this format as their courses tend to be concentrated in their majors. Sophomores and juniors will find their schedules more diverse.

"This is a great job," Durgin said of his new duties. "But if I drop one of our eggs, it's going to be an awful splat."

The University Registrar is responsible for the exam, time and room, commencement and convocations schedules.

Further, everything done by someone else in connection with these depends on him.

The service department must be notified to set up equipment for registration without disturbing their schedule and involving overtime.

The most difficult part of the job is making all the parts mesh and "all come together at once," he explained.

Registration for second semester will be on Thursday and Friday, February 7 and 8, tentatively in New Hampshire Hall. Because the bleachers are in the way at the Field House and a smaller area will have to be used, the registration period has been extended to two days.

Commencement has been shortened a week and moved to June 9. Because the exam period was shortened and one class day was lost to balance the semester, these days have been taken out from the semester and not Senior Week which will begin June 4.

Durgin hopes to continue teaching, but his heavy duties as registrar have forced him to relinquish his sociology 75 course.

He feels that he did not have enough time to prepare his lectures. In order to adequately put his material together he needs three to six hours.

He also regrets that he is unable to spend time with the individual student.

'Cats Lose 2

By Ross Deachman

Tall sharpshooting UConn held off a determined UNH bid early in the first half and then rolled to an easy 86-58 win over the Wildcats.

UNH held a 17-16 lead at the 12 minute mark of the first half but the Huskies came back to take the lead and at the half were ahead 35-33. In the second half, the Nutmegers unloaded their guns and outscored the 'Cats 51-25 to pick up the win.

6-10 Ed Slomcenski and 6-7 Gerry Manning combined for 44 points and numerous rebounds to lead UConn to their second conference win.

The Wildcat cause was hampered when both Jim Ball and Jim Rich fouled out at the mid point of the second half.

Rich was high for UNH with 15 points. Previous to this game, Rich was leading the conference with a 25 point per game average.

Mass Wins

Eighteen hundred fans packed the UNH Fieldhouse Saturday night to watch the Wildcats play the defending Yankee Conference Champs, Massachusetts.

Mass, with a front line averaging 6-7, used its height and foul shooting to squeeze out a tight 83-80 victory.

The Redmen led at half time 35-33, mostly due to the rebounding and shooting of center Mike Johnson. The outstanding shooting by Jim Rich and Ron Cote was all that kept UNH in the game in the first half.

During the second half, UNH employed a zone press which was very effective for about 12 minutes. The Redmen finally broke the press and UNH lost all chance of an upset.

Industry on Display

Over 350 people a day have viewed the company exhibits and talked with personnel representatives in the 5th annual New Hampshire Industry Week in the MUB. The 33 participating organizations have afforded University students the opportunity to learn of work for them in the Granite State.

The companies which have participated in this annual event are American Optical Co.; Associated General Contractors of N. H. and Vermont; Brown Co.; Browning Laboratories; Clarostat Manuf. Co., Inc.; Daven Division of General Mills; Eastern States Farmers Exchange; General Electric Co. and International Packings Corp.

Also Kalwall Corp.; Keller

Products, Inc.; Kidder Press Co., Inc.; Kinsman Manuf. Co., Inc.; Markem Machine Co.; Minneapolis - Honeywell Regulator Co.; N. E. Tel and Tel; N. H. Assoc. of Savings Banks; N. H. Bankers Assoc.; N. H. Dietetics Assoc.; N. H. Education Assoc.; N. H. Manuf. Assoc.; N. H. State Dept. of Personnel Resources and Economic Development and Public Works and Highways.

Also N. H. Truck Owners Assoc.; Portsmouth Naval Shipyard; Public Service Co. of N. H.; Spaulding Fibre Co., Inc.; Sprague Electric Co.; The Morley Co.; State Department of Education - Home Economics and Sanders Assoc., Inc.

Today ended the three-day exhibits of the participating organizations.

noted professor of Speech from Boston, and on the right is Mr. Weeks of the Alumni Association.

Dedicate Hennessey Theatre

Dedication ceremonies for the Hennessey Theatre will be held tomorrow night at the opening of the University Theatre's production of J. B. The theatre to be named in his honor is located on the ravine level of Paul Creative Arts Center. Seating 150, it is designed as a flexible unit for traditional and experimental productions.

A large portion of tomorrow's opening night audience will be made up of UNH Alumni who had studied under Professor William G. Hennessey during his 39 years on the faculty. These Alumni who are honoring him, also helped to set up a scholarship fund in his name.

Professor Hennessey joined the UNH faculty in 1923 after graduation from Boston University, enlisted service in World War I and a short career as a professional actor. UNH had no formal dramatics program at that time.

Mr. Hennessey was given three titles — English instructor, debating coach and director of dramatics. He founded Mask and Dagger, and according to a resolution recently passed by the alumni of the Class of 1927, he "practically established" the theatrical program at the University of New Hampshire.

In later years he became a full professor. He is also remembered as an outstanding teacher of Shakespeare, and when he retired last year he was given the title of Professor Emeritus of English.

Two UNH Students Attend Conference at Mich. State

Two University of New Hampshire students received scholarships to the 10-day Adventure in World Understanding Conference, held at Michigan State University from December 21 through January 1.

They were Earl S. Perrigo and Dario Menanteau Horta, both of Phi Delta Upsilon Fraternity. Perrigo, a native of New Hampshire, represented the United States at the conference which was attended by 78 students from Europe, Asia, Africa, North and South America. Menanteau, of Santiago, Chile, represented his native home at the conference.

Perrigo is a junior majoring in Pre-Medicine and Sociology. Menanteau is a graduate student at UNH working for a Master's Degree in Sociology. He attended the University of Chile for four years where he studied journalism and also the Catholic University in Chile where he studied Sociology. Menanteau is studying at UNH on a scholarship awarded to him by the N. H. Council on World Affairs.

The conference included lectures and discussions on world problems, values and cross-cultural communication, the diplomatic "Third Culture," advances in technology, agriculture and distribution of food. Included in the ten day conference were tours of industrial centers and farms in the greater Lansing area of Michigan.

The effort of these annual conferences at Michigan State University is to promote closer understanding among the 103 nations of the world.

Reserve Books

Starting Monday, January 14, students will have to remember to get their reserve books back to the Library when due or pay the resulting heavy fine.

The fine for overdue reserve books is 25 cents per hour. From now on the Library will not get in touch with a student until the book is 40 hours overdue.

The fine will then be $10.00. A Library staff member explained that a heavy fine was necessary to insure that all students get a fair chance at reserve books. A modest fine is treated as if it were a rental fee by a student who can afford it and others are handicapped because they cannot obtain the needed reserve book.

Novice Debate Tourney Here January 12

The New Hampshire Speech Association, the Department of Speech and Drama, and the Extension Service of the University of New Hampshire, with the aid of some 50 UNH students, will hold the 46th Annual High School Novice Debate Tournament on January 12.

This tournament, the oldest one of its kind in this country, has as this year's debate proposition . . . Resolved "That the United States Should Adopt A Policy of Reciprocal Free Trade With Non-Communist Nations."

A permanent trophy will be awarded to the winning school. Some 36 high schools will participate in this day-long tournament which will be climaxed at 5:30 by the awards presentation.

The awards will be made on the basis of the following criteria: cause and analysis, knowledge and evidence, logical reasoning, adaptation to opponents, skill in refutation and rebuttal, teamwork, and delivery. A debator may score one to five points in each category with no particular weighting in percentages given to these interrelated factors.

Organized to interest high schools in the art of debate, the tournament has steadily grown.

Mr. Lyons, who is regarded as one of the most comprehensive and competent newscasters and commentators on the world scene, spent some time in Africa this summer and he will relate his observations to recent developments there.

For his educational television and radio news programs he has received two important awards: the Lauterbach award for civil liberties in 1957 and the Peabody award for local news broadcasting in 1959.

Seven $2,000 Fellowships Available For Ph. D. Study

The University of New Hampshire will have seven new U. S. government fellowships available for outstanding graduate students next year.

Awarded under the National Defense Education Act, the fellowships are for Ph.D. studies in the fields of botany, chemistry, and microbiology. The program is intended to qualify young people for careers in college teaching.

UNH already has 13 NDEA fellows studying for doctoral degrees, including seven in zoology, four in botany, and two in chemistry. The fellowships carry a basic stipend of $2,000, with increases of $200 the second and third years, and a $400 allowance for each dependent.

The University receives an additional $2,500 grant to defray the cost of educating each graduate student under the NDEA program.

Information about these and other graduate fellowships may be obtained from Dean Allan A. Kuusisto, Spaulding Life Science Building.

You wouldn't be if you had MONARCH REVIEW NOTES to review your courses with. It makes studying easier, more effective and enjoyable.

MONARCH REVIEW NOTES are outlines of your very own textbooks — not general review books like most outlines available. Check the list of subjects below. If you are taking a subject listed there will be a Monarch Review Outline geared to your course text — and you know it will outline your material for your course.

Scandal has hit the sports pages again. Jack Molinas, former Columbia and Fort Wayne Piston star was convicted today of fixing 25 college basketball games.

Yesterday, Paul Horning and Alex Karras, pro football players, were mentioned as possibly being part of a football betting ring.

We don't have to think too far back nor look very far to recall the three University of Connecticut athletes who were involved in point shaving basketball games.

It's time that people began realizing that sports, including amateur, is big business and should be handled as such.

The schools that UNH played down south average over twenty thousand dollars a year for scholarships. Broken down, this figures to 14 full scholarships of seventeen hundred apiece. This is amateur athletics.

So much money is waved in the faces of young athletes that it is no wonder that they always try to get more.

The NCAA and the AAU have been arguing for some time over amateurism. This argument should continue until some standard other than money is placed on amateurism.

By Jim Henry

On Dec. 15, the varsity hockey team edged out Merrimack College in a thriller. In posting its third straight win of the season, the team combined sharp passing and hard checking to win it, 3-2.

Merrimack was a fast skating team which had lost three previous all by one goal. Again they suffered the same fate. Bob Pollini scored first for the Wildcats at 5:04 of the opening period.

In the third period Buzz Littell, who seems to be making a habit of scoring winners, rifled home the last goal of the game at 4:05.

Three days later the team traveled to Northeastern only to lose 8-4. Although the Huskies were strong it was apparent that we were not playing the same good hockey of previous games. Northeastern scored three in the first and third periods and two in the second. UNH goals were registered by Thompson, Pollini, Lamontagne and Haggerty.

After vacation the Wildcats went to Providence to play their highly ranked team. Although we came out on the short end, 4-2, it was a much better played game. Sophomores Bob Pollini and Joe O'Keefe scored the two UNH goals.

Over Christmas vacation the varsity hockey team spent three fairly disappointing days at the Brown University Invitational Tournament.

Bowdoin, a definitely weaker team, played their best game of the season, winning 7-3. They scored six times before Canavan, Thompson, and O'Keefe came back for UNH.

Joe O'Keefe's goal came while we were one man short. It was by far the best effort of the day.

Colgate had no trouble the next day winning 7-1. Buzz Littell scored the lone UNH goal. Finally, in the last game of the tournament, the team got back together and trounced Hamilton, 11-2. Tom Canavan got a hat trick, Mayer and Thompson two apiece, while Littell, Pollini, Camuso, and Haggerty scored singletons.

The UNH basketball team stepped up in class during the Christmas Vacation with a trip to the southland.

The likes of Jacksonville, Oglethorpe and Davidson proved to be poor examples of southern hospitality as they soundly trounced the Wildcats. Davidson, led by All American candidate, Fred Hetzel, shot and rebounded the Wildcats right off the floor to the tune of 115-54.

Played Cincinnati
In the game before UNH, Davidson played and was soundly beaten by Cincinnati, 74-47. They evidently released their frustrations on UNH as they hit on 51% of their shots and out rebounded UNH 74-31.

Defeat Stetson
Following the Davidson game, the Cats traveled to Daytona Beach to play Stetson College. Jim Rich's 20 points and 16 rebounds and Ron Cote's 18 points led the Wildcats to an 82-74 victory, their only win of the tour.

All American Roger Strictland and forward Ralph Tiner combined for 51 points as Jacksonville rolled to a 188-77 victory over the Wildcats on New Year's Eve.

Strictland, who was drafted last year by the Boston Celtics, had only 19 points but also grabbed 16 rebounds and had 15 assists. Tiner, 6-2, threw in 32 points. Guard Al Stephanson had 22 points.

High men for UNH were Cote with 15 and Skip Gale with 16. Forward Jim Rich fouled out early with only four points.

Although Oglethorpe defeated UNH only 63-46, they were perhaps the most impressive team played. They played a fast moving zone defense which caused UNH to slow its usually fast attack and to throw away many passes. Oglethorpe's offense was a very deliberate picking type in which the southerners kept working for the good shot, in fact, they didn't take one bad shot the whole game.

Seniors Plan Dinner, Dance Exhibits At U.N.H.

This year's Dinner - Dance is planned for Friday night the 18th of January, at the Sherwood Motel in Dover. The Dance is customarily held at this time of year so that those graduating at mid-semester will be able to attend.

The evening's program consists of a social hour at 6:30 p.m., followed by a buffet at 7:30, and dancing until midnight.

The Senior Class Council has planned the dance at the Sherwood so that it would be convenient for more people than last year's dance which was held in Manchester. The Council has also reduced the cost of the tickets to $7.50 per couple by supplementing the ticket proceeds with funds from the class treasury.

This will probably be the only activity sponsored by the Senior Class this year. Because the graduation date has been moved up one week, there is little time left for the traditional Senior week activities. In view of this fact, it is hoped that many class members and their dates will take advantage of this one "get-together."

Tickets may be purchased from the Senior Class Council member in each housing unit, from the class officers, or at the bookstore.

Exhibits At U.N.H.

Pottery by Toshiko Takaazu is being featured at the University of New Hampshire galleries this month. A Japanese American, she is considered one of the leading ceramists in the United States today.

Two photographic exhibits are also current at the University.

Opening in the Paul Arts Center main gallery Jan. 9, the Toshiko exhibit features pottery with a strong Oriental influence. A native of Hawaii, Toshiko has studied both in the continental United States and Japan as well as in the Islands.

She is now director of the ceramics department at the Cleveland Institute of Art.

Her work has been shown at the Cleveland Museum of Art, in Brussels, and at the Syracuse International exhibit.

The Toshiko exhibit can be seen only during normal gallery hours at the University, from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays.

Extended hours have been arranged for two photographic exhibits on display at UNH this month. They include photographs by Walter St. Clair of Boston, on display in the Paul Arts Center small gallery; and a one-man show by John P. Adams, assistant University photographer at UNH, in the exhibition corridor at the Memorial Union building.
