FACILITIES SENIOR PROJECT MANAGER ALEX BRICKETT MEASURES DESK TO MARK SEATING ACCORDING TO SAFE DISTANCING GUIDELINES.

MARKING OFF THE SAFE SEATS

UNH has been working diligently to implement a safe in-person environment for the fall semester. Following public health guidelines and relying on the latest science, academic buildings classrooms and labs are be modified to be as safe as possible.

STICKERS UNDER EMPTY CHAIRS SHOW STUDENTS WHERE TO SIT

UNH facilities employees have been busy readying classrooms, placing markers on tables and under chairs to ensure students sit 6 feet apart in accordance with social distancing requirements. Each classroom being used will have a supply of low dwell-time chemical wipes and hand sanitizer. Common study areas and conference rooms are being supplied with refillable hand sanitizer bottles for personal use. The classrooms and teaching labs will be cleaned and sanitized daily.
