DURHAM, N.H. – Thousands of parents and family members will join their University of New Hampshire students for a weekend of fun activities at Family Weekend 2003, Oct. 3-5. Family Weekend is designed to bring students and their families together for some “quality time” during this weekend, encouraging all members of the family to be part of the university community.

The highlight of the weekend is the University Picnic on the lawn of Thompson Hall Saturday, Oct. 4. In addition to the picnic, the event will include free photo buttons for the entire family, a DJ providing music, appearances by Wild E. Cat, student group demonstrations and new building tours lead by Greek leaders.

Many departments have organized events during this weekend that showcase special exhibits, demonstrations, performances or programs. Parents and students can drop in to one of the classroom technology demonstrations, view the University Museum’s Scheier Exhibit special program at the Dimond Library, attend the UNH Jazz Band concert or visit the IROP Adventure Symposium at the New England Center. For the entire list of Family Weekend 2003 festivities, visit www.unh.edu/parents and click on Family Weekend. There also will be a Campus Resource Fair, Saturday morning featuring dozens of campus organizations showcasing their contributions to the undergraduate experience.

Family weekend is sponsored by the UNH Parents Association.
