DURHAM, N.H. - Students at the University of New Hampshire (Durham and Manchester) now have the ability to pay their UNH bills online by electronic check. The electronic billing and payment service went into effect this week, according to Erick Berglund, director of business services.

The new system will send each student an e-mail when the bill is ready to be viewed online. Students will have the ability to view a history of electronic bills and payments and access a real-time view of their accounts.

Students may also set up accounts to allow payments from parents or other authorized payers. "The system is convenient, secure, quick and easy to use," Berglund says. "Printed bills will be mailed by Oct. 14, and a postcard message that bills are also available electronically will be included."

Students and authorized payers will access the new system through Webcat <http://webcat.unh.edu>. At this time students will also continue to receive paper bills through the mail.
