With expert faculty, a vast network of internship opportunities, and a focus on hands-on learning, the communication arts program at UNH Manchester gives students the skills and experience to turn their passions into professions. Join us for a virtual info session on February 24 at 5 p.m. to meet faculty, explore areas of study, hear success stories of our graduates and learn how the real-world experience you'll get at UNH Manchester prepares you for your future.

Virtual Communication Arts Info Session

Wednesday, Feb. 24 | 5 - 6 p.m.

REGISTER TODAY

The virtual info session will be led by associate professor Jeff Klenotic, Ph.D., who has taught courses in media, culture and society at UNH Manchester for nearly three decades. Klenotic's passion for teaching, scholarship and service earned him UNH Manchester's Excellence in Teaching Award as well as two UNH Faculty Scholars Awards.

A founding member of the History of Moviegoing, Exhibition and Reception (HoMER) project, Klenotic has given lectures and research presentations to students and scholars across the globe, from the Bahamas to Australia to Italy. His essays on cinema history have been published in journals, books and encyclopedias. Klenotic earned his Ph.D. and M.A. in Communications from University of Massachusetts Amherst

Learn more about Professor Klenotic and UNH Manchester's communication arts program at our virtual info session on Wednesday, February 24 at 5 p.m. RSVP TODAY
