DURHAM, N.H. – Family and private small business owners are invited to learn about human resources, employee benefits, and the impact of the health care reform at a workshop sponsored by the University of New Hampshire Center for Family Business Wednesday, April 7, 2010.

“Human Resources and Employee Benefits Update and Practical Considerations” will offer practical advice on issues family and private business owners may be currently facing or want to take advantage of/avoid in the future. The presenters will also cover legal and financial issues of concern as well as provide insight about what may lie ahead, particularly in the area of health care and other employment benefits.

It will be held at New Hampshire Distributors, 65 Regional Drive, Concord. The event begins at 8 a.m. with a continental breakfast, with the program following at 8:30 a.m. Lunch will be served. The program ends at noon, followed by lunch.

Panelists include Connie Taggart, director of human resources at Baker Newman and Noyes; Charlie Einsiedler, chairman of Pierce Atwood Employee Benefits Practice group; and Tom Daveaux, senior account executive of Norton Financial Services.

Taggart oversees all aspects of BNN’s human resources, including benefits, compensation, recruiting, and policies and procedures. She is the adviser on their newly created Employee Recognition Committee and an active member on the firm’s People Pathway Committee which continually reviews ways to make BNN a great place to work.

Einsiedler is an expert in all aspects of labor, employment and employee benefits law counseling and litigation. He advises employers on benefits compliance issues such as COBRA, HIPAA, USERRA and the FMLA. He has appeared before the region’s Human Rights Commissions and the EEOC on discrimination matters and is often involved in mediation and arbitration of employment disputes in an effort to avoid litigation.

Daveaux joined Norton in 2007 and has 26 years of experience as an employee benefits specialist. Prior to joining Norton he was executive vice president of employee benefits for TD Banknorth. He has served on the national board of directors of the Council of Employee Benefit Executives and several national and local insurance company advisory councils.
