October 19, 2010

DURHAM, NH - Governor John Lynch continues to hold a double-digit lead over his Republican challenger John Stephen, but the gap between the two candidates has narrowed in recent weeks.

These findings are based on the latest WMUR/UNH New Hampshire Election Poll, conducted by the University of New Hampshire Survey Center. Seven hundred nine (709) randomly selected New Hampshire likely voters were interviewed by telephone between October 7 and October 12, 2010. The margin of sampling error for the survey is +/- 3.7 percent.
