Planning is now underway for commencement and honors convocation and all faculty — full-time, part-time, adjunct, lecturer or emeriti — from each UNH school and college are invited and encouraged to participate.

These ceremonies celebrate the culmination of achievement for UNH students, whose education and lives faculty members have helped shape during their time here at the university. Faculty attendance at these events sends a strong message to students that their professors and lecturers support them and are proud of their accomplishments.

Faculty planning to attend should register here as this assists greatly with procession and seating planning for these events.

More information about both ceremonies and regalia ordering can be found on the faculty section of the commencement website.
