

Army ROTC Cadet

Tuesday, August 29, 2017

Danielle Bauer '14 recently received the George C. Marshall Award during an awards ceremony at the U.S. Army Combined Arms Center in Fort Leavenworth, Kansas. The highest honor an ROTC cadet can receive, the Marshall award is presented annually to the most outstanding senior cadets in military science studies and leadership values within each battalion at host universities and colleges. A graduate of the College of Health and Human Services, Bauer completed a master's degree in public administration at the University of Alaska in Anchorage in May, graduating with summa cum laude honors and a commission as a second lieutenant. Bauer writes, "I started my military career at the University of New Hampshire and thank UNH for giving such a great foundation to the start of my career. If it was not for UNH and the UNH Army ROTC Wildcat Battalion, I would not be where I am today."
