

Getting a Taste of Real-World Biotech

Students try out careers through internships

Thursday, September 28, 2017

How do you know if your dream career is the right career? Try it on for size. Many UNH students do that at Lonza Biologics, the global pharmaceutical supplier with facilities in nearby Portsmouth, New Hampshire. "It's a real job," says Lonza's Herve Berdou. Interns work on laboratory studies, technology transfer, manufacturing and in offices, getting a feel for "the full span of what we do across Lonza," Berdou says. UNH interns describe their experience in this video.
