Rachel Yee '20 bridges two fields

Thursday, August 30, 2018

Rachel Yee '20 traded go-go-go New York City for the more laid back environment at UNH. "It's very nice," she says. But it's not as if she's just chilling all the time. The biochemistry, molecular and cellular biology major is majorly involved in projects that link her passion for science with her passion for entrepreneurship.
