UNH began welcoming members of its largest incoming undergraduate class since 2018 to campus with a host of orientation events throughout the month of June.

Events included several two-day, overnight orientation sessions for incoming first-year students only, as well as separate one-day orientations for first-year students, non-COLA transfer students and COLA transfer students. Visiting students had the opportunity to explore campus, take part in academic sessions and participate in games and activities with fellow members of the incoming class.
