Preface, Volume 1, Numbers 1 & 2, 2002

Jaime Ackerman
Franklin Pierce Law Center

Elizabeth Hochberg
Franklin Pierce Law Center

Follow this and additional works at: https://scholars.unh.edu/unh_lr

Part of the Law Commons

Repository Citation

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by the University of New Hampshire – Franklin Pierce School of Law at University of New Hampshire Scholars’ Repository. It has been accepted for inclusion in The University of New Hampshire Law Review by an authorized editor of University of New Hampshire Scholars' Repository. For more information, please contact sue.zago@law.unh.edu.
Dear reader,

Welcome to the inaugural edition of the Pierce Law Review. We are excited, and have worked very hard over the past eight months, to bring you this new publication.

You may notice that a number of the articles in this edition are not typical for a law review. This is because the articles in this edition were held over from our predecessor publication, a scientific journal entitled RISK: Health, Safety & Environment. That journal is currently not in publication, though it may resume at another school in the near future.

As a result, the articles in this volume are rather atypical for a traditional law review, and not all of them entirely legally-related in nature. Nonetheless, we hope you enjoy having the opportunity to read articles on topics you would not have reviewed otherwise.

We anticipate you will enjoy our next edition. It will feature traditional law review articles as well as a few more holdover articles from RISK that we believe you will find interesting and engaging. You can expect an entire volume of traditional law review articles in our Fall 2003 edition.

Many thanks,
Jaime Ackerman and Elizabeth Hochberg
Founding Editors-in-Chief
Pierce Law Review